3 U.S. Students Die In Ski Lodge Fire In Quebec

Five Others Escape Death In Mont Tremblant Blaze

Smith Fraser Dies of Injuries Monday Evening

A Rawdon township father and his ten year old daughter are dead and a second daughter is in serious condition in Belleville General Hospital as result of a truck-train crash on the 12th concession of Rawdon near Stonefarm on Saturday morning.

Instantly killed when the truck skidded into the side of a Canadian National Railways ore train was Maxine Fraser, fifty father, Smith Fraser, 40, was fatally injured. Carol Fraser, 14 is in serious condition with head injuries and fractured pelvis.

Mr. Fraser died Monday night from severe head and chest injuries. Carol's condition was stated by Dr. Donald Scott as being slightly improved this morning.

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) — Three Harvard students, one of them the son of Thomas S. Gates Jr., United States undersecretary of the navy, burned to death in a ski chalet fire early today.

Five companions escaped, two with injuries, when fire destroyed their two-storey cottage at this ski resort deep in the Laurentian mountains.

Dead are: Thomas S. Gates III, 21-year-old son of the undersecretary; Myron Timoth Harrick, 20, Brooklyn, Mass., and Jedediah H. MacLane, 19, Millbrook, N. Y.

Suffering first degree burns about the face was Lawrence Coolidge, 19, of Topsfield, Mass., who said he discovered the blaze and was injured while trying to help his companions.

Marshall Jeades, 20, Devon, Pa., suffered cut wrists while trying to break windows and Gates away from the clawing flames.

Escaping the flames, besides Coolidge and Jeades, were: David S. Lee, 21, Westwood, Mass.; James Houghton, 19, Lansing, N. Y.; and Peter Swords, 20, Milkisko, N. Y.

Police reported the blaze apparently started from a cigaret in the chalet's living room and the students were among 20 Harvard University men who came to this famed skiing resort 76 miles north of Montreal Monday.

Weather Delays Start of Talks On GM Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Bad flying weather has postponed the arrival from Windsor of top union negotiators, scheduled to resume talks with company officials in the General Motors of Canada strike now in its 100th day.

A union spokesman said the officials, who had planned to arrive here this morning, will not arrive till late this afternoon.

The negotiations were adjourned two weeks ago for the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

Meanwhile, the international official of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) in Detroit announced 45 a week cash will be paid to the strikers, as well as 7 and fuel vouchers. The strike pay now receive vouchers for from a week single men to a maximum of $30 a week for married men.

The strike of 17,000 employees at plants in Oshawa, St. Catharines, Toronto, London and Windsor was called to back up demands for a 30-cent-an-hour wage increase and other benefits.

Ricochet Fatal To Rabbit Hunter

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Dennis Wilde, 12-year-old Lambeth area boy, died in Victoria General Hospital Saturday night of a bullet wound received while hunting rabbits with his cousin on the Wilde farm two miles south of Lambeth.

Provincial police described the shooting as accidental and crown attorney Claude C. Savage said an inquest was not necessary.

The boy was struck in the face head-by a .22-calibre bullet that ricocheted off a piece of tin, police said the bullet was fired by the youth's cousin, Larry Cooper, 17, of Brandon's Corners, practising the new year's holiday at the Wilde farm.

Arms Reaching Algerian Rebels

ALGIERS (AP)—A high French military source said today that a steady stream of arms is reaching rebel forces in Algeria from across the Libyan border.

The informant said in an interview that the munitions include rifles and manufactured ammo shown by serial number to have come from Egyptian army depots. Other arms, he said, were among weapons abandoned by Field Marshal Rommel's German army in Tunisia during the war.

Rebel forces captured a 13-man French patrol and killed six only 20 miles outside Algiers before dawn Monday. The remaining seven men were still missing today.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A disturbance moving northeastward across the Great Lakes, caused widespread snow to spread rapidly across Southern Ontario Tuesday. By noon this morning over two inches had fallen at Malton. The snow was occasionally mixed with rain or drizzle as temperatures were just above the freezing mark.

Light snow and occasional freezing drizzle are occurring this morning over the northern regions as the result of another low pressure area moving eastward across the north country.

The low pressure area is forecast to combine and move into central Quebec by tonight. The snow will end this morning over southern Ontario, however occasional very light rain will continue until this afternoon. Snow will fall over central and northern Ontario until tonight.

Colder air from the northwest will push across the province by night and Wednesday. Skies will be clear except for scattered flurries near lakes are off open water. Snowflurries are forecast for these regions.

Sir Winston Churchill Is Appointed Grand Seigneur of Hudson's Bay Co.

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill, already laden with dignities, has accepted a new honor linking his name with a company whose origins go back to the early days of Canada.

The honor, especially created, is that of Grand Seigneur of the Company of Adventurers of England Trading into Hudson Bay—Bay in short, of the Hudson's Bay Company.

The Times, alone among British newspapers in having news of the award, suggests in an editorial that the new dignity will probably entail the addition of a new hat to Sir Winston's wardrobe. A company spokesman, commenting on the suggestion, said this is remotely possible.

Churchill's family links with the Hudson's Bay Company—and thus with Canada—are strong. Churchill, the first Duke of Marlborough, was the richest man of his time. His descendant, the present Duke was the second son of Sir Winston's mother, whom the present Sir Winston is descended.

Fort Churchill the railway terminus on Hudson Bay, is named after Churchill's grandfather.

The Times comments on the "happy Anglo-French" of Sir Winston's wife, Grand Seigneur, in view of the "ancestral memories" of both the ancient peoples of the area. (The company's first explorers were French-Canadians commissioned by Prince Rupert, says The Times).

The title is expected to be conferred on Sir Winston at a ceremony in London in two or three months.

OTTAWA MAYOR ASKS DISCUSSION ON EMBASSY FIRE

Miss Whitton Seeking Way Around Immunity

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton is seeking a way around diplomatic immunity in time of disaster after a general alarm fire virtually destroyed the Russian embassy here.

She said in a television interview Monday night that heads of six diplomatic missions have assured her they would be glad to discuss the matter informally so that entry could be made to their property in any case of danger to life, person or property.

Mayor Whitton was interviewed concerning reports that Ottawa firemen were for a time refused admittance on grounds of diplomatic immunity to the three-storey rambling brick building in Ottawa's east-central Sandy Hill district as it was gutted by fire shortly before weather New Year's night.

No one was injured as for six hours firemen poured water on the building. Valuable paintings, carpets and other fixtures were destroyed, and loss was estimated at $100,000 to $200,000 by embassy seller and charge d'affaires who is second in authority to Ambassador Dmitri Chuhavin.

INVOKES DIPLOMACY

Fire Chief John Foote said the Russians invoked diplomatic immunity to keep him and his men from entering the north wing housing the highly-secret coding section.

Meanwhile, in what he termed a "well drilled operation" the Russians carried filing cabinets, files and countless other items, including a heavy radio transmitter, from the building.

"It is my personal opinion that the Russians were trying to save the records in the coding section than the building," he said. "They got a 100-per-cent job of it. There wasn't enough left in there to fill your pipe."

It was from this section that former cipher clerk Igor Gouzenko pointed out Russian spy activities in 1945, that revealed the existence of a Soviet spy ring in Canada.

BUILDING ENDANGERED

Chief Foote said embassy staff apparently had tried for an hour to fight the fire themselves before calling for help. This, he said, may have doomed the building which was burning "from the top of the time firemen arrived.

Laginov, however, criticized the firemen's work. "It took them six hours and they couldn't save the building," he told reporters. "I'm not a fireman but. . . ."

Russian officials sought help from external affairs officials. She said that fire fighters "were impeded and misdirected" and "almost all it was much too late."

Russian officials said the department advised the mayor and fire chief they had no objection to their entering the building to fight the fire if in their opinion it was endangering human property.

However, although they had access to other parts of the building, the firemen were not allowed into the coding section until the Russians had cleaned it out. Chief Foote said a man stood on guard "a pike pole in his hand."

More Years of Shaky Rule French Outlook After Vote

By CARL HARTMAN

PARIS (AP)—France's general election—called by Premier Edgar Faure on a gamble that it would bring a strong, stable government—has produced only the prospect of more years of shaky, short-lived coalitions.

Moreover, future premiers will be burdened with a more powerful bloc of Communists in the National Assembly and a new, almost certainly obstructionist faction, the anti-tax followers of Pierre Poujade.

Both the Communists and the Poujadists appeared to be beneficiaries of a heavy protest vote, a alarm fire virtually destroyed the Russian embassy here.

She said in a television interview Monday night that heads of six diplomatic missions have assured her they would be glad to discuss the matter informally so that entry could be made to their property in any case of danger to life, person or property.

One Man Dies in Rioting At Strike-Bound Ohio Plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An estimated 100 police moved in to break up rioting picketing at Westinghouse Electric plant here today, on strike for 12 weeks.

The brief violence over one man died, possibly of a heart attack, but a union official claimed the death was caused by a beating.

At least seven persons were injured. Eighteen persons were arrested—14 men and 12 women.

At least one auto was overturned at each of the plant's five gates.

Police cars were stoned and bricked. Police used tear gas grenades as the long-expected violence finally burst out at 11 a.m. as workers at a previously planned "mass demonstration."

The dead man was Troy Tudlock, 34, who was dead on arrival at a hospital. Dr. Robert Sharrett, coroner, did not report a verdict on the cause of death immediately, but Earl Welch, representative of the striking International Union of Electrical Workers (AFL-VIO), said Tudlock died of a heart attack.

"If he had a heart attack it was because it was given to him by the police," he said.

In addition to the alleged beating, Welch said Tudlock was "stepped on."

The police action taken in custody of "using force to disperse and arresting picketers to six at the plant. They also held an investigation of rioting."

Charles Clark, president of Local 107 union, said Monday night the union voted the demonstration to protest the company's back - to - work movement in the strike for higher wages which started at a plant of a national walkout against Westinghouse Oct. 24. Production normally are employed at the Columbus plant and the company reports more than 1,000 have returned to work.

Find $37,910 in Metal Box In Peterborough Store Cellar

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Two curious shop clerks sawed the padlock off a metal box Saturday and found $37,910 in bank notes.

The box, apparently lying for years almost unobserved in the basement of a silk shop, was uncovered while Jean Bolin, 21 and Jack Freeman, 17, were cleaning.

Police said the small fortune comprises bills in denominations of $100, $50, $20, and $10, all issued before 1935.

The youths and Robert A. Graham, proprietor of the Uptown Silk shop, are claiming the money.

Holme said he first noticed the box three years ago.

Thought to be a carpenter's tool chest, it was thrown on a shelf and forgotten.

Curiosity proved too strong when Holme and Freeman investigated the box Saturday. "We were so shocked we threw the box back on the shelf," he said.

Police, who are seeking the owners, said the notes were carefully cached when the building was used as a restaurant. The notes are valid currency.

Bandits Tie Up Pair in Hotel

TORONTO (CP)—A night watchman and cleaner at the Gerrard Hotel was tied up for five hours Monday night by two bandits who cleaned the weekend receipts out of the hotel safe.

Police said the men, one armed, escaped between $2,000 and $2,500.

Watchman John Hales was freed by police about 5:15 a.m. today after wriggling himself and a chair to a front window and attracting the attention of a passerby. The hotel is on east-central Gerrard street east, near Parliament street.

Police said the thieves had pilfered cigarettes, but left behind jewellery, with eyeglasses cut in them, over their heads.

Traffic Deaths During Holiday At Record High

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic deaths in the United States today mounted to a record high for the three-day New Year's holiday.

For the second consecutive holiday, a week the traffic toll hit a record. The toll over New Year's, however, was far below the record-breaking 500 on the Thursday holiday a week ago. It also was less than the predicted 420.

An Associated Press survey showed that 345 Americans were killed in traffic accidents from 6 p.m., local time Friday to midnight Monday. The previous high for a three-day New Year's period was 317 in 1953-54.

Other violent deaths during the 78-hour period included 69 in fires and 71 in miscellaneous accidents. The overall toll of 485 was a record for any three-day New Year's period, surpassing the old mark of 431 set in 1951.

The National Safety Council had estimated that as many as 420 persons would be killed in motor mishaps during the weekend.

ENDS IN DRAW

CALCUTTA (Reuters) — The fourth test cricket match between India and New Zealand ended Monday in a draw.

Scores: India 332 and 438 for seven wickets declared; New Zealand 226 and 74 for six wickets.

India is one up in the series, having won the second test in Bombay. The fifth and final test will start Saturday in Madras.

124 JAPS PERISH IN RUSH TO CATCH GOOD LUCK CAKES

Worshippers Stampede At Shinto Ceremony

LONDON (CP)—While the rest of the world greeted 1956 with traditional gay celebrations, Japan was struck by disaster.

With the new year only five minutes old, 30,000 worshippers, scrambling for the traditional good luck rice cakes thrown by priests at the famed Japanese Shinto shrine of Nii gate, stampeded. At least 124 persons were trampled to death and more than 75 injured

In Tokyo, however the new year, was welcomed under happier circumstances. Some 3,000,000 persons crowded into a shrine during a two-day holiday while Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako in three public appearances greeted 158,970 subjects.

In Rome, a crowd of more than 20,000 gathered in St. Peter's square to shout new year's greetings to Pope Pius XII as he appeared at the window of his apartments high up in the Vatican.

GAIETY IN EUROPE

Many other European cities were scenes of gaiety. The streets of Vienna were crammed with singing people, ushering in the first full year of freedom since 1938.

Brawling crowds blocked Stockholm's main shopping street, causing traffic jams. Even normally staid cities as Sweden celebrated her first new year free of liquor rationing since 1915.

Paris restaurants and nightclubs played host to full house until the wee hours. West Germany celebrated new year marked by a spate of road accidents involving drunken drivers and thousands of dollars worth of damage caused by fire-works.

In Britain, the Queen honored ballerina Margot Fonteyn and created four new baronos, three baronets and 20 knights in her New Year's honors list.

The crowd of 400,000 gathered in New York's Times square to welcome the new year but for the first time in the traditional celebration broke down and failed to signal the arrival of 1956.

20 Rioting Prisoners Hold Guard Hostage

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — An estimated 20 prisoners, some of them armed, rioted and held a guard hostage for more than 7 hours at the West Virginia state penitentiary. Five or six guards were beaten, three of them requiring hospital treatment.

Assistant deputy warden Roy Adkins said the trouble lasted from about 1 until 15 minutes. He said the men believed involved had been returned to their cells and that no trouble was anticipated.

Guard Burdell Kirland was held hostage for an hour by the rioting convicts in the prison's south hall, but received a minor cut. Adkins said the three guards were "just roughed up."

Will Open Tomb in Effort to Prove Marlowe Was Real 'Bard of Avon'

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—The Church of England has given permission to open a tomb in a Kent county church to check a theory that Christopher Marlowe wrote the plays attributed to William Shakespeare.

After a hearing at Chislehurst, ancient St. Nicholas church, Chancellor Percy Lamb of the diocese of Rochester ruled that Maj. John Marsham-Townshend, 74, of the manor of Scadbury, may open the family vault where he believes is buried the body of Marlowe's patron, Thomas Walsingham, and others of his family.

Partisans of Marlowe hope to find inside papers to bear out this theory:

Marlowe, a rising dramatist and poet, fell under suspicion of treason and Queen Elizabeth I's privy council ordered his arrest. To save his protege, Walsingham arranged a tavern stabbing and had a farmer's body identified as Marlowe's.

Then he secluded the poet at one of his estates, where Marlowe turned out the "Kit" plays and the rest of the dramas. To get them published, Walsingham hired a dull poacher recently come to London—named Shakespeare of Stratford-on-Avon—to give them his name.

The pro-Marlowe scholars figure Walsingham would not have died without leaving some evidence of his great secret, and the family tomb as the logical hiding place.

Chancellor Lamb gave his permission after being assured that competent architects will supervise the opening so that the ancient tomb will not be damaged.

Marsham-Townshend explained that he had permission to disturb the bodies inside. He hopes the papers he seeks will be alongside the bodies.

Mayor Sworn In, Council Holds Inaugural Meeting

Overflow Crowd Watches Ist Woman Mayor Invested

The city hall council chambers were filled with an overflow crowd this morning as well over 100 residents turned out to see Mayor-elect Mrs. Jane Forrester sworn in as the city's first magistrate and the inaugural meeting of city council.

Mayor Forrester accepted the chain of office from Alderman H. J. Clarke, veteran council member, who, with Alderman Claude D. Tice, had the honor of escorting the mayor to her chair.

A big majority of the citizens in attendance at the inaugural session were women who turned out to see Belleville's first lady mayor invested in her office.

Every available chair in the chamber auditorium was filled when Mrs. Ann Haggerty, acting city clerk, opened the meeting shortly after eleven o'clock by reading the list of those nominated and those elected for the various civic offices at the municipal election last December.

ALDERMEN TOOK PLACES

The list names were read by Mrs. Haggerty the newly-elected aldermen filed in to take their places in the council chamber. Then Aldermen Clarke and Tice escorted Her Worship Mayor Forrester to her chair.

"It is with the greatest of pleasure that I invest you with your badge of office," stated Alderman Clarke as he placed the mayor's chain around Mayor Forrester's shoulders.

Mayor Forrester then took her oath of allegiance followed by the aldermen who took their oaths in unison.

Prosecution and Divine blessing were by Canon A. S. McConnell, minister of St. Thomas' Anglican church.

In her inaugural address Mayor-Forrester said it was with full awareness of the responsibilities and challenge that she assumed the office as mayor of the city of Belleville.

She said she was prepared to expend effort beyond the call of duty and she expected each elected representative of the city council approaching the year with the same ideal of service.

Referring to the year ahead Mayor Forrester said that important meetings would be faced with increased costs in various departments over which council had no control. In departments over which council had control the mayor assured there would be the constant balancing of present and future needs with the ability of the property owner and in turn the tenant, to meet these costs.

Promotion of employment during the coming year would be urged by Mayor Forrester as a means of reducing the burden on the welfare department.

One of the immediate problems which council faced was the appointment of a suitable person to the position of city treasurer-clerk-comptroller. Planning in connection with the city engineer would require careful study, while a vigorous effort would be made to attract new industry.

54 Persons Killed In Mishaps, Fires During Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 54 persons were killed in Canada during the weekend traffic holocaust marking the birth of the new year.

A Canadian Press survey showed 32 persons were killed in traffic accidents and 14 died in fires. The count covered the 78-hour holiday weekend from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday.

Last year 35 were killed within the same holiday period, nine in accidents and three mishaps, seven in fires. Nine died the previous year, when New Year's Day fell on a Friday.

Last weekend's Christmas holiday ended with a toll of 65 violent deaths.

Ontario had 16 deaths during the New Year weekend, Quebec 13, British Columbia 11, and Manitoba and Alberta seven each. Nine were reported from Saskatchewan.

Multiple fatalities occurred within major centres although although many people were killed in accidents on snow-slick streets.

Four persons were killed Sunday in a collision between two automobiles at St. Pierre, in southeastern Manitoba. A woman and two young girls died in a fire Sunday at the Indian village of Aboutsat, about 130 miles northwest of Victoria, B.C.

Election Battle Seen Dominating Congress Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the United States Congress assembled today for the start of an election-year session in which they will battle over taxes, a farm program, foreign policy and high-way building, and other issues with a high political voltage.

At the formal convening of the Senate and the House of Representatives in the first session of the 84th Congress, routine formalities were the only things on the calendar. Which means the legislators settle down to legislating.

The Democrats have a majority in both branches of Congress, outnumbering the Republicans 49 to 47 in the Senate and 230 to 203 in the House. Four House seats are vacant. They were held by Democrats.

The Republicans, behind the banner of President Eisenhower, swept into power in both houses, but two years later they lost control of Congress to the Democrats.

ATTLEE TO TODAY

LONDON (AP) — Earl Attlee, former leader of the Labor party, was 73 today. He told reporters he plans to take his seat in the House of Lords Jan. 25.

CUSTOMS RETURNS SHOW INCREASE

Customs and excise receipts for Belleville registered an increase during December over the same month in 1954.

Figures for the month past were given at $681,958 — an increase of $27,742 over the December 1954 returns of $654,216.

PERFECT CRIBBAGE HAND NEW YEAR'S DAY

Mrs. Emily Clarke of 28 Hillside Street, started the New Year right, from the card player's point of view. She came up with a perfect cribbage hand on the first day of 1955. She held the lack of hearts and three fives and then completed the ideal hand by turning up the fivewof hearts. Mrs. Clarke suspects this might be a good omen, hoping her luck continues throughout the year.

Mayor Forrester's Address

To all the Citizens of Belleville—
Ladies and Gentlemen:

Upon assuming the trust of this high office it is with full awareness of the responsibility and challenge which the coming year will unfold.

As an individual, I am prepared to expend effort beyond the call of duty and I expect each of your representatives is approaching the year with the same ideal of service, so that we may go forward as a team sharing the duties, the problems and the solutions.

It is a pleasure to welcome the new members of council and to greet those with whom it was a privilege to work last year.

We are all indebted to those who offered to serve their community at the last municipal election. Whether their offer of public service was accepted or not they are to be commended.

At our budget meetings we will be faced with increased costs in various municipal departments over which council has no control but upon whom falls the main for raising the necessary revenue.

In the departments over which we have control there will be the constant balancing of present and future needs against the ability of the property owner and in turn the tenant to meet these costs.

During the next few months our welfare department will be coping with the results of seasonal unemployment. Lay-offs due to the effects of winter upon industry, construction and allied trades cannot be taken for granted. Therefore, it is appealing to all citizens to promote employment at the slack season by doing or having done in home or factory or place of business any contemplated project of improvement. Odd jobs, however small, will create employment and thereby reduce the load on your welfare department. Community effort and co-operation bring prosperity.

An immediate problem which council must tackle is that of finding a suitable person to replace our late respected clerk-secretary.

Planning in relation to inevitable future annexation will require careful study and a vigorous effort to attract new industry to our district is of prime importance.

For my own part my approach to the betterment of our city I am appealing to you all for the use of your best abilities, soundest judgment and sincere co-operation.

In a spirit of unity may all the citizens of Belleville find health, happiness and prosperity in the year 1955.

Temperatures Lower In Dec. Than Year Ago

As any district resident will heartily agree temperatures during the past month were pretty mean.

Compared to December 1954 they registered pretty low in everyone's estimation, and even lower in the mercury's estimation.

Mean temperatures in the district for the past month was 19 degrees, compared with 23 degrees for December 1954. The mean figure was struck by a low of 17 below and a high of 43 degrees. These compare with a low of three below and 42 above the previous year.

However, there were smaller rain and snfall falls during the past December. Rainfall was measured at .60 inches and snowfall at 10.7 inches for a total precipitation of 1.17 inches, compared with 2.04 inches rain and 16.6 inches snow in 1954, measuring a total precipitation of 3.70 inches.

CRASH KILLS FIVE

LIMA, Peru (AP)—A bus and a truck collided between Lima and Puerto Pisco Monday night, killing five persons and injuring 13.

Bonarlaw Crash Mars Otherwise Good Record

A truck-train crash at Bonarlaw which claimed the lives of two Rawdon township residents marred an otherwise good highway traffic record in the Belleville area over the New Year's holiday.

Provincial police reported only one other highway mishap, in which injuries were suffered. Saturday morning a car driven by Robt. Sandford, 29 Earl street skidded off the highway on the Belleville to Foxboro road and crashed into a hydro pole. A passenger, Patricia Foxboro, was suffered facial cuts when he was thrown against the windshield.

In the city police report three accidents in which there was considerable property damage, including one hit and run crash Saturday evening.

Carl Stapely, R.R. 4 Belleville, turned off Victoria Ave. south onto Pinnacle street and did not see a swiped another vehicle operated by Jean Bowerman of Bonisteel and then bumped a parked auto. Damage to the Reward auto amounted to $300, to the parked auto $25, and to the Stapely car $125.

Stapely was later apprehended at his home and charged with leaving the scene of an accident and with careless driving. He pleaded guilty and paid fines and costs amounting to $30.

Also on Saturday evening cars driven by Lorne Bell of Foxboro and St., and by Gerald C. Doyle, 37 Harriet street, collided at Coleman and Cabarfeme roads. Damage to the two autos amounted to about $300.

Saturday morning at Station Street and Canniffon Road cars driven by Arnold Williams, 68 George street, and Percy Dulmage, St., 164 Albert Street, were in collision with $300 damage resulting.

Weather Warms Up With Snow, Slush Promised

Belleville tables weren't the only locations for New-holiday cold cuts over the weekend.

The weather also laid on a special helping of its own.

New Year's Eve night the temperature dropped to below zero, then slid rapidly down Sunday until it reached eight below around 11 p.m.

However, a continued seasoning of snow flurries and slush promised heat back in the atmosphere until the mercury soared to 35 above.

Tuesday morning the face of the city and district was heavily powdered with a thick layer of snow.

But the weatherman earlier this morning forecast an end to it all throwing in a little misery for measure. He promised light rain (making no mention of the slush it would cause harassed householders) and added a clear with few cloudy intervals Wednesday" footnote.

Low in the district tonight is set at 28 degrees.

Town Council Names Chairmen Of Committees

TRENTON (Special) — The inaugural meeting of the town council for 1955 took place in the town hall at 11:30 a.m. today. Town clerk and treasurer O. W. Larry officiated at the swearing in ceremony. Fr.Lieut. F. W. White, chaplain at No. 8 Repair Depot, RCAF, conducted the devotional service.

Chairmen of committees were selected and committees appointed as follows: general government and public relations, Mayor Ross Burtt (chairman), George Brown, Grant Gooding; conservation of health and court of revision, Vahn Lange (chairman), Bert Strong, Grant Gooding, J. MacDonald and George Brown; protection of persons and property, C. V. Graham (chairman), J. MacDonald, Al Brown; recreation and community services, J. MacDonald (chairman), Vahn Lange, Grant Gooding; finance, George Brown (chairman), C. V. Graham, Vahn Lange; sanitation, Grant Gooding (chairman), Bert Strong and Vahn Lange; public works, Bert Strong (chairman), Vahn Lange, Grant Gooding.

Burglars Enter Automobile Firm And Two Stores

TRENTON (Special) — Breaking artists were busy at work while a good portion of the population celebrated the incoming New Year Saturday and Sunday.

After gaining entrance to Lange and Fuller Motors by removing a window at the rear of the building, burglars apparently became disgusted with the poor pickings they found and left empty handed. Police found two attempts had been made to break into the safe and the premises had been ransacked and the company safe damaged. Entry was apparently gained by place the would-be yeggs left in a hurry.

At 8.45 a.m. Saturday, a report on the east side of the city served tracks in the snow leading from the rear of Ketcheson's Grocery. Police were called and arrived only in time to see a car driven by a man seek two persons who took a quantity of cigarets and a small amount of money.

Crawling down through a hole in the floor in the basement to the apartments above the store a thief managed to steal $15 from the Evans grocery and make a clean getaway.

Wounded in Foot In Killing Pig

TRENTON (Special) — Provincial police of Brighton investigated an accidental shooting at Consecon Hill in the vicinity of Wooler New Year's Day.

Konstontin Rosckcnin, of 27 Grange Avenue, in Toronto, visiting Silvester Mielincuik, Murray township, suffered a bullet wound in the foot while he and his friend Mielincuik were killing a pig. The latter fired the animal with a semi-automatic .22 rifle and as he went to grab the knife from the holster the gun fell to the ground and went out. Rosckcnin is recovering in the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Twins Are Among New Year Babies

TRENTON (Special) — Three children were born here on New Year's Day.

The first arrived at the Trenton Memorial Hospital at 12.43 a.m.—a baby girl weighing nine pounds three ounces, born to Mrs Charles Euston, of 17 Weeks Ave. The father is a member of the RCAF stationed at Trenton.

Twin girls came into the world four minutes apart. The delighted parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Copeland of Frankford.

The first infant was born at 6.34 a.m. and weighed six pounds two ounces. Her sister saw the first light at 6.38 a.m. and tipped the scales exactly one pound lighter. Mother and daughters are doing fine.

LAYS OFF 200

ARVIDA, Que. (CP)—The Aluminum Company of Canada Monday announced plans to lay off 800 workers at its plant here during the next week. The company said a serious power shortage caused by dry summer conditions is the only necessary. They bring to 1,100 the number laid off since the end of November.

SMITH DANIEL FRASER (R.R. 1 Bonarlaw)

Smith Daniel Fraser, R. R. 1, Bonarlaw, died in Belleville General Hospital Monday evening, January 3rd, following injuries incurred in an automobile accident. He was in his 54th year.

A farmer, Mr. Fraser was born in Marmora, son of Mrs. Mary Ida Fraser and the late Daniel McCurdy Fraser. He left Marmora seven years ago to farm in Rawdon township.

He was predeceased by another daughter, Marilyn, who was fatally injured in the car with her father, Smith, and a sister, Lorna, in the late residence. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

$10,000 Damage In Napanee Fire; No One Injured

NAPANEE — (Special) — This town's largest single grocery business and the Napanee Hotel were threatened with fire Monday night when a blaze erupted in the basement of the A and P store but no one was injured.

A fire alarm, turned in to the fire department shortly before 8 p.m., sent reels to the intersection of Dundas and Centre streets. The store and hotel are located in the same building.

Fire Chief Lane was under control almost immediately and most of the damage, set at about $10,000 by the store's stock, was caused by smoke and water.

Cause of the fire is believed to have been an overheated furnace in the store's basement.

START TRAINING

ANDERNACH, Germany (AP)— The first 1,800 men of the 4th Armored Division, navy and air force started training Monday.

IN MEMORIAM

CARTER. — In loving memory of our dear daddy, Clare Carter, who suddenly was taken away from us at Cobourg, January 3rd, 1946. God took him home.
Sadly missed by Mary Alice.

CARTER. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Clare Carter, who left his life suddenly at Cobourg on January 3rd, 1946.
We cannot Lord, The purpose see,
But this we know, that Thou hast done well.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by Mrs. Dorothy and Lorraine Carter.

CARTER. — In loving memory of our dear son, Clare Carter, who lost his life suddenly at Cobourg on January 3rd, 1946.
Gone from our home. It is a door
Quite the larger for the vacancy;
A greater glory where the wounded are healed and the tears of the sorrowful are dried, and broken hearts are mended with the balm of Gilead given by the Great Physician there.
Sadly missed by Mother and Dad.

CARTER. — In loving memory of a dear brother, Clare, who was killed in Cobourg on January 3rd, 1946.
Within our hearts a memory lies,
Of one we loved and will not forget.
Lovingly remembered by sister Lois, brother-in-law Lloyd and family.

MIDDLESTON. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Middleston, who died January 3rd, 1953.
Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you live among us,
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by Mrs. Walter, 230 Dundas St.

HARRY. — In loving memory of my dear wife, Annie Mary, who passed away January 3rd, 1953.
Not lost, but gone before.
God knows how much I miss you,
He knows your pain and tears,
Your whispered last request to me
Was to meet you in the sky.
And pray to God each night;
And when He calls me home with you,
Your smile will guide the way.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by her husband, Roy.

HARRY. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Annie Mary, who passed away January 3rd, 1953.
We have loved you more than words could tell,
We cherished you more than we could show,
We couldn't understand.
There was nothing we could do
But watch you suffer and grow weak,
You couldn't see our hopeless tears
As we turned away to weep.
You couldn't hear our prayers to God
To let you stay with us.
But we trust, but God has gained
Another angel for heaven.
Sadly missed by children and grandchildren.
So passed away
Cherish her with care.
Think of her when the heartache
Till you see her vacant chair,
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by sons, daughters and grandchildren.

SUTHERLAND. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Sutherland (Irene), who passed away January 3rd, 1954.
Sleep on dear mother, sleep and take your rest,
We have been lone years
Since you left us,
Your heart filled with sadness and tears;
Yours was a heart that was blithe-some and gay,
Scattering sunshine all along the way.
You knew how we loved you, and how we do still,
Though God took you from us, we cannot understand.
—Always remembered by daughter Muriel and son-in-law Ernest.

EVANS. — In loving memory of a dear wife, Elizabeth Christina Evans, who passed away January 3rd, 1953.
Elsie Annie Evans, who passed away one year ago today, January 3rd, 1953.
Loving beliefs ever, a tender smile,
A loving heart like none on earth;
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her life was lived in simple faith.
If sick or suffering one she knew
She would help in any way she could;
No thought of self, but of "the other" one
Was ever in her mind.
Lovingly remembered by son Garfield, daughter-in-law Georgina and grandchildren Nancy and Joyce.

EVANS. — In loving memory of a dear wife, Elizabeth Christina Evans, who passed away January 3rd, 1953.
Yes, she sleeps, but not forever,
There will be a glorious morning,
Blessed promise, she shall waken,
Jesus died, the Son of God,
So in the dawning light of morning
With the countless hosts redeemed
All the loved ones gone before
Will rejoice to see her more.
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her husband, John Evans.

DAVIS. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Davis, who passed away January 3rd, 1954.
His weary hours and days are done,
His troubled mind are laid to rest,
And in our aching hearts we know,
He has found eternal peace.
—Ever remembered by daughter Myrtle and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Algoma Steel was the feature of the stock market in first-hour trading today as speculation concerning the company's future mounted following the death of its president, Sir James Dunn. The stock jumped $17.50 for a record $130 at the opening then eased to $102 with more than 3,000 shares traded.

Elsewhere, industrials displayed little trend, but base metals moved up to a new index high. The three hour volume of 1,399,000 shares was the highest in three months.

Steep Rock, up 75 cents at a high of 17¾, and Sherritt, 55 cents ahead at $8.45, led the senior base metals forward. Golds and uraniums moved in the range of a few cents.

Among western oils, Calgary and Edmonton slipped ¼

MORE YEARS

Faure at once called for a reunion of his forces with those of Mendes-France, in order to rebuild the moderate coalitions which have governed France since 1947. But there was no immediate echo from Mendes-France, a close associate of Faure until they split last year.

"The first result of the vote," Mendes-France said in a statement, "confirms the discredit into which the outgoing majority has fallen."

THE POSSIBILITIES

With no faction anywhere near a majority of the assembly membership, three possibilities of a coalition seem likely:

1. Faure or one of his friends—perhaps Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay—might lure enough Mendes-France supporters to make up a cabinet team.

2. Mendes-France might work the same maneuver on the Faure-Pinay forces.

3. Mendes-France might yield to Communist pressure and take them into a "popular front" cabinet. He has said he would not seek Red support, but some of his friends now say this might become inevitable.

Another way out would be for the assembly to pass a new election law more likely to produce a clear majority and hold new elections in the near future. Much appears to depend on events in North Africa, one of the main issues in the hard-fought campaign. If the revolt in Algeria gets worse, the deputies might call on Mendes-France, as they did to end the Indochinese war.

VOTE DELAYED

The new assembly will total 596 members temporarily, including 50 chosen Monday in overseas areas and two being picked later this month in the south Pacific islands. Elections for Algeria's 30 members were postponed indefinitely because of the terrorism there, and the seat for the former French holdings in India has not been reassigned.

The new assembly will have most of the old faces, though some will be missing.

Faure, Mendes-France, former premiers Paul Reynaud, Edouard Daladier, Georges Bidault, Rene Robert Schuman and the top Communist leaders, including their chief Jacques Duclos' all were elected.

Former Socialist Paul Namadier returns to the assembly after nearly five years' absence.

Among the casualties were Pierre Biloitte, defence minister in the Faure government, and Independent Edgar Faure, a member of Mendes-France's cabinet.

The Poujadist faction of small businessman was making its first bow as a "throw the rascals out" slogan. Poujade, a 35-year-old ex-paratrooper, was not a candidate himself. He stumped the country on behalf of candidates who espoused his call for tax relief for small merchants.

Some of the Poujadist votes may have come from former followers of Gen. Charles DeGalle. His Rally of the French People, which got the largest number of seats in 1951, has been disbanded and was not in the running.

MAYOR THANKED

Alderman C. R. Hyde expressed the thanks of council to Mayor Forrester. Ald. Hyde praised his fairness, stating that he looked forward to a year of action in council. The motion was seconded by Alderman David, who said it was a pleasure to work with Mayor Forrester last year as councillor.

This year's city council has a father and son team in the person of Alderman Wm. J. Ackerman, again an alderman after two years' absence from city hall and his son, Ald. Ted H. Hyde, the other alderman back in council after a year's absence is Robert Temple.

A new councillor this year is Dr. John Stock, who headed the aldermanic poll.

Following is the complete list of aldermen for 1956: Wm. J. Ackerman, Harry J. Clarke, Enos David, Ralph L. Deacon, Robert V. Graydame, Gerald B. Hyde, Charles L. Hyde, Arthur Keegan, Effie Mc-Cabe, Thomas A. Reid, Benjamin Safe, John S. Stock, M.D.; Robert Temple and Mrs. Ruth M. Tice.

QUESTIONS BY-LAW

A letter from K. G. M. Ross, representing J. T. Ransom, asking that the by-law transferring operation of city sewers to the public utilities committee, was referred to the city solicitor.

The letter claimed the matter of operating sewers came under utilities which was carried at the last municipal election, had been thoroughly discussed by the people, which is true, and was most emphatically upheld with three interpretations being possible.

Eden Confers With Cabinet On Middle East

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden called his cabinet today to discuss the explosive trouble in the Middle East and to consider opposition demanded by Socialists in any debate on the government's policy of selling arms to the Arabs and Israelis.

Eden assembled his ministers after meeting the new Labor Party leader, Hugh Gaitskell, and turning down a request that he invite the Kremlin to help maintain peace in the explosive Middle East.

The cabinet meeting preceded an emergency conference Wednesday between Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and British ambassadors to eight Middle East countries who were suddenly ordered back to London.

Accompanying the flurry of diplomatic activity was a warning by Israel's premier, David Ben-Gurion that the Jewish state must be ready for imminent war with her Arab neighbors. Ben-Gurion told his parliament, however, that war would not be unavoidable."

Britain's press, meanwhile, is keeping up a barrage of criticism against the Eden Government over revelations that British tanks and other surplus war goods have trickled through Belgium to the Middle East.

The government issued a statement Monday saying that all its power ot prevent a Middle East arms race. At the same time, it partially lifted its recent embargo on war-surplus goods, saying such goods could be shipped abroad if governments of the countries concerned could guarantee that the material would not be reconditioned and resold for military purposes.

In response to Gaitskell's request for a "full statement" to Russia on Middle East matters, Eden said he already had made futile overtures to the Russians, who have been busy wooing the Arabs with Communist-supplied arms to Egypt. "The Soviet answer," Eden said, "was not in the Geneva spirit." He doubted that a new approach could gain anything "unless there was a change in the Russian attitude."

Eden insisted that he "undoubtedly" will discuss the Middle East situation when he meets President Eisenhower in Washington later this month.

Olympic Skier Suffers Double Leg Fracture

OTTAWA (CP) — Skiing has shattered the dreams of Canada's Olympic skier Andy Tommy four times in the last four years. But his spirit has been unshaken.

The 23-year-old skier, who with his younger brother Ernie, rose to Canada's 10-member Olympic ski team despite broken bones a leg last winter, suffered a double fracture of his leg today while training at St. Anton in the Austrian Alps.

That leaves only Art, who's 21, and Quebec City's Lucien Bertrand to compete for Canada in the Alpine competition at Olympics at Cortina, Italy, at the end of this month. The Alpine section is made up of the race-slalom, downhill and giant slalom.

W. G. Hall, Clerk of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association was saddened to hear of Andy's accident. He said he doubts if there is now time to send over a replacement.

It would be between another Ottawan, Claude Richer, whose specialty is cross-country skiing, and Lucien Laferte of Trois-Rivieres, Que., a jumper. Clark said. But it would depend first on whether either could get away now and then whether the necessary money could be raised.

Wheat Third In Exports From Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Wheat has dropped to third position second place among Canada's major export commodities.

Total shipments in the first 10 months of the 1955 calendar year dropped to 409,000,000 bushels from 459,000 in the previous year, the bureau of statistics reports.

Basking first was traditional leader, newsprint, with exports totalling a record 7,307,000 tons from 8,312,000 in 1954.

Planks and board which ranked third in 1954, behind wheat, stepped up to second place, with shipments rising to 452,342,000 from $263,726,000.

The new bureau estimate is the bureau report that in the first three months of the 1955-56 crop year, that is August to October, total wheat exports dropped to 59,600,000 bushels from 73,000,000 in the previous year.

Firemen Rescue Three from Fire At Wills' Home

Three persons were rescued by firemen from smoke-filled rooms at the home of Col. and Mrs. R. Wills, 11 Pierce St., early today, when fire raced through the living room of the residence doing considerable damage.

Rescued from a downstairs bedroom window were Col. and Mrs. Wills and the Wills' maid who, after grabbing a coat, covered her head with a cloth and made her way downstairs to her employer's bedroom.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said the blaze had apparently started from a short circuit in an electric lamp cord. The blaze ate its way through the living room, destroying a chesterfield and chair, damaging a piano, valuable oil paintings on the walls.

Smoke damage in other parts of the house was heavy, the chief said.

The fire was discovered shortly after three o'clock by Mrs. Wills who had not yet gone to sleep following the departure of guests.

By this time the house was so filled with smoke that Col. and Mrs. Wills could not get out of their bedroom, which is the rear part of the house and had to be helped by firemen from their rear bedroom window.

Mr. and Mrs. Wills and their maid were assisted by firemen down a short ladder to the ground.

Frankford Elects H. Rose, Reeve; Woman on Council

FRANKFORD (Special)— H. W. Rose was elected Reeve of Frankford village in Monday's municipal election. He defeated Leonard Reid, only other contestant, 309 to 238. He succeeds George Montgomery who was elected a public utilities commissioner.

Voting was moderately heavy as 547 of a possible 850 electors voted. Nominations were held for reeve and for council. School trustees and public utilities commissioners were given acclamations.

The first woman ever to seek municipal office in Frankford, she finished third among nine candidates for council. She is Mrs. Mary Sickle.

Election returns follow:

Reeve: H. W. Rose 309, Leonard Reid 238.

For Council (four to be elected): Clarence Adams 302, Frank Rabel 301, Mrs. Mary Sickle 233, Carmen Mikel 218, Allen Lawes 189, Roy Osterhout 167, E. Gainsforth 125, Eric Duncan 88, Frank Cleveland 97.

School Trustees' (acclamation) — Clayton Kemp, Fred Conley, Paul Spurrell, Clarence Lohnes and W. J. Rose.

Public Utilities Commissioners (acclamation) Jim Johns, George Montgomery.

Five Injured In Car Crash

BLIND RIVER (CP)—Five persons were injured in a head-on car crash Monday on Highway 17, 22 miles west of here.

Most critically injured was Mrs. Georges Wernaimont of Sudbury. She is reported in a semi-conscious condition in hospital.

Her husband, driver of the car, suffered facial and head injuries, while their seven-year-old daughter, Patricia, is being treated for chest and head injuries. Another passenger, Carl Jacobs, suffered a nose fracture.

The driver of the second car, Ed Pigeon, 49, an official of Pronto uranium mines, suffered a possible skull fracture and collar bone injuries.

Royal Clemency Granted by Queen

LONDON (AP)—The Queen Monday night granted royal clemency to a condemned murderer — the third time in three days she has exercised the royal prerogative of mercy.

Home Secretary Gwilym Lloyd-George, the Queen's sole adviser on the death penalty, announced that royal reprieve for John Barcroft, 28-year-old coal miner due to be hanged this morning for battering a young child to death in a rage over its crying.

On New Year's Eve, Lloyd-George announced reprieves for two other murderers awaiting hanging — salesman John Berry who killed his 21-months-old son, and Alfred Whitehead, 29, who killed his wife.

Sentence on all three men was reduced to life imprisonment.

Former Mayor of Jersey City, Frank Hague, Dies at 81

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — Former mayor Frank Hague, last of the oldtime political bosses in the United States, died Sunday. He was 81.

A source close to the family said the former vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee died at his Park avenue home in New York. He had suffered several heart attacks recently.

Poker-faced Hague forged a stormy path from the brawling waterfront district "borough" section of Jersey City to national prominence as the iron-fisted boss of the last of the powerful Democratic machines.

The blustery, master-politician, whose temper often was as quick as his speech was ungrammatical, was called by his intimates an efficient executive and a friend of the poor. Some referred to him as a benevolent despot. But others termed him a "machine boss," an "absolute monarch" and a dictator.

The always impeccably-dressed six-foot son of Irish-born parents called himself "the leading citizen of New Jersey."

Until his retirement as mayor at 73 in 1947, he had a perfect record of getting himself elected. So powerful was his machine, that he was elected to one of his eight terms as mayor by the practically unanimous vote of 102,742 to 6,786.

In his heyday, Hague had enough power to defy a Republican state legislative committee which tried in the late 1920's to delve into his private financial affairs.

In 1951, however, in the course of a libel action against Winchell, Hague listed his total wealth as $2,049,- 937.62. He settled the suit, which arose from an old political feud, out of court just before trial.

Pope Sees Need For Sanctity In Church Music

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope has founded the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church that the quality of sacred music must always be maintained. The key characteristics, he said, should be "holiness, excellence of form and universality."

The pontiff's directions are contained in an encyclical letter dated Dec. 25 and made public Saturday. It is entitled by the first three Latin words, "Musicae Sacrae Disciplina"—discipline of sacred music.

The new encyclical insists on the need for sanctity in church music.

It did not specifically rule against any pieces of music. That would be left to local action.

The encyclical approved of the use of such instruments as the violin and harp, as well as the organ, in church music. There had been criticism in the past of the violin and harp in some church circles.

The Pontiff recommended the use of popular hymns, which, he said, should benefit the faithful gathered in churches, and urged that sacred music be used especially in missionary work.

No Authority To Expedite Bridge Building

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York State Power Authority says it has no authority to "take on or undertake" construction of a bridge across the St. Lawrence river between Ogdensburg, N.Y., and Prescott, Ont.

Authority chairman Robert Moses, in a letter to James G. Castle, administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, made public Saturday said that "recent statements from the Ogdensburg area . . . to the effect that the power authority and the seaway corporation should be held responsible for ensuring the early construction of the bridge, only serve to confuse the issue and retard the project."

Moses said: "The power authority and the seaway corporation have a limited scope of activities defined by law, license and bond indentures. We are not directed or even authorized to take on or undertake the construction of the Ogdensburg bridge."

Moses added that the authority will "continue to lead whatever aid we can to the bridge authority."

The Ogdensburg Bridge Authority, a state agency, contends that the bridge project requires a control dam on the St. Lawrence river being built a little downstream from Ogdensburg will cause ice to form and block the present ferry passage across the river.

THE ALGERIAN ATROCITY CASE

French voters have now selected a new National Assembly. They went to the polls on Monday. The election campaign ended on a particularly bitter note, involving charges regarding an alleged atrocity in Algeria. The case was originally brought to public attention by an article in the newspaper L'Express, an organ of Pierre Mendes-France, arch-rival of Premier Edgar Faure. Faure accused the paper of acting for "electoral ends." Whether or not the atrocity case had any great influence on the result of the election is difficult to say at this distance. If it did not, however, it should have. The controversy has several facets calculated to leave a sour taste in the mouth.

The Associated Press reported last Thursday that L'Express had printed an article claiming that a French policeman shot an Algerian prisoner to death for the benefit of newsreel photographers.

Thursday the French ministry of the interior charged that the Algerian correspondent for an American newsreel company had bribed a subordinate to shoot a suspected rebel, in order that he might get a "good picture."

George Chassagne, the correspondent, indignantly denied the charge on Friday. The same day the ministry of the interior acknowledged that there was no evidence to back the charge of bribery. This charge does not seem to have been made by L'Express, but rather to have originated with the ministry of the interior, after the newspaper's story of the shooting became an election issue.

Premier Faure not only charged that L'Express, in publishing its story, was acting for "electoral ends," but also accused it of "losing sight of the elementary sense of national interest." So far there has been no denial of the basic charge, that a man was shot by a gendarme and that the only question was merely a suspect, apparently not offering any resistance to the gendarme arresting him. Most of us are likely to feel that, if the charge is true, L'Express has fulfilled a vital function. It has brought to light an atrocity which, but for its action, would have apparently gone undetected and unpunished. The incident in question allegedly happened last summer, although the shooting was shown on the newsreel at that time, there was then no hint that the shooting had been staged or that it represented anything more than a graphic evidence that the newsreel photographer who took it was right in the thick of operations against those rebels who had massacred women and children. How a paper can be accused of "losing sight of the elementary sense of national interest" in reporting such an alleged atrocity is something most of us will find difficult to fathom. So far no government official has suggested that the shooting of the man was justified.

We now come to the consideration of the role of the French ministry of interior in this case. To accuse a man one day of purchasing the services of a man just to get a good picture and then to admit the following day that there is no evidence to back such a charge suggests, at the least, a lack of that responsibility which we all have a right to expect from any department of a civilized government. Since Faure is acting minister of the interior as well as premier, he must accept responsibility for the situation as well as for the misleading charge that L'Express had lost sight of the national interest in reporting the incident.

Well, how is 1956 treating you?

It is certainly a year with unique features, isn't it? For one thing, it got away to a different kind of start. New Year's Day on a Saturday is the type of arrangement which should suit everybody. Sober-sides who dislike the traditional revelry with which many greet the dawn of another year, don't have been pleased with the abrupt curtailment of the merry-making in public places, as the clock tolled midnight. Those participants in the customary frivolities who habitually regret stretching the New Year's Day knock too far into New Year's Day will have been provided with a ready-made reason for terminating their frolics at a more reasonable hour and will have found New Year's Day a holiday to remember. The more hardy party-goers, on the other hand, will have discovered, with New Year's Eve falling on a Saturday and the return of work not scheduled until Monday morning, the interval between has been ample to make the celebration a memorable one.

So here we all are, well launched into 1956, in our third day of it, and everybody happy and contented.

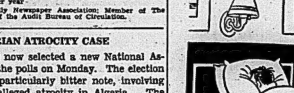
It's a grand start for a New Year—and the next feature comes in less than two months' time, the 29th day which, February will have this year. About the only thing anybody can say against it is that it puts another day between us and the next big event in our lives, the commencement of summer holidays.

SUSPICIOUS!

The announcement from Karlsruhe, Germany, that Otto John had been formally arrested by West German authorities was intriguing.

The Associated Press despatch stated that the announcement came as no surprise.

There may, though, have been some who were surprised to learn the nature of the charge laid against John. It was not a charge of treason. Instead it was "suspicion of relations inimical" to the Bonn government.



We have heard of people being arrested on suspicion, but never before of them being charged with suspicion. After all, the suspicion is not the accused's, but his accuser's.

If a man is to be arrested for suspicion on the part of the authorities, there are obviously unlimited opportunities for people with a suspicious type of mind to seek positions of authority.

It must be added, though, that the German authorities who are suspicious of Otto John have not accomplished any feat. Anybody who was not suspicious that he had played the traitor just has no talent whatever for suspecting.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

50 YEARS AGO

January 3, 1906

Watch Night services were conducted New Year's Eve in Bridge Street Methodist church and in Holloway Street United Church. The Rev. Dr. Semple assisted by the Rev. Dr. Baker conducted the service in Bridge Street church and at Holloway Street Church, the pastor, the Rev. R. E. Newman, conducted the service and the address was given by the Rev. W. Harold Field.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McKeown, Alexander Street, have left for Bradenton, Florida where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Lee have returned home from Detroit, Mich., where they spent a few days visiting friends.

Mrs. Harold Hamilton of Hamilton, Ontario, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. George K. Graham, Trent Road.

Mr. Jim Carr's Eve dance at the Belleville Club was a fashionable and most enjoyable event; one hundred couples were present. At midnight an excellent buffet supper was served and favors distributed.

The members of the Kinsmen's Club entertained close to one hundred and twenty couples at their New Year's Eve dance at Hotel Quinte and all had a happy time. Mr. Ernie Graham, presided the dance committee: Bill Hurst, chairman; Virgil G. James, Bill Rodbourne, Jack Cousins and Les. Pearsall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Shiels, Mr. Ross Weese and Mr. Allan Lailer were the hosts at a most enjoyable New Year's Eve dance for the officers of the Argyll Light Infantry, their wives and friends at the armouries.

Mr. and Mrs. George K. Graham entertained at a reception at their home on Trent Road on New Year's afternoon in honor of their son, Mr. R. J. Graham and his bride, formerly Miss Evyvon Hamilton of Hamilton, Ontario. Three hundred guests attended the charmingly arranged reception to welcome the bride to this city.

January 3, 1926

The blowing of whistles and the ringing of bells ushered in the New Year. The usual watch night services were held in some churches. New Year's Eve and Day private parties and some public dances saw the Old Year out and the New Year in.

The comic opera by Gilbert and Sullivan will be presented on the opera house on the evening of January 5. This is a popular opera and a treat for music lovers once will be large.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moorman are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. H. D. Lawson went to Toronto today.

Mr. A. Publow of Perth is visiting her brother, Mr. L. E. Young, Charles Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Christie, Donald Street, spent New Year's with friends in Oshawa.

Mr. Murray Denike of Chicago, Ill., is here on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ed. Ketchenson, Bridge Street east.

Mr. Reginald Redulick of Lindsay is spending the New Year holidays with his parents at Roamore.

Mr. James McKenna has returned to Syracuse, N.Y., after spending the holidays here.

Mr. Walter Corham of Engadine, Mich., is visiting his mother at her home on Boswell St.

Mr. John Golden returned to Toronto today after spending New Year's here with friends.

There was a good attendance at the hockey match here between the St. George's of Kingston and the Belleville Y. M. C. A. team. The game was fast and exciting. Billy Burke was referee and he proved himself a capable official. The visitors won, the score being 4 to 2. The star players were Phil. Acton for Belleville and Reg. Crawford for Kingston. The following composed the Belleville team: Dolan, Acton, Connolly, Weller, Smith, Brennan and Hamilton.

Aloof From Politics

(Ottawa Evening Journal)

In Canada a leading business man should be successful taking a hand in politics or standing up to say a word about some political issue is as rare as a horse and buggy in Detroit. Businessmen are active in philanthropic and church and social activities; they fall out of line, cease to be citizens when it comes to politics — never are they found at a political gathering or seen on a platform. In actual fact they disenfranchise themselves; put themselves, so far as political influence is concerned, in the class of our Indians.

THE MIGRATING MILLIONAIRES

Southward the rich depart,
Leaving the snow behind,
Quitting the busy mart,
Dodging the ceaseless grind;
Cutting away cares,
Taking their clubs along;
Migrating millionaires,
Hear now my plaintive song.

I yearn for skies of blue,
I long for days of ease,
I long for rosebuds, too;
I like the summer breeze.
I feel the wintry blast,
I'd like to shovel the snow,
But I am stuck here fast—
Only the rich birds go.

Only the plumaged-fine,
Only the feathered few,
Nest in the southern pine
Where gentle breezes play.
I'd like to migrate, too,
Laughter and song are heard,
I'd like to fly down there,
But I'm no wealthy bird.

But it's the snow for me—
Snow, slush and ice;
Southward I cannot flee;
I lack the price.
It with you birds of pride
I should migrate, too,
Bumpers I'd have to ride
Under your tail.

How to Gain Hour a Day

(New York Times)

The harried soul who always wonders at day's end why he has been able to have accomplished all that he had in mind when he set out in the morning might do well to look, too, to a book titled, "How to Gain an Extra Hour Every Day." In it he will find only a limited total of 243 time-savers developed by some of the nation's best-known and busiest people. The reader is urged to apply these techniques in all phases of life, be it homemaking, the office, travelling, handling work, speeding up reading, getting dressed in the morning, even that greatest of time-wasters: the reaching of decisions.

In essence what the book does is to apply to everyday life the techniques of the business world, where time is money, and a major saver of time is looked upon as a modern Ben Franklin. A departure from routine, for instance, saves time by holding all meetings standing up, on the notion that people are less long-winded on their feet. The chairman of the board of a major corporation arranges his schedules his meetings late in the day, so that everyone will be anxious to get home and hence will avoid talk for talk's sake. The president of the United States starts his day by writing out his week's schedule on Sunday night, and then fit outdoes this by planning his work a month ahead. Norman Vincent Peale says that he has carefully figuring where to board the train, so that when it arrives he'll always be right at the exit. And much of the West's victory in the War of the Century can be laid to Sir Winston Churchill's practice of spending part of each day in bed, thus combining work and rest.

Author Ray Josephs, the publishers inform us, is not the man he is through with a couple of exercises. A busy public relations executive, he has no desk in his Park Avenue office. A dictaphone is built into one wall, a telephone with headset into another, thus enabling him to dictate a letter while he is still in conversation with a fellow executive. A dictaphone at home catches a fix after office hours are out. But his mission — for himself as well as for others — is not one of saving time for its own sake. Rather, he hopes that the time he gained will go into things that we want to do and not to those we must do — to such matters as visiting our friends, reading books, taking part in community activities, going to theater and listening to music.

Yet for all the virtue involved in the message, it is still likely that it will be heeded by a fairly minority. These are the people to whom a backhanded approach to any activity is abhorrent, who yearn for the return of that happy day when business or politics was of the efficiency expert. Many of them will be at their desks early in the morning, debating whether it should be the brown suit or the blue with the striped tie they will come the chance to take any car in the suburban parking area, and how far from the exit they will be when it reaches their station. Efficiency or not, that only adds zest to the day. For them, lunch was never a thing to be hurried over. They are ready to return to the office or to bed when conversational sparring finally have run dry. For them such time-consumers are a way of life, sometimes a silent permanent protest against the mechanized forces of civilization. For such as these, Mr. Josephs might profitably pen the volume "How to Waste an Extra Hour Every Day."

Making Truth Hard to Find

(New York Herald Tribune)

Down in Waco, Tex., a murder trial of considerable regional interest is being televised on KWTV. It is the first time that live telecasts have been carried from such a courtroom.

District Judge D. W. Bartlett thinks this is a very good thing and says TV is "the coming thing" in courtroom reporting, provided it does not distract from court proceedings.

We are reminded some sort of public-Presumably Judge Bartlett thinks he has taken precautions to see that bigger audience than could be accommodated within the courtroom is pretty hard to see what this has to do with the judicial proceedings which will determine the guilt or innocence of the defendant.

Of course the public has a right to be present but reason open trials to the public rather than to the street. The purpose is to prevent abuses which might otherwise go undetected.

The Texas judge, however, seems to have an opinion that since a lot of people are interested in this murder trial they ought to be able to supply everybody with front-row seats. In short, he is making a show out of a serious matter.

We recall a talk on this subject last year with Judge Edward D. Medina, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The latter was chiefly about legislative hearings, but his point was that the object of any "getat" or quasi-judicial proceeding is to find out facts and award justice. And with electronics on the scene, "the temptation to put on an act becomes almost irresistible". And even this situation, Judge Medina asked: "How is one to find that submerged but precious kernel of truth?"

It seems to us that Judge Bartlett's theory, Yes, is making the search for truth unnecessarily hard. A murder trial is not a public diversion. It should not be officially treated as such.

Snowman On the Loose

(Edmonton Journal)

Reports from Switzerland that skiers have found the tracks of an abominable snowman high in the Alps are bound to be treated with resentment in the Himalayas, and with reserve and suspicion in the rest of the world.

The abominable snowman is the huge hairy monster greatly feared by the natives, and thought by some to be the missing link between man and apes — has long been a legend of the Himalayan regions, particularly Tibet and Nepal. Now that Everest has been scaled, and the height of the mountain peaks even capturing one is persuaded to descend, there are hardy explorers to the area. Under the circumstances, it seems like unfair competition for the abominable snowmen of copyright, for Switzerland to claim a snowman, too.

Besides, there is something highly inartistic about the story. Selling the abominable snowman idea by telephone inaccessible dangerous, such as the depths of the sea, the Amazon jungles or the South Pole. An abominable snowman, after an hour on the hills or slopes of Everest, but he is in this country not when he is found among condensed milk plants, watch factories and refrigerators. If this keeps up, somebody will be reporting a sea serpent in his bathtub.

How Not To Worry

In effect, Hippocrates enjoined his followers "Do good if you can, but do no harm."

It is my daily prayer that if I may not write something that will do somebody some good, dear Lord, let me write nothing that will do anybody any harm.

Sometimes I wonder how it feels to save a life, either by timely warning of deadly danger or by heroic action.

Once in a long while I hear from a reader who says I saved his or her life — that something printed in this column alarmed him or her about the significance of an abnormal or unusual condition which, on examination by the physician, proved to be—well, an immediate operation happily eradicated the trouble.

I say that occurs once in a long while.

The question in my mind is as much a question as ever:

How may a doctor go in telling the public the symptoms, diagnosis or treatment of serious ailments?

Does the fact that once in a long while I may have the good luck to save someone from the hands of his or her doctor in the nick of time warrant discussion of medical topics in the newspaper?

I have been slowly strangled so many times that it scarcely affects my game (bowls) any more. I have been kicked out on my ear without ceremony when the editor just couldn't take it any more. But of all these fatalities the end that seemed and still seems most painful happened in the south. Out of it I commended on the stupidity of attributing all sorts of local troubles to "piles" and blindly using pile cures without proper medical examination to determine that the trouble is.

The editor himself had been pretty stupid for a long time and my well meant advice sent him straight to a doctor for examination. The doctor assured him the trouble was just plain piles—and when he got back to the office the air was blue around there for a while and in his paper Brady was dead, permanently, I'm afraid.

Tell me, aside from any symptoms that the intelligent reader have developed recently, what effects will the rash of newspaper and magazine articles about coronary thrombosis and high blood pressure have on mental health? For instance if you're forty what are you doing about your diet? I'm not forty yet or rather still, but I'm having a wonderful time doing nothing about mine. I like the foods the eminent specialists assure me I need against degeneration—and I'd like to bet a hundred or a thousand other doctors of my age that not 10 percent of them have heart and arteries as young as mine.

SECOND STEP IN THE NEW YEAR

The second step every Christian should take in the new year is the advancement as he faces the new year in the step of belief.

Do you really believe anything very definitely about religious matters? If you are being tossed about by every current of new and fantastic doctrine, then go to the source of religious truth, namely, the Bible, and find out what the Christian religion is all about. Some things in the Bible are hard to understand. A few things are so hard to understand that not one has ever been able entirely to figure them out. But the things that really matter are very simple. God is love. God has revealed Himself through His Son. Jesus said, "He that believeth on me hath everlasting life." The Bible is largely a matter of willing to believe.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The Christmas cards and New Years greeting cards will now have either been thrown out or tied up in tidy packages and tucked away in a cupboard until next Christmas when they will serve as a rough guide as to whom to send out cards to.

That's quite is right. For somewhat less than five per cent of the cards bear the addresses of the senders. If the greeting card industry would launch a campaign to have the senders' addresses printed on Christmas cards, they would be serving a high purpose. Our Christmas cards would then function as directories of all our friends and relations, and apart from being a great convenience next Christmas, they would serve at any time after time through the year. Let's take a typical case. Suppose I, Jim Smith, I don't know his initials and haven't the faintest idea where he lives, I look up Jim Smith in the telephone directory would be a hopeless undertaking. There are dozens of our well-known acquaintances whom we call by their first names but whose full name we have to steal their identity in directories. To get the address of our out-of-town friends, let alone some of our blood relations, involves a laborious search and frequent disappointment.

A man in the know first addresses a envelope and found raspberries in it. What was he hoping to find, tomatoes?

Why buy ready-printed cards could surely add one line under our signatures.

Each year, I get two or three Christmas cards that are unsigned and it is very difficult to get an anonymous Christmas card. It sets you guessing for days on end and forgetful friends it might have been who was in such a Christmas tizzy that he or she forgot to sign the card. But one of the three is always sent from a friend of mine who sends out forty to fifty beautiful Christmas cards to all his friends and relations. And that makes it a deliberate point never to forget him.

"Why sign it?" he insists. "A pile of cards comes in mail. You open them and you check hastily through them. Not one in fifty of us could sit looking at the cards arrayed up along the mantel and name twenty-five percent of the people who sent them. I send anonymous cards simply to wish my friends the season's greetings and wishing them happiness. If they have to guess who it is from, maybe they will guess it is I. That is better than being forgotten up there on the mantel."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHY?

The world's greatest scourge has always been war. It costs in taxes, destruction and human suffering is beyond all conception. Half the idle wealth of the world has been dissipated in its pursuit. But what, after all, does civilization get will it end? Why will little groups in nations go on forcing it up?

Nearly two hundred years ago the great Dr. Johnson wrote a pamphlet in which he said that war was "a calamity so dreadful that it is astonishing how civilized, rich, polished nations can deliberately continue to renew it." Yet, after another civilization which had seemed to have reached its zenith at the beginning of the twentieth century, war broke out anew and has given to this so-called civilization the greatest disaster it must give the very angels in Heaven cry out in eloquent pity toward all human kind.

Behind the inception of all wars is greed, but the aftermath is death and desolation. Those who initiate wars are always in the minority. Those who pay for them are in the majority. Why must war go on when He Final picture may be death of all that mankind has held dear and of worth?

Only about one and a half per cent of the American national income is spent for education among the young. Figure up the cost of other means of destruction, such as the atomic bomb and you can't escape from one modern battleship costs in excess of $50,000,000. The silver dollar coins are pinced the motto "In God We Trust." But this is not engraved upon any of the battleships or our bombs! Why?

We are almost going to have peace and good will in this world so long as the majority of people in nations are turned into real estate transactions — considering property, the basis of their wealth, and not to those who are selected to trade this property off for selfish ends.

Death of Sir Jas. Dunn Proves Shock to Industrial World

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP)—A continuing question of the last several years in Canadian financial circles has been:

"What happens to Algoma Steel Corporation when Sir James Dunn dies?"

Now Sir James has died and the question becomes inevitable.

Sir James, an industrial titan of the era of individualists of the 19th century, while he lived, was regarded as Algoma.

His passing sends a quiver through the financial and industrial world such as the death of few men send in this age of companies with widely-held stock.

He and Lady Dunn were reputed to hold a majority of the shares of Algoma and its huge interests, or, if they did not hold an actual majority, to hold an effective control.

The answer to what happens at Algoma may await the reading of Sir James' will, unless the company or family issue a statement sooner.

Such is the general faith in Sir James' financial astuteness, however, that there is belief that a smooth transition will have been provided for—even though there will be some suspense until it is made known.

One rumored solution:

Sir James' shares may be held in trust for his estate and a board of management appointed — perhaps consisting, in effect, of the board of directors, possibly enlarged.

Large inheritance taxes might be involved, but one industrialist commented: "I would be surprised if Sir James hasn't provided for that."

WOULD RETAIN CONTROL

Such an arrangement would retain Canadian control of the company—which has been a feature of the entire Canadian primary steel industry to date, as compared with large American interest in other primary resources.

The possibility has also been discussed that Bethlehem Steel Company of the United States might be interested in acquiring a large interest in the company if shares should become available.

Bethlehem's and Algoma's production have much in common. Also, Bethlehem is a large exporter of steel to Canada and Algoma an exporter of iron ore to the United States.

Some steel men regard a tie-up of Algoma with an American company as having potential benefits for both.

Coupled with speculation concerning the disposition of Sir James' interests in Algoma is speculation as to who will succeed him as president and chairman.

REPLIED TO RUMORS

A year ago, in a Christmas message to the Sault Ste. Marie area, Sir James replied to rumors that he was considering retirement.

He said he had no intention of quitting his job so long as he felt as fit as he did then, at 79. However, he said that when he did quit he would nominate 42-year-old David S. Holbrook, executive vice-president, to succeed him.

The name of T. R. McLagan, president of Canada Steamship Lines, controlled by Sir James and associates, has also been mentioned in the past as a possible successor.

Sir James piloted Algoma from bankruptcy in the 1930s, when the plant at Sault Ste. Marie was closed down, to its present prosperity. In that time profits have been put back into the industry. No dividends have been paid on common stock.

The closing 1955 quotation on Algoma common shares on the Toronto stock exchange was $82.50 compared with a year's high of $94.75 and a low of $49. The steep climb is credited in some circles as due more to its iron ore holdings than to steel operations. Shares were split four for one in 1949, so that on the old basis the shares would be worth more than $375. Just before the 1949 subdivision the shares were selling at $52.

ON EXPANSION

The company has spent $83,000,000 in expansion since 1950 and more expansion may be planned, its steel capacity is about 1,240,000 ingot tons yearly.

Total assets as given in the annual report for the year ended Dec. 31, 1954, were $98,576,318. Net profit in 1954 was $4,464,478 and working capital $20,127,600. Authorized common stock was 4,000,000 shares of which 1,650,800 were issued.

Algoma directors, outside Sir James and Mr Holbrook, are:

George C. Bateman, Montreal; Senator T. A. Crerar, Winnipeg; Philip G. Dunn, son of Sir James, London, England: Harry S. Hamilton, Sault Ste. Marie; T. R. McLagan, Montreal; E. Gordon McMillan, vice-president, Toronto; John A. McPhail, vice-president and vice - chairman, Sault Ste. Marie; Joseph Simard, Montreal; Lee J. Timmins, Montreal.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Sir James, his son Philip and Mr. Holbrook constituted the executive committee.

The company's chief Iron-ore interest is Algoma Ore Properties Ltd, with claims in the Algoma area of Ontario reported to have more than 1,000,000,000 tons of ore. The Helen and Victoria Mines at Michipicoten, Ont., now produce at the rate of about 1,500,000 tons of iron-ore sinter yearly.

Algoma also has coal and limestone interests in the United States.

SLIDE BRINGS DEATH

New York Paper Calls Canada Jet Propelled

NEW YORK (CP)—The Herald Tribune, in a special section devoted to Canada, says the Canadian economy "could be compared to a jet aircraft with an accelerating rate of climb."

But the newspaper, in the lead article of its 10-page annual review of the Canadian economy, adds:

"The pilot of the jet knows his plane's performance capabilities, but the pilots of the economy don't. Consequently they are a little nervous about a nine-per-cent increase in the gross national product and a 13-per-cent rise in credit buying, and they are starting to throttle down."

CONTINUED EXPANSION

The Herald-Tribune sums up the 1955 Canadian economic year as one of "continued expansion and growth," but notes that the Bank of Canada began applying brakes to credit as a precaution against inflation.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in a message to the newspaper, says: "Through 1955 Canadians have made further notable strides in the development of the extensive natural resources with which their land is endowed.

"Conscious of their responsibility as a sovereign nation, their desire is to expend their national wealth not only to their own social betterment, but also to further the cause of peace and human welfare in other parts of the world."

In another article, the newspaper says "the relative slowness in lifting international trade barriers has raised the question in many Canadian minds whether the Dominion should be expected indefinitely to pursue its postwar policy of leading the way to freer trade."

Grand Old Lady Reaches 96th Milestone

Mrs. John McDonald, Madoc's grand old lady, today is spending her 96th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. F. McGuire, 43 West Bridge Street.

Mrs. McDonald has seen many changes during her ninety-six years: the coming of the telephone, the radio travel by air, and television, and when weather permits, takes her daily walk.

She reads considerably, her first choice being the Bible, and after that the local paper, and at the end of the week, the Madoc Review. Being of a sociable disposition, she enjoys visiting with friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. McDonald was the recipient of many lovely cards of congratulations upon reaching her 96th milestone, as well as personal gifts, and the good wishes of many for health and the safe arriving at the 100th milestone.

The community here also joins with others in extending to Mrs. McDonald the season's greetings and best wishes for the days that lie ahead.

Wesley W.A. Holds Yuletide Meeting

The Christmas meeting of Wesley W.A. was held at the parsonage. Officers' members were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Percival.

The president, Mrs. Windover, opened the meeting. Mrs. E. Bulmer read the Scriptures.

The guest speaker was Mrs. M. Robson, who was introduced by Mrs. Windover. Mrs. Robson told a beautiful Christmas story which was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. W. Denyes thanked the speaker and presented her with a gift. Cards were sung and an exchange of Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Sayler thanked Mr. and Mrs. Percival for their gracious hospitality and Mrs. Windover for the leadership through the year.

The meeting closed with "Silent Night."

A social half hour was spent around a beautifully decorated table and the enjoying of delicious refreshments.

Joan Rhodes Hides Fantastic Strength Behind Aura of Glamor

By JOHN DUDMAN

LONDON (Reuters)—The pretty blonde with the hour-glass figure curled an arm around my waist and twirled me upside down like an airplane propeller.

She lifted my 170-pound bulk, and smiled. "Shake." We shook. I matched her grip for one swift second. Then my fingers began to ache.

"Am I strong?" asked Joan Rhodes, the mighty mannequin, with gentle persuasion. Obediently, I answered: "You're strong, lady. Now may I have my crushed hand back?"

She's the girl who picked American comic Bob Hope up' baby-fashion in her arms, slung him over her shoulder—and dropped him. It happened before a roaring crowd of American servicemen at Christmas in Keflavik, Iceland.

SLIPPED ON ICE

"It was an accident," Joan said, apologetically, "I meant to walk off the stage with him over my shoulder. I slipped on a piece of ice—and Bob nose-dived."

To complete his devastation, she fell on top of him. He came back to London with suspected concussion and multiple abrasions and bruises.

The girl with the sly, seductive voice that goes well with her 36-22-36 silhouette hides her fantastic strength behind an aura of glamor.

. . . a night for weeks on end.

"I've had five days free in six years"—she does her night club turn of snapping 10-inch nails, ripping thick telephone books in half, bending steel bars between her teeth and flinging 250-pound men around like tennis balls.

The secret of her strength? Joan says there is no secret, no trick, no knack. "I'm just a naturally strong girl who earns her living doing things that other people can't," she said.

TERRIBLE ENERGY

"But when I am breaking steel nails or tearing telephone books apart I am in a fury inside . . . a kind of sublimated temper that concentrates in a terrible energy on the object I am trying to break.

"Afterwards, I am exhausted—but more mentally than physically."

She believes that weight for weight women should be as strong as men. "I have never believed that women are the weaker sex," she said.

Joan says her parents were just a normally strong couple. When their baby began to show signs with six sisters to a London convent before an uncle and an aunt took care of them.

She was a little girl who refused to cry, who fought and wrestled with boys, who never gave up wanting to do something different.

She ran away from school and took a job washing dishes in a cafe. One day an amateur strong man bent a poker to amuse his friends—and Joan bent it back because she feared the boss would make trouble about damage to his property. She was then 14.

That got her an introduction to a circus. She worked a trapeze act for several weeks and then the police turned up to take her home. Again, she ran away.

FIRST SHOW

In London after a three-day walk she bought nails and stole a telephone book from a phone booth. She gave her first show bending the nails and halving the book.

She teamed up with London buskers—street performers—and did escape acts from chains for £2 a day. But it was too tiring for her. So she turned to nude modelling at an art school.

In the summer she often posed with beauty culture boys who were delighted to have their photographs taken holding a glamor girl aloft.

But one day Joan tired of their conceit. She grabbed a 225-pound youth herself and held him up over her head. A photographer flashed his camera. And that was the big break.

Stunt work in films followed. Then television, vaudeville and night clubs.

She weighs "around 140" and doesn't worry much about a few pounds either way. It helps to hide her muscle.

Marriage—"Yes, when the right man comes along. But I don't want the he-man type. I want a man who has brains and a sense of humor. I've got enough strength for both of us."

4-H 'Gracious Hostess' Club Holds Meeting

The seventh meeting of the 4-H "Gracious Hostess" Club took the form of a delightful afternoon tea held at the home of Mrs. Archie Greatrix last Wednesday, which was beautifully decorated for this occasion.

Receiving the guests were: Mrs. Jack Parrott and the president, Miss Mabel Craig.

Among the guests welcomed by the girls were: Miss Faye Irvine, home economist, the mothers and friends and several members of the Quinte Institute. Before serving tea the regular meeting was held.

Lela Emerson will have the next meeting on January 11th.

A detailed report of each of the first seven meetings was read by seven club members. Appreciation and thanks were expressed by Miss Irvine and Mrs. Garbutt.

Group work: Preparing and serving tea to guests. Home Assignments: The girls are to complete record books and reference file.

Pouring tea were Mrs. Greatrix and Mrs. Garbutt.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"OPEN HOUSE" FOR ENGAGED SON HOME FROM SERVICE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son will soon be coming home from service (just completing his basic training), and he has written us that when he comes home his engagement is to be announced. The girl's parents are going to announce it at a family dinner, to which my husband and I are to be invited.

1. We would very much like to have an Open House party for our son while he is at home, as he may be shipped overseas when he returns to Camp. At this party we would like to let our relatives and friends know of his engagement. Of course we would not have this party until after the announcement of the engagement has been made by his fiancee's parents.) Would it be proper and in good taste for us to give this party?

2. If you approve of our giving this party, would you please suggest a way of letting the guests know of the engagement, sometime during the evening? Might I have paper napkins with their first names printed on them, or perhaps have a cake made with their first names on it. — Mother

1. A charming and delightful idea . . . for you and your husband to have this Open House party, giving the relatives and friends the opportunity to have a reunion with your son and to be told about his engagement. After the girl's parents have given the dinner to announce the engagement, it is a perfect plan for her fiancee's parents to give a party to celebrate the engagement, giving his relatives and friends the opportunity to meet her.

2. Your son may prefer to have you tell the relatives and friends about his engagement in the simplest and most dignified way, many not wish to have you have any "fussy" method of the engagement, feeling that these might be more suitable at an engagement announcement party. You might know best about his probable choice. The simplest and most dignified procedure would be for you, as hostess (and your husband, as host, if he wishes to stand with the engaged couple to greet the arriving guests; then, after your greeting, you might say something like this: " . . . And here is Diana, Peter's fiancee . . . and Peter." This gives the happy news when the guests arrive, when it should be given. Then if you (and your son) wish, you may have the paper napkins printed with the two names; or the popular shining-white matchbooks printed with "It's a match!" and the two names printed on the cover. But I have a feeling that your son may think having the two-name cake might be "too much."

HOW TO REPLY TO FORMAL INVITATION TO WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have received a wedding invitation, and on the reception invitation card is engraved "R.s.v.p.—which I understand mean to reply. Will you please tell me the proper form for my acceptance? — L.R.

Use your personal letter-paper or plain white-sheet letter-paper or note-paper, and on the first page use the form, spaced as indicated:

Mr. and Mrs. David Ross accept with pleasure the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Allen for Tuesday, the tenth of January at five o'clock

"THANK YOU FOR YOUR CHRISTMAS CARD"

"Thank you for your Christmas card!" (These radiant, heartwarming words of appreciation will be sung said all over the world these days. Think what a powerful roundrobin of good thought this is, from friend to friend, from heart to heart. A mighty chorus of gratitude for these endearing Christmas messages, the "great accumulation of friendly recollections."

"Thank you for your Christmas cards!" Add your words to the "Thank you" chorus. Keep these good words of appreciation on the tip of your tongue to say to your friends and acquaintances, as you meet them these days after Christmas. Remember! " . . .

And it's a fine idea to add an attractive word-bow too . . . "How very kind you were to remember me. I loved your thought, and I loved your card." Or "thank you for your thought of me at Christmas time. Your card was a beauty, and I cherish it." Thank first for the thought . . . then for the card.

Naturally people are delighted to be thanked for their Christmas cards. And, just as naturally, they are deeply disappointed, hurt, when you meet them and forget even to mention their card, let alone to thank for it.

So please, please, this very minute, promise yourself that you will remember to get your words of thanks you should say . . . and that you will say your "thank you" with a radiant charm of manner and lovely voice. Then, most happily, the radiance of your words will shine on!

BEAUTY

STEAM LUBRICATION—BEAUTY

If you want skin that is velvety in texture and hair that's satin smooth, you can't beat the combination of lubrication and steam. And the best part of the steaming treatment is that it benefits both dry and oily conditions. The techniques you employ vary a little but both are simple.

If skin's excessively oily, prepare a bowl or a basin of the hottest water possible. Boil it in a kettle if tap water's not hot enough. Next get a large Turkish towel and fold it over your head (and the bowl) while the steam rises to float away the accumulation of oil, soil and dead skin cells. Keep pouring more hot water into the bowl from time to time so that the steam continues to rise at the same rate. When you actually feel that your pores have opened up, take a soft wash cloth, lather well with a bland soap and, using an upward and outward circular motion, massage your face and neck thoroughly. Pay particular attention to the nose and chin areas since this is where overactive sebaceous glands get in their most destructive work. Go lightly around the eyes, however. After the massage, rinse twice with the warm water, twice with cool. Skin that's very oily can stand this treatment a couple of times a day until the condition is cleared up, a couple of times a week later.

If skin is dry, steam is also effective since it not only helps to remove the top layer of dried skin but also softens any residue from the oil glands which may have solidified if weather is extremely cold. If this is your condition, apply a good lubricating cream to your face before steaming. Keep it on all through the steaming process which should last for at least 15 minutes. You will find the treatment penetrating, cleansing and, what's more, thoroughly relaxing. After the steaming, rinse with warm water, then a splashing of cold to close pores, restore muscle tone and stimulate circulation.

Steaming combined with hot olive oil is the best possible treatment for dry hair and scalp. Do this the night before you are going to have your shampoo. Heat a little olive oil and place in a bowl. Then, sectioning your hair off in inch-wide parts, apply the oil to each part with cotton balls, massaging it thoroughly into the scalp. Next, head over a basin of steaming water, holding towel over both like a tent until oil has a chance to thoroughly penetrate the scalp. Wrap head in a warm Turkish towel and leave on for at least two hours. After you have removed the towel, massage your scalp until it tingles and feels lose when you pinch it. Oil, soil and flaked-off skin will then be loosened and your hair will be in condition for shampooing.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU KNOW WHAT LOVE IS? OH NO, YOU DON'T!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 15 years old, and have been going steady with him for a year. We got along fine until about four months ago, when he began to break dates with me. I suspected another girl.

Before this happened, though, we had been in an argument, and he said the only way to prove I loved him was to have relations with him. I guess I really lost my head because I gave in to him. Then, after some more arguments, we broke up.

The break-up lasted only about three weeks, and during this time he dated another girl pretty steadily. Then he broke up with her and began to call me again, asking if he could come and see me. I said yes, and on the third date he asked me to go steady again.

Now we have been going steady about three weeks, and he has already broken two dates with me. Th first time he called and explained. The second time — last night — he told me he would be late. I waited on the chance, but he never came and didn't even call me to explain. I think the other girl has gotten back into the picture.

I love this boy and I couldn't ever forget him, so will you please tell me what to do. I know you think a girl of 15 doesn't know much about love, but I have gone through it and I know that I love him. — J.T.

Dear J.T.:

Did you ever hear it said that when a boy finds he can persuade a girl into an affair he usually loses interest in her? I am sorry to have to tell you that I am very much afraid this may be what has happened in your case, and I doubt if your boy friend is going to come back on any "steady" basis.

You say that you know I don't believe a 15-year-old girl knows much about love. Don't you think you proved this to be true when you proved this? So many girls in their teens have the mistaken idea that they can hold a boy by giving in to him, whereas if they really did know anything about love, they would know this is almost always the surest protection of all to lose him.

The way to keep the love of the kind of boy a nice girl really wants is to show him that you are a girl he can admire and respect, and who can be counted on to know what is right and stick to it. To show that you don't know the difference between right and wrong, or else haven't the character to live by what you know, is to forfeit respect and admiration, and once that goes, the relationship is spoiled for good.

Again, if you really did know anything about love, you would also know that no boy is to be trusted who tells you that the way "to prove your love" for him is to let him persuade you into an affair. And a boy who can't be trusted is not worth having for a friend.

You may as well make up your mind that you are never going to have any satisfactory friendship with this boy again, and he has already shown you, by breaking there's such a thing as too much of a good thing.)

EMEN'S SPLIT PEA SOUP

Soak 1 lb. yellow or green split peas overnight in cold water, after peas have been washed in sieve. Next morning, put on to cook, but season the water on them and make it up to 8 cups. Add 2 chopped celery stalks, 1 medium onion, chopped, 1 bay leaf, 1 ham bone or 2-inch cube salt pork chopped coarsely, ¼ teaspoon each very finely crumbled dried thyme, marjoram and rosemary, 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Simmer covered until peas are so tender they are a puree—about 3 hours or less if they have soaked a long time. This may be strained but we don't. Cube bread is an excellent accompaniment. You girls with freezers will be glad to know this freezes excellently. More water or some milk may be added if desired.

WHEAT GERM MUFFINS

One and one-half cups sifted flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 2/3 cup fresh wheat germ, ¼ cup melted butter or fat, 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup milk (orjuice from skim milk powder may be used). Sift together sifted flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into mixing bowl. Add wheat germ. Add melted fat to eggs and milk. Mix wet ingredients into dry only enough to dampen all the flour, working quickly. Fill greased muffin tins. Bake at 400 deg. Oven 15 to 20 minutes. These are at their best when served fresh and farm—with unsalted butter.

Pea Soup to Help Your Balance

By Mary Moore

Only too well do I know how you are feeling today—leftover food to cope with in the refrigerator; too tired to think let alone cope with excess food and children under foot; and that nagging worry of having overspent over Christmas.

Have I struck it right?

During Christmas week when my eyes were playing their part fixing, when I was dizzy from phone bells ringing; when Pete was in a tizzy over what to buy his girl friend; when names of folks turned up I'd forgotten to buy gifts for or send cards to—I'd stop cold, and go outside the front door and take big deep breaths of icy air. Then I'd realize all was well and my petty tasks were a minute in the overall picture they didn't count.

It's a new year. Remember how many folks wished you a happy one just yesterday? Let's tackle it with vim.

Barb and Hall and their children came for lunch on the Friday before Christmas when they were in town delivering their 20 lb. home-grown, hand-raised turkeys. We had Split Pea Soup because Mrs. Hall's favorite, and wheat germ muffins, a platter of sliced liverwurst and sauerkraut, and Mrs. California pie-Honey Pumpkin Chiffon. Barb bought it was an economical meal for six, so I'm giving you the recipe for the soup and reminding today and will give you the pie tomorrow. (For 4 years running on this day I've given you Turkey Bone Soup, but dates with you, that he has become quite indifferent to the other type.

No matter how much you believe you "love" this boy, I can tell you right now that if you will do the wise thing, and pay no more attention to him, you will find yourself getting interested in some other boy sooner than you think. Moreover, we will bet you that the next one you get interested in will be a boy who has the right standards, and the right attitudes, toward any girl with whom he makes friends. We'll bet, too, that you will have learned something from your experience which will help you to avoid making the same unhappy mistake again. Entirely aside from any question of right and wrong, you might not be so fortunate as to get off without serious trouble another time.

Desperate Battle Being Waged To Meet Growing Traffic Tide

By ROBERT GOLSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP) — The biggest U. S. cities enlisted record money outlays, science and ingenuity in 1955 in a desperate battle to stem the tide of growing traffic congestion caused by booming auto sales.

A survey of 25 populous centres shows the problem is acute in all sections of the U. S.—cities are using every feasible means to cope with it, often showing little or no gain.

Los Angeles pushed its freeway construction program at a record clip, but city traffic manager Lloyd Braff said the program still is too slow—new expressways are overtaxed as soon as they are completed.

Local traffic experts describe conditions as "a nightmare" during peak rush hours in Pittsburgh and "miserable" in Newark, N. J.

METHODS VARY

Despite millions poured into new roads and street widening projects, San Francisco says it is just keeping abreast of the growing traffic. The flow is no faster than eight years ago when the volume was 30 per cent less.

Virtually all the cities are building new multi-lane expressways. But this is not the only approach being tried.

Electronic brain traffic signals are being installed, giving a longer green light to the heaviest flow of traffic.

Some cities are trying reversible one-way streets—toward downtown in the morning and away in late afternoon.

TIGHTEN RESTRICTIONS

City parking lots are multiplying and parking restrictions are growing tighter.

Some cities have an eye on helicopters, which can supply information on congestion to radio stations for broadcast to motorists.

Some major bridges will become double-decked.

Television promises to play an increasing role in spotting traffic jam-ups.

Buses are making more mid-block stops, to alleviate congestion at intersections.

Uncle of Quints Now U.S. Citizen

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Herbert J. Dionne, an uncle of the famed Dionne quintuplets, was one of more than 100 persons who became naturalized United States citizens here.

Dionne, who works as a baker here, said he came to Spokane in 1926 for a visit and "I like it so much that I stayed." He said he grew up on the Dionne farm near Callander, Ont., with his older brother, Olive, father of the quintuplets.

Editors Give Slim Approval To Motion

QUEBEC (CP)—Editors of Canadian university newspapers Friday night gave slim approval to a motion calling for greater freedom from control by students' councils and college officials.

The chairman cast the deciding ballot on the measure, which has been the main topic of discussion during the three-day conference. The vote was 8-8 in favor, with four delegates abstaining.

The motion recommended "that the Canadian University Press adopt an editorial policy strongly in favor of freedom of the student press from control of contents by the students' councils and or the (university) administration."

SOME OPPOSITION

The motion met with vocal opposition from editors of some of the newspapers, who said that unlimited freedom would lead to license and that freedom as such as relative and limited by dictates of decency and good taste.

When the balloting showed an 8-8 deadlock, chairman J. M. Kolesis of the University of Manitoba cast the deciding ballot.

As for a controversial "freedom list" drawn up by the editorial committee chairman, 21-year-old Gordon Vickert, editor of The Silhouette of McMaster University in Hamilton, it was tacked on to the end of the committee report which was given "recognition" by the delegates but not approval.

Vickert's list ranked the Canadian university newspapers according to the freedom given their editors by student councils and university administrations. Described as "arbitrary and purely personal" by Vickert himself, it was the result of a poll of newspaper editors through a mailed questionnaire and questioning at the congress.

WANT PROGRAM

Another resolution calling for "the provincial and federal governments to co-operate in establishing a national scholarship program" was given a strong majority by delegates.

The meeting also approved a motion calling for encouragement of such extra - curricular activities among students that would prepare them "to assist in the raising of general political standards throughout Canada."

One motion urging publication of a C. U. P. newspaper describing the annual meeting was voted through, but with the addition of the words "in principle." A number of delegates said they doubt if such a newspaper will be published.

The Silhouette was elected executive newspaper of the C. U. P. for 1956. The Varsity, University of Toronto newspaper, was elected host for next year's annual meeting.

Dairy Trade Rejects View Of No Real Butter Surplus

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Into the controversy raging over whether Canada has a butter surplus comes word from a provincial government that there is a "real" surplus of about 50,000,000 pounds.

This clashes with the view of Agriculture Minister Gardiner who maintains that with the exception of 10,000,000 or 12,500,000 pounds—of which 8,000,000 already have been exported to East Europeans —Canada has no real butter surplus.

The dairy trade has rejected the minister's views. It contends the country has a serious surplus problem and that the government will end the current butter year next April with record stocks of more than 80,000,000 pounds representing some $36,000,000 of the taxpayers' money.

Now the Manitoba agriculture department's dairy branch has stepped in with a statement in its Dec. 24 bulletin that "the real surplus appears to be approximately 50,000,000 pounds or nearly four pounds per capita."

The whole issue of the government's butter-handling policy, its price support and sales behind the Iron Curtain at below cost likely will be subject of sharp parliamentary debate when the Opposition calls on the government to defend its policies after the new session opens Jan. 10.

WIDE DISAGREEMENT

Even in federal government ranks there appears to be no unanimity of views on the butter issue. Trade minister Howe was reported to have said at Edmonton Dec. 5 that giving farmers what was considered a reasonable price has resulted in over-production of butter.

In contrast, Mr. Gardiner told the federal-provincial agricultural conference Dec. 5 that the current 58-cent-a-pound support price is one which experience has shown produced "the required amount of about 300,000,000 pounds of creamery butter."

If it were necessary to change the support price, he said, it would mean that all other prices for dairy products would change.

Despite substantial exports to the Communists in Eastern Europe at cut-rate prices, all signs point to the likelihood that the government will enter the butter - producing season next spring with record butter holdings of some 60,000,000 pounds — about 10,000,000 higher than a year previous.

The question open for debate is: How much of these holdings are actually surplus to Canada's requirements?

The National Dairy Council, spokesman for the dairy trade, estimates Canada requires about 10,000,000 pounds to keep the supply pipeline full—about two weeks' supply. The council represents 500 dairy plants, including 22 co-operative organizations and 28 affiliated national, provincial and local dairy associations.

NEED BIG RESERVES

Mr. Gardiner says the pipeline requires about 25,000,000 pounds. In addition, he says big reserve supplies are needed to prevent butter profiteering and to stabilize prices to producers and consumers.

"So long as there is a campaign to drive down the price of butter to the producer in the summer or drive it up to the consumer in the winter we need as much butter as we have in storage to stabilize the price both to the producer and consumer," he told the federal-provincial conference.

"As long as we need it for that purpose it is not surplus."

The government currently is offering its stocks to the trade in Canada at 58 cents a pound wholesale, the support price, with the federal treasury absorbing the cost of handling and storage.

But it has sold some 8,000,000 pounds to Czechoslovakia and East Germany at 37 and 39 cents a pound and is seeking markets for at least another 4,000,000. The United States also is trying to dispose of some butter in Europe at cut-rate prices.

Recently New Zealand, a big butter producer, made representations both to Canada and the U. S. in connection with exports. Mr. Gardiner promised not to undercut New Zealand in her traditional European markets.

Production this year totalled about 318,000,000 pounds, up from 312,000,000 in 1954. Consumption in the first 11 months, including exports of 6,300,000 pounds, totalled about 274,000,000 pounds, up from 268,000,000 last year. It appears that consumption this year will fall behind production.

The official outlook for 1956 is for slightly higher production with no appreciable change in Canadian consumption.

Of the current surplus, the dairy branch of the Manitoba agriculture department says:

"The real butter surplus appears to be approximately 50,000,000 pounds or nearly four pounds per capita . . . Our butter production pattern is such that during the five months May to September inclusive more butter is produced than consumed.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

A NEW START

Hogmanay holidays and hangover are things of the past. Reeve of sauntered birds, the empties, and resolutions "never again—till next year" relic a joyous round of year-end celebration. The Old Year died a riotous death and ushered in his diapered successor with the usual pomp and midnight pageantry. Old King Year is dead—long live the King.

It was a good holiday and those who like sports for their holiday hill-of-fare had plenty to enthuse about—at home. With most of the celebrative cobwebs brushed away by yesterday morning, the airwaves brought in an excellent bill of fare, albeit was of the gridiron variety heralded by that wonder of New Year pageantry, the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena, California.

It was a grand show from our point of vantage by the family TV set. Millions of flowers and thousands of "Jurs" were on screen parade in scenic beauty. Many western and other organizations were represented in the six-mile long flow of floral beauty but the outfit that had seven floats to every other one was a joke creation. Them thar Jurs (you get a quarter more) popped up just when a smart college or military band heaved into sight, while a tired housewife (The Queen of the Kitchen) monologued and drama-tised her utter weariness after squeezing a couple of oranges in the scullery.

But all was not lost. The local TV station managed to horn in with a picture of a well-known Canadian brew that contrasted with the juggery and their contents.

But after all you have to hand it to the Americans for their imagination and ability to put it into realization. Second only to the colorful Tournament of Roses were the varied things of beauty paraded during the half-time interlude of the various bowl games. The many at the Oklahoma Sooners, Maryland Terrapins Orange Bowl classic was a masterpiece of color and music and parade, not to mention thrilling pageantry and beautiful girls.

No matter which team you were rooting for, or what pool ticket you had, the big thrill of the Bowl Games was that last second field goal kicked by Michigan State in the Rose Bowl.

A couple of tubes in the family TV set expanded like balloons in the dying minutes while over 100,000 held their breaths as Danny Trainer, a guy who never kicked a field goal or convert all season, booted the ball 41 yards.

The ball sailed between the uprights as the umps signalled success. A second later, the tension off, a mad crowd rolinerred the goal posts in sheer ecstacy. It was a thriller-diller, eadjy the spine-tingler of the day.

Even Mel "Israel" Allen forgot to warble "How About Tha-at" in the excitement of the moment.

AWAY THEY GO!

Senior "B" hockey gets away to the start of the second half of the schedule in Memorial Arena tonight when the TPT's clash with the group-leading Whitby Dunlops in an effort to cop their sixth victory of the season and the first at the expense of the Blairmen. The Coopers with the exception of Bill McMaster, who with the Dunlop's Bus Gagnon, is still sitting out an indefinite suspension, should be at full strength, and able to give the Dunnies the battle of their lives.

The Teeps have yet to chalk up a victory against the potent leaders and it would be a right nifty way to start off the New Year with a victory against Wren Blair's powerful crew. The men from the Moira have stared sturdy battles against Whitby here on their own ice and, it will be recalled, put up one of their more brilliant exhibitions the last time the teams met when the unfortunate Gagnon-McMaster incident broke up a beautiful hockey game.

Speaking of that the principals of that fist-fest should know their fate by Saturday morning next since the OHA is scheduled to hold an executive meeting in Toronto Friday night. Both Gagnon and McMaster have discharged part of their debt for their parts in the affair with the TPT player sitting out his second game tonight. Gagnon has been coaching the Dunlops since his suspension since the OHA decreed that he has not been suspended as a coach.

Regardless of that, the Teeps must needs hike their hockey britches if they want a place in the charmed playoff circle. If the Brockville defeat of the Dunlops before Christmas and the fact that the Cornwall Colts have won three and their last four starts, is any criterion, it would seem that both of these squads mean business, and will be giving out with the best hockey they can produce from here in. Tonight would be as good a time as any for the TPT's to jump on the playoff wagon.

Crushing Hawk Bodychecks Hurt Habs' 'Pocket', Marshall Blues Win 2; Bruins Drop Pair

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks have been on tour since Christmas but it hasnt been difficult to keep track of them. Just listen for grunts and groans.

The Hawks may not be winning their share of games but they're turning out to be the toughest club in the National Hockey League. They hit the league-leading Montreal Canadiens a heavy blow Saturday by knocking centres Henri Richard and Don Marshall out of the lineup with crushing checks.

Hawks were overpowered 7-3 by Canadiens but not before Chicago defenceman Allan Stanley checked Richard and rearguard Lee Fogolin dumped Marshall into the boards. Richard may be out for a couple of weeks with a sprained ankle. Marshall has a bruised knee that may keep him on the sidelines for a few engagements.

DISMAL SHOWING

Other than displaying their brawn, the Hawks had a dismal New Year's Day showing that dropped a 5-2 decision to the third-spot Red Wings at Detroit Sunday.

In two other Saturday games, the Wings scored at 18:22 of the third period to force a 2-2 deadlock with the fifth-place Leafs at Toronto and New York Rangers dropped down Boston Bruins 6-2 at New York.

The Rangers came right back Sunday with a 4-2 win over the last-place Bruins. The home-and-home victories gave Rangers 42 points, 13 behind Canadiens and three ahead of Detroit.

At Montreal, the Habs shook off the tenderness to down a wild fourgoal splurge in the final period led Canadiens with two goals. Maurice Richard and Henri's kid brother, Jean Beliveau, Bernie Geoffrion, Dickie Laurent and Claude Provost got the others.

Eddie Litzenberger, Tony Leswick and Al Dewsbury scored for Chicago.

IN FIRST PERIOD

Henri Richard was hurt in the first period. He crashed into the boards at Stanley's jarry check. Shortly afterwards, Marshall was hit.

It was little more than a week ago that Stanley used his fists on Leaf defenceman Hugh Bolton, cracked a bone in Bolton's forehead and put him out for three games. And in New York last week Fogolin checked Ranger defenceman Lou Fontinato so hard in the first period that Lou was on the bench for the rest of the night because his eyes wouldn't focus.

Chicago coach Dick Irvin denies any suggestions that he has instructed his players to go after the opposition. But you have to admit the Hawks know how to take care of themselves.

Red Kelly and Gordie Howe each scored twice for Detroit Sunday as the Hawks suffered that 5-1 setback. Alex Delvecchio counted the other Red Wing goal. Jack McIntyre tallied for Chicago in the third period.

RAZZLE-DAZZLE

It was strictly a one-sided affair and the 12,287 customers in Detroit Olympia were treated to a bit of old razzle-dazzle style that was a Red Wing trademark for years.

Left winger Norm Ullman, in his first year in the big time, gave Detroit the ice against Leafs with his late goal before 12,492 fans at Toronto.

He came up with the deadlock with his fifth NHL goal when he blasted Marty Pavelich's rebound past netminder Harry Lumley.

Defenceman Marcel Pronovost scored the other Detroit goal, at 12:00 of the first period. Right winger Ron Hurst and Ron Stewart tallied for Leafs in the final session. They gave Leafs a 2-1 edge and appeared to be good enough to hold it.

It was the 13th deadlock in 36 games for Detroit. Leafs have tied seven of their 38 games.

ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

There were 10,527 fans in New York's Madison Square Garden as Rangers sent the Bruins reeling New Year's Eve.

Dean Prentice led the Blueshirts with a two-goal performance. Guy Gendron, Ron Murphy, Dave Creighton and Pete Conacher of Ferguson and Cal Gardner pro duced the Bruin markers.

Things were much the same at Boston Sunday. Rangers rallied for three goals in the third period to snatch the victory. The win was Rangers' 19th of the season, one more than their victory total over 70 games last year.

Danny Lewicki, Bronco Horvath and Larry Popein tallied the third-period goals. Prentice fired the other one in the second session to tie the game at 1-1. Fernie Flaman and Hal Laycoe were the Bruin marksmen. A crowd of 9,921 took in the engagement.

Scots Dominate Soccer Picture Over Holiday

LONDON (Reuters) — Scottish soccer dominated league play Monday, with only a few northern British teams playing as the rest took a holiday.

The full Scottish program featured clashes between the four first-ranked teams in Section A in the day's outstanding game, the second-place Rangers shaded the league-leading Celtics 1-0 ,Rangers' centre forward Don Kirchenbrand scored the winning tally. The Celtics now lead by only one point and have played two more games than the Rangers.

The third- and fourth-place team Hearts and Hibernian, played to a 4-4 tie.

In the English League, the major surprise was the 3-0 home defeat in Division 1 of Newcastle, the cup holders, by West Bromwich Albion. Ronnie Allen scored three times for West Bromwich Albion, once from a penalty shot.

Dickson Wins New Year's Day Road Race

HAMILTON (CP)—Gordon Dickson, 24, of Clarenholme, Alta., Monday won the 24th annual New Year's Day road race, sponsored by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Dickson, running under the colors of the New York Athletic Club, defeated 26 other runners over the 10-mile course in 53 minutes, 35 seconds, two minutes off the record set by Cliff Hecker in 1928. Jack Eeg Darle of Toronto was second and Jim Klein of Buffalo, N.Y., was third.

A light snow fall made the pavement slippery for both the 10-mile run and the junior three-mile race, won by Billy Reynolds.

Reynolds, a 17-year-old student of Galt Collegiate, clipped nine seconds off the record set by Cam Gray of Hamilton last year. Reynolds' time was 14:29. Willie Gagnon of Hamilton was second.

Minor Hockey

The Bruins, Canadiens and Red Wings were winners in the bantam hockey games on Saturday morning with Thompson of the Canadiens turning in the only shutout. The Habs blanked the Maple Leafs 6-0, the Bruins clipped the Rangers 5-2 while the Red Wings won over the Black Hawks 4-1.

Whitey Hall and Mac Hunter paced the Canadiens to victory with two goals each while Mawdsley and a goal and assist. Harvey also scored with McMullin drawing a pair of assists.

Bucky Ethier fired a goal and assist in the Red Wings win with the other goals going to Poste, Mullen and Scott. McGuire, Adams, Halsey and Gelsthorpe picked up assists. Boulier gunned the lone Hawk marker with Brun assisting.

The Bruins were led by Pusey Keller with two goals and one helper while McKenzie had a goal and assist. Clapp and Brant also scored with Boyle aiding on one and Boulter on two. Yome and Durrant scored in defeat while Pringle and Smith had assists.

Oklahoma Beats Maryland; Spartans Edge UCLA; 'Old Miss' Nudges TCU

'Sooners' Earn Top Ranking MSU Win Last-Second Thriller Convert Cotton Bowl Clincher

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Master of all it surveyed, Oklahoma today stood as the Goliath of college football for 1955.

Bud Wilkinson's rib - cracking Sooners, 30-6 victors over Maryland in the Orange Bowl Monday, won't hear the taunt of "weak schedule" for a long time to come.

As a member of the rela tively weak Big 7, Oklahoma plays a full conference schedule. As a result, the team accumulates plenty of size as an unknown quantity.

The manner in which the Sooners manhandled Maryland, the tightest major defensive outfit in the U.S., before a crowd of 74,561 in Miami, simply served to emphasize that they rate their No. 1 ranking.

Two years ago, Maryland had been voted the mythical national title, only to fall before Oklahoma in the same Orange Bowl. This time there will be no discussion about the national championship.

AS EXPECTED

Two of the three other major bowls followed expectations. Michigan State came out of a final-seconds victory over UCLA before 100,809 in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., 17-14, and Georgia Tech turned back Pittsburgh 7-0 before an audience of 80,172 in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

Not so expected was Mississippi's 14-13 decision over Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas before a gathering of 75,504.

In one Saturday contest Iowa's versatile Jerry Reichow led the power-packed East to a 25-6 victory over the West at San Francisco in the annual Shrine All-Star football game. He scored the East's only two touchdowns after Stanford Auburn 25-13 in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., and Ted Gregory won from the favored Blues 26-19 at Montgomery, Ala.

Two of Oklahoma's three touchdowns were scored by second stringers as the Sooners came from behind like champions to gain their triumph. Trailing 6-0 in the third period as a result of Ed Vereb's 5-yard jaunt in the second quarter, the Sooners tore Maryland apart with two touchdowns in the third quarter and one in the fourth.

ALL-AMERICAN SCORES

Oklahoma's skinny all-America halfback, Tommy McDonald got the first Sooner touchdown on a four-yard dash. Billy Pricer converted and that was all the Wilkinson forces needed. But Jay O'Neal went over from the one-yard line and Carl Dodd intercepted one of Lynn Beighle's passes and ran 52 yards for the third score.

The teams were about even," acknowledged Wilkinson later. "We got the breaks and they didn't. We are not big and what we do is fast. The Senator was off when we scored the first time we got the ball in the second half."

Maryland coach Jim Tatum was lavish in his praise of the Sooners.

"Oklahoma is the best college football team in the country," he said. "They were in better physical shape. They handled themselves better. They outhustled us. They had too much speed."

But it remained for the Terps' all-America centre, Bob Pellegrini to explain the whole thing.

"They came out of their huddle so fast, we couldn't adjust our defences to meet them," he said.

KAISER BOOTS WINNER

The accurate toe of Dave Kaiser enabled Michigan State to pull its victory out, over UCLA and maintain the Big 10's whammy over the Pacific Coast Conference in the Rose Bowl. The series count now stands 8-2.

With the score tied at 14-14 seven seconds before the end, Kaiser calmly came off the bench to kick a field goal from 31 yards out. Indiana temporarily broke loose and the goalposts were demolished. Only a few minutes earlier, UCLA had knotted back to a tie when Doug Peters, climaxing a passing drive of Roonie Knox, went over from the one.

The Spartans had broken a 7-7 deadlock early in the fourth quarter on a 67-yard pass play from Clarence Peaks to John (Big Thunder) Lewis.

Said young Kaiser later:

"I didn't have time to think or feel anything at all. But I knew when my foot hit the ball that it was going to be good."

Spartan coach Duffy Daugherty confirmed that the field goal was his idea.

"I sent in the play," he admitted, "but Dave was the one who came through for us. He's my boy. It'll be a lot warmer and sunnier for him in Michigan this year than last. I won't want to hide this time."

"Michigan State was the best team we've played all year," said UCLA mentor Red Sanders, "even better than Maryland."

The only score in the Sugar Bowl came when Georgia Tech took advantage of a break in the first quarter. Wade Mitchell passed from the 32 to Don Ellis on the 2. Pitt defender Bobby Grier tried to block the pass and in the process interfered with the receiver with interference and the ball was given to the engineers on the 2. Two plays later, Mitchell smashed over from the one, then kicked the extra point.

DENIED PUSHING

Grier later denied pushing Ellis and said the penalty should have been called the other way.

"He pushed me from behind," Grier said. "That's why I fell forward."

Pitt coach Johnny Michelosen said from where he sat the play could have been called either way. Tech coach Bobby Dodd, who now has seven bowl games without a defeat, said he couldn't see the play, but added: "Ellis told me Grier shoved him, and I guess that was the way it was."

'Pocket, Rocket' Chase Leaders In Point Race

MONTREAL (CP)—Five teams in the National Hockey League are wishing some of the brotherly love connected with Christmas and New Year's would rub off on Montreal's Richard brothers.

What veteran Maurice and his kid brother Henri did to the opposition in games last week was anything but in the spirit of the season. Together, they accounted for 11 points in their last two games, both victories. The Canadiens were shut out in their other start last week.

Maurice, making another determined bid for the scoring crown that has always avoided him in his brilliant 15-year career, fired two goals and picked up four assists to climb from fourth place to the runner-up spot in the individual race.

Henri, a leading contender for the Calder rookie trophy, potted one goal and four assists to climb from 20th place to a tie for 15th with 36 points.

STILL IN FRONT

Big Jean Beliveau of the Canadiens still has a comfortable four-point lead over Maurice in first place. Beliveau has 23 goals, tops in league, and 21 assists for 44 points. The Rocket has 24 goals and 18 assists.

Andy Bathgate of New York had another good week, picking up four points to retain third place with 39 points. Bert Olmstead of the Canadiens was held to a single assist and dropped from second to fourth place with 38. His 31 assists are the most by any player, however.

Gordie Howe of Detroit picked up four points and held fifth place with 37 points. There's a six-point drop to the next man — Dave Creighton of New York. Lined up behind him are Alex Delvecchio of Detroit with 30, Ted Lindsay of Toronto with 29 and Earl Reibel of Detroit and Doug Harvey of Montreal with 28 apiece.

HEADS GOALIES

Jacques Plante of Montreal remained comfortably in command of the goalies' battle for the Vezina Trophy honors. Plante's personal average is 1.56 goals per game, but the team average — the one that counts for the trophy—is 1.63.

Glenn Hall of Detroit is in second place with a 1.75 average and Gump Worsley of New York is third with a 2.34 mark. Hall had the most shutouts—seven.

Defenceman Lou Fontinato of New York ran his penalty total for the season to an hour and 40 minutes, the same as Ted Lindsay's of Detroit.

GETS HUGE BEQUEST

CHICAGO (AP) — A 48-year-old secretary will get about $1,279,963 from the will of a Chicago insurance company executive, an inheritance tax appraisal indicated Friday. The money was left to Miss Hazel Boostrom, 46, of suburban Riverside, by her boss, the late Alfred E. Forrest, 49.

Teepees Take Two, Jump to Second Biltmores Defeat Leading Canucks

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The new year already has been good to St. Catharines Teepees. Teepees won both games they have played in 1956 and now are in second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A. Section.

Sunday at Toronto, Teepees nipped St. Michael's Majors 5-4 and followed that up Monday with a 6-3 win over Barrie Flyers at St. Catharines. They have 22 points, two behind Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks who lost 7-3 Monday to Biltmores at Guelph.

Majors, in third place, have 28 points, one more than Toronto Marlboros who had their seven-game undefeated streak snapped Sunday by Guelph junior Canadiens. The Habs defeated Marlboros 3-1 in the second game of the weekly doubleheader at Toronto. That game counted in the Laurier Trophy series between teams from the OHA Junior A League and Quebecois.

LARGEST CROWD

A Sunday crowd of 6,419 fans—largest Toronto attendance of the season — watched St. Catharines build up a 4-0 lead then almost blow it. With two minutes left in the second period, St. Michael's scored to make it 4-1. Then the collegians added two more early in the last period to cut Teepees' lead to one goal.

Ab McDonald eased the pressure for St. Catharines with a goal near the 15-minute mark to make it 5-3. Ed Hoekstra, Milch Plata, Gary Eatough and Art Stratton were the other Teepee marksmen. Frank Mahovlich scored a pair for St. Michael's with singles going to Gino Ubrisco and Bob McKnight.

In the second game of the twin bill, Marlboros took a 1-0 lead with 35 seconds remaining in the first period and held it through the second. Two quick goals early in the final frame gave Canadiens the win.

Gary Collins scored for the Toronto team with Bob Boucher tying it up for Montreal and Forbes Kennedy winning the game at 2:36 of the third period.

St. Catharines' win Monday at home was somewhat patterned after the Sunday game. Teepees took a 4-0 lead during the second period but Barrie shortened the lead to 4-2 by the time the frame was over. The winners scored a pair apiece in the last stanza before Flyers closed the scoring.

McDonald, with two goals, Plata, Stratton, Dick LaFontaine and Bob Butler were the St. Catharines scorers. Barrie marksmen were Brian Smith, Dick Cherry and Murray Davison.

Guelph Biltmores rolled up a 5-2 first-period lead Monday over Kitchener-Waterloo. Canucks out scored Biltmores in the second period and the teams split single goals in the final 20 minutes.

Dutchies Sign 22 Players For Olympics

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's hockey representatives in the 1956 winter Olympics, will play three exhibition games in Scotland and Czechoslovakia, it was announced Sunday.

Club business manager Ernie Goman said he had been told by George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, that the games will be played before the Olympics in Cortina, Italy.

The Dutchmen will fly from Toronto's Malton airport to Prestwick, Scotland, Jan. 15, and will play in Harry Paisley, Jan. 16. They will fly to London and then by a Czechoslovakian government plane to Prague for games Jan. 18 and 19. They are scheduled to arrive in Cortina Jan. 21.

It is also hoped the Canadians will play in an exhibition match for Canadian troops stationed in Europe after the Olympics.

Meanwhile it was reported that veteran defenceman Art Hurst of Stratford Indians will be the second and final replacement for Dutchmen will take to Cortina. Floyd (Butch) Martin of Elmira was named earlier as one of two defencemen recruited to replace the ineligible Ted Kemp and Joe Schertel.

In all, the Dutchmen have 22 players registered with the Olympic Hockey Committee. They include 15 regular players: goalies Denis Brodeur and Keith Woodall; defencemen Bryle Klinck, Howie Young and Jack Mackenzie; forwards Ken Laufman, George Scholes, Jerry Theberge, Bill Colvin, Jim Logan, Paul Knox, Bob White, Bud Horne, Charlie Brooker and Don Rope.

In addition, five players have been registered as second-line replacements in the event of injury or other circumstances. They are: goalie, Bobby Gibson of Owen Sound; defencemen George Mogan of Windsor and Elmer Snow of Owen Sound; forwards Bob Attersley of Whitby and Al Di and Lou Bendo of Stratford Indians.

Kemp and Schertzi are ineligible to play in the Olympics because they are both reinstated amateurs after lengthy professional careers behind them.

TAKES SQUASH TITLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Hashim Khan, a Pakistan professional, Monday won the United States open squash racquets championship by defeating his brother, Azam Khan, 18-16, 12-15, 16-18, 15-4, 15-9 in the final.

77-Year Woman Takes Icy Swim

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 77-year-old woman went swimming here Sunday. Mrs. C. Bush joined 42 other game members of the Vancouver Polar Bear Swimming Club in the annual New Year's dip to swim at English bay here.

Gordon Freeze stayed in the water for an hour during the endurance competition.

$375.00 A WEEK FOR BOWLERS
$250.00 FOR TOP 3 TEAMS
$125.00 FOR MYSTERY AVERAGES

If you bowl in an organized league, you are entitled to the chance of participating in the weekly "Bowl o' Fun" contest for cash prizes. Each week your league may enter its high team in 'THAT WEEK'S BOWLING. "Bowl o' Fun" is presented by the Ontario Bowling Proprietors' Association and only member alleys participate. This is a contest for everyone, because HANDICAPS ARE COUNTED AS PART OF THE SCORE. Maximum Handicap three quarters of 220. The high team each week divides $150 —the second $75.00 and the third $35.00, awarded by Dow Brewery Limited. And no matter how low your team's score you can still win cash prizes! Every week the five teams scoring closest to the five Mystery Averages will divide $125. So enter now! Your team could have the week's average in any one of the five Mystery Averages scoring divisions!

There is no cost or fee to enter. Here's what to do.

Ask the manager at the alley where you bowl if it is a member of the association. If it is, he will have registration and weekly entry forms. Get all your fellow bowlers to sign the registration form and mail it in. Then you will all be eligible for the whole season to share in the prize money if your particular team wins. Also ask your alley manager for the "Bowl o' Fun" rules. If your alley is not a member of the association, it can obtain full information by writing to the address below.

Broadway Had a Year Show Street Will Not Soon Forget

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway wrap-up of 1955, a year show street won't soon forget. . . .

A dazzling bevy of youngsters arrived, among them the standout talents of tiny Susan Strasberg in drama ("The Diary of Anne Frank") and bumptious Andy Griffith in comedy ("No Time for Sergeants"). . . . Two more of the notable too, with a pair of great ladies, Helen Hayes and Gladys Cooper, marking the half-century mileposts of their careers, and versatile Ruth Gordon pasting her 40th marker as actress and playwright. . . .

The French touch spiced much top drama, but no Frenchman named Tyrone Guthrie shared with American Harold Clurman the busiest directing status. Another Yankee, Thornton Wilder, suddenly found himself getting the most script attention, and a flock of Dubliners arrived for an informal one-shot Celtic festival. . . .

Tallulah Bankhead scratched her eye on a facial tissue and missed three performances. . . . Joan Fontaine went back to Hollywood with an injured back. . . . Gloria Vanderbilt made a three-minute stage acting debut and then went looking for films to conquer. . . . Shirley Winters triumphantly jumped the other way and proved herself a screen player of high stage artistry. . . . but some other young hopefuls from screeland found the White Way plenty tougher. . . .

Hits outpaced flops, and valiant tries were made by some authors and producers to lure in hesitant shoppers with advertising stunts . . . grey-haired playwright Belle Spewack made a whirlwind, losing fight for "Festival" . . . Kermit Bloomgarden fruitlessly summoned fans to see "Wedding Breakfast," later in the year luxuriously relaxed with three hits in a row. . . .

Biggest show coup was Sol Hurok's $300,000 gamble to import the Boris Godunov Scots Guards, a "folly" that grossed nearly a million. . . .

Hands-down winner of that bittersweet accolade of "artistic triumph" went to "The Saint of Bleecker Street," for courageous bid for popular opera. . . .

The city's television promised return of burlesque from exile, but none was in sight at year's end . . . and show business began seriously contemplating another of its periodic migrations along Broadway, this a mile uptown from once-tawdry Times Square to Columbus Circle. . . .

Organized theatre tours from the hinterlands stopped a booming vogue, with airplanes joining buses and trains as transport for theatre parties. . . .

MANY GREATS DIED

The final curtain came down for many greats . . . playwright Robert E. Sherwood, aging star Walter Hampden, producing dean John Golden. In the necrology too were John Hodiak and actresses Grace Hartman and Isabel Bonner, the latter dramatically stricken in mid-performance on a Los Angeles stage . . . gone also were Jerry Ross, half of the song-writing team that created the lilt of "Fajens Game" and "Damn Yankees," and Margo Jones, dynamic producer of theatre in Dallas, Tex.

Saddest story with a happy ending was the lot of star Paul Muni, who left retirement to score sensationally in "Inherit the Wind," then had to return to the wings because of an eye injury . . . after surgery he relaxed again amid a scene of emotion tribute possible only on supposedly tough-hearted Broadway. . . .

Good to your taste... yet kind to your waist because never rich or filling!

Dutchies Drop Third Straight Game As Maroons Hand Bulldogs 6-1 Loss

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, who had their own way during the early part of the season, blew a Ferguslead Monday and lost their third straight game.

Dutchmen, leaders of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League, lost 4-2 to Owen Sound Mercurys at Kitchener in the only engagement Monday. In the other New Year's holiday weekend game, last-place Chatham Maroons walloped the Bulldogs 6-1 at Windsor Sunday.

A holiday crowd of 4,178 watched Kitchener-Waterloo's Don Rope and Jack McKenzie give the league-leaders a 2-0 lead in the first period. Mercurys took over in the second frame with a pair of goals and repeated the feat in the last stanza.

Despite the loss, Dutchmen retained their five-point lead over Windsor and Stratford Indians, who are tied for second place with 30 points.

Buck Forslund scored the first and last Owen Sound goals. Ken Green and Jackie Hamilton were the other marksmen.

Chatham Maroons' 6-1 triumph over the Bulldogs before 2,015 fans at Windsor moved them to within two points of fourth-place Owen Sound but Mercurys pulled four points away with their win the next day. Chatham has three and a tie in 28 games for 21 points.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, January 4, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — With this day's stimulating influences, you may be inclined to force matters or opinions. Be wisely tactful and you will gain more eventually.

April 21 to May 86 (Taurus) — Encouraging vibrations from your planet, and from others, but be advised, not to go to extremes lest you defeat your own purposes.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — While goals can be promoted today and personal achievement assured if you make the best use of your fine ability and talents.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some activities may call for extra vigor now, but this you can easily supply and really benefit thereby.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Wish to develop new, better methods in your particular field? Then seek and heed the advice of those who are qualified to give it. You are clever and ambitious but do not always know the answers.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — A little extra study beforehand — especially on new matters — may be just what you need to get things off to a better start. Put needless red tape, long discussions; get to the meat of things quickly.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Your inherent patience, ability and sound judgment will be great aids to your achievement now. This day may not be fully responsive. You must do your share to make it work.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Be modest as well as brilliant. One complements the other. Today offers fresh opportunities for making profits, and friends should help in many ways. Be grateful.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Every good deed, every good effort will result in some gain, some benefit. Patience with homely little tasks or details can speed the attainment of those big goals.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Full returns may not be attained now but partial ones are possible if you surround your knowledge and use your innately keen mind. Allocate time so as to get every thing possible for your efforts.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Don't fret if you don't seem to make records in record time. If you do your best without procrastinating, you will do well.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — A genial disposition and patience should be stressed all day. Unusual, if practical, methods to advance progress are favored.

You born today are diligent, trustworthy, ambitious, usually purposeful. Your initiative and energy may lead to aggressiveness and arrogance, so be watchful in this department. Never lose patience with children; their very mischievousness is what you often need to dispel a tendency to gloominess. Laugh with and enjoy the best. There is a wide field in which you can succeed: especially as surgeon, dentist, statesman; in law, banking. You can be an efficient worker in industry, farming, dealing in live stock.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A policeman almost shot himself Monday night while cleaning his pants. Patrolman Fred Golden said he was holding his trousers in one hand and brushing them with the other when a loose pistol bullet went off in one of the pockets. It missed him.

KICKED BY PRESENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Merlo J. Pusey, associate editor of the Washington Post and Times Herald, suffered a broken lower jaw and face cuts Sunday when he was kicked by a riding horse the family had bought for Christmas. The accident occurred on the family farm near Pooksville, Md.

Present Year Holds Promise Of Being Big One for Canada, Perhaps Better Than 1955

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The present year promises to be as big a one for Canada as was record-breaking 1955.

In fact, an accelerating pace at year-end indicates it may be bigger.

Only sheer inability of present population and facilities to handle much more than they are now handling would stop the boom.

Only a substantial drop in world economic activity could put the new year back seriously in Canada. Hardly anything, barring war, could make it a bad one.

FULL SPEED AHEAD

All the things that drove 1955 ahead promise to continue to operate at full throttle.

Forest industries are expanding and demand for wood fibre in its many forms is growing. Announcements of new mining developments tumble over one another almost day to day. Oil and natural gas continue dynamic.

Agricultural income, down in recent years, appears to have about reached a current bottom. Fisheries, down slightly last year, should at least hold their ground.

Construction promises to advance as fast as the supply of materials will allow.

At year-end people were still buying at the pace which made 1955 a record year in retail sales. Their buying reflected, for the most part, the filling of needs for homes and families rather than extravagance. Given continued good employment their incomes will be up and their buying power strong.

Population will continue to grow.

Increase in exports—particularly the sale of forest and mine products—was the outstanding impetus in making 1955 a record year for Canada.

The increase resulted from prosperity in the United States and western Europe and general increase in world trade. It pointed up dramatically Canada's stake in a continued and spreading world prosperity.

A year such as 1955 in Canada's present stage of development can scarcely be envisaged if other countries cannot buy her products in large volume. Indications are, however, that they will continue to buy.

Increasing exports, increasing population and increasing income also mean increase in Canadian manufacturing.

Shadows on the bright new year include:

The pace of the boom. Will it develop weaknesses in the late-year? Will it continue in the United States? Periodical readjustments seem inevitable even in long-term prosperity. The year 1954 was such a readjustment.

FARM SURPLUSES

Agricultural surpluses, particularly wheat. The outlook for wheat export looks not much different from 1955. One assurance is the quality of Canada's wheat. One uncertainty is what the United States may do. The year may see an approach to the end of the crisis or it may see it become more acute. Whatever the future, it seems hardly likely that the farm economy will be allowed to collapse.

The danger of inflation. So far prices have remained stable but costs and a little more boom could start them upward. Most goods seem in ample supply however, and competition is a strongly-restraining influence.

Steel and cement scarcities. These, unless national expansion takes fresh bounds, should be approaching equilibrium. Both industries are expanding.

Problems of some manufacturing industries resulting from foreign competition in the Canadian market. They feel they suffer from inequitable competition.

The size of Canada's adverse trade balance with the United States. Some think this trade balance too dependent on the United States. Others see it as a logical development of the American economy. Probably everyone would be glad to see Canadian exports spread around more.

MANY NEW PROJECTS

Whatever the problems or the perils there is no let up in the stream of announcements of new projects. Capital expenditures are estimated at around $6,000,000,000 in 1956 and should be no less and probably more in 1956.

A $142,000,000 natural gas pipeline is being built from the Peace River area to the west coast. The proposed $350,000,000 natural gas pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada may pass its final hurdles. In addition, oil and gas industries probably will continue their $400,000,000 yearly pace of expansion expenditures.

Uranium is creating a new source of wealth. Ontario and Saskatchewan uranium companies to date have government contracts for $558,913,000 by 1962. Production in 1955 was already $48,000,000.

The St. Lawrence seaway and power development and other huge power developments across Canada are spending hundreds of millions of dollars. So are the forestry and mining industries.

Radar and Warning lines across the North are costing $430,000,000.

REGIONAL SURVEY

Here are a few other projects reported from across Canada:

British Columbia: The pulp and paper industry, which spent $141,000,000 in the last five years, plans to spend another $250,000,000. The Peace River-coast gas pipeline is expected to mean additional expenditures of $135,000,000 on attendant facilities, including distribution lines. Frobisher-Ventures plans to spend $50,000,000 on a power-metallurgical development in the province's northwest and may ultimately spend $700,000,000. Aluminum Company of Canada continues huge expenditures at Kitimat and Kemano. Hooker Electrochemical is building an $11,000,000 plant at north Vancouver.

The provincial government is spending $60,000,000 on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. British Columbia Electric Company will spend $75,000,000 on 1955 expansion.

Alberta: Northwest Pulp and Power Ltd., has a $30,000,000 pulp plant underway at Hinton. The Alberta Gas Trunk Line, a gathering system for the proposed Transcanada pipe line, plans to spend $55,000,000. Northwest Nitro Chemicals Ltd., plans a $17,000,000 expenditure at Medicine Hat. Edmonton Steel Fabricators plans a $3,500,000 plate mill. The $2,500,000 Edmonton city hall is underway.

Saskatchewan: Potash Company of America is nearing production from a 2,000-foot shaft costing $3,000,000 at Patience lake, near Saskatoon, and plans a $10,000,000 refinery. Spring construction in plant by Saskatchewan Cement Corporation and a $2,000,000 Hoesh Werke steel pipe plant—both at Regina.

MANITOBA PROJECTS

Manitoba: Winnipeg's $15,000,000 post office will be finished in 1957. Canada Cement Company plans to add $2,000,000 to a recently-completed $10,000,000 expansion program. Simpsons-Sears plans a $5,000,000 Winnipeg shopping centre. A 1,500-unit housing development in West Kildonan will cost about $16,000,000.

Ontario: Steel Company of Canada at Hamilton is spending $100,000,000 on expansion and Dominion Foundries and Steel, also at Hamilton, $27,000,000. Mannesan Tube Company is completing a $25,000,000 pipe plant at Sault Ste. Marie. International Nickel will bring into operation a $19,000,000 plant in iron-ore extraction at Copper Cliff, near Sudbury. St. Lawrence Cement Company is building a $27,000,000 cement plant near Picton. Virtually all of Ontario's cities have large building projects.

Quebec: British Aluminum Company plans a $130,000,000 aluminum plant at Baie Comeau. A Canadian Titanium Pigments plant at Varennes will cost nearly $15,000,000. Quebec Hydro Commission is finishing its $225,000,000 power development at Beauharnois, plans several stage there, and further enterprises costing $25,000,000 at various points. Two chemical plants costing $6,000,000 are planned at Valleyfield.

In Montreal a Nun's island bridge will cost $25,000,000. A Canadian National Railways Hotel, now building, is costing $20,000,000. A $50,000,000 Shawinigan power project is estimated at $24,000,000.

New Brunswick: The Beechwood hydro project, now under way, will cost $29,000,000 by the end of 1957 and plans call for $45,000,000 to $50,000,000 by 1960. The Canadian Army's Camp Gagetown is costing a minimum of $50,000,000. Mineral developments will range into many millions of dollars. A $10,000,000 metallurgical and chemical industry a possibility.

Nova Scotia: Imperial Oil's refinery at Imperoyal is costing $20,000,000. Navy expansion underway at Halifax include ocean terminal $3,000,000; dockyard naval station $3,000,000; airport $7,000,000.

Prince Edward Island: Gulf of St. Lawrence fisheries are being extended. Increasing population in Canada and the United States is expected to mean better markets for farm products. Imperial Oil is conducting an oil search.

Newfoundland: Copper deposits are being developed at Tilt cove and Gull lake. Canadian Javelin's railway from Wabush lake iron-ore deposits in Labrador will cost $18,500,000.

Federal System For West Indian Colonies Planned

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The British government Monday unveiled its blueprint for uniting its scattered West Indian colonies into a "flexible" federation.

The plan calls for a federal system, comprising a governor-general, a nominated senate and a house of representatives whose members would be elected by some 3,000,000 persons living in a 1,000-mile chain of sugar, rum, banana and spice islands from Trinidad, off the coast of South America, to Jamaica, just south of Cuba.

The blueprint, issued in the form of three white papers on finance, civil service and judiciary, will be discussed Feb. 7 at a conference of 16 delegates representing the governments of Barbados, Jamaica, Trinidad and the Leeward and Windward islands. Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd will be in the chair.

IDEA IS OLD

The delegates will make "final decisions" on the proposed federation—an idea first raised more than a century ago but blocked by the vastness of the Caribbean sea and the relative isolation of some of the islands.

If and when the federation becomes a reality—possibly in 1957—the West Indies will be loosely bound in a "modest" system roughly patterned after that of Australia. In this form the federal government initially will take the minimum of power and leave as much as possible to the individual units.

"We over here are watching the birth of a new nation across the Atlantic," Sir Hilary Blood, author of the civil service white paper, said recently.

A former colonial official in the West Indies, Sir Hilary visualizes the federation as ultimately evolving into a new dominion within the Commonwealth.

HEIFER GETS AQUATIC ROUND-UP

Rounding up of heifers is something usually related to the wide open spaces, but here the roundup is completely aquatic as police, firemen, coast guardsmen and others join in a successful effort to save a bovine from a plunge in San Francisco Bay. One of 20 being sent to Japanese farms, the heifer was being taken aboard a freighter but wriggled loose and went overboard.

Queen Honors Mystery Writer, Ballerina, Opera Manager in Largest List in Many Years

By EDWIN SHANKE

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth Monday honored ballerina Margot Fonteyn, mystery writer Agatha Christie and Rudolf Bing, manager of New York's Metropolitan Opera, for spreading British artistic accomplishments to all parts of the world.

The 29-year-old queen also gave recognition to Sir Osbert Sitwell, member of the world-famed literary family, Shakespearean actor Paul Scofield, and historian Miss Cicely Veronica Wedgwood in her New Year's honors list.

She created four new barons and handed out a host of knighthoods and lesser accolades for services in a wide field of endeavor. The honors reflected the Queen's great interest in encouraging the arts, science and sports.

NAMED CBE

Dr. Lawrence Plewes, formerly of Toronto and now consulting orthopedic surgeon at Luton and Dunstable Hospital, England, was named a Commander of the British Empire.

The Queen's commendation for valuable service in the air went to Flt. Lt. Gordon Price of Montreal.

Gordon Bowen, senior United Kingdom trade commissioner in Ottawa, received the companionship of the Order of Saint Michael and Saint George.

Outstanding among honors conferred upon women was that of a dame commander of the Order of the British Empire—equivalent to 36-year-old Miss Fonteyn. She is the wife of Dr. Roberto Arias, Panama ambassador to London, and prima ballerina of the Sadler's Wells Company.

Bing, artistic director of the Edinburgh Festival and general manager of the Glyndebourne Opera here before going to New York in 1935, became a Commander of the British Empire "for services to music."

SIMILARLY HONORED

Similar awards went to Miss Christie, Miss Wedgwood, Sir Osbert, 63-year-old poet, essayist, novelist and short story writer, and Scofield, 33, who recently played Hamlet with a British company in Moscow.

Harry Hopman, manager of Australia's Davis Cup tennis team, also received a CBE. Two other Australians, cricketers Ian Johnson, 37, and Keither Miller, 36, were each named a member of the Order of the British Empire.

Dr. Cyril Garbett, Anglican Primate of England and Archbishop of York, was raised to the peerage, but he died Saturday before the honors list became public. He was told a week earlier that he was to become a baron but his death nullifies the appointment.

Three others made baron were: Col. John Jacob Astor, 69, chairman of The Times of London and member of the famed Anglo-American Astor family; Sir Francis Raymond Evershed, 58, member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague; Sir Frederick Godber, 67, chairman and managing director of the Shell Transport and Trading Co. Ltd.

WIDE DISTRIBUTION

The Queen distributed recognition widely—among men of high position, benefactors to fellow men and simple workmen.

Group Capt. Douglas Bader, legless air hero of the Second World War, was awarded the CBE for inspiring other handicapped persons to overcome their disabilities. Charles Howard, an ex-merchant navy radio operator who allowed himself to be bitten 770 times by infected mosquitoes during three days in malaria research, became an MBE.

RECORD VEHICLE EXPORT

LONDON (Reuters)—The British Motor Corporation exported more vehicles in 1955 than any other manufacturer in the world, shipping 200,000 with a total value of $75,000,000, Sir Leonard Lord, corporation chairman, announced today.

A DREAM COMES TRUE FOR CANADA'S HARD-OF-HEARING...

NOW! A tiny, light, full-powered hearing aid ...only $50 complete!

A FINEST-QUALITY, 4-TRANSISTOR ZENITH

Amazingly small, compact, efficient . . . backed by an ironclad guarantee of full satisfaction . . . yet selling for less than one-fourth the price of many comparable brands!

Ever since the miraculous discovery of tiny but expensive transistors, Zenith and its dealers have shared a dream with Canada's hard-of-hearing.

It seemed an impossible dream. A vision of superlative hearing aid efficiency, clarity, convenience, operating economy—and all at a price so very low that these benefits could be enjoyed by every hard-of-hearing person, in every walk of life.

Today, this "impossible" dream has become a reality! Just imagine . . . a highly efficient, full-powered 4-transistor hearing aid so small it can be worn in a woman's hair, as a brooch, or under a man's necktie. Yet it does not sell for $250 or $300, as do many other makes, but for only $50 complete. This, thanks to Zenith's 36 years of electronic experience and "know-how" plus the willingness of Zenith dealers to accept less profit per sale, in order to bring the security, happiness and opportunities of better hearing within easy reach of all.

Operating costs, too, are amazingly low. Just one tiny dry-cell battery, available everywhere, operates the "50-X" for about 10¢ a week instead of $1.00 to $2.00 a week for vacuum-tube instruments. These savings alone can pay the entire cost of the "50-X" in less than a year!

But that's not all! The Zenith "50-X" is sold with a 10-Day Money-Back Guarantee. If you are not completely satisfied . . . if you do not find that it equals or excels the performance of competitive makes selling for $200 or more, simply return it for full refund. And remember, the $50 price includes everything: High-performance air-conduction earphone, cord, stock earmold, One-Year Warranty and Five-Year Service Plan. Time payments, if you wish. Act now! A hearing aid today is a symbol of progress and intelligence . . . a victory over false pride!

Owing to heavy demand, orders for the Zenith "50-X" will be filled in the sequence received. See your Zenith Dealer now! His name is listed in the classified telephone directory. Or simply send coupon below for free literature and local dealer list.

Your Zenith hearing aid dealer also has four other superb new Zenith transistor models for you to choose from!

Please refer this announcement to a hard-of-hearing friend or relative—it may be the most important news in his life.

SCHOOL HEAD'S MOVE PROTESTED BY RESIDENTS

Lively Controversy Over Cobourg Issue

TORONTO (CP)—William Little, superintendent of the Training School for Boys at Cobourg, was scheduled to move today to the Brampton reformatory amid lively controversy over the transfer.

Many Cobourg residents, including the mayor, council members and industrial leaders, have protested the move. Tuesday night Ontario CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald called the "military-minded approach" of top officials in the Ontario reform institutions "appalling and reactionary, rather than creating the possibility of reclaiming children."

A recent announcement by Reform Minister Cecile Blackburn that institution superintendents were being rotated to widen their experience sparked the current debate.

Mr. MacDonald said in a statement last weekend that at least six staff members of the Cobourg institution have been dismissed in the last two years because they struck boys. More than one has left, he reappointed over Mr. Little's head as a political appointee.

HITS POLICY

Tuesday night he told a CCF study group in Cobourg that personal punishment, banned for a time at the institution, under a department policy was out-dated.

"It simply documents the fact that the Ontario members of our department of reform institutions are living in the past," he said.

"Cobourg is a shocking proof of this. The situation went from bad to worse with staff members resigning boys.

"It created a point of crisis when one lad at Cobourg banged himself a year ago last spring. Difficulties in coping with the situation were compounded when dismissed staff members were on occasion reappointed over the superintendent's head because they were politically active."

MINISTER DENIES...

Mr. Foote denied these suggestions.

"I have never used political influence in the selection of personnel to appoint anybody," he said.

Mr. Foote said no action would be taken on the Cobourg-Peterborough resolution to Premier Frost, which was passed Tuesday night.

Mr. Foote said he has asked the superintendent at Cobourg to review the case of a former guard who had resigned after he had strapped a boy without authority. The man was rehired by the department and placed on the staff of the school, but did not deal with boys, he said.

"But in this case what I do in all cases, I asked the superintendent, Whitney Little, to review the whole case. The superintendent recommended that he be taken back and I have been told he is a good man for the right job."

Mr. Foote said the guards were dismissed because they punished boys without permission. He decided, however, that they were rehired.

Eden Is Advised to Supply 'Guts of Leadership' or Quit

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden's waning prestige with the Conservative press hit a new low today when The Daily Sketch advised him either to supply the "guts of leadership" or quit.

The tabloid strongly supported Eden and his party in the national election only eight months ago. Today, in a front-page editorial, it accused him of "feebleness and fumbling" toward foreign policy problems and inflation.

"If he does not tackle inflation, his days in Downing Street are numbered," the Daily Sketch declared, adding that members of Eden's own party were saying, "If he cannot make up his mind to govern, let him make up his mind to go."

In later editions The Daily Sketch toned its editorial down considerably but still said the prime minister's critics complain that he "will do nothing and will be is shoved into it, that he drifts rather than makes decisions."

The blast in The Daily Sketch climaxed a week of severe criticism during which even the staunchly Conservative Daily Telegraph and Daily Mail turned on Eden.

The Telegraph said Tuesday that his government "has lost both decisiveness and prestige," and "this is the time for doing and not for what seems excellent—for courage, not for timidity."

The Mail said the government's good name abroad has suffered seriously because of the recent disclosure that surplus British tanks and other weapons had been going to Egypt via Belgium in a series of under-the-counter deals.

The Mail said Britain's loss of prestige in this affair "is the fate which usually attends delay and indecisiveness."

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the opposition Labor party, demanded the recall of Parliament from its holiday recess so the arms disclosures could be debated before Eden and Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd go to Washington at the end of the month.

Eden turned that demand down, but said the government would publish a white paper giving the facts about the previous arms traffic with the Middle East. Earlier this week the government announced that such material could be sold to foreign countries only if they guaranteed that it would not be used for military purposes.

The Labor paper Daily Herald said Eden's refusal to permit a quick debate "lends fresh color to the belief that the government has been concealing facts known to it and has deliberately misled Parliament and the people."

Parliament reassembles on Jan. 17, only days before Eden plans to leave for his conference with Ike Eisenhower. The Herald said the Labor party leadership may force Eden to postpone his trip "by putting down a massive motion as soon as Parliament meets."

Eric Taylor Named Chairman Of Railway Conciliation Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Eric G. Taylor, Toronto industrial relations consultant, today was named chairman of a federal conciliation board to deal with the contract dispute between the railways and 150,000 non-operating employees.

Mr. Taylor will head a three-man board that includes David Lewis, Toronto lawyer who was nominated by the unions, and Paul S. Smith, Montreal lawyer and representative of the companies.

Labor Minister Gregg appointed Mr. Taylor after the company and union board members failed to agree on a chairman.

The board was set up to make recommendations for settlement of a dispute over contract demands of 17 unions for a wage-health-welfare package the equivalent of a pay boost of about 23 cents an hour. Cost of the union proposals is estimated at more than $50,000,000 a year.

The contracts expired Dec. 31. The board is expected to start hearings about mid-January.

Mr. Taylor has taken part as a conciliator and arbitrator in several fields of federal and provincial labor-management relations in the last five years.

Last year, he acted as a special mediation man between the federal government and the railway handlers at the Lakehead and one of the seamen on the Pacific coast. He brought about settlements in both cases.

Commonwealth Needs to Draft Policy on China

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (Reuters)—Sir Leslie Munro, New Zealand's ambassador in Washington and representative at the United Nations, said today that members of the Commonwealth may have to reflect in the coming months on the formation of a common policy on the question whether Communist China should be represented in the United Nations.

Answering questions on his arrival from Washington for an official visit and holiday, he said the recent session of the United Nations Assembly was a historic one, as it saw the admission of 16 new members. But he said the "completely unjustified" rejection of Japan's application for membership was a source of great regret to the New Zealand government.

Find Incendiary Device on Plane

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An army explosives expert said today that a small metal object found aboard a TWA airliner carrying 32 persons at Columbus, Ohio, was "some sort of incendiary device" and that it was "very crude."

Capt. G. A. Sather of the disposal detachment said the object was similar to a shotgun shell in that it had to be set off. No firing device was found in the instrument.

The device was discovered Tuesday afternoon in an aid of the plane by Pilot Lyle Ryan. He kept it with him until he reached Pittsburgh, Pa., where it was given to an airport official. It was then turned over to police, who called in the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Govt. Pays Bill

TORONTO (CP) — An order-in-council has been passed by the Ontario government to cover the cost of 2,472,000 cigarets sent to Ontario troops overseas and to forces in Canada and overseas at Christmas, it was learned today.

A special warrant order required to cover the $21,000 cigaret bill because there is no legislative provision for such an expenditure. The move was described in the order-in-council as "being in aid of the general welfare for the public good."

DOG GETS REPRIEVE

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters) A German police dog, Tosca, sentenced to death by magistrates as being dangerous, was reprieved Tuesday on condition that it "join up" with the British police dog. Its owner had appealed against the sentence.

Today's Chuckle

You've got to hand it to the Income Tax people . . . Otherwise they'll send it back.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The low pressure area which moved into Ontario from the west, stalled over the province Tuesday, be a result light snow persisted across the province throughout the day.

Somewhat colder and drier air has entered southwestern Ontario this morning and will push slowly eastward bringing an end to the precipitation. This colder air will cover all of Ontario by Thursday. Snow is expected to continue over the north country today and under the influence of westerly winds, a few snowflurries are forecast for areas in the lee of open water. A high pressure area, lying over the mid-western states this morning, is moving eastward, and will cause zero skies over most of southern Ontario Thursday.

Settlers Sleep With Rifles by Sides While Death Stalks Riff Mountains

By MICHAEL WEIGALL

OURTZAHR, French Morocco (Northern) — French settlers sleep with their rifles by their sides in a communal dormitory in this part of the Riff mountains, where death stalks at night.

Ourtzahr, a quiet town some 30 miles from Fez, is typical of other small French settlements in the Riff, where a handful of French settlers live in isolated farmsteads, surrounded by warlike natives from the hill.

Moroccan rebels first visited this town only a few days ago and shot a French sentry. The population was awakened by sudden bursts of shots as a rebel band and sentries exchanged automatic rifle fire.

The following day the air was filled with the noise of French jet planes on their way to attack the frontier post of Bab-Marcelo, some 15 miles to the north, where a rebel bands until Tuesday night.

"We presume they can only have come from Spanish Morocco, but it is impossible to have proof. We have not found one document, one dead body."

He said he had dispatched columns to recapture Bab-Marcelo, which can be reached only by a mud-soaked track.

after the night attack. "They watch us during the day, and at night roam the countryside, trying to find weak spots in our defence for the attack."

In Rhagsai, north of here and in sight of the crests of the Riff, the town where the main rebel forces have been detected, the road is under the unceasing surveillance of rifle because of snipers.

Lt.-Col. Eugene Arnal, of one of France's colonial infantry regiments, said: "It is very difficult for us to find out who are and where the rebels are. About 200 attacked Ourtzahr, but we have combed bands of up to 40 are infiltrating through to the south each night.

"We presume they can only have come from Spanish Morocco, but it is impossible to have proof. We have not found one document, one dead body."

He said he had dispatched columns to recapture Bab-Marcelo, which can be reached only by a mud-soaked track.

Faure Renews His Campaign To Lengthen Cabinets' Lives

PARIS (AP)—Facing a new National Assembly even more divided than the last, Premier Edgar Faure today pushed a renewed drive for a system to extend the life span of France's cabinets.

Monday's vote badly weakened the moderate center party which in various coalitions have supported Faure and France's other premiers since 1947.

The big gainers were the Communists and Poujadists, whose elections so far have refused to work—and a new party of small shopkeepers elected on a promise to "throw the rascals out."

The leader, Pierre Poujade, hinted Tuesday he might be ready to support Faure, but it is still too early for that move to show any results. Poujade made plain, however, that he wants nothing to do with the premier's rival for leadership of the assembly's divided moderate majority—Pierre Mendes-France.

Faure said in a radio broadcast that the hostility to Parliament—he probably had Poujade in mind—was the result of France's frequent cabinet changes.

"That is why," he added, "the results of the elections absolutely confirm my view that we must get a long period even for the less ambitious."

Faure has proposed that if the Assembly votes out a cabinet within two years it must go back to the voters for a new mandate. Whether a majority can be found in the new assembly to change the constitution is another question.

Faure's proposal got out-feeling support from former premier Paul Reynaud. The same idea was put into the party Jacques Chaban-Delmas, who is close to Mendes-France and served in his cabinet.

Squeezed between the Communist and Poujadist parties, the middle-of-the-road groups are under pressure to make up their differences for the sake of survival. Whether they can forget all the bitter things said in the campaign now only becomes apparent after Jan. 19, when the new assembly meets and starts to organize.

Consumer Price Index Unchanged During November

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index remained unchanged at 116.9 during November for the second consecutive month as a decline in food prices offset rises in other cost-of-living items.

It was the longest period of stability in more than a year, a bureau of statistics report said today. The cost-of-living yardstick is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

During November prices declined for eggs, fruit, cuts of beef and pork, offsetting rises for oranges and practically all fresh vegetables.

Rents and home-ownership costs also rose slightly along with women's fur coats; coal, laundry, dry cleaning and shoe repairs. Costs of household supplies and floor coverings declined.

Wholesale prices for December showed mixed trends. The industrial materials index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, rose to 245 on Dec. 23 from 242.2 on Nov. 25. The Canadian farm products index, also based on 1935-39 prices, declined however to 197.2 from 198.

Three 'Quads' Die

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Three of the quadruplet girls born prematurely Monday died Tuesday in Lancaster General Hospital and the surviving quad, reported previously as being in "good" condition, was listed as in critical.

The surviving quad is Norman Charles Hobenwarter, the first born of the five children weighing a total of 14 pounds 7 ounces.

Couple Killed In Head-on Crash Near London

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A man and a woman driving from Port Credit to Detroit were killed Tuesday night in a head-on collision with a transport truck on Highway 2 about a mile west of Ilderton.

Provincial police identified the victims as Joseph Mannell, 44, and Mrs. Gladys Hughes, 45, of Port Credit.

The couple was killed when their westbound car smashed head-on into an eastbound Smith Transport truck. The truck driver, Alex Wright of London, received head and facial lacerations when he crashed through the windshield of his truck.

Police quoted Wright as saying that the car, believed driven by Mannell, pulled out from the westbound lane to pass another vehicle. Wright said he applied the brakes but skidded into the front end of the car.

The bodies were identified at Victoria Hospital by the woman's two sons, Donald and Kenneth Hughes. They were called by police at Port Credit.

Lady Churchill Is in Hospital

LONDON (AP)—Lady Churchill has entered a London hospital for an examination, hospital officials announced today.

Lady Churchill, who will be 70 next month, was ordered to rest for several weeks after she had her treatment for neuritis at Aix-les-Bains, France, last year.

PARLIAMENT WILL BE ASKED FOR HIGHWAYS BOOST

Money Will Be Used For Gap-Closing

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament will be asked early in the new session to boost the federal maximum outlay for the 4,300-mile trans-Canada highway by $100,000,000.

The new figure of $250,000,000 will permit federal shouldering of 90 per cent of the cost of up to 10 per cent of the highway mileage in provinces where gap-closing operations are necessary to finish the coast-to-coast road.

Works Minister Winters made the announcement Tuesday in a year-end review of highway work begun in 1950 under a federal-provincial agreement for a 50-50 split of costs.

Costs of mileage other than for approved gap-closing operations will continue to be split 50-50.

The minister said Canadians can be proud and thankful for full co-operation with the provinces to get it finished. To take advantage of the 90 per cent federal offer provinces must undertake to keep their construction moving on an average to complete construction of a "good quality" road along the route by Dec. 31, 1961.

GIVES ROAD REPORT

Mr. Winters reported that despite bad weather there had been progress on the St. John's, Nfld., to-Victoria road from Labrador.

He said that of the total 4,580 miles, 2,583 miles or 56 per cent of the trans-Canada standard calling for 22-to-24-foot wide pavement with 10 foot shoulders on each side.

On 1,727 miles of the route there is as yet no paving and on 270 miles of the route there is no highway at all—between Gambo and Grenfell in Newfoundland and between Chapleau and Marathon in Ontario.

To date the federal government has committed $170,000,000 for trans-Canada work and has actually paid $73,600,205 of this to the provinces which do the construction work.

Negro Soldier Given 199 Years On Murder Count

CHICAGO (AP)—A young army private who admitted that he raped and strangled a girl as part of an anti-aircraft unit party in a southside park was sentenced Tuesday to 199 years in prison.

Judge Thomas E. Kluczynski sentenced Henry Matthews, 18-year-old Negro soldier, after his plea of guilty in a murder charge.

Matthews told the court that he had strangled Joanne Pushis, 17, a white girl, in a park in July. He said he hurried into a clump of bushes, where her body was found four days later by two boys chasing a rabbit.

Montreal Policewoman Baited Trap Sending Self-Styled Artist to Prison

MONTREAL (CP) — An undercover policewoman baited the trap for Mana Pardeshian, 25, self-styled New York artist who was sentenced to two years in penitentiary Tuesday for marijuana trafficking.

Police said that after Pardeshian, Mrs. Lipinsky, N. J., of Comanche Indian blood, was arrested she invited them newspaper clippings naming him as a witness in the Mickey Jelke morals trial last year.

They said that at various times he had given Jelke's name as Emmanual Trujillo and eight other names. He entered Canada illegally from New York City six months ago.

RCMP credited clever undercover work by Montreal city policewoman Mary Dee Jones with getting proof in the case when she posed as a corrupt cop willing to take bribes.

Pardeshian, along with John Spiring Lipinsky, 31, and George Karnetf, 34, of Montreal, were arrested last Friday night as they prepared to leave for New York with Miss Elm, in her car.

Pardeshian was accused of conspiring with Alpinsky and Karnetf, who was described as a former private detective, to traffic in marijuana cigarets between Dec. 9 and 31 and also charged with trafficking in the drug between mid-December date.

Alpinsky and Karnetf pleaded not guilty to similar charges before Judge Rene Thebergе last Thursday and were ordered held for preliminary hearing Jan. 5. The court then ruled Alpinsky had served 10 years for robbery and had been a member of the Dyspres gang in Chicago. Recently employed by the Atlas Detective School, he was arrested for theft and robbery.

Pardeshian pleaded guilty against the advice of his counsel, Myer Gross, and after sentence was passed he asked Judge Willie Proulx whether it could be appealed.

"Go ahead," said the judge. "I've been as lenient as possible by giving you two years. But you'd charge it to five."

Evidence showed Miss Elm managed to buy some 400 of the illicit cigarets from the three accused.

Mother And Two Of Four Children Burned To Death

Morning Blaze Destroys Williamsburg Home

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WILLIAMSBURG, Ont. (CP)—A raging fire that swiftly levelled a two-storey frame home here early today took the lives of a mother and two of her four children shortly after the father left to do the farm chores.

Dead are Mrs. Weldon Beckstead, about 47; her daughter Donna, 13, and son, John, 8.

Two other daughters escaped through a ground-floor door, but were burned as they fled and were taken to hospital in Winchester, Ont., 10 miles south of this village and about 35 miles south of Ottawa.

Constable H. Myers of the nearby Morrisburg provincial police detachment said he believes the fire started from a kitchen stove.

FATHER COLLAPSES

The father also was taken to hospital suffering from shock. He had just risen early, lit the stove and gone out to farm buildings nearby to care for the livestock. He returned to find his house in flames. He was restrained from re-entering his blazing home and then collapsed from shock.

Dr. D. M. Robertson, of Williamsburg, who drove the survivors to hospital, said both surviving daughters suffered first and second degree burns to their hands. Constable Myers also suffered burns and 17-year-old Betty's back was burned.

The doctor said their condition is satisfactory.

A neighbor, Dave Shaw, said he looked out his window and saw flames coming from the Beckstead house at 6:15 a. m.

Volunteers and fire departments from nearby Chesterville, Morrisburg and Iroquois in this St. Lawrence river area were called to fight the blaze. But Chesterville fire chief Wallace Guay said the house was an inferno by the time he and a crew of seven men with a pumper arrived about 7 o'clock.

NO WATER SYSTEM

He said the pumper could not be used because the Williamsburg village has no water system, only wells. Every bucket brigade was formed to keep the fire from spreading to nearby buildings.

Harold Algar, one of the first Williamsburg residents on the scene, said the two surviving girls apparently forced open a window on the second floor and jumped to safety from it. He said flames were shooting from the second storey when he arrived about 6:30.

The house was reduced to ashes. The last body, the mother's, was removed from the ruins about two hours after the fire was spotted. All three bodies were found in the blackened rubble.

Premier Frost To Investigate School Dispute

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says Premier Frost personally will head an investigation into charges of political intervention in the Cobourg training school for boys.

The newspaper quotes the premier as saying today he will investigate "all aspects" of the situation.

The premier, in Ottawa on business, said he intends to return to Toronto Friday. His first action would be to study a petition from Cobourg residents protesting the transfer of superintendent William Little to Brampton reformatory. He also could confer with Reforms Minister John Foote.

The controversy started last Friday when Ontario CCF leader Donald MacDonald said that employees of training schools have been dismissed over the heads of superintendents after being fired for striking boys.

ASKS FOR REVIEW

Mr. Foote said Tuesday he had asked Mr. Little to review the case of one discharged guard.

The Telegram says the guard, Walter Smith, was fired for hitting a boy.

The Telegram quotes Mr. Frost as saying he considers Mr. Little's transfer a promotion because he is "known in business as "the ace of all the institutions."

The paper says it has learned little choice was given Mr. Little when guard Smith's application to be reinstated appeared.

A farewell party was given Mr. Little at the training school for boys at Cobourg Tuesday night and he was presented with a wrist watch.

He made no statement regarding the dispute, saying only he will "do the best I can at Brampton."

ASKED TO RESIGN

The newspaper says Mr. Smith was asked to resign if he wanted to stay by the superintendent when found strapping boys with his belt in a washroom.

Mr. Smith, 45, was quoted as saying at his dismissal Mrs. Foote developed when the cabinet minister was minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian church in Port Hope.

"I sometimes think maybe I shouldn't have come to this second time," he said. "But to me the work with boys is something like missionary work."

He said he had strapped boys because they fought. He says he in their conduct.

"I leaned over backwards with them, tried everything but I had to show them who was boss. It was for their own good," he said.

Reformatory Teacher Killed

TORONTO (CP)—James Fressell, an instructor at the Ontario reformatory at Brampton, was killed today when he ran off collision with a truck on highway 10 at nearby Cooksville.

Provincial Cherwaiko, 21, driver of the truck and Rino Longo, 27, a passenger, escaped with minor injuries. Both are residents of Port Credit.

500 Motorists Secure Licences On First Day

Motor vehicle licences and operators' permits for 1956 were on sale throughout Ontario yesterday with hardly a Fred, Fi Symonds Front street reporting a ready sale. "Close to 500 motorists secured their licences on the first day." Mr. Symons said.

Licence issuers in nearby centres also reported business brisk.

The tab for motor vehicle licences is up this year with the highways department last fall announcing an increase for all makers for cars, trucks and trailers.

For the average motorist the increase ranges from three to six dollars. Six cylinder autos with up to 25 horsepower will cost $10 instead of $7, while six cylinder cars with over 25 horsepower will cost $14 instead of $10.

Owners with eight cylinder cars will have to pay out either $14 or $31 for licence renewal, according to their horsepower rating. The tab for later model four cylinder cars is $7.

Mr. Symons noted there was not too much complaining from motorists about the increased fees. Truck owners were finding the renewal tab a bit more difficult as fees for the heavier units had seen steeper increases.

City Squirrels Muscle-in On Birds' Food Supplies

Is there a shortage of food in squirreldom, or are the hungry tailed nutcrackers merely seeking a change of diet?

Regardless of the answer, the squirrels are hijacking the food loosed out for the birds by thoughtful citizens.

After all, a steady diet of roast nuts, sauté'd nuts, fried nuts, boiled nuts, fricasseed nuts, and nuts on the half-shell can get monotonous. Maybap they had fruit cake for Christmas too.

In that part of the city where this reporter dwells, the squirrels have been munching away at the bird food supply practically all winter. Residents of other parts of the village report the same quiet action.

That bread and other tidbits tossed out on snowy lawns are strictly for the birds is smirked off by the furcoated diet-seekers.

It would appear their appetites are satiated by the high-set instincts of self-preservation.

There is nothing smug nor secretive about them. They quietly descend from tree-limits apartments, amble nimbly across lawns and gardens and gorge themselves on crusts and other tidbits. A few seem to prefer their diet toasted. The snow, they take for butter or for worse. Hm-m-m!

It would seem that there is nothing ferocious about the squirrels' actions. They do not want war. The more gentlemanly kind wait until the birds have had their fill, then quietly serve in and commandeer what's left.

Is there a large family of the fur-coated minions on Campbell Street, between Church and Pinnacle? You can see at least a half-dozen any time you drop by. Some of them are quite large, and bone too fat. But at least they observe the city laws. They do not park their cars there any time of the day or night. And they cannot even read.

Most of the neighbors are kind-hearted-and do not mind contributing to the squirrels' open-air snack bar. But a lady-friend from another part of the town was not enthusiastic.

He does not like squirrels. He thinks they're nuts. And says so.

He does not care if the squirrel panties are loose or if it seemed last year was a poor year for squirrel-nuts.

"What have you got against squirrels?" he was asked. "They are nice, cute little fur balls." The trouble is they're just hungry, he explained, and the rule is that a crust of your bread feeds a squirrel or a bird.

"I don't like rats," he snorted. "And squirrels are nothing but rats with a fur coat and a bushy tail. Before I bought my wife a fur coat for Christmas I used to think that it ain't the mink I said it was. Seeing the squirrels have been shying away from her."

Well, that squirrels have to eat, don't they?"

"Why!" he asked.

Western Canada appears to be favored by the weatherman during the next few weeks. Above-normal temperatures will prevail there, according to the long-range forecast, but Eastern Canada is promised lower temperatures and greater than average snowfall.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in fairly active first-hour stock market trading today. Industrials moved in a range of about two points while in the mining and western oil sections, changes seldom went beyond a few pennies. Volume at 11 a. m. was 1,134,000 shares against 1,399,000 Tuesday.

Selected refining oils, steels, constructions, liquors, financial institutions and utilities were in demand. Motors were a little softer while almost all the traded papers declined.

Algoma Steel added $1 to Tuesday's gains.

Senior base metals were mostly quiet. Senior golds were fractionally lower with McIntyre, Hollinger and Kerr-Addison each off ¼.

Uraniums traded sluggishly. A 10-cent advance by Rixfore at $1.60 was about the biggest change. Calvan moved up 20 cents to $5.50 and Triad 15 to $5.75 in a narrowly mixed western oil section.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was slow on good slaughter steers and heifers at the Ontario stockyards today with prices steady to the week's decline of 50 cents a hundredweight. Lower grade steers and heifers were in narrow demand. Cows were steady with tops in lesser demand while bulls were strong.

Receipts: cattle 328; calves 156; hogs 237; sheep and lambs 65; carryover from Tuesday 2,550 cattle, including good steers and heifers.

Prices: choice steers 19-19.50; goods 18-19; mediums 14-17; common 12-14; good heifers 18.50-19.50; mediums 14-16; commons 12-14; boner steers and heifers 8-12; choice fed yearlings 21-22; goods 20-21; mediums 15-19; good cows 11-12, odd top to 12.50; mediums 9-10.50; canner and cutter down to 6; good heavy bologna bulls strong at 13-13.50; common and medium light bulls down to 9.

Replacement cattle: good stockers 15-17; stock calves to 18; common and medium stockers 14-16.

Calves were fully steady at 28-28 for good vealers with choice to 30.50; mediums 20-27; commons 12-19; grass calves sold for slaughter 9-12.

Hog prices: grade A 23.50, two loads at 24; sows 16 dressed; stags 13 dressed.

Lambs steady at 21 for good handyweight ewes and wethers; bucks recommended 1 a hundredweight, heavy lambs 2. Common and medium lambs 19-21; good light sheep 10 with common and heavy sheep down to 3.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was weak with offerings in excess of a poor demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 47; A medium 47; A small 42; B 40; C 36. Wholesale to retail: A large 52; A medium 52; A small 47; B 45; C 41.

Butter solids: Canada, first grade, Ontario 58½; western 58½; one carlot of Ontario, 40-score butter at 58%.

DOLLAR RATE

NEW YORK (CP) — The Canadian dollar was 1-32 higher at a premium of 3-32 per cent in terms of U. S. funds today. Pound sterling up 1-16 of a cent at 32.80 7-16.

Free Bus Rides Company's Plan To Boost Revenue

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle transit system, plagued with higher and higher costs and fewer and fewer customers, hopes to increase its revenue by giving away rides—with morning or afternoon newspapers thrown in free, too.

Hoping to stimulate fares, the transit commission, which operates the publicly owned system, will put a free bus in service next Tuesday. It will be one of a hundred new "air-ride" coaches purchased by the system.

Anyone will be able to board the conspicuously marked bus without paying a fare from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. The catch will be that the bus will take a different route each day. Those who board it will save a 20-cent fare.

Tongay Again Tries to Escape

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Russell Tongay, 37-year-old Miamian serving a 10-year sentence in the diving death of his daughter, jumped from a passenger train Tuesday night. He was caught 45 minutes later.

Tongay had escaped in New Orleans last November by mixing with customers in a restaurant while a guard was paying a cheque. He later surrendered in Los Angeles.

He was being returned to Florida from California when he broke from guards on the train and led officers through a downtown chase.

Tongay, convicted two years ago in the death of his daughter Kathy, was put in solitary confinement until his trip back to the Florida state prison is resumed tonight.

His daughter died of injuries received in a 25-foot dive while training for an "aquatot" show.

Eisenhower Has Plan to Cut Surpluses

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says President Eisenhower will send to Congress on Monday a new plan designed to cut by as much as 30 per cent the big surplus producing United States crops of corn, wheat, cotton and rice.

A Washington dispatch to the newspaper adds that the plan would permit the government to reward farmers in cash or in kind for reducing their already allotted acres of the four crops.

The plan would work this way: A farmer who voluntarily co-operated with the government by cutting his allotted acres would be given two choices. He could take a government certificate which he could turn into cash, or he could receive from the government's surplus stocks a quantity of the kind of crop he grew and dispose of it as he saw fit.

Four Charged In Stock Swindle

MONTREAL (CP) — Three Montrealers and a Torontonian, charged with conspiracy and a $315,000 stock-promotion bilking of United States citizens in 1954, were indicted Tuesday and allowed combined bail until Feb. 1.

New hall will be set then.

The preferred indictment was signed by Premier Duplessis in his capacity as Quebec attorney-general and removes the necessity of preliminary hearing for three of the defendants. They are Lou Wyman, 55, and Harry Green, 56, Montreal, and George F. Caldough, 30, Toronto.

The fourth accused, Walter H. Hale, 29, Montreal, already has faced preliminary hearing and was committed for trial on counts involving $15,000.

The complaint alleges that some 200 Americans were swindled over a period of several months in 1954 as result of written and telephoned information about nine stocks, reaching them from Montreal.

Charges Withdrawn

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Seven charges of fraud against Gilbert Tellier, 49, of Kitchener, were withdrawn Tuesday when the court learned full restitution had been made.

He was charged after seven district citizens complained to police they had Tellier substantial payment for aluminum cooking ware, but had not received delivery.

MANHOLE EXPLODES

NEW YORK (AP)—A manhole blew up with a puff of flame Tuesday two feet from a Broadway bus loading and unloading passengers. Seven persons were slightly injured. Clyde Bronson, 44, was standing on the manhole cover when the blast flung him five feet into the air. Gas workers began an investigation.

WHY DIDN'T SOMEBODY THINK OF THIS BEFORE?

Jack Scott, columnist for the Vancouver Sun, has invited teen-agers to submit their opinions on the subject of hoodlums or delinquents.

His invitation is the outgrowth of a letter he received from a teen-ager describing an embarrassing experience. This teen-ager and a dozen other boys and girls were walking down a suburban street when they were met by two middle-aged men walking on the opposite direction. The teen-agers got to one side to let the men pass. Instead the men stepped off the sidewalk into the road and made cutting remarks about "hoodlums" and "delinquents." Their language "certainly shocked the girls who were with us," the teen-ager said in his letter to Scott.

The teen-ager complained to Scott that "most of us feel that we are being judged unfairly as a group by the actions of a few troublemakers. It has got so that if you are a teen-ager you are automatically a suspicious character. What I want to know is how can that is encourages younger people to accept responsibilities."

The young people in this instance were certainly being unfairly judged. They were making the rounds singing Christmas carols to raise money for the March of Dimes. When the men called them hoodlums and delinquents they were on their way to a nursing home for elderly people to entertain the inmates.

Scott declares that he believes the teen-ager who wrote to him "has put his finger on a very real danger of the publicity given juvenile crime, especially the recent suggestions and articles on stricter disciplinarian measures. As the parent of a teen-ager and thus acquainted with many of them, I'm alarmed at the distorted picture we get in newspapers. Other

We are in danger of forgetting, says Scott, that "most of them (teen-agers) deserve our trust and confidence."

This is certainly something that should be backed up by more evidence on what turns a teen-ager into a hoodlum.

We have all read reams of explanations from so-called experts, but Scott thinks that we have overlooked one of the most reliable sources of information.

"I'd like to know what they (teen-agers) think makes a hoodlum, especially those who come from middle class homes where there is no economic problem," he writes. "Do they think it's the fault of parents or the schools? Do they think there's any relationship between the problem and the so call social drinking by adults?

"I'd like to hear from you younger people because I think you may know more about it than we adults do."

Who can dispute the probable accuracy of that last sentence? Once the suggestion is advanced it appears so simple and so logical. Do we not all know the problems and the conditions and the thinking of our contemporaries better than we understand those of other generations, preceding or following us?

How could we have overlooked this invaluable source of information on the cause of delinquency? It is to be that Scott—and the teen-ager who wrote to him—are right, that we have subconsciously lumped together all teen-agers and classified them as delinquents, whose opinions on the cause of delinquency would be biased?

There is only one happy feature to the situation outlined in the teen-ager's protest. He and others in his age group are learning first hand of the dangers inherent in any tendency to judge all in a group—any type of a group—by the actions of a few. If this makes them careful about passing rash judgments themselves, they will be better equipped for their future tasks as men and women.

100 KILLED EVERY DAY

When a plane splatters on a mountain, blotting out the lives of a score of persons, almost every paper in the United States announces the tragedy with screaming headlines.

If a passenger plane crashed every day for a week, airline traffic would almost certainly be halted.

Yet a score of lives were lost every day for a year in plane accidents, the toll would only be a fifth of the deaths which occur on U.S. highways.

When records are completed for 1955, it is expected that the U.S. National Safety Council that they will reveal 38,500 deaths.

Much the same story is true of Canada.

The appalling toll fails to arouse public to attract the attention it deserves is that the total is not the result of a few spectacular accidents, but is made up of a death here, another there, a couple more at a neighboring town, throughout the length and breadth of the nation, every day of the year.

AIRBORNE INFANTRYMEN

Wonder how the fool-sloggers of World War One took that story of Washington this week. Now, hardened to action that the infantryman of the future may be equipped with his own private plane to carry him swiftly into battle?

This is getting out of the trenches with a vengeance.

The infantryman's role changed considerably during the Second Great War. Often he rode into battle on tanks. In spite of panzer units, he remained the queen of battles. What is the glamorous paratrooper but an infantryman with a balloon attached?

The future may see infantrymen flitting through the clouds on their aero-cycles. One thing, though, will almost certainly remain unchanged. They will still call themselves "PBI and will be convinced that they are all the dirtiest jobs—and will be proud of the fact. What is more, they will probably be right!

CHILDREN

The sweetest things that grow
Are children.
The finest friends to all this earth,
I care not what a man is worth,
A constant source of joy and mirth
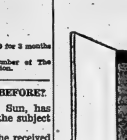
Are children.



The truest comrades here
Are children.
Of all, the most sincere
Are children.

The blindest to our faults, I swear,
The surest of our treasures rare,
The only joys beyond compare
Are children.

A source of innocence
Are children.
Of faith
Are children.
Fountains of pure delight,
Brighter than sunbeams bright,
Stars in life's sky of night
Are children.

Muscles Are Strange Jelly

(Readers Digest)

When a dog wags its tail, a baby toddles across the floor, or you scratch your nose, the process is more complex than the workings of a hydrogen bomb. All are examples of muscular contraction — so commonplace and yet so mysterious that it has baffled the most gifted scientists.

Writing of the "miracle of muscle" in Life, Time says that more than half of the human body is muscles. From birth to death, muscle plays a vital part in all we do.

We speak of "muscles of iron." Yet the working element in muscle is a soft jelly. How this jelly contracts to lift 1000 times its own weight is one of the miracles of the universe.

There are three types of human muscle: the muscles of motion such as those which enable us when we walk; the "smooth" muscles which control such involuntary actions as digestion: and the type of muscle found in the heart. All types are "startlingly efficient," Time says. Reader's Digest for converting chemical energy into mechanical energy (work).

No book of the hundreds written on muscles is more fascinating fully the process by which muscles contracts and relax, than that by Dr. Szent-Gyorgyi, Nobel Prize-winner and authority on muscle has come down to earth. "Living" tissue in the laboratory by mixing proteins and water, and a droplet of adenosine triphosphate ATP), a substance which is the body's chief source of energy. Then he shot of ATP a violent contraction of the protein threads in the mixture. The scientist is the first to admit that "We have the picture of this deep mystery of life only in its broadest outline."

Experiments, like Dr. Szent-Gyorgyi's may open a new frontier of attack on some of mankind's worst ills, the Digest says, and may even lead to longer life.

The article says the muscles should be exercised, but they should be rested too. One should not wait until they are wrecked before giving muscles the care and consideration they deserve. For, to a great decree, we are what our muscles make us. We are well, vigorous or droopy, alive or dead.

Way to Solve Pork Surplus Problem

(Baltimore Sun)

Secretary of Agriculture, Benson seems to be in quandary as to what to do with the amount of pork which will be produced. He says he would like to suggest to his bonehide gentleman a way to recipe the situation. It has been common knowledge among buyers of canned hams that the best beats give us a little relif and render a patriotic favor by inserting less beans and more hams in the can.

If this objective could be reached, the Secretary says, the situation would take a turn for the better, thereby helping economically all citizens concerned.

Say Exercise Imperative

(Detroit Free Press)

To exercise or not to exercise. That is the question former star and sub athletes have been asking themselves ever since their playing and experience when it took a week to recover from a workout of what used to be play?

For the past few years, the advice from doctors has been to take it easy and live longer. It was a swell excuse for bowing out of an extra set of tennis, round of golf, or chore around the house.

Now three New York University doctors report that lack of exercise increases a man's chances of getting heart trouble, diabetes, backaches, stiff neck and other sundry ailments.

"It is imperative," they told an American Medical Association audience, "to increase physical activity from early childhood through old age."

There is no escape. The treadmill never stops. It's either backache from exercise or from lack of it. Anyone for twiddly-winks?

Corn Makes World Go

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

We have always maintained that "corn," whether you feel superior to it or not, was what made the world go round. Now, bolstered with some interesting facts from the Corn Industries Research Foundation, Inc., of New York, we find ourselves on even sounder ground.

One eats corn, of course, but it has many other uses. Corn starch is an ingredient of dynamite; it's used in making asbestos, flashlight batteries, the casting cylinder heads, in making the inner fabric of tires, in making an oil well, in sizing, in making aluminum, in some tax forms, shotgun shells, paperboard containers, plywood, wallboard, some coldwater paints.

It's used in corn syrup, leather tanning, in some dyes and inks, in some chewing and smoking tobacco.

Incidentally, the 1953 corn crop in the United States is computed at nearly 3,200,000,000 bushels, quite a far cry from the few bushels which were harvested in Plymouth Colony in 1621.

Corn — never discount it — we'd be lost without it.

Every city in the country has two countries seeking — one to improve the sewer, streets and water facilities on the one hand; they can serve the present population, and the other to make the city twice as big.

Skater Turns Earth to Sky

(Christian Science Monitor)

There was a time when the nearest a human being could come to flying was to skate.

For most of us that may still be the thousands of young pride the air at any given moment, lifted over continent and ocean by airplane, but some harshly feet more exhilaration than taking a bus ride. Perhaps one must pilot a plane to enjoy the sense of flying as birds fly.

Relatively few can do that. But take a walk in the winter countryside or beside city lakes and ponds Count if you can the modern Merchants whose wings sprout from heel to toe — steel wings but with as sympathetic a wind in them as ever wafted a feathery rider.

Some 200 centuries ago Leonardo da Vinci drew those batlike designs for an airplane people were already a-wing over the ice, as the 12th-century Japanese and Chinese. The Dutch, the Scandinavians, the Finns appear in the vanguard of the evolution of these days.

Today skating, plain and fancy, is a very international affair, with elegant bodies refining lines and esthetic authorities setting examples for style.

Doctors and encyclopedia declares that speed skating is the "fastest sport on earth, using every muscle in his own power." He gets up to 30 miles an hour out of a pair of good skates, and (in a very real common sense also the left) feet. And he gets much fun, mixed with mathematics — at least figure eights — and even operetta to the musical tunes of the skaters bodies.

But surely one of the keenest delights of skating is the sense of having transformed one — the earth into sky. Even the skier, who has the thrill of flying, lifts and soars out from the great ski jump, must come down. But the skater seems to just keep flying — barring a careless encounter with another one — on, on, on and up.

President Gets Gifts

(St. Thomas Times-Journal

Since President Eisenhower left his farm at Gettysburg he has been showered with gifts that in the aggregate amount to a considerable sum.

Recently he accepted a gift of a thoroughbred Guernsey cow, a cattle, a tractor valued at $4,000, a putting green which was laid on the White House lawn, a doghouse with a cow-stalling horn to run the farm for a year, a pet goat and hen in which his grandchildren go riding; while other gifts include 40 Norway spruce trees, a fishing tackle den with a serpentine wall and a greenhouse.

There are farm tools of many kinds, all gifts from individuals or organizations. There are also hunting dogs, hunting rifles, pigs, sheep, Shetland ponies and Arabian ponies. There are home decorations inside and outside, some such as expensive silver and furniture, plus innumerable plants, shrubs and trees.

Once the President remarked that he would like to have a pair of likeed peanuts. Nuts of all kinds soon began to show up in every mail delivery to the White House. Mr. Eisenhower later mentioned that he and Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia sent him a brief ton of his special stock.

A refusal of a gift is a good way to lose a friend. Mrs. Eisenhower put it this way recently when the American Feline Society wanted to give the Eisenhowers a cat for the White House. "You have just so much room for pets, even on a farm", a friend explained. "If they start accepting all kinds of cats and dogs, they soon won't have room for the livestock."

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THIRD STEP IN THE NEW YEAR

The third step a Christian believer needs to take as he confronts the year is the step of repentance. It can be said without much fear of contradiction that the greatest lack in the spiritual life of man today is willingness to repent.

We live in the most comfortable age humanity has ever known. We have become so civilized that we boast that we don't seem to be sinners at all. Yet the atomic bomb is the symbolic reminder of what this civilization of ours leads to when we fail to feed into God's consideration. Beneath the smooth exterior of modern life lies as bad as any that have wrecked the soul of mankind in the past.

On this wonderful new continent at least we appear to be about the most powerful, immoral, and willdisposed group of people that ever lived on the earth. But crime is only the spiritual percentage-wise than does the population. Juvenile delinquency is manifested in more horrifying forms than ever before. Intemperance is on the increase. There is no more character we allow ourselves and the barbarism out of which we have been struggling for the past 3000 years.

The human race has never more than one step beyond the clutch of moral catastrophe. Repentance means not only the relinquishing of wrong ways of life, but the laying hold on a new philosophy. Repentance means a change of one's mind regarding a sinful or imperfect way of life.

Ben Told Condemns Concrete Floor

I have been told it is unsafe to live in a home with concrete floors, even if the concrete is covered with asphalt tile. The reason given is that such a floor is cold and damp, and therefore may cause rheumatism.

If this is so, what kind of floor and floor covering would be better from the viewpoint of health? Would the harmful effects which a cold damp floor may produce be prevented if one wore shoes with rubber heels and soles? If one must live in a home with a concrete floor what safeguards would you recommend? (C. H.)

In order to live healthily and comfortably in such a house you should first toss Ben Told, Mrs. Sumner and Saleryagans out the back door into a suitable slush puddle and pitch their earings, breast muffles, chest protectors, belly bands, woolen leggings and rheumatism pills after them. Then dust your hands, slam the door, pick up the paper, relight your pipe, put your feet on the mantel and . . .

It may be that a concrete floor with cellar or an air space under it makes the house, easier to keep warm in winter and cool in summer than would a concrete floor built on the ground.

In either case the kind of floor or floor covering you prefer is as desirable as any other, from the viewpoint of health.

It is a question solely of your personal comfort and convenience as to what kind of floor and heels to wear.

There is no evidence in statistics that chronic joint disability is more likely to affect people who live in the finest climates.

There is no evidence that wearing more clothing than is necessary for comfort makes a person less susceptible to chronic joint disability.

My notion — call it what you like — is that in most cases of joint disability of gradual onset and more than a year's standing, the trouble is not inflammation at all (not arthritis) but physical degeneration of joint tissues. This is what I call rheumatic (not rheumatism, please) and I believe it is due to nutritional deficiency through the years from early childhood through breakfast or dinner today.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DOORWAYS

Doorways have always interested me. I love out-of-the-way, quaint and beautiful New England homes. In the earliest ones I have noted the doorways were planned to be as beautiful as the one entering the home. These early pioneers loved beauty, and when they bought a home they planned to live in it a long time. That's why they were so particular to have things just right.

I love the doorways to those beautiful homes in Natchez, Mississippi. Great, stately mansions, many of them, reflecting the ideas of those who built them during the pre-war homes. A visit to Natchez in the early Spring of each year is an event for me. I love to visit our cathedrals and public buildings are always impressive. I love to see them open!

I have often wondered why so much money has been spent on these great doorways of ours, but when you see them you realize their beauty and hope they will last a thousand years or more! But the latest thing about doorways is that they lead to the various rooms of our home where all our dreams materialize, as well as sorrows, have entered.

We have our favorite spots in a home. Mine is my library. I share with Conan Doyle the title of one of his books. It's that and can be he named "Through the Magic Door". The room you entered was his library. It wasn't magic indeed! To the lover of books that secreted books are the books are kept his sanctuary.

There are doorways to nurseries that bring memories no mother can ever forget. There are doorways to barns and stables and sheds, but only those are notable which inspire and create memories.

Needed Illumination

(Clinton News-Record)

A Clinton lady entered a store to ask for hyacinth bulbs. The young girl clerk looked puzzled. "I don't believe we have any of those but I'll look . . ." and she came back a few moments later with "Sorry, ma'am, we just have G. E."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The main reason why some men are able to amass money is simply that most people don't want it.

There appear to be two main divisions of human kind: those who go after things in order to convert them into money; and those go after money in order to convert it into things.

The first type perceives that money is the handiest and safest form of possession. The other turns his intake of money into possessions as fast as he gets it.

The first works hard to raise cattle, manufacture furniture or collect junk in order to add to their possessions for money. The second words just as hard to make money in order to buy a house, fill it with furniture, buy clothes, set up a television set, turn his motor car in on a better one, install a rumpus room in his cellar.

Fortunately for the first type, the second type is vastly in the majority. A poor man is glad to convert his money into the barest needs of his life. But let him get a little money over and above his needs, and his first instinct is to get rid of it in exchange for any sort of possession that seems to him to improve his lot. This principle applies on all levels of society and between all grades of society, just as though we were all twelve years old everywhere of improving our lot. It is perfectly obvious that the vast majority of people hate to keep money. They want things.

Money, therefore, is very few in number and are steadily becoming fewer. The amassing of money is growing more and more difficult every year. Taxation in various forms makes it hardly worth while to collect large visible quantities of it.

Money is no longer handy or safe. It is too easily taken off us. The only money in which nobody will want money. We will all settle for goods.

A Good Trick

Mrs. A. Dunkley Marks 84th Natal Day

RAWDON—Last Thursday evening the family of Mrs. Albert Dunkley, Stirling R.R. 3, tendered her a delightful party in Glen Miller community hall on the occasion of her 84th birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Dunkley's two sons, Earl of Stirling R.R. 3 and Charles of Campbellford, also five daughters, Myrtle (Mrs. M. Shelters) and Josie (Mrs. J. Seamans), both of Rochester, N.Y.; Mae (Mrs. George Wickens), Trenton; Lowena (Mrs. Fred Taylor), Toronto; and Evelyn (Mrs. Ed Rupert), Glen Miller, with their respective families made a most happy occasion along with friends from Mount Pleasant, Rawdon and Glen Miller.

One daughter, Mabel, who lives in Cincinnati, O., was unable to attend.

25 GRANDCHILDREN

Mrs. Dunkley has 25 grandchildren and 29 great grandchildren. A grandson, Mr. Kenneth Martin, Toronto, and his son, attended the party.

During the evening another grandson, Mr. Douglas Martin of Mount Pleasant, showed several reels of movies which he had taken. These included scenes in the Mount Pleasant community, at Stirling Fair, the Campbellford Santa Claus parade, at Oak Lake, at the cottage near Coe Hill, and several family groups, and all were most interesting.

Miss Jean Sharpe sang "The Bible Tells Me So" with her aunt, Miss Ruth Sharpe, as accompanist.

Mrs. Dunkley received a purse of money from her family and various individual gifts which included handkerchiefs, fancy box of stationery, china cup and saucer, also a large number of greeting cards.

Mr. Fred Taylor of Toronto was in charge of the ceremony when the lovely decorated birthday cake was cut and served. The family enjoyed refreshments and all enjoyed a delightful evening, wishing Mrs. Dunkley several more birthday occasions.

Christmas Concert

POINT ANNE — On Friday evening in the Point Anne Parish Hall, the Anglican Christmas concert was held with a large attendance present.

The chairman and guest speaker for the evening was the Rev. L. Arthur Page. The program was directed and in charge of the Sunday School teachers, Mrs. Charlie Hart, Mrs. George Bellwood, Miss Jacqueline Hill and the pianist Miss Dinah Whitehead.

PROGRAM

Program was as follow: Welcoming everybody by Douglas Bellwood; "Five Little Girls" — Patsy Hart, Brenda Maracle, Nancy Branigan, Pamela Akery, Gloria Green.

"What Have You Brought" by Linda Fraser, Linda Maracle, Penny Hart, Carolyn Chisholm, Nancy Fraser, "Letty Makes a List" by Judy Hull, Peggy Hull, Susanne Insley, "Tap Dance" by Carolyn Chisholm, "Life of the Christmas Party", first act presented by the senior class.

Mrs. Casswood by Louella Sero; Mr. Casswood by Diana Whitehead; Gladys Casswood by Gail Casselman; James Casswood by Margo Insley; Miss Jane by Janet Whitehead; Lillian Brody by Sharon Casselman; Hattie Hill by Donna Loft; Bill Brown by Carolyn Hull; Audrey Pierson by Lloyd Maracle; slippery Dan by Jacky Insley; 1st policeman by Dennis Hull; 2nd. policeman by Dennis Maracle.

"My Letter", by Ricky Insley; "Letter to St. Nick" by Bobby Bellwood; "Life of Christmas Parties", act. "Not For Sale" by Terry Ellis, David Akey; "Life of Christmas Party" 3rd. act, "The Angel of Shanty Town", by Jean Luffman; "Santa and the Mouse" by Elsie Casselman; "Thank You" closing poem by David Le?

After a few brief remarks from Mr. Page, carol singing was then enjoyed by everyone, after which Santa Claus entered and distributed the gifts and treats of Candies, nuts and oranges, which were enjoyed by both young and those not so young.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered all who helped to make the Christmas concert the success it was.

Girl Guide, Brownie News

By OLIVE GEROW

On November 14 we bid a farewell to Barbara Smith, who with her family, has gone to make her home in England for the next two years.

Linda Lennox had the misfortune to break her ankle and all hope she will soon be back again.

The following badge work has been completed:

Cooks, Karrie Lee Meagher, Pioneer's, Karrie Lee Meagher, Pat Miller and Phyllis Walsh.

First Class, Doris Norridge and June McFaul.

Hikers, June McFaul. Stalkers, Glorianne Lipes.

Second Class, Barbara Dyble.

The following Brownies will be flying up to Guides on December 12, Karen Knudsen, Andrea Miller, Pat Matthews, Sally MacGenis.

Gloria Scott, Sharron Yeatland will also be enrolled into Guides.

On November 12 the company leaders had a hike for the Tenderfoots and Second Class Trail, fire and stalking were completed by the Guides working on Second Class Badges.

COMPANY 7—CAPT. SAMUELS

At a "Flying-up" and Enrollment ceremony on December 6, Gail Cox, Linda Jarrell and Marilyn Brown received their wings from Brown Owl Vandervoort of 4th Belleville Pack. Each girl was given the Grand Howl by the Brownies before they "flew" to Guides.

The following girls successfully passed their tenderfoot and were enrolled as Guides: Linda Jarrell, Marilyn Brown, Linda Whaites, Sheila Canning, Carol McGuire, Victoria Wheeler, Jean Rashotte, Sherian Titterson and Josephine Mascoro.

The following badges were presented:

Hiker, Arlene Cox, Roberta McDonald, Joan Colwell and Beth Clark. Stalker and Pioneer, Beth Clark. Woodcraft emblem, Arlene Cox and Beverley Samuels.

At a previous meeting Marlene Moran was enrolled as a Guide.

The Guides' Christmas good deed was gathering toys, which were given to Mr. Cooper for repairs.

Names were drawn for Christmas presents for the Christmas party and closing meeting on December 13.

FIRST, BROWNIE PACK
BROWN OWL BAKINS

We had an interesting meeting November 24th, three of our Brownies were enrolled: Jennifer Bowen, Adel Fry and Bonnie Butler.

We had the O.S.D. children join us for the second time this season. They received a lot of interesting points from our meeting.

Pack 1, which meets at Rednersville church, welcomed seven new Brownies this year: Gail and Gwynne Ward, Sherri Blackmore, Sandra Dempsey and Cheryl Parrington were enrolled in November and Patricia Blackmore and Gail Lightfoot joined by transfer from Trenton and Pack 4 Packs.

FIRST BIRTHDAY

On December 1st this Pack celebrated its first birthday with a pack party and on Christmas eve 20 Brownies spent an enjoyable half hour strolling about the streets of Rednersville singing carols to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and then returned to the school room for supper, after which they attended the Vesper and Candle-lighting service held in the Rednersville United Church by the C.G.I.T.

4TH BELLEVILLE BROWNIES

Brown Owl—R. Vandervoort.

Tawny Owl—I. Barriage.

Brownie Wings

4th Belleville Brownies were happy and proud to assist Co. 7 and Capt. Samuels at a "flying up" ceremony. The Brown Owl was pleased to pin Brownie Wings on three Guides-to-be.

On December 14 at a "Flying-up" ceremony at College Hill United Church, the Brown Owl was proud to pin Brownie Wings on Claudia Durrant, Karen Flindall and Jocelyn Vandervoort, as they flew from 4th Belleville Brownies to Company 3 Guide Co.

On Dec. 20 the 4th Belleville had a Christmas party and a happy time was had by all.

Many thanks to Tawny Owl Barriage and Mrs. J. Darlington.

3RD BELLEVILLE BROWNIES

Tawny Owl: B. Leadley

November 23 — Brown Owl Adams enrolled Betty Bennett, Bonnie Burley, Jean Greer, Nancy Jane Poste, Lynne Richards and Marilyn Hurst.

December 6—Brown Owl Adams enrolled Dianne Grey, Sharon Rogers, Linda Leparde, Patsy Seers, Jean Woodacre, Carol Ann Hawk, Beverley Jones, Barbara Sills and Barbara Woodacre, Christmas Party.

December 20—Christmas party was held, assisted by Guides Barbara Graham, Mary Ann Corke, also Mrs. R. Bateman.

No. 9 ST. JOSEPH'S BROWNIE PACK (November)

We have a happy Pack of hard-working Brownies and they have accomplished a great deal during October and November.

The following Tweenies were enrolled on November 22nd: Lynn Dustan, Alice Hanley, Linda Henderson, Mary Kavanagh, Jennifer O'Connor and Kathleen O'Connor.

Mrs. Robert Park joined our Pack in October as Tawny Owl, and Kerrie Lee Meagher is our Pachle again this year.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Going shopping?

We heard tell last week of a Belleville lady who has already commenced some of her next Christmas gift buying. Maybe she has an economical point, but in any case we were told that she takes advantage of the after Christmas mark downs to purchase essentials as well as articles that will provide useful gifts for her friends and family next December.

There is abundant evidence that our Belleville shops are equal to any in the country when it comes to variety before Christmas and economy after the great seasonal rush.

If we watch our shop windows, our daily Ontario Intelligencer and our local radio, there is no reason why anyone should miss out on the wonderful bargains the Belleville merchants offer their patrons. Help Belleville prosper by being aware of the wealth of economical merchandising opportunities in our local stores.

Next week we will take our usual notes about this and that in the stores for shopping news but this week is a time for cleaning up the left overs from the festive holidays, and for the merchants it is a time for sales and inventory. We hope that you will watch for the many bargains available and with this we wish you Good shopping!

In November 1955, a year or recent memory, the one millionth migrant landed in our sister Dominion of Australia. She was a 21-year-old bride, who had been married in England shortly before she and her husband sailed to their new home down-under. In announcing the one millionth migrant, the Australian High Commission to the United Kingdom said, "Australia now boasts at least one post-war migrant for every other eight people in the whole of Australia."

The High Commissioner went on to say that, "at the same time, migrants are immediately eligible for social service benefits such as unemployment and sickness payments and child endowment for all children under 16 years."

Women will be interested to know Australia is proud of the part their sex is playing in the Dominion's public life. Although the term expires in June of this year, Mrs. Nancy Buttfield, wife of a South Australian businessman became fifth woman senator in the Federal Parliament, out of a Senate of 60, when she was elected by the South Australian government to succeed the late Senator George McLeahy.

Recently we referred to the Chautauqua address of the late Robert H. Saunders, C.B.E., Q.C. Mr. Saunders called his address "Canada Comes of Age." We wrote for this address last July and Mr. Saunders replied in these words, "May I say that your remarks are very much appreciated, and if I can be of further service at any time please do not hesitate to let me know."

At the birth of another year, it seems that the words "Canada Comes of Age" possess the fitness of things. We are happy to take this medium of accepting Mr. Saunders' offer to be of service and from time to time will pass on to you some of his comments to Americans about Canada. He was intensely proud of Canada.

In 1946, an American mayor said to a group of Canadian mayors that "Texas is, gentlemen, a large state, in fact larger than the whole of Canada put together." In his address Mr. Saunders agreed that Texas was a large state of 267,339 square miles, but he pointed out that "our own Province of Ontario has an area of 412,582 square miles, larger than Texas by 145,243 square miles.

Canada, with her 3,845,000 square miles, is of course, larger by well over 250,000 square miles than the whole of the U.S.A., including Alaska, and is something like 14 times greater than Texas in area.

In another part of his address, Mr. Saunders quoted from a letter received by Mr. Leo Dolan:

"Does Canada belong to England?

"Do you speak the Canadian language?

"How do cattle live there in the winter?

"Is it true that the Canadian Government will not let you bring any money out of Canada, except Canadian money which is no good here?"

At the time of the address the Canadian dollar happened to be at a premium. "This and That" has no intention or desire to start the New Year by resorting to those comparisons that are odious. We are interested only in passing on some of the pertinent facts contained in Mr. Saunders' address, feeling that he continues to be of service by informing us about Canada. If Canada has become of age, we must acquire the confidence which comes from respect in our country and ourselves. We need not be ashamed to correct inaccuracies and we do not need to be boastful.

Fashion Flashes

Beautiful and price-worthy items are found among this year's selection of costume jewelry. The girl who likes dramatic pieces will be enthralled by a necklace of five graduated pearl bead strands, ranging from choker to almost waistlength. Each strand but the top is finished with a pearl and emerald pendant. Practically "make" a costume!

New favorite fur, especially for sports and general wear, is river otter—sleek, smart and rain-proof in the bargain. Otter, dyed a new bold shade, makes a handsome great-coat, double-breasted and cuffed, pockets and a fluffy but tailored shawl collar of Canadian fisher.

A nice blend of the slim and the frothy lends interest to a beautiful evening gown. The molded, long-line bodice and the thin shoulder straps are completely covered with a pink paillettes and crystals, while the full, fluffy skirt is composed of tiers of pink nylon net. Sash of pink gros de Londres, a heavy, finely ribbed silk.

The orient goes southern, yes indeed it does, as the Oriental motif dominates clothes prepared for Winter cruise and Southern resort use. A useful little jacket—to wear with monotone, slim, day-time dresses or bathing suits—is a Madarin topper in gold-printed cotton, with both sleeves and sides slashed.

LOW FOLKS KNOW YOU AREN'T GOING STEADY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 16 and a senior in high school. I have been going out steadily with Stan for a year and a half. I enjoy his company and we get along fine when we are together.

We live around the corner from each other and attend the same school.

The problem is that I do not feel ready to tie myself down to one boy, and when I told Stan that I think both of us should go out with different people, he said he didn't mind if I did, but that he had no desire to go out with other girls.

All my friends are older than I am and go out with only one boy. Their boy friends will not get me a date because they feel that Stan wouldn't like it, and not many boys ask me out, anyhow, because they think I am tied down to Stan.

Please advise me on how to get dates with more boys. — Joan T.

Dear Joan T.,

Haven't you yourself given the boys reason to believe that they shouldn't date you since you've been "going steady" with Stan for a year and a half? It seems to me it would have been better if you had come out with Stan and told him that you wanted to go out with other boys, too.

The impression I get is that perhaps you are just a little tired of Stan. Why don't you start cutting down on your dates with him so that the other boys will guess that you mi·ht have time for other dates? You've already told Stan that you don't want to go steady, and that you think both of you should have other friends, so he should certainly understand without any big break-up scene.

You might also let it be known among your friends that you are not ready to go steady, so that the other boys would not be scared off by this and let me know if it works.

ARE YOU PLAYING GAMES WITH ME, OR JUST SILLY?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 17 years old, and in love with a married man who is 22. We live in the same apartment house. He seems to be in love with me, too. I am good friends with his wife, and I think she is beginning to catch on, because every time she sees me talking to him, she tries to break it up. She doesn't seem to have said anything to him about it, though.

He has been wanting to take me out, and I would love to go, because I am sure he would like his wife too much to spoil her happiness.

Then there is another thing. I have been going steady with a boy 18, and I think him, too. So what I want to know is, should I go on loving this 22-year-old married man or keep on loving this boy at least interfere with the other's marriage? —A.C.

Dear A.C.:

There are only two reasons I can think of for your writing me this letter. Either you are just having a little fun with me, or else you are quite the silliest 17-year-old I have ever heard of. In fact, if you are really serious, I find it very hard to believe you are even as old as 17.

You ask me if you should "go on loving" this married man, or "keep on loving" the boy. Do you think love is something you turn on and off like a faucet? Of course, I am not taking seriously your use of the word "love," because you haven't the faintest idea what it means. I merely ask the question in the faint hope it might set you thinking.

My advice to you is to stop fancying yourself in the role of a marriage-wrecker, to be your age and confine your romantic notions to boys in your own age group. If this married man is actually being attentive to you, all you are headed for is trouble, unless you stop him short.

If you have a very sweet tooth you will want to increase the amount of sugar in this pumpkin chiffon pie to 1 cup, but the less amount is too much and makes it overSweet for me and my husband.

If you would like to increase the nutritive value of it add 2 or 3 tablespoons skim milk powder when you add the pumpkin. It makes a good protein course at a meal where the main course might be a hearty soup, like our Split Pea Soup of yesterday, or a cheese souffle and salad. It is a big pie and will serve 6 generously.

HONEY PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE (From California)

One envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 3 egg yolks, ½ cup honey (or ¾ cup—see above), 2 cups canned pumpkin (or buy a 15-oz. tin), ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon each ginger and nutmeg, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 egg whites, 3 tablespoons sugar (for egg whites), 1 9-inch baked pie shell with high sides.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water for 5 minutes. In the top of the double boiler beat the yolks well and mix into them the honey, pumpkin, milk, salt, vanilla and spices. Stir over boiling water until this thickens somewhat—it takes about 8 or 10 minutes. Be sure to stir constantly. Remove from heat and stir in soaked gelatine until it is dissolved. Cool to room temperature. Beat the egg whites until frothy and beat while gradually adding the 3 tablespoons sugar, until very stiff. Fold egg whites into cooled filling. Pour into cooled baked pie shell. This is a lot of filling and sides of pie must be high. Even so you may have to add the last tablespoonfuls slowly to prevent filling overflowing the shell. Chill overnight. Because we served this during Christmas week we decorated it with an edging of whipped cream topped with some halved red cherries. Another time I covered it with whipped cream and sprinkled the edge with finely chopped candied ginger.

Question: Could you give me a recipe for using stale cake crumbs —making them into another cake or making cookies out of them? Mabel E. L.

Answer: I have not tested this recipe but it comes from a good source.

CRUMB COOKIES

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1 cup cold water, 2½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon each salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, 2½ cups dry cake or cookie crumbs, 1 cup raisins. Combine all ingredients in order given, except the crumbs, adding them alternately with the water at last. Drop from buttered teaspoon onto buttered cookie sheet and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 10 minutes.

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

WELLINGTON — Quiet music played by Mrs. Mayhew introduced the United Church W.A. meeting in the S.S. room on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Abyea, in the chair, read a seasonable poem, and all were welcomed. Mrs. Fleming gave the treasurer's report. The president read the correspondance and conducted a short business session. A other time I covered it with whipped cream and sprinkled the edge with finely chopped candied ginger.

report was given about the spending of the white gift money. Mrs. Tuskey offered her home for an executive meeting on January 11. Rev. A. Poulter conducted the service of installation, the new president, Mrs. Tice being installed in absentia.

Mrs. Bond announced the following program:

Mrs. Bishop gave the meditation of the devotional "Hope of the World". Mrs. McCorkell gave the Scripture reading. Christmas story by Mrs. C. H. Greer. Piano solo by Mrs. Maybee, "Christmas Remembrance Story" by Mrs. Teskey. Piano solo by Mrs. Carmen Burr. Vocal duet by Beverly Alyea and Wanda Down. Mrs. Bond read a Christmas poem and thanked those who had assisted. She also regretted Mrs. McFaul's forced absence in the hospital.

The program ended with the singing of "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear". Following the benediction, a social time was enjoyed by all.

FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENTS OF SIXTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Next fall our parents will celebrate the Sixtieth Anniversary of their marriage. They are both quite feeble, and they would not be able to have a reception or dinner or even a small At Home. However, there are many relatives on both sides, and since my father had an important government position for many years and they traveled a lot, they have a host of friends near and far. To them we would like to send some kind of dignified announcement about the Anniversary, possibly have it engraved. It should, we think, in some way include the names of the three sons and three daughters, in-law, sons-in-law, grandchildren, great-grandchildren. We would be so grateful, Mrs. Beeckman, if you would suggest a form including all these "features." Thank you,

— W.M.B.

Here's my suggestion for this wonderful announcement:

The Family of Peter Amos Brown and Mary Fuller Brown

have the honour of announcing the Sixtieth Anniversary of their wedding day

April twenty - second
Eighteen hundred and ninety - six 1896

Then underneath, in two columns, the names of the sons and their wives; the daughters a n d their husbands; grandchildren, great-grandchildren. All names given in full, no abbreviations, and of course no titles. If the announcements are engraved, the names would be in letters smaller than the rest of the announcement. If the announcements are writing (some form as suggested above) each adult might sign his or her own name, and the children old enough might sign their own names, or other might write these names.

CORRECT NAME ON MARKER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband died recently, and I want to have a marker put on his grave. I have not consulted about this yet because I am not sure about using the suffix after his name. His name was (for example) John Alan Clark, and I have a son named after him. Would it be correct to have his name on the marker read John Alan Clark, Sr. (he never used this suffix)?

— Widow.

Do not use "Sr" after the name John Alan Clark in the correct form to use. The date of his birth and the date of his death, on the marker, indicate his generation.

REPLY TO INVITATIONS "IN KIND"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

One of the girls in the office where I work is going to have a quite large formal church wedding and reception soon, and I believe she is inviting only two other girls in the office and me. My formal invitation to the ceremony and reception was sent to my home, 1886 (I imagine because she was not inviting all the girls in the office.) Must I write a formal acceptance, as I customarily would, or since I see her every day at the office, shall I just tell her I accept the invitation? — Ida M.

"Reply in kind" is the rule that should be observed in invitations. Therefore, since you were sent a formal invitation to the reception you should mail a formal acceptance. Added to this courtesy this will make it convenient for the bride-to-be and her mother to file your reply with the "Acceptances," instead of having to remember that you accepted.

Women's Institute

SPRINGBROOK W.I.

On Wednesday afternoon Springbrook Women's Institute held its Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Cosbey. There was a large attendance of members and visitors.

Mrs. Gordanier presided and all sang "Joy to the World."

During the business period six was voted to the Riverside Church, Toronto. A social evening in Springbrook hall was planned for January 6.

The program consisted of two songs, sung by Linda Makkeljohn, and Susan McKay who later gave a piano duet. Mrs. Arthur Reid read the paper, "It is More Blessed to Give Than To Receive," which had been prepared by Mrs. Fred McKeown. An informative reading of "Christmas Customs" was given by Mrs. George Williams. Mrs. Ward McIntyre read an article from Chatelaine "Christmas 100 Years Ago."

A carol was sung and after the slices of the months there was an exchange of gifts.

The hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

REDNERSVILLE W.I.

ALBURY — The monthly meeting of the Rednersville W.I. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Rexford Peck, with 23 members, six visitors being present.

Carols were sung with everyone joining in.

Owing to the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Earl Onderdonk took the minutes. It was decided to have a suchre on January 30 for the school collected for the blind $84.85. Many white gifts were brought in for The Children's Aid with Mrs. Peck taking them to Picton.

Mrs. Hugh Russell and Mrs. Harmon Montgomery, vice-presidents, took charge of the Christmas meeting. Carols were sung. June Bowerman sang a solo; Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. Russell gave Christmas readings; Linda Peck rendered a solo; and Mrs. Russell sponsored a contest with prizes given.

Everyone enjoyed the Christmas exchange of gifts. Refreshments were served.

A vote of thanks was rendered the hostess and refreshments committee.

GERMANS ARRIVE

NEW YORK (AP) — The first group of uniformed soldiers from Germany's new army to visit the United States, 38 officers and men, arrived at Idlewild airport Monday to study at U.S. army schools. The men will be here from three to six months.

RAWDON
Mt. Pleasant Rawdon W.A. Elects Officers

RAWDON — Fourteen adults attended the quarterly meeting of Mount Pleasant Rawdon W.A. held at the home of Mrs. Lindsay McKeown, on Thursday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Ken Weavyer, presided with Mrs. Harvey Couch as pianist.

Miss Doris Sine gave the report and Mrs. Raymond McConnell stated there was a good bank balance. The president gave a few excerpts from the Fall executive meeting.

Miss Janet Fletcher gathered the offering and this was dedicated in unison.

Mrs. Grant Hubble, conveners of the nominating committee read the report and Rev. W. Y. Fletcher conducted the election as follows:

President, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver (re-elected); 1st. vice-president, Mrs. Donald Johnson; 2nd. vice-president, Miss Doris Sine; recording secretary, Mrs. James Hoard; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Grant Hubble; treasurer Mrs. Raymond McConnell; pianist, Mrs. Harvey Couch; assistant pianist, Mrs. Burton Sharpe; auditors for 1956 Mrs. Francis Wrightman; program committee, Mrs. Oscar Merrick, Mrs. Carleton Potts and Mrs. Will McAdam; church flower, Mrs. Mrs. Carleton Potts and Mrs. Herbert Smith.

The program arranged by Mrs. W. Y. Fletcher and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen, followed.

Mrs. Fletcher was in charge of the W.A. devotional arranged by Mrs. G. A. Wheatley, on Convference, on the them "The Hope of the World". She read the Bible lesson found in Matthew 2 and the meditation stressed "the Kingdom depends on the loving loyalty of faithful subjects, and Christ's commands must be obeyed".

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a message entitled "The Bells of the New Year", and read a poem by Helen B. Anderson, "Bells Across the Snow", stating that thousands of children have never heard the sleigh bells ring. She chose the Bible message as "The Open Door", using the late King George VI quotation and closed with the poem, "Ring Joyous Bells."

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen sang "Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

Mrs. Herbert Smith read an appropriate poem and Miss Janet Fletcher rendered a solo. Mrs. Harvey Couch read a selection "Through's by the Way", and Marguerite staged an interesting contest.

The hostess and her assistants served sandwiches, tea and Christmas candy.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—
Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions—some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

The new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Senate Group Calls Newspaper Man as It Resumes Hunt For Communist Infiltration

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate internal security sub-committee today called a New York copyreader as it resumed its hunt for traces of Communist infiltration of the press, radio and television in the United States.

Starting three days of public hearings, the sub-committee said several witnesses had been subpoenaed but named only James Glaser, identified by the sub-committee as a former-to-the 1950s managing editor of the Communist New York paper, The Daily Worker. Glaser, once a copyreader for the New York Times, now holds a similar job with the New York Post.

A number of past or present employees of The Times are reported to have been called to testify in the inquiry. The Senate group held closed hearings in New York a month ago, but has not identified witnesses it questioned at that time.

ARMED AS COMMUNISM

Chairman James Eastland (Dem. Miss.) said in advance of the new hearings:

"We are investigating communism. The investigation is not aimed at any one newspaper, but any newspaper, be it aimed at communism."

He said the current hearings are part of a series "designed to follow up the investigation last summer during the examination of Winston Burdett and other former members of a Communist cell in the Brooklyn Eagle."

Burdett, now with the Columbia Broadcasting System, testified last June that in 1937 he had joined a Communist cell at the Brooklyn Eagle. He named a dozen former employees of the newspaper whom he said he had known then as fellow Communists, and also named 10 other persons he said he had known or believed to be Communists in 1937-40. Burdett of said he broke with the Communists before joining the CBS staff.

QUESTIONED THEM

The sub-committee later questioned in public most of those he identified. In the main, the few still in newspaper work swore they are not now Communists. But two that he named refused to say whether they ever had been Communists, invoking their protection under the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination.

One of these was Melvin Barnet, then a copyreader for the New York Times. The other was David Gordon, then a reporter for the New York Daily News. Both men subsequently were fired.

Eastland said in a statement Tuesday night that "no newspaper can be blamed for dispensing with the services of a man" who invokes this privilege when questioned about Communist party membership. Any who did so would forfeit "the confidence of the newspaper's readers, an overwhelming majority of his fellow workers and his employers."

He was replying to an earlier statement by officials of the American Civil Liberties Union calling on the sub-committee to avoid questioning newspaper men about their political beliefs and asking publishers not to fire employees solely for invoking the Fifth Amendment.

Bridge Tolls Will Be Decreased On March 1st

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Tolls on the Thousand Islands international bridge will be reduced on March 1, but the effect will be to prolong bond payments on the structure and its toll operation five to six years.

Sidney S. McCumber, chairman of the Thousand Islands Bridge Authority, disclosed the plan Tuesday in a statement to the Jefferson county board of supervisors.

McCumber said the action was taken by the authority because its Canadian partners wanted to postpone bond liquidation and toll free operation of the two-span bridge that connects Alexandria Bay, N.Y., with Rockport, Ont.

McCumber said it was planned to slash tolls in 11 classifications for a total reduction of about $90,000 a year. He did not disclose the schedule of toll cuts, but said the plan must be approved by Canadian officials.

Bonded indebtedness on the bridge had been scheduled to be paid off in about three years.

OWNED JOINTLY

The bridge is owned jointly by the authority on both sides of Jefferson county and the province of Ontario. The effect of the plan, McCumber said, also will be to prolong the life of the authority an additional five years.

Legislation creating the authority calls for toll-free operation of the span when the bonded indebtedness is paid.

McCumber said that authority members conferred recently in Toronto and were told by a provincial public works official that if Ontario took over operation of its half of the bridge in the immediate future it would pose a problem.

McCumber said the official, whom he did not identify, claimed that Canadian officials "are not anxious to have the bonds paid off."

NOT TOLL MINDED

"Canadians are not toll minded, and it would be a politically hot issue," McCumber added. He did not clarify his statements.

The Thousand Islands bridge last year handled 569,026 vehicles, McCumber reported. Gross income on the bridge for the year ended Dec. 31 is estimated at $237,000, compared to $380,000 the previous year.

McCumber estimated the bridge will have an indebtedness of about $1,530,000 Feb. 28, when the fiscal year ends.

Opened in 1938, the bridge cost $3,150,000 to build, but it was refinanced in 1946 for $3,560,000 after losing money during the Second World War.

A MILLION WATCHED

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—More than 1,000,000 persons stood for hours Monday and thrilled to the 67th Tournament of Roses, which neighboring Burbank won by depicting in flowers the start of the universe.

Television Apparently to Stay In Parliament for Openings

OTTAWA (CP) — Television apparently is in Parliament to stay—at least for the opening of sessions.

For the second straight year, the publicly-owned CBC will broadcast on television and radio the ceremonies performed in the Senate chamber when Governor-General Massy reads the speech from the throne at the opening of Parliament Jan. 10.

However, the massive wooden doors of the House of Commons will remain closed to television cameramen, just as they were last Jan. 7 when the opening was telecast for the first time.

Coverage for the 10 English- and three French-language stations on the CBC's direct television network will start at 2:45 p.m. and close at 4 p.m. EST.

The English network includes CBC stations in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto and privately-owned stations in the Ontario centres of Kingston, Peterborough, Kitchener, Hamilton, Barrie, London and Windsor. The French network has CBC stations in Ottawa and Montreal and a privately-owned outlet in Quebec City.

An hour-long edited film version of the telecast will be transmitted the same night at 10 p.m. EST on the direct network, and again on Jan. 14, at 3 p.m. EST, when it will also be available to non-connected television outlets in Canada.

The radio broadcast over the CBC's entire trans-Canada network which includes 17 CBC stations and 29 private stations, will be from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. EST.

Six television cameras will be used for the telecast. One outside the Peace Tower will cover the arrival of Mr. Massey in his landau with an RCMP escort, his inspection of a guard of honor of the governor-general's foot guards and his departure after the ceremonies.

There will be two cameras in the high-ceilinged red-and-gold Senate chamber. Three other cameras in the corridor outside the Senate chamber will follow Black Rod, Major E. R. Lemoine, as the Commons door where he will knock three times, to be admitted.

Black Rod, when admitted to the chamber, marches up to the Commons Speaker's dais, bowing three times on the way to call the members to the Senate. However, the cameras will not show this part of the proceedings because the CBC did not obtain permission to set up cameras inside the Commons.

Smelter Workers Cross Lines to Open Union War

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CLC) accused the Communist-dominated Mine - Mill Union Tuesday of using "anti-union tactics" after Mine-Mill members crossed Steelworkers' picket lines.

The Smelter workers, employed by a Sudbury company, crossed the lines at the strike-bound Sault Structural Steel Co. Ltd., Tuesday to haul unfinished steel from the plant.

The crossing was another incident in the rivalry of the two unions, long locked in contention for the right to represent employees in many northern Ontario mines.

John Barker, area representative of the Steelworkers Union, charged the Mine-Mill union with "anti-union tactics" in a telegram to Clarence Mitchell, international president of the leftist organization.

The trucks were held up at first by picketers, but there was no violence.

SAYS INJUNCTION VALID

Mr. Barker said Mine-Mill truckers crossed picket lines "under protection of a "strike-breaking" injunction which, he said, is not valid. The Sault Steel Company strike has been underway 4½ months.

The Mine-Mill union was expelled from the Canadian Congress of Labor in 1949 for alleged Communist sympathies.

The latest move by entered the Sault plant Tuesday are employees of Nornad Construction Company of Sudbury. They began hauling 140 tons of steel that had been ordered by Anglo-Norcross Construction Company of Toronto. Norcross is under contract to complete fabrication of the steel. Anglo-Norcross wants to use it to construct a mill for Dryden Paper Company at Dryden, Ont.

The Mine-Mill men were operating on the strength of an injunction granted Anglo-Norcross last October by Mr. Justice Charles D. Stewart of the Supreme Court of Ontario. Delivery was made at that time of other steel ordered by Anglo-Norcross.

Two Noront trucks hauled seven tons Tuesday and a third truck was expected on the job today to speed the operation.

Conflict between the big steel-workers union and Mine-Mill was shown Tuesday on two counts.

The steelworkers applied Tuesday to take certification for 300 employees of Algom Uranium Mines near Blind River away from the National Council of Canadian Labor. Mine-Mill tried to do the same a month ago and was turned down by the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

In another application, the Steelworkers tried to take certification away from Mine-Mill at Delora Smelting and Refining Company of Deloro and Belleville, Ont.

Olympic Official Hot Under Collar Over Statement

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Olympic official Harry D. Henshel says he intends to punch Phog Allen "pay dearly" for lambasting him in a speech recently on the Amateur Athletic Union.

Henshell, on vacation in Puerto Rico, cabled the University of Kansas basketball coach Tuesday that he was planning legal action and added:

"I was shocked to learn through the press of your (1) libelous attack on me as a permanent hitchhiker to the Olympic Games at public expense; (2) your libelous reference to my military service as a 'colonel in the Brooklyn band'; and (3) your gratuitous slur on Brooklyn obviously intended to reflect unfavorably on my fellow New Yorkers, including those of you who have had the honor of living in Brooklyn. . . ."

Henshel, chairman of the Olympic basketball committee and vice-chairman of the AAU Olympic finance committee, told Allen that in 45 years of activity in the AAU and in 20 years on Olympic committees he has not accepted a dollar directly or indirectly from either organization.

In reference to his military career, Henshel said he was awarded the Bronze Star combat medal in 1945 and earned five campaign stars in the European theatre of operations from Normandy to Germany in 1944-45.

Allen referred to Henshel last week in a Kansas City speech in which he criticized the AAU for suspending miler Wes Santee. The suspension later was lifted.

Tuesday night Allen told a reporter Henshel's cable was about "as long and long" "I must admit that it was voluminous but hardly ominous."

Federal Govt. Drafting Plan To Pay for Wheat Storage

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is working on legislation under which Canadian taxpayers may bear between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 in surplus wheat storage charges.

The unprecedented legislation, likely to form a permanent part of federal policy, would have the administration pay the shot for storing wheat in excess of what it may consider a "normal" carryover, informants said today.

At present the cost is borne by the prairie producer.

The informants said also the absorption of a portion of the storage charges will mean another major expenditure on the federal budget and would therefor reduce the chances of tax cuts which might otherwise be considered.

"What you spend in one place you cannot spend in another," an authority said.

Trade Minister Howe hinted at Edmonton last month that something would be done to aid farmers in meeting the heavy cost of storing huge quantities of wheat for long periods because the world market is glutted. He gave no details.

However, storage charges in recent years have been big items in the cost of marketing prairie grain under the Canadian wheat board system.

For example, in the 1933-34 crop year, the last year for which firm figures are available, the wheat storage charges, published some $30,000,000, all charged against the farmers.

Wheat stored in country and terminal elevators costs between 10 and 15 cents a bushel annually. Total supplies in Canada last fall, including the carryover from the previous crop year, amounted to almost 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat.

A portion of these supplies will be worked off through exports and domestic sales. But these also will be retained on farms because there just isn't enough room in the elevators for all the wheat harvested.

But it appears likely on the basis of current trends that Canada will have a near-record carryover next July 31 of about 570,000,000 bushels, major portion of which will be jammed in elevators.

What the charges will be on the amount stored in elevators for the full year is a matter of conjecture at this stage. But they undoubtedly will be high.

It also is a matter of question as to what the government may consider a "normal" carryover. In the last quarter-century carryovers averaged about 277,000,000 bushels annually; in the last 16 years, 295,000,000; and in the last four years, 419,200,000.

If the government considers the quarter-century carryover as normal, it may possibly consider paying the storage on some 200,000,000 to 300,000,000 bushels in the current crop year.

Even at 10 cents a bushel, the cost to the taxpayer would be between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000.

Based on the 10-cent-a-bushel estimate and the $20,000,000 was "too low."

Widow Wins $16,000 in Quiz

NEW YORK (AP)—A 74-year-old English-born widow, who once taught school in Canada, proved expert knowledge of Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield" Tuesday night to win $16,000 on "The $64,000 question," TV-quiz program.

Mrs. Mabel Gertrude Morris identified seven characters from the Dickens classic, making her eligible to try for $32,000 or keep the $16,000 she won Tuesday night. She must make her choice next week.

Mrs. Morris moved to Canada from England in 1902 and for a while taught in Canadian schools she came to the U.S. in 1910.

Opera Honors Lily Pons

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera staged a "Lily Pons Gala" Tuesday night to mark the 25th anniversary of the night the petite and sparkling French soprano made her debut there.

A tremendously enthusiastic audience heard Miss Pons sing a program of choice excitcrions from her coloratura repertoire. One was the mad scene from "Lucia di Lammermoor."

Associated Press arts editor W.G. Rogers reported that the performer's ance would long be remembered, as "Miss Pons proved again that she is an actress with grace and elegance, and a singer who is absolute mistress of all the secrets of her great calling."

BREAK UP FLOT

GUATEMALA (AP)—President Carlos Castillo Armas' government says it broke up a plot on New Year's Eve led by lesser members of the pro-Communist regime of ousted president Jacobo Arbenz Guzman. A government spokesman said former officials arrested included Health Director Luis Galich, Carlos Zachrisson, foreign ministry publicity chief, and Roberto Barillas Izaguirre, former director of the co-operative development institute.

Five Million Will Get Automatic Pay Increases

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 5,000,000 American workers—and perhaps several million more—will get automatic pay raises during 1956.

These raises will boost the annual wage bill of American industry by $1,000,000,000 or more.

The pay increases either have been negotiated by labor unions or will come through a jump in the federal minimum wage on March 1 from the present 75 cents an hour to $1.

A labor department survey indicated Tuesday night that the negotiated boosts will run generally in a range of six to 11 cents an hour—or from $2.40 to $4.40 for a 40-hour week.

Some of these union-negotiated pay boosts will be as low as three cents, some as high as 30 cents an hour. Some workers stand to get as much as 25 cents an hour more through the higher minimum wage.

The labor department's statistics bureau estimated that raises will fall due this year for at least 2,750,000 workers under major long-term labor-management contracts.

The bureau said it calculated earlier that 2,100,000 workers would be entitled to increases under the higher federal minimum wage, approved by Congress last year.

Officials expressed belief that there is little duplication between the two groups, since most workers now paid less than $1 an hour are not union members.

Mayor Grigg of Bruce Mines Enters 35th Consecutive Year As Chief Magistrate of Town

BRUCE MINES, Ont. (CP)—This northern Ontario town has two ageless fixtures: The bedding rock bluffs that embrace it and Mayor Albert Grigg.

Mayor Grigg, at 82 a gaunt, Lincoln-like figure with a love of words and his 275 citizens, today entered his 35th consecutive year as chief magistrate. Tuesday he whipped the second man to challenge his record reign, 70-year-old hardware merchant E. A. White, by 105 votes to 70.

Said the mayor: "I appreciate the confidence the people still have in me after all these years."

Sighed his opponent, a former councillor: "Maybe I'll try again next year."

The chances are he'll be disappointed again. For Bruce Mines without Mayor Grigg would be something comparable to northern Ontario without its fir-ringed lakes.

He started life in a log cabin in the bush north of this Lake Huron town, 42 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie. He once said:

"I was not born in the luxury of log-cabin poverty. I was nurtured in the cradle of the Constitution."

His father, who had brought the family from a rented farm near Wingham in 1877, died and young Albert at 14 was earning 75 cents twice a week, delivering mail on a dog-drawn sleigh.

At 29, he was Bruce Mines' municipal auditor. Then, it was 1903 and Albert Grigg in his first public office as reeve of Plummer Additional township led a successful movement to incorporate Bruce Mines as a town.

The next year he was elected the town's first mayor, defeating innkeeper Joe Ketlie who frowned on Mr. Grigg's Methodist distaste for liquor and tobacco.

In 1908, he was elected Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Algoma riding and was re-elected in 1911 and 1914. After the 1914 election, he resigned his seat to become deputy minister of mines and forests, a position he held until 1921.

His resignation came not long after a day when a group of boys on a Toronto street met his cheery "good morning" with a volley of sticks. He decided then to return to the friendly atmosphere of a small town.

After 18 years' absence, he asked and was returned as mayor. In that post he has remained, sometimes also a crown lands agent and, for 32 years, treasurer of Bruce Mines United church.

During the Second World War, Mayor Grigg and the late Knowlton Peterson, town solicitor, disagreed on municipal business. Mr. Peterson was defeated in his bid for the mayor's chair.

Campbell Favors Rule Revision Calling For Single Goal Per Penalty

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WELL DESERVED!

Mayhap Gerry Mulligan, sports editor of the Brockville Times Recorder, has something. A few days ago, after his Magedomas had whomped the Whitby Dunlops 6-1, Gerry wrote in his "Spare" column that the team in the eastern group can defeat the Dunlops if they have the proper spirit and hustle."

That seemed to pay off here last night when the TPT's, rising from a lackadaisical first-period sobber, flashed a brand of hockey that was not to be denied and handed the proud Dunlops their second straight defeat by a 5-3 count. And that distant murmur of applause that echoed east of here emanated from the camp of the Kingston Goodyears, just six points behind the leaders and who tangle with them in Bisleyville tonight.

The Teeps set back on their haunches by a dizzy Dunlop two-goal pace in the first period, started back in decisive fashion at their erstwhile conquerors in a sensational second and third period effort, and thoroughly deserved their victory. It was a clean cut affair with no quarter asked nor given and both clubs all out for the elusive victory. The chubbie Mr. Blair, manager of the Dunlops, even forgot his drive for senior "A" rating long enough to admit the better team won on the night's play.

A rugged defensive game garnished with fore-and-aft stiff checking, and mingled with payday heaps, marked victory for the Teeps. Even minus Davy Jones, who retired with a reported fractured wrist early in the first period, the Cornwa were not to be denied. Young Doug Murray proved a stellar help to the defence corps while up front Keith MacDonald and Sammy Mulholland sparked the offensive sharing a quartet of goals.

The Teeps proved last night they can play hockey if they want to. They definitely have the potential, for any club that can hand the Dunlops a 5-3 setback, has something besides sweaters and sticks. Now let's hope for some consistency.

* * * * *

BORN, NOT MADE!

Some hockey experts will argue that goal scorers are born not made—others adhere to the old adage that practice makes perfect, that given enough time at batting the puck at a net, a player can pick it in wherever he wants.

Both may be right, but some of the former greats were born with the knowledge—and proved it beyond doubt. Rocket Richard, Newsy Lalonde and Bill Cook were among these. Their uncanny ability to park the puck in a given spot was not born of basking rubber for hours at a net. It was standard equipment when they entered their first cradle.

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll recalls Jack Adams of the Red Wings, saying three years ago that you can't teach a hockey player how to score goals.

"Scorers are born, not made," said Adams. He said Marty Pavelich was one of the rugged stars, an all-out player and loves to play hockey. But he couldn't put the puck in an ocean. The Wings spent hours with him trying to teach him how to score. But it couldn't be done.

Dink believes the great goal-getters are natural, which brought him around to the "Rocket," the greatest of them all." Frank Boucher, former coach of the Rangers after watching a wild brawl in New York in which the Rocket had flattened several Blues, said: "The Rocket is a nice guy, crazy guy—but the one thing he's only got one idea, and that's to put the puck in the net. Not a bad idea at that. I wish more of my players had it."

Carroll said he did not suppose there ever was a player who scored goals in so many different ways as Rocket Richard. "We have seen him score with two or three rivals on his back, and while lying prone on the ice. We have seen him score from almost impossible angles, with forehand and backhand shots. We have seen him move goalies out of position as though they were puppets on a string and he was the manipulator."

Dink admits that practice makes perfect, but, he says, "the amount of practice that a fellow doesn't have is the talent in the first place. The Rocket, he adds, has achieved such accuracy that he could put the puck through a keyhole, Metaphorically speaking.

Chuck Raynor, former New York goalie, said at the Rocket: "The guy doesn't know there's a middle of the net—he's always on the corners."

Newsy Lalonde, a great scorer in his time, had the same kind of accuracy, Dink said. "He retained it long after his playing days were over. He still had it when he was coaching the Canadiens. In the Canadiens' dressing room after a practice session one day, he bet the immortal Howie Morenz that he could shoot a puck off the floor and turn out the lights in the room by hitting the switch that turned them off and one. He did it, too." "And I got witnesses to prove it," Newsy told an unbeliever.

Lester Patrick, when, he was coaching the Rangers, devised a method used to improve the Blues' shooting. He had a board made that just covered the net. There were four holes in it, low in the corners and high in the corners, about six inches in diameter. It was Patrick's idea goalies were vulnerable in these spots and he wanted his players to aim for them.

But Bill Cook disdained the—idea, the story goes. He wanted a smaller target to test his marksmanship. He would bet his teammates that he could hit the goal-post, and he won as often as he lost.

'Pocket' Out For Ten Days

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens management announced Tuesday that Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, injured in Saturday's game against Chicago Black Hawks, will be out of National Hockey League action for at least 10 days.

The rookie centre suffered a badly sprained right ankle and pulled ligaments in the left knee when he tumbled into the boards after being checked by Hawk defenceman Allan Stanley.

Most of them were harness racing horses, but a few horses kept for pleasure riding also were killed.

Says Change Not Applicable If Both Clubs Shorthanded; Idea Is Successful in West

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Tuesday he would like to see the penalty rule revised so a penalized player could return to the game when the opposition scores a goal.

"A foul conceivably can prevent a goal, but only one goal," Campbell told the Canadian Press. "Why give the other team a chance to score more? Through the change we would simply conform with the logic of our own rules."

The Western Hockey League has used a rule this season that a penalized player returns to the ice immediately after the opposing team scores a goal while having a one-man advantage. WHL directors at a meeting in December voted unanimously to retain the rule.

QUOTES SECTION

Campbell quoted from Rule 34, Section of the NHL rules. It deals with the calling of a penalty by the referee when a foul is committed by a player of the team not in possession of the puck. The rule says:

"If a penalty to be imposed is a minor penalty and a goal is scored on the play, no minor penalty shall not be imposed but match and major penalties shall be imposed in the manner prescribed regardless of whether a goal is scored or not."

In giving his personal opinion, Campbell said he does not know if the new rule change would help to equal out. Suggestion for such a change has recently been made by Conny Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs.

"We are not hidebound about our rules and we are not averse to change. However, any change made might think," said Campbell, "We are willing to make changes if we think they'd benefit the game."

Campbell made it clear that if such rule revision comes about the change should not apply if both teams are reduced to equal strength shorthanded penalties such as five or four men a side.

There may be one bugs that would have to be worked out, however, he said. A circumstance could arise whereby the player of one team was given a major penalty and a player of the other team a minor. Campbell said consideration might be given to extending the major penalty, normally five minutes, by two minutes in case of a goal.

Something similar might be worked out for match penalties, a minor—or two two-minute penalties—imposed.

At the same time Campbell said he has been agreeably surprised at the generally good standard of refereeing done so far this season.

Asked about reported frequent discipline of his referees this season, Campbell said perhaps there had been more but the action had been taken because of "sloppy" handling of some aspects of the game, such as faceoffs, and not for imposition of penalties by the referees.

At Vancouver, Art Chapman, coach and manager of the Vancouver Canucks, said Tuesday night the Western Hockey League is "trying out" the revision of the penalty rule.

In an interview, Chapman said Campbell "asked us to try it out for him and we like it very much. We will make a report to the NHL at the end of the season."

He expressed that the revision of the penalty rule as applied to the WHL covers some of the objections.

"If a man is off for a major penalty or greater, he serves his full time."

ANOTHER BANNER YEAR

KANSAS CITY (AP)—It looks like another banner year for the Kansas City Athletics at the box office. Parke Carroll, Athletics' business manager, announced Tuesday that the season ticket sales already has surpassed that of last year.

So far this year the Athletics have orders for 4,000 season box seats and 1,311 season reserved seats.

Boxing May Die in New York Following Commission's Edict

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Will Madison Square Garden follow ancient St. Nicholas Arena into the dim shadows as a fight club with no fights?

That was the question before the house today as New York moved closer to becoming a ghost state for boxing with the loss of its only regular weekly fight show.

The London Sporting Club which ran 86 consecutive weekly televised shows at St. Nick's, announced it was moving to Baltimore, effective Jan. 30, because of inability to make matches in New York. It reported that "20 other cities" but planned to run in Baltimore for at least four or six weeks.

The reason St. Nick's can't make matches is New York is the recent ruling of Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, that no 16 dead line for all managers to quit the boxing Gulf of New York.

CAN'T GET FIGHTERS

"We are not interested in the Gulf or what the commissioners have with guilds," said Tex Sullivan, London Sporting Club shows are seen on Dumont TV. "We just cannot get fighters to sign for bouts here after Jan. 16."

Madison Square Garden has a show this Friday (Jan. 6) but no more until March while an ice show takes over the arena. However, the international Boxing Club, which runs most of the televised shows (Wednesdays from various cities and Fridays from New York) had planned to operate from Syracuse, Friday, "an. 20 with a heavyweight match between Hurricane Jackson and Bob Baker. The match has been made yet and probably won't be made for Syracuse.

Jim Norris, IBC president, was due to return from Miami soon to make a decision on Helfand's plans. Helfand banned the Gulf after a long inquiry, on the grounds it was detrimental to the best interests of boxing" for its "monopolistic, shocking and unfair practices."

The St. Nick's fights have been carried on TV "live" in 36 cities and in 16 other cities by "delayed" broadcasts on film. New York state realized a $23,000 profit on boxing admission and TV taxes in 1954 and an estimated $17,000 was paid to ring officials. The figures for '55 are not available.

Lumley Sparks Mercs to Win Over Bulldogs

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A pair of goals by Johnny Lumley sparked Owen Sound Mercurys to a 4-3 win over Windsor Bulldogs in a rugged, hard-billing Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game Tuesday night.

The win lifted the Mercs to within three points of the Bulldogs who are tied with Stratford for second place in the league standings.

Ed Loutit and Jack Field were the other goal scorers for Owen Sound who led 1-0 after the first period.

Gord Haidy connected twice for Windsor, and Walt Pawlyshyn once.

Owen Sound outshot the Bulldogs 37-30 but misfired on several good chances.

HIT WITH STICK

A third-period skirmish threatened to erupt into more serious trouble when Windsor's Jack Armstrong clouted Ellis Hanson over the top of the head with his stick. Armstrong was given a major penalty. The play had been stopped originally to give Windsor goalie Bruce Dale a chance to repair his mask.

Bulldogs, with a man advantage, pulled Dale for the last minute and scored one goal with 10 seconds left. But time ran out on them.

Canada Should Win Medals at Winter Olympics

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadians should be able to bring home some medals from the Olympic winter Games opening this month in Cortina, Italy—and from the amateur Games in Melbourne late this year, for that matter — president Ken Farmer of the Canadian Olympic Association said Tuesday.

While not forecasting the number and distribution of gold, silver and bronze medals, Farmer said it is definitely hoped Canada's hockey team — the Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen — will win the Olympic championship and retain the honor for Canada.

He saw some "good prospects" also in figure-skating, particularly Frances Dafoe and Norris Bowden of Toronto in the pairs. They won the world pairs title last year. Also in the pairs are Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul of Toronto.

POTENTIAL WINNER

Carol Ann Pachl of Montreal is another potential medal winner. She was seventh in the "world" last year, placing third in Prestatieg. She has been practising figures regularly and might well finish in the first three. Charles Snelling of Toronto may do well in the men's singles.

Canada's speed skiers appear to have the best chances among the ski aspirants, especially Anne Heatherett of Ottawa, if she has fully recovered from an injury of last winter. She has been clocked at 80 miles an hour on downhill runs.

In speed skating there is hope that Gordon Audley of Winnipeg will do at least as well as in the last Olympics when he placed third in the 400-metre event. John Sands of Saskatoon is another possibility.

SENDING BIG GROUP

The Canadian winter team will have 37 competitors and 15 officials. The hockey squad is the largest group, with 17 players. The skiers are the next largest contest and their number was cut to nine Tuesday when the jury-possible decision of the leg—that befell Andy Tommy of Ottawa. There are only five men and four women skiers.

For the summer Games the COA has planned 88 competitors and 22 officials. Farmer said that, judging by the performances he is not too hopeful of a gold medal in track and field and in some of the other sports.

But in canoeing he thinks there is a "good chance" that Sirianni of Sudbury can grab off a gold medal. Sirianni competes in both the 1,000-metre and 10,000-metre Canadian canoe events. The pairs are not yet known. Canada figures to be strong there also.

Eskimos Won Honor, Grey Cup But Exchequer Short of Cash

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Broad hopes for the possibilities in a major reorganization of Canadian football have been expressed by executives of Edmonton Eskimos, twice Grey Cup champions who suffered a financial loss on their most successful playing year.

The Eskimos, who swept through the Western Interprovincial Football Union schedule and playoffs with only two losses, then won their second straight Canadian championship, Tuesday night reported a $10,000 deficit on 1955 financial operations.

It was the club's first loss in seven years.

But, said club treasurer Bruce Collins in his report to a meeting of the Eskimo executive and the Touchdown Club, the picture can change with national and international agreement—"for therein lies the difference between reporting a profit or a loss."

WINNIPEG MEETING

Such agreement is hoped for at a meeting in Winnipeg Jan. 14 when the WIFU and the Big Four of the East get together for what Edmonton coach Frank Leo Lieberman described as what might very well be the most important meetings in the history of professional football."

Collins said renewed gross income during 1955 totalled $465,935, compared with $387,000 in 1954. Gross expenditures were $467,742 compared with $387,076 in 1954. The club showed a profit of $20,061.

Collins said the WIFU playoff pool brought Edmonton $26,250 less than it should have. He said the fact the best-of-three WIFU final for the first time went only two games and that cold, blizzardlike weather prevailed to keep attendance down, cut the playoff pool from $160,000 in 1954 to $85,000 in 1955.

The club's loss in 1955, coupled with $15,000 paid to the federal government for income taxes on players' salaries for the years 1949 through 1952, cut its accumulated surplus to $74,300.

Collins said he believes the Eskimos are "the highest paid club in Canada." He said the figure included $8,000 for a third game in the WIFU final—a game which was not played.

Collins added:

"It is the sincere hope of your directors that the joint meeting . . . can come up with the answers if football is to survive in Canada. . . . It is essential the national picture be one of agreement and also the international one, namely peace with the National Football League, for therein lies the difference between reporting a profit or a loss."

NHL Goalies Suffer Over Holiday Week

NEW YORK (CP) — Like their confreres in the National Hockey League's goaltenders found it harder than usual to save during a holiday week.

Where they normally kick out an average of slightly better than nine of every 10 pucks fired their way, three of the NHL's regular netminders dropped below .900 and the others stuck close to it during last week's activity. Their averages suffered accordingly.

Two points were shaved off the record of Montreal's Jacques Plante, who returned to action after a two-week layoff due to injuries and stopped 43 of 48 shots for an .896 mark in two appearances, dropping his over-all mark two points to .938.

Runner-up Lorne Worsley of New York Rangers had a .919 mark for the week, best among the regulars, but not good enough to cost him two points at .935. Worsley stopped 91 of 99 shots.

Glenn Hall of Detroit Red Wings finished the week at .916, down one point, on a 302 record for three appearances. Chicago's Al Rollins and Boston's Terry Sawchuk each dropped four points to .909 and .908 respectively and Harry Lumley of Toronto was knocked at .905.

Rookie Bob Perreault, who stood in for Jacques Plante as Canadian goaltender's absence, finished his stint with a creditable .931 record, third best in the league.

Eskimos Will Complain About Ticket Handling

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton's Grey Cup champion Eskimos will "once again present a formal complaint" concerning the handling and distribution of Grey Cup football tickets, treasurer Bruce Collins said Monday night.

Collins, reporting to a meeting of the Eskimo executive and the affiliated Touchdown Club, said Eskimos, as a competing team in the Canadian grid final, received 4,082 seats, 850 of which were split among club directors, players and relatives, and 3,232 others and 2,200 of which went to season ticket holders in Edmonton.

He said that of the 4,082 seats, 2,232 were in the $5-a-seat bracket, 716 in the $6.50 range and 974 in the $5.50 range. He said the $6.50-$5.50 seats were behind the goal line, 400 of the 88 seats were also behind the goal line and 700 of these seats ran the cinder track around the field. He said this gave the club 2,800 unhappy seat holders at Vancouver.

Only 409 seats were between the 35-yard lines.

TPTs Hand Whitby Dunlops Second Straight Loss In Thrilling Battle

Down Two Goals in 1st Period Coxmen Rally Brilliantly For Well-Earned 5-3 Victory

By GEORGE H. CURRIE
(Sports Editor)

The Whitby Dunlops, top-ranking senior "B" machine, was stopped cold in its tracks here last night when the Belleville TPT's tossed a win-wrecking second and third period monkey wrench into its well-oiled gears. The score was 5-3.

It was the sixth victory of the season for the Teeps which vaulted them into fourth place, a point behind the Brockville Magedomas. The loss was the second straight for the powerful Dunlops which were at full strength with the exception of playing coach Bus Gagnon, sitting out a suspension.

The Coxmen were full value for their win. They spotted the Dunlops two first period goals and then blanked them 3-1 in the second frame and blasted home a trio in a blazing third period with not a return from the group leaders.

Sammy Mulholland and Keith MacDonald were the scoring aces of the Teeps each getting a hat-trick. Sammy the Man came through with the winner in the sizzling third period and blasted home the insurance goal four minutes later. Bert Hill was the other Teep marker.

The injury jinx, however, seems to cling to the Teeps tails. Davy Jones was injured early in the first period, and it was reported to the press box that he had suffered a fractured wrist.

The Teeps staged a more or less sensational comeback in the second and third periods. They could not get untracked in the first when the Dunnies rammed home two goals, and it looked like a repeat of the club's former opening.

A disallowed goal seemed to spark the Teeps. Vern Gorgoyl high driving early in the second frame which the goal judge insisted hit inside the post, was nulled by Referee Moon Flanagan. Shortly after that MacDonald broke the Teeps egg and from then on they were a different club.

From here in the game developed into one of the best seen here this season. The teams battled tooth-and-nail and cleanly with the referees handing out ten penalties, six to the Teeps, three of them coming in the closing minutes. Tony Parisi and Bobby Hawe, the respective goalies were tested severely with the Teeps outclassing to heights at times.

Coach Cox used Doug Murray, a junior on the defence and the youngster came through with a fine performance, blocking many Dunlop forays and stopping two sure goals on different occasions.

Whitby clearly dominated the play in a fast first period with their passing attack clicking nicely giving Tony Parisi a chance to come up with another fine effort.

Gilmour drew a hooking penalty after four minutes and the Dunlops applied terrific pressure. The Teeps held the fort and Redmond got the gate at seven minutes.

Coach Cox threw five forwards on the ice and the Teeps went on the attack. Neil Attersley took Sinden's pass on a left wing breakaway and gave Parisi no chance.

The Dunlops ripped back in a passing offensive and Williams put them two up at 14.58 on a passing play with Neil Attersley and Sammy Mulholland setting up. Coach Cox was using Doug Murray and Moe White with Leonard and Greene sitting on the bench.

The Teeps were a different club in the second heat outscoring the Dunlops 2-1. An argument occurred when Goyer's shot hit the post and the light flashed. The goal judge, a Whitby man, declared the puck struck inside the post and stuck by his story. Goyer argued long but Referee Flanagan said "No soap".

The frustrated Teeps swept in the attack and at 5.37 MacDonald blazed a low hard shot past Hawe. The goal was shortlived. Two minutes later the Dunnies threw their team up on a gauging play and Sinden made it 3-1 with Etcher and Air helping.

Doug Murray who played a fine game on defence saved two sure goals with the net wide open.

The Teeps again took over and MacDonald got his second goal on a beautiful passing play with Chum Fryia. They were driving hard when Murray drew a penalty at 18.55.

Down 3-2 going into the third frame the Teeps opened up with their front lines getting the range. The Dunlops roared back to protect the lead but the Teeps were not to be denied. Bert Hill brought the near-600 fans to their feet when he poked home the puck from a power drive to tie the count with Mulholland and Wilson in on the play.

Williams drew a costly interference penalty for the Dunlops at 5.40. Sammy Mulholland ripped down the left boards, closed in on the goalmouth and took Peter Jones' perfect pass to put the Teeps in front for the first time.

Jake Wade drew a sentence a minute later and the teams battled four a side. Back at full strength the Dunlops swarmed around the Teeps net but a sturdy defence kept them off the scoreboard.

With eight minutes to play, Bert Hill raced down the left boards with Sammy flanking him. He let go his shot that Hawe kicked out and Mulholland pounced on the rebound to put the Teeps two up.

Play was fast and furious as the desperate Dunlops drove hard to whittle down the margin and the Teeps coming up with a sterling checking effort to keep them at bay.

MacDonald and Redmond drew high sticking penalties with less than a minute to go, this after the Teeps winger had dumped the Dunlop playing coach over his head with a thumping bodycheck that shook the rafters rattle. With 13 seconds to go Wilson drew a minor, slapped his stick on the ice in disgust and was promptly tabbed with a misconduct. But the puck kicked off the seconds and the Teeps skated off with a well-earned well-deserved victory.

The teams:

Whitby—Goal, Hawe; defence, Sinden, Redmond, McBeth; forwards, B. Attersley, O'Conner, Etcher, Air, Williams, DeGray, N. Attersley, Bonello, Donlevy.

Belleville — Goal, Parisi; defence, Wilson, Wade, Mulholland, Murray; forwards, Goyer, MacDonald, D. Jones, Fryia, Gilmour, Hill, P. Jones, White.

The referees: Moon Flanagan, Ken Partis.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rocky Castellani will be shooting for his 10th straight victory at the Cleveland Arena and a step closer to a shot at the middleweight title when he meets Gene Fullmer in a 10-round bout at the arena tonight.

Castellani, a former coal miner from Luzerne, Pa., who now calls Cleveland his home, is the third-ranked middleweight behind champion Sugar Ray Robinson and former champion Bobo Olson.

Russians Head Olympics Squads To Italy

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—A total of 1,615 athletes and officials will invade Cortina d'Ampezzo and nearby Misurina for the 1956 Olympic Games, organizers said Tuesday.

Of them, 155 will participate in the speed skating events and the others in the remaining competitions.

Iron Curtain countries will send 391 persons, plus the East-German members of the joint German team.

The Soviet Union will have the largest of the 31 squads with 143 participants. The United States follows with 128 and Sweden with 113. The strong Scandinavian group —Sweden, Finland and Norway—forms a bloc of 286 entrants. Denmark is not participating.

Indians Riled Over Dutchies Players' Draft

STRATFORD (CP) — Stratford Indians and Kitchener Dutchmen are at loggerheads again, this time over two Indian players selected by Dutchies for Olympic Games at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy.

Dutchmen officials announced the names of Art Hurst, Indian defenceman, and centre Lou Benzo have been submitted to Olympic officials as reinforcements for the Allan Cup champions.

Indians manager Dutch Meier said Tuesday: "That's fine, providing, of course, Kitchener gives us suitable replacements for Hurst and Benzo. However, such is not the case, at the moment anyway."

COULD PROMISE

Dutchmen manager Ernie Goman told Meier Friday he could promise Indians a replacement for Hurst.

"Naturally," said Meier, "we want to send as strong a team as possible to defend the title Penticton Vs won last year.

"However, by the same token, we cannot weaken our own team for the next three weeks or so. As it stands we have only four defencemen, and an injury to one of them, with Hurst away, could just about ruin our chances of finishing in the senior OHA playoffs."

Crystal Balls 1955 Shady Characters Limb-Climbers Had Dismal Seasons

BALTIMORE (AP) — If sports fans found things didn't go the way they expected in 1955, they had illustrious company.

There were plenty of coaches and athletes who found their own best laid plans go awry after they ventured a prediction.

James Ellis, sports writer for The Evening Sun, has a hobby of collecting these predictions each year, then watching the gents make "limb-bums" of themselves. First they go out on a limb, then look like bums when their forecast doesn't hold up.

Here are some of the choice ones Ellis rounded up under a column of "Famous Last Words."

Jesse Hill, University of Southern California football coach, started things in January with this remark on his team's Rose Bowl game with Ohio State: "We at USC are not ashamed of our bowl record (3-3) and we're tired of hearing so much about the supremacy of the Big Ten. We'll give the game the full treatment. . . I predict we'll beat Ohio State by 20-14. (Final: Ohio State 20, Southern Cal 7.)

Tennis took its toll, too. Billy Talbert, Davis Cup tennis captain, ventured: "I see no reason why the Davis Cup shouldn't stay in the United States for several years." Australia did, though. The Aussies blanked the U.S. team 5-0.

Baseball boners included this January prediction by Marty Marion, Chicago White Sox pilot: "I predict we'll win the American League pennant. I see Cleveland as our chief rival. We'll we meet in the world series! Probably Milwaukee." (The Sox wound up third as the New York Yankees won the pennant and lost the world series to Brooklyn.)

Ben Hogan had it made in the National Open golf tournament at San Francisco. Or at least so thought Gene Sarazen, former golf star, when he shred it up this way:

"There's only one man on the course with a chance to catch him, but he'll never make it. Jack Fleck needs two birdies on the last four holes. There's no doubt about it. Hogan is the new champion, the only man to win the Open five times." (Fleck got his two birds and went on to lick Hogan in the playoff.)

Canadiens Rebuff Of Blues' Offer Unintended Favor

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers were cold-shouldered by Montreal Canadiens in a player-for-player offer a year ago. The rebuff turned out to be an unintended favor for the Blueshirts.

Rangers wanted to deal left winger Dean Prentice to Canadiens in exchange for Dickie Moore of Montreal in a move to strengthen their National Hockey League club. Canadiens were on the verge of going for the proposition but eventually decided against it.

Since then the 23-year-old Prentice has been one of Rangers' outstanding forwards. Prentice went on to finish the 1954-55 campaign with 16 goals. That was over the 70-game route. He has the same number of goals in 35 engagements so far this season and is the league's highest scoring left winger. Moore has only five goals.

JUMPED FROM BILTS

Prentice, who jumped into the big time in 1952 from Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, will be with the Rangers tonight when they play host to the third-place Detroit Red Wings.

In the only other game, the fourth-spot Chicago Black Hawks take on the fifth-place Maple Leafs at Toronto.

Prentice, a native of Schumacher, Ont., had two poor seasons with Rangers in his first year he scored only six goals and three assists in 52 games. He produced only four goals and 13 assists the following season. He added 14 assists to his 16 goals last season.

Besides his 16 goals this campaign, Prentice has nine assists for 25 points. He's tied for 12th place in the individual scoring race with Detroit's Red Kelly and Bill Gadsby of Rangers. Moore is No. 21 with five goals and 17 assists for 22 points.

Junior Habs Edge Marlboros

MONTREAL (CP)—Andre Pronovost's goal late in the third period Tuesday night provided the clincher as Montreal Junior Canadiens took a 2-1 victory from Toronto Marlboros in a rugged, close-checking game played before 2,500 fans.

It was the Canadiens' second Laurier Trophy win over the Toronto club and increased Montreal's lead over the rest of the pack to seven points.

Claude Ruel gave Montreal a 1-0 lead in the middle period while Bob Pulford of the Marlies watched from the penalty box and at 11:46 of the final stanza, Ken Girard tied it up while the junior Canadiens were shorthanded.

Both clubs were at full strength when the Montreal captain let fly with a hard 10-foot shot while he was being checked by Toronto defenceman Harry Neale.

Directors Vote Miami Into International

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Directors of the International Baseball League voted Miami into the league Tuesday after being assured the team will have stadium facilities here.

Miami will replace Syracuse when the league opens its 154-game schedule April 18.

The league unanimously endorsed the proposal of Sid Salomon, Jr., St. Louis insurance executive, to transfer the Syracuse franchise to Miami after Salomon received a verbal agreement from the city commission on the club's use of Miami Stadium.

Salomon and his associates, Bill Veeck, former president of the Cleveland Indians, and Elliott Stein St. Louis investment banker, bought the franchise from Martin Haske for a reported $100,000.

GOAL IS MAJORS

The ultimate goal is to get Miami into the major leagues, Salomon said, and he hopes that possibility will materialize in four to five years.

Entry of Miami will break up the long trip the teams must make from Richmond, the southernmost U.S. city, to Havana.

President Roberto Maduro of the Havana club predicted that Miami would draw 400,000 customers in its first season in the league.

Montreal will go to Columbus, Toronto at Richmond, Buffalo at Miami and Rochester at Havana in the league's seven-team circuit. Northern cities will open at home May 1 with Columbus at Montreal, Richmond at Toronto, Miami at Buffalo and Havana at Rochester.

AT THE CAPITOL — General "Hap" Arnold (Barton MacLane) brings Helen (June Allyson) and the two Miller children to see Glenn (James Stewart) off on his overseas assignment in a dramatic scene from the Technicolor production of "The Glenn Miller Story". The picture spans Glenn's life from his early band playing days through the exciting years of World War II. On the same program "Canadian Pacific" tells the story of the building of the great trans-Canada railroad. Randolph Scott is starred with Jane Wyatt and J. Carroll Naish. Both big hits open Thursday evening at the Capitol Theatre.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

THURSDAY, JANUARY 5, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — General influences should help to push matters for which you have skill, talent. You can add to the value or saleability of your products or output by giving them more polish, a "new look." Keep up to date.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Mechanics, manufacturing and artistic pursuits are fresh enjoyment now. Checking and stock-taking are also in line. In buying, exercise sound judgment. Good rays on the whole.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Fulfill promises as promptly as possible and do not take on more responsibilities than you can handle. Try to wind up present obligations and finish incompleted tasks.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Keep a smile in your heart and on your lips if you would have the co-operative and harmonious response you wish — — at home, at work or in social activities.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Study, research, rearranging merchandise, holding business conferences and taking an active, useful part in government and civic interests are high on the day's favored list. This can be a very special day.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Don't plan an unbelievably heavy program for yourself — — or others. It may be more profitable to follow your usual routine than rush and strain to exceed your capabilities.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A perfect outlook. You can make this day tops. Without skipping duties, you can still enjoy relaxation, entertainment and social gatherings.

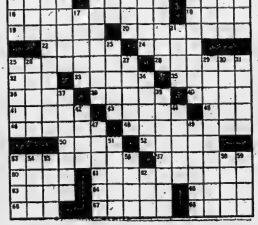
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Action, quick thinking and good management are stressed now — — but not recklessness. You can hurry a bit and better your whole day if you don't delay when you should be doing.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — A challenging day for the energetic and acquisitive. It may not be an entirely easy period but familiar matters and work for which you have been trained should show results.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Sturdy, determined application to your work should yield gratifying returns. Do not worry, but go ahead with all tasks cheerfully albeit thoughtfully. Relax when you can.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Real gain can be yours if you plan and execute smartly. But be on the wisely conservative side in investments. Talk matters over with your family.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Aim straight at your goal and you will at least get near it — — early attain it. Wholesome entertainment favored during free hours, but don't neglect essentials.



You Born Today have a great desire for knowledge. You are innately conscious, dependable, industrious, ambitious and broadly capable; may have a tendency to blunderings; to be too determined. These traits can be drawbacks and should be restricted for the sake of your own happiness and that of your family. You can succeed to a high degree in any honorable trade, profession, calling; will study, work hard for success.

Toll Bridge Proposed

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto chairman Fred Gardiner Thursday suggested proposed construction of a $6000 toll bridge between the city and the islands across Toronto bay.

Allan Lamport, chairman of the Toronto Transit Commission, suggested construction of the bridge Saturday.

Mayor Phillips, however, said he could not support the idea of a toll bridge.

"We don't want to have the natural beauty hurt by allowing vehicles on the island," he said.

Sentence 4 to Die

TEHRAN (Reuters)—An Iranian army court today sentenced to death four members of the Fadayan Islam, a fanatical Moslem organization, for plotting to overthrow the government.

A total of 15 leaders of the sect, which opposes Western influences, were detained during investigations into an unsuccessful attempt last November on the life of Hussein Ala. The trial came today before the premier left for talks in London on the Middle East defence pact.

West Huntingdon Student Writes Of Trip from Buenos Aires to La Paz

Christmas this year has provided a link, belated though nonetheless welcome, for a young and much travelled student with the residents of his native Hastings County.

Below is published a circular letter from Don Wilson, secretary of the Student Christian Movement of Canada, received from him in Bolivia.

Mr. Wilson is the son of Foster Wilson and the late Mrs. Wilson of West Huntingdon. He received his early education in West Huntingdon, went on to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and Emmanuel College, Toronto, and the University of Edmonton.

He was one of 13 students selected to go overseas in the interests of the Student Christian Movement of Canada.

Later he went to South America and at present is living at Buenos Aires.

The following letter was received at the organization's headquarters in Toronto and also was read out to his former fellow-parishioners at the church in West Huntingdon last Sunday:

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 8 — On December first I left Buenos Aires on the thirty hour train ride which goes the some 2,000 miles northwest to La Paz, Bolivia. This letter at this Christmas time does not pretend to be anything other than my impressions of the hinterland of Latin America during this four-day trip. For you who have been awaiting with bated breath account from Argentina, you must wait a little longer but I promise you that it is coming.

On a hot, humid afternoon which foreshadowed the coming summer I left Buenos Aires with Gaston Wiarda, a student from the Facultad Evangelica De Teologia. Gaston's home is in La Paz and he will work with the Baptist radio station "The Southern Cross". Gaston has numerous business connections with Canada. He has engaged a Canadian pilot with the Baptist mission who is presently on furlough in Brantford, Ontario.

Out from Buenos Aires we began to cross the seemingly endless pampas of Argentina: green with the lush pastures where roam the millions of cattle and white with the ripening wheat. On either side of us for the next 24 hours natural resources of Argentina which so often influence our Canadian market.

The sun rose the next morning on a most unpalatable landscape. Still the Argentina beef wander by the train but now only much scarcer for the sparse hard grass. Further on, the never plentiful trees on the prairie become more stunted and begin to give way to cacti. There is the red flowering creeping cacti, the fat spiny upright cacti several feet in height with yellow flowers and still others with a gift of several feet, resembling long green arms some 5thfty feet up into the cloudless sky. Here, too, some varieties of cacti are cultivated in row upon row in large fields for the production of cochineal. Here, even the cacti must surrender their hold upon water for although water lies on the ground it is salt water. Bright white crystals rim the ponds and when the train passes over a graded roadbed you can see the salt, not sweet white in the dry burning air. Here men load rail cars with crude salt in burlap bags. Here man lives in a town where, in nature, only cacti should not be seen. How incentive we are to the human coat of the elementary things of life.

MOUNTAINS APPEAR

Beyond the white salt plains, which last for several hours, the first low ancient hills of the Andes appear. In some foot hills lies Tucuman surrounded by rich watered lands. Here again are orange, peaches and pears beef. North now, the chief industry appears to be cutting and shipping wood fuel to Buenos Aires. This is not a vigorous forest in this dry soil but a stubby, fine leafed tree with a very hard wood provides the chief fuel. There is no lumber here.

The land of the Argentina pampas is left behind. Brown grass hills surround us as two engines push us up the first grades of the Andes.

On the slopes of these hills ceiling the remnants of the Indian peoples. Their valley fields eroded by the wind, now, and in the rainy season by the summer-March swept by the violent waters surging out of the hillsides. The valley itself is often a desolate path of sand dunes, rock and gravel, at times over a mile wide. Gorges hundreds of feet deep cut through even this little mountain ledge which remains and on which the train picks it way. Deeper into the Andes, cliffs rise above the valley bright with the colors of copper and mineral wealth but all this is locked in by the mountains and the desolation lains from the Indian who lives by their shadow.

Tin and bismuth which blend imperceptibly into this brownness of the earth lives the Indian. In-genious irrigation ditches catch water from a little stream and irrigate terrace which now wanders through the valley and leads it over gently down to the hills of corn and vegetable patches. His goats and a few sheep scramble on the stony slopes beneath the eye of the Indian women. Only in the Indian women's love of color is there any brightness. She loves bright colored skirts and woollen shawls of red, yellow, green and blues made into a fold in which she carries on her back everything from the latest child to some merchandise which she will sell at the train stops. Squarely set on the top of the Indian woman's long black braided hair sits the sign of her clan, a felt bowler hat, black, brown or even white as the case may be.

As we near the Argentina-Bolivian border we catch sight of Villazon, a perfectly flat, treeless plain which stretches hundreds of miles to La Paz. This plain some 13,000 feet above sea level, a height greater than most of the mountains around Lake Louise, lies between the eastern and western arms of the Andes. It is from this roof top prairie that I am here later we see the royal Andes rise another 13,000 feet. I have always thought of Peru as the country of height but one can almost look down on Tiber from Bolivia.

PRIMITIVE IMPLEMENTS

Here the Indian tolls as is centuries even before the Incan civilization. Now he is breaking the land with his wooden plow behind his burro followed of course by his wife who drops the seed. There are many herds of goats and the Andes beast of burden, the llama. This hardy, nimble footed rather arrogant looking animal which is slightly larger than the goat is used extensively. How does one live in these thin air heights? Actually can one grow a number of the ordinary grain crops, produce milk and cheese and the vegetables which we know? Yes as I looked at their small self-sufficient farms, the poverty of living, I could not help but think that the average Canadian kitchen garden would serve like beauty to these people. Most of these people live in the Andes, cut off back by the all-piano by soldiers from this one of the most fruitless war in the Western Hemisphere. Bolivia fought over a desolate piece of territory, and the people is happiness. One evening a group of children came along to the train window while we were waiting, after we had sailed to Bolivia they sang to us some of their songs and danced. They were roly-poly little fellows and cute.

Crossing these plains I began to feel something of the spirit of America's idealism, something of the revolutionary attitude which we in the north are inclined to laugh.

We begins to dream of irrigation schemes which will harness the mountain torrents and, concretely, a continuous water supply for the summer dryness and the development of the mineral wealth locked in these mountains. After I arrived in La Paz I went to a missionary declaiming the Communists for taking away human initiative — after three months of human initiative, capitalist style, in Bolivia, I cannot help but it has much-by which to recommend itself. It has the spirit of humanism in the Latin revolution. I believe, but faced with an unbelievable lack of any sense of public service in the ruling classes it seems to me each time in only new oppression. Here in Bolivia this aspect of personal gain from public office reached such proportions recently that the Communists found no audio appeal to government officials not to steal so much from the public funds!

TIN OVER-VALUED

New ideas are creeping up on these heights and along with the gleaming oil pipe line which seems to be the one remaining hope for the Bolivian economy. The present government has seized many of the estates of the great land landlords and given them to the Indians. The present inflation is partly due to this and an attempt to pay living wage to the workers in the recently nationalized tin industry. Unfortunately this has so raised the price of Bolivian tin on the world market that it can scarcely be sold. The government depending on its labor support continues to subsidize the miners by printing money although work is almost at a standstill.

As we near La Paz the airplane breaks and falls off into a gorge some thousand feet deep. Everyone is attentive now as the train circles the brim of this valley to catch the first glimpse of La Paz. At last the train is in the valley and the city is in sight and there like a patchwork quilt lies La Paz. Among the lesser brown hills of the valley floor gleam modern white edifices, red tile roofs and one can imagine, even in the distance, the noise. I believe that one scarcely a single street which runs for one block that does not go up or down. The new arrival here feels quite "high."

Buildings have a fashion of beginning to move on you, my carefully prepared Spanish conversation is reduced to that in an exigencies gasp and it is almost as much an effort to prevent the vertigo as it is to negotiate the streets as it is to creep up them.

A senorita from the Bolivian SCM met me at the train and brought me to the Instituto Americano, a Methodist school up to university level. This school of 1,800 students lost over 90 windows in strikes during the last year. The house I am staying in was nicely sprayed with bullets during a gun battle in the school court yard a few months ago.

I attended the Bolivian SCM week's holy meeting in the YWCA the second night in La Paz. Some eleven students were present, the non-evangelicals and most of the boys from the engineering faculty. The discussion was on Evangelism in the University. In the first meeting they were to hear all about Canadian universities and SCM.

I am to stay in this city of peace, La Paz, until after Christmas. I have met the Cochabamba for the Latin American conference of student leaders from the countries near the line of the equator. On the close of this two weeks conference, January 15th, I shall be Santiago de Chile bound and to participate in the two-week summer camp of the Chileno SCM.

It is always rejoice in the good news of this season which comes to all of us whether we are in Plaz de Mayo, Buenos Aires or Dominion Square, Montreal, whether on the Argentina pampas or the Canadian prairie; whether we are now or have been of the tem pole peoples. Martin Luther says it well:

"Now God is of our image, God is of our flesh and blood! Now is heaven and earth wedded with our flesh and ours! Thou are our saviour and our brother who liest in a crib! Thou liest on our breasts, our sharest our needs, assurest us of thy glory."

Defence Minister Denies Rift With Gen. Graham

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Campney Tuesday denied that there is any rift between himself and Lt.-Gen. Howard Graham over public statements made by the chief of the general staff.

Mr. Campney, who returned to the capital by air Tuesday from a European vacation following the NATO Council meeting in Paris early last month, was asked by reporters on his arrival for comment on a news report which said he had taken exception to statements made by the general at a press conference here Dec. 5.

Gen. Graham said then that the army will recommend to the government within six months a plan for creation of its own air force. The report quoted informants as saying this was considered a matter of government policy and should not have been discussed publicly when a definite policy still had not been decided.

Mr. Campney said he has great admiration for Gen. Graham and was as surprised as anyone to read the report.

Centenary

CENTENARY — The Young People's and choir members held their annual carol-singing on Tuesday night and returned to the home of Rob Hart for soup and hot dogs.

EISENHOWER URGES FOREIGN AID PLAN

PHOTOS ROUSE FRENCH INDIGNATION

Here is the series of photographs showing the shooting of an Algerian native by a French policeman that has caused a wave of indignation in France. It is charged by L'Express, a new daily newspaper used by former Premier Mendes-France as a mouthpiece, that the shooting was arranged — that a newsreel cameraman hired a French auxiliary policeman to shoot a native in cold blood so that he could get exclusive pictures. THREE ITEMS LOOM LARGE ON AGENDA FOR NEW SESSION

Wheat Problem, Roads And Pipeline Issues

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Three items loom large on Parliament's legislative agenda for the new session opening Thursday: Wheat from Canada's wheat problem and two major construction projects, the trans-Canada highway and the natural gas pipeline from Alberta to Ontario and Quebec.

All three will get early attention from Canada's lawmakers, meeting for what is generally considered to be the second-last session before an autumn election in 1957.

Financial difficulties of western grain growers—and the agricultural surplus and marketing issue in general—likely will be the basis for major debate.

Progressive Conservative and CCF leaders already have strongly criticized the government's plan to help cash-short, grain-rich farmers by guaranteed loans and aid in the session's early stages for legislation to give it legal status.

REACHED AGREEMENT

On the pipeline front, the federal and Ontario governments have agreed to form a crown company to build a $118,000,000 northern Ontario link of the gas line from Alberta to the east planned by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

Government construction of the 560-mile section of 30-inch steel pipe east of the Manitoba border is contingent on Trans-Canada building the rest of the 2,550,000,000 line. The company still requires approval by the United States federal power commission for export of gas into the U.S. mid-west at the Manitoba border—a major part of its project.

Legislation to implement the crown company principle is expected to be introduced early in the session.

Another early measure would implement a new agreement for federal sharing of costs on the trans-Canada highway, aimed at making the long-planned project a paved 4,860-mile thruway.

The proposal continues 50-50 federal-provincial financing of the 4,580-mile highway. But as an impetus to speed closing of remaining gaps, it would provide for a 90-per-cent federal share of the cost of links of new highway. Rest of the road's mileage in any province.

Hydro to Spend 44 Million To Expand Power Facilities

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission is planning an immediate $44,800,000 expansion project to meet the needs of a province-wide economy upsurge.

Hydro chairman Richard L. Hearn, announcing the plans Wednesday, said they reflect the province's unabated progress in nearly all fields of activity.

Mr. Hearn said power requirements in the southern Ontario system increased by 14 per cent in 1955 over the previous year, more than double the average long-term rate of yearly increase since 1920.

"It is now apparent," he added, "that additional capacity will be required to provide a reasonable reserve in 1957 and 1958 to take care of such contingencies as low-water conditions, breakdown of equipment and abnormal load growth."

The plans call for two more 75,000-kilowatt units at the Sir Adam Beck-Niagara generating station No. 2 and one 200,000-kilowatt unit at Toronto's Richard L. Hearn station, largest steam-generating unit in Canada.

Work on the Niagara project, to cost $13,800,000, is scheduled for completion by 1957. The $32,000,000 Toronto unit is to be finished in 1958.

The 350,000-kilowatt increase in the province's output to be provided by the expansion program is equal to 90 per cent of the present capacity of the Hearn station.

The commission said the new units will provide an estimated power reserve of 338,000 kilowatts in 1958, based on the 1950-55 growth rate.

80TH BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED BY ADENAUER

Is Western World's Oldest Chief of Govt.

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today celebrated his 80th birthday, the Western world's oldest chief of a major government.

Pope Pius awarded the West German leader—a Roman Catholic—the Vatican's second highest award, the Order of the Golden Spur.

India's Prime Minister Nehru telegraphed congratulations and expressed the hope that Adenauer might long continue to serve his people.

President Eisenhower sent a personal letter of congratulations. Prime Minister Eden's message saluted Adenauer's record for West European co-operation, and another noted octogenarian—Sir Winston Churchill—wished the chancellor "greatest happiness and success."

Because Adenauer recovered from a serious attack of bronchial pneumonia only six weeks ago, family and physicians urged him to take it easy.

Der alte—the old one—as Adenauer is popularly called by the Germans, began his birthday Wednesday night at a dinner given by President Theodor Heuss. Then, yesterday he was serenaded by a children's choir outside his home. He arrived at his office shortly after 9 o'clock, and members of his staff greeted him while the first military band of the new German army played Adenauer's favorite hymn, "Praise The Lord."

Adenauer's 80th year took him to the first great post-war goal—the restoration of West German sovereignty and its military alliance with the Western powers.

In a birthday interview he recalled that German hopes of reunification were raised to the highest by Moscow's offer of diplomatic relations—and dashed to the ground by Foreign Minister Molotov at the Geneva conference. But he reminded his people:

"The world realizes the dangers of such great importance as the question of reunification of Germany, and therefore cannot be expected from one month to another.

"There must be patience and the tireless pursuit of the concept of reunification."

New York Times Says Senator Singles It Out in Red Hunt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate internal security sub-committee today called another employe of the New York Times, while disputing that newspaper's contention that it has been singled out in the Senate group's current search for subversion in the United States.

"It's quite quite obvious," The Times said in an editorial, "that the Eastland investigation has been aimed with particular emphasis at the New York Times."

"The New York Times denies when no one has accused it," replied Senator James Eastland (Dem. Miss.), the sub-committee chairman. "This is a fact. There is not under investigation."

The newspaper said it seemed obvious it had been made a target because of its condemnation "of such things as racial segregation and "McCarthyism and all its works", which it declared Eastland and two associates stand for.

The only witness named in advance of today's session was Otto Albrecht, described, as an employe of the New York Times.

In a day-long session Wednesday three of the seven witnesses were employees of The Times. The others were former Times employees.

WOULDN'T TRUST RED

The Times' 850-word editorial declared:

"So far as we are aware, no person named as a member of the party has been found among the more than 4,000 employees on our rolls . . . We would not, knowingly employ a Communist party member. We do not intend to entrust departments of this paper, because we would not trust his judgment, to report the news objectively or to comment on it honestly."

Noting that a few of its employees have acknowledged party membership in years gone by, The Times declared have pleaded the fifth amendment in avoiding testifying.

The Times said it will judge each such case on its merits.

"It is our own business to decide whom we shall employ and not employ. We do not propose to hand over that function to the Eastland sub-committee. . . Nor do we propose to permit the Eastland subcommittee . . . to determine in any way the policies of this newspaper."

Reiterating that it will continue to fix its own policies, The Times said: "Senator Eastland and Senator Wine "they are wasting their time. . . If further evidence of reveals that the real purpose of the present inquiry is to demonstrate that free newspaper's policies can be swayed by congressional pressure."

Eastland, who has bitterly criticized the Supreme Court's decision outlawing racial segregation in the schools, said:

"The New York Times denies when no one has accused it. It called that German hoax of reunification were raised to the highest by Moscow's offer of diplomatic relations—and dashed to the ground by Foreign Minister Molotov at the Geneva conference. But he reminded his people:

"The world realizes the dangers of such great importance as the question of reunification of Germany, and therefore cannot be expected from one month to another.

"There must be patience and the tireless pursuit of the concept of reunification."

'Night-and-Day Wine Party' Ends in Manslaughter Charge

TORONTO (CP)—James Smith, a 28-year-old unemployed tinsmith, was charged today with manslaughter in the death of his wife after what police called a "night-and-day wine party."

Police said Smith lurched into headquarters at 5 p. m. Wednesday and told an elevator operator to get "the homicide dicks."

"You'd better take a look at my wife," Acting Detective-sergeant Angus Taylor quoted him as saying.

CHILDREN LOCKED OUT

Police said they found 24 wine bottles on the floor of the room in their west-central home. The couple's three children were playing outside, locked out, when police arrived.

Smith told police he couldn't remember most of what happened. Neighbors told them they heard a noise from the home between 7 p. m. and 8 p. m. Tuesday night. Police said Smith told them he sent the children to school Wednesday morning and in the afternoon he realized his wife was dead.

WANTS HIS HALF

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—William C. Shelton Wednesday waived his right to contest a divorce sought by his wife, Peggy Lou, but he asked the court to force her to give him half of their wedding picture.

Today's Chuckle

Wife: "That's what I can't stand about you — you're so change-able. Monday you liked beans, Tuesday you liked beans, Wednesday you liked beans. Now it's Thursday. And all of a sudden you don't like beans."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Ontario lies in a weak high pressure area with clear skies in the northwest and cloudy skies and light snowflurries in southern Ontario and the eastern portion of northern Ontario. The clouds are expected to clear from northeastern region but southern region will remain generally cloudy with many intervals.

Cloudy skies and snowflurries don't return to the north country Friday as a new disturbance developing in southwestern Saskatchewan this morning moves toward the province and crosses central Ontario. Southern regions still remain cloudy with scattered snowflurries and some slight drizzle.

Powerful Bomb Rocks Palace Of Archbishop

MILAN, Italy (Reuters)—A powerful home-made bomb was thrown early today into the palace of Archbishop Giovanni Battista Montini, formerly a right-hand man of Pope Pius XII.

Damage was done to the palace but no one was injured.

The bomb was thrown through a window.

Today was the first anniversary of Msgr. Montini's arrival in Milan as archbishop.

The bomb exploded in the apartment of Msgr. Carlo Mariani, the archbishop's delegate for Catholic action. He was hurled out of bed, but not injured.

Police cordoned off all streets around the palace in one of the biggest search operations ever undertaken in Milan.

TRIPPED OVER CAT

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Jennie Bridgeland, 88, of Caledonia, N. Y., died Wednesday of injuries received Dec. 8 when she tripped over a cat at her home.

Toronto Plans Home

TORONTO (CP) — A $1,500,000 welfare scheme for homeless men now living in three separate homes will be built by the end of next year, it was learned today.

The 26-suite apartment building in the downtown district is to be demolished to make way for the new centre.

New GM 'Aerotrain' Makes Debut On Two Railroads in Eastern U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The revolutionary new lightweight "aerotrain" built by General Motors Corp. made its formal debut today on two American railroads.

A thousand miles apart, two separate units of the train, heralded by GM president Harlow H. Curtice as a "new concept" in railroading, set out on demonstration runs.

The New York Central Railroad scheduled one unit for the 903.5-mile trip from Chicago to Detroit. Later, the Pennsylvania Railroad was to put the other unit through its paces on a run of 216.6 miles from Washington to Newark, N.J.

The GM train, a sleek, 10-coach job of aluminum and steel pulled by a jet-speed diesel especially styled for it, is the latest entry in the field of lightweight trains. Three other manufacturers are making their own versions of what they think the passenger train of the future should be.

All of these trains are aimed at one goal: licking the chronic railroad passenger deficit.

Besides the lightweight trains have certain things in common: they are cheaper to operate, can be accelerated faster than conventional trains. Although economical, they are eye-catching, designed to lure back passengers from autos, buses and planes.

The GM "aerotrain" was labelled thus because of the "air flow" styling reminiscent of that used on GM buses. The springing is supplied by air bellows.

The train is 50 per cent lighter than conventional trains, 60 per cent lighter than the old streamliners of a generation ago, and can accommodate 400 passengers between New York and Chicago in 10 hours on $125 worth of diesel fuel, and a cruise at 100 miles an hour.

Like other lightweight trains, it is low-slung. Its centre of gravity is only 45 inches above the rails. Passengers are allowed underneath the floor, so the floor is almost as high as on a regular train, permitting better viewing.

Wants To Assist Non-Communist Lands For Years

President Asks Congress For Authority for Program

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower today appealed to Congress for special authority for programs of United States economic aid to the non-Communist world for "a period of years."

The president sent to Congress his annual "State of the Union" message outlining his proposals for legislation in the last year of his administration before the 1956 presidential election.

The president said the Big Four conference in Geneva last July had held out promise for the world of moderation in the bitterness of word and action which tend to generate conflict and war. But the latter Big Four conference between the Soviet and Western foreign ministers had "demonstrated conclusively that the Soviet leaders are not yet willing to create the indispensable conditions for a secure and lasting peace."

The president said the U. S. and Canada have substantially augmented their defence radar networks now spread from Alaska to Labrador Arctic between the United States and Russia.

"Great progress is being made in extending surveyance of the Arctic, the Atlantic and the Pacific approaches to North America," he said.

WANTS ACT CHANGED

The president also recommended sweeping revisions in the controversial McCarran - Walter Immigration Act. He recommended that the number of persons admitted each year to the U. S. should be based on the latest census in 1960 and not on the census of 1920.

He also said provision should be made to allow for greater flexibility in the use of quotas so that if one country did not use its share, the vacancies could be made available for the use of qualified immigrants from other countries.

He said he would submit detailed recommendations for correction of the immigration law later, including an amendment to permit the waiving of requirements of fingerprints, on a reciprocal basis, for persons coming into the U. S. on temporary visits. This requirement does not apply to Canadians.

The president promised American assistance for increased European unity, particularly in the development of atomic energy.

HELP FOR ASIA

In Asia, the U. S. would continue to give help to nations determined to maintain their freedom against the threat of Communist coercion or aggression.

In the Middle East, no effort would be spared to promote the solution of the "tragic dispute" between the Arab states and Israel.

On domestic affairs the president announced without qualification:

"I expect the budget for the fiscal year during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1956, I shall propose a balanced budget for the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1957."

But in order to maintain this balanced budget expenditures would have to be kept under control, and it would be necessary to continue all present excise taxes without reduction, and corporation income taxes at their present rate for another year beyond next April 1.

HUGE ROADS PROGRAM

The domestic program also called for:

1. A $25,000,000,000 program of federal aid to highways now in Congress failed to approve at the last session.

2. Farm legislation, including a "soil bank" program as part of a many-sided assault on the stubborn problems of surpluses, prices, costs and markets." The program will be detailed in a special message next week.

3. A five-year program of federal aid to school building.

4. A two-year slum clearance program under which 35,000 public housing units in each of the two years.

5. Creation of a commission to investigate charges that labor racketeering has been and menaced the right to vote.

Western Policy In Middle East Carefully Studied

LONDON (Reuters) — Western policy for countering the current Russian drive for influence in the Middle East was critically reviewed at a meeting today between Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and key British envoys from the troubled area.

Representatives of the British chiefs of staff, and senior Middle East diplomats, attended the conference.

The two-day meeting, specially summoned by Lloyd as soon as he became foreign secretary last month, opened Wednesday with statements from seven of Britain's ambassadors in Middle Eastern capitals—Egypt, Israel, Lebanon, Syria, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Jordan and the British political representative in the Persian gulf. Each gave his assessment of the situation in his own post.

Diplomatic sources said today's session was devoted to "frank debate" about what the Western powers should do to offset Russian efforts to win the friendship of the Arab world, along with the risk to the West of an extension of Communist influence southwards into Africa.

Former Trenton Airman Escapes As Jet Crashes

NORTH BAY (CP)—A CF-100 jet fighter dropped from the sky Wednesday night, and slashed through a quarter-mile of dense bush and wound up a blazing wreck at the foot of a birch tree. Its two-man crew escaped.

The big twin-jet plane was out of the RCAF fireamen by solid bush and burned most of the night with a glow visible up to 10 miles away.

The pilot, FO B. E. Field, 27, of Trenton, Ont., is in hospital with slight back injuries. Navigator FO Barry Jones, 26, of North Bay, is back on duty with 419 Squadron at North Bay RCAF Station, Ontario.

F/O Field resided at 15 Kerr Crescent, Trenton, until fall.

The RCAF said the 18-ton jet was up on a two-hour training mission when it lost contact with the control tower. It plunged out of a 230-foot ceiling and ripped into the ground a mile from the airfield.

Armstrong pulled Field from the cockpit and the two stumbled to safety, seconds before the fuel exploded. They struggled a quarter-mile through snow up to five feet deep and were picked up by an air force rescue team at the nearest highway.

Jap Village's 'Orchestra of Aunts' Celebrates 5th Birthday With Haydn

MISONO, Japan (AP) — The "orchestra of the aunts" celebrated its fifth anniversary today by dashing off Haydn's "Surprise Symphony."

This 75-piece orchestra, composed entirely of village housewives, is one of those things in Japan that could only be explained as occupation's "liberation" of Japanese women.

The "Obazan Gakudan" sprang up without outside urging five years ago in this small farm village three miles from the grand shrine of Ise, symbol of Japanese culture.

The housewives average 40 years of age. Five years ago they were undistinguished among millions who drudged in field and kitchen day and night.

Mrs. Tome Mori, now 48, was secretary of the village women's association. She couldn't read music, was irritated at the way village youth was gravitating to the juke box and dance hall, and asked a music teacher in the village to train them. Two could read notes. None had any instrumental training.

It didn't matter to the determined women. They studied and practised intensively at the village public hall. They held their first recital in October, 1950. It was a howling triumph.

Now the village kids hum Mozart, Schubert and Haydn.

Friar Plans 'Rest Home' For Gangsters

ROME (Reuters)—Gangsters deported from the United States to Italy will find a home waiting for them in Rome under the plans of a Neapolitan friar.

Rev. Biandino Dells Croce is said to have obtained a government permit to build a "rest home" for ill inmates in the suburbs of Rome.

Lucky Luciano, self styled "czar" of the New York underworld who was deported from the U. S. in 1946, today hoped he will do all he can to assist the friar.

Latest of some 30 well-known deportees from the U. S. to arrive here in the last five years will be Joe Adonis, 52-year-old gambling king who left New York by sea last Tuesday.

Acquitted of Contempt

BOSTON (AP)—Leon J. Kamin, 37, former research assistant at Harvard University now working at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., was acquitted today by Federal Judge Wiley Rutledge of a tempt of Congress for refusing answer questions about Commun affiliations.

Many Edmonton Streets Blocked, Schools Closed

EDMONTON (CP) — Snow sat north winds up to 38 miles an hour combined to make life miserable today in parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Sharply lower temperatures accompanied the storm, first of the new year but fourth of the season. Many Edmonton streets were blocked. Country roads were worse. Snowplows battled the blast. About 2,000 children in the nearby Barrhead school division. Edmonton schools were closed. Buses left about three hours.

The blizzard was moving into southern Alberta and through Saskatchewan.

Law Enforcement Answer to Death Toll on Highways

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Vigorous law enforcement—not more superhighways—is the answer to the death toll on Canadian highways, delegates to the 44th annual Ontario Chamber of Commerce convention here today were told by W. M. T. Ash, president of Shell Oil Company of Canada and chairman of the Canadian highway safety conference.

Mr. Ash cited the rapid rise in fatalities on two famous American super highways, the Pennsylvania turnpike and the New Jersey turnpike. There were 7.3 deaths per 100,000,000 vehicle miles on the Pennsylvania turnpike in 1954, he said, while the death rate for the remainder of the state's highway system was only 5.5. In 1953 the rate rose to 7.5 while for the rest of the system 5.1.

The New Jersey turnpike's ratio was 6.1 in 1952 compared with the overall state highway's rate of 4.7. But in 1953 the turnpike rate dropped 2.5, on a par with other state highways.

The answer is that New Jersey officials adopted a policy of strict enforcement," Mr. Ash said. "They now have the equivalent of one man on highway patrol duty 24 hours a day for each nine miles of turnpike."

Greater Winnipeg and Niagara Falls, Ont., were praised by Mr. Ash for their safety records. Between 1949 and 1954 traffic deaths in Manitoba increased by almost four per cent while in Winnipeg itself, as a result of a policy of rigorous enforcement, they dropped by 24.74 per cent. On Dec. 29, Niagara Falls had passed 630 days without a fatal accident, he said.

CITIZENS PETITION FOR RETENTION OF BOY'S SCHOOL HEAD

—Central Press Canadian

Shifting of William Little, above, as superintendent of the provincial training school at Cobourg, Ont., has raised a protest among citizens of the town. He was promoted from his post and transferred to the Brampton reformatory following his dismissal of a supervisor.

Hon. J. W. Foote, minister of reform institutions, will not act on the petition by Cobourg residents that Little be retained as supervisor in the school. Premier Frost has announced he would hold a personal investigation into the matter since it is charged that politics are interfering with management of the school.

Great Grey Owl Shot in County

An extremely rare bird, the great grey owl, which was shot about two days ago in Hastings county was found on the Moira River ice within the city limits, and is now in the possession of Mrs. Fred Wallis, Trent Road, who will mount it.

The owl in question is about 30 inches in length with a wingspread of 54 inches; a beautiful specimen with dusty-grey, mottled, brown feathers on top and lined in grey and white. The underside feathers have a broad centre strip of fairly dark brown, while the sides, flanks and under tail feathers are narrowly banded with the same dark brown.

The facial eye circles are six inches in diameter with concentric circles in black. The eyes are yellow as is the hooked beak.

These birds breed from the tree limits of Alaska to northern British Columbia and the northern prairies and sometimes in Northern Ontario, but this is irregular and at rare intervals.

The great grey owl, sometimes known as the "Spectral Owl," feeds on mice, squirrels and small birds.

The Seer of The O.I. Predicts 1956 Will Be Pretty Good Year

By GEORGE H. CARVER

If you are allergic to Friday the 13th; eclipses and proposals of marriage by the distaff side, better skip January 13th and find hibernation.

Like a convention hotel elevator, it will have its ups and downs. Many will be born, many die, and a host more people celebrate birthdays.

The Gentle Year is 1956, but to millions of the Jewish belief it will be 5717. Mohammedans will call it the year 1375. Canada will celebrate her 90th birthday come July 1.

If you are numerologist, or believe in astrology and the number 18 figures this year, look for clouds with a golden lining, for this number 18 is the year's figure of gold.

If you are interested in heavenly phenonema; and like to see Ole, Sol in blackface character, better make plans this year in the South Pacific. Your study of Biktnis at Bali-Bali will be interrupted for 30 minutes on June 8 when there will be a total eclipse of the sun—away—not in Canada.

If you have a chance to see a lunar blackout on November 19. The silvery moon will be ebony-faced for 72 mins. cent in Canada on that date. The partial eclipse of May 24 will be visible here.

If you need early shopping money for Christmas, start saving $3.20 a day January 1st. or backstroke it to the Christmas Day, July 1, which falls on Sunday, you will have increased $560. From there in you have only 150 shopping days left till Yuletide.

If you are superstitious and look askance on Friday's falling on the 13th, you can hibernate for three days this year. The unlucky day" occurs in January, July and April.

It will be the fifth year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. She celebrates her 30th birthday on April 21. The Queen Mother will be 58 on August 4.

Forget that long weekend next Yuletide. Christmas day falls on Tuesday this year. Good Friday will be observed March 30.

If you have any business with the Supreme Court of Canada you get three opportunities to conduct it. That august body sits on the fourth Tuesday in January; the fourth Tuesday in April and the first Tuesday in October.

If you have no marital encumbrances, and wish to remain that way, avoid the month of moon-eyed maidens. For 1956 is reputed season on eligible males, and a lot that are not eligible. Also the gals' year to go man-hunting, and stretch the sights are being lined. If you are not married, fall under a truck and get the look—if you want to remain in single harness.

Otherwise it will be a normal year. If war does not break out there will be peace. A million gridiron fanatics will watch professional football and nearly that many pro hockey. Yes, it's the year of the Olympic Games. Farmers will complain about prices, and mortality rate on New Year's resolutions will be comparable. People will be cheated. The fishing will be as good as last year, and politicians will ride over the back fence.

Mind reading Cadillacs will retain top spot in the peace-making league. A lot of people will be married and unwittingly commit suicide. Hospitals will be busy with maternal cases. A lot of youngsters will start school, and a lot will leave the classic corridors. Some will get a job if the old man is not working.

Along normal lines there will be strikes and elections. The Dodgers and Yankees will battle for the world series. Swimmers will conquer the English Channel. Feminine chapeaux and coiffures will change. Safe stats will feature that "slim, narrow" look with a few exceptions. Vacation spots will do field-day business. So will Reno. Fraters will have another government. Marilyn Monroe will go unchallenged by distaff competitors. Jackie Gleason's "belt" of Alley will prove unchallenged. There will be movies, television, the stage, and boxing.

It looks like a good year.

Obituary

JAMES R. REYNOLDS (Trenton)

Funeral services were held on Tuesday for James R. Reynolds, 44 Dufferin Ave., Trenton, who died January 1st in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Rev. E. Blackford officiated at the services held in Weaver's Funeral Home. Interment was in St. Andrew's cemetery.

Bearers were: Roy and William Deshane, Percy Barry, Amos Westfall, Frank Lawson and Harold Stinson.

In his 44th year, Mr. Reynolds was a life resident of Trenton. Until his retirement he was clerk for the Canadian National Railways. Born in Trenton he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reynolds. His death followed an illness of over two months.

He is survived by three daughters and one son: Mrs. Newman Deshane, Carrying Place, and Mrs. Walter Perry, Mrs. Donald Cooper and James R. Reynolds, all of Detroit, Mich.

Also surviving are 14 grandchildren and two brothers, Albert and Robert Reynolds.

MRS. MINNIE BRUCE (Napanee)

NAPANEE (CP) — Mrs. Minnie Bruce, 99, long a Napanee resident, died Wednesday in a Kingston rest home.

Born Minnie Howard, she was a native of Marysburgh township in Prince Edward County. Her first husband was George Brooks. She was wed to Joseph Bruce, who also predeceased her. Her one wish was to live to 111, the age at which her mother died.

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Rosa Brown of Oshawa, and a son, Leonard Brooks of Royal Oak, Mich.

MRS. LILLIAN MAUDE BLATHERWICK (2nd Concession Tyendinaga)

A life resident of her community, Mrs. Lillian Maude Blatherwick died yesterday at her home on the 2nd concession of Tyendinaga. She was in her 84th year.

Born in Melrose, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Badgley. Her husband, Thomas, predeceased her nine years ago. Mrs. Blatherwick, a member of Melrose United church, was an active community worker, contributing to many times, when ill-health permitted, to the WA and the WMS.

She leaves two daughters and two sons: Mrs. Damon (Irene) Hinchey, Shannonville; Miss Marion, at home; William, of Belleville and John, at home.

Also surviving is one brother, Eugene Badgley, of Melrose, six grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Resting at her late residence. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Marilyn Monroe Gets Contract For $8,000,000

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After a year-long squabble, shapely Marilyn Monroe returns to 20th Century-Fox studio next month with a seven-year contract, estimated at more than $8,000,000.

The deal, announced Wednesday, ended one of the most publicized walkouts in film history.

The actress was reported dissatisfied with the salary she was being paid. She said she was making less than $500 a week when she first appeared in the title of the movies' top ten box office stars.

The contract — with Marilyn Monroe Productions, Inc. — calls for four pictures in the seven years on a non-assets-sharing basis.

NO SUPERLATIVE

Officially, the studio tended to minimize the importance of the Monroe coup. But one 20th-Fox producer commented:

"Believe me, there was only one topic of conversation in the producers' private dining room and that was Marilyn's fantastic deal."

Questioned about his use of the word "fantastic," the producer replied:

"I've been in this business a long time, and when I tell you a deal is fantastic, you know I mean fantastic."

'Incendiary Bomb' Soldering-Iron Heating Element

PITTSBURGH (AP) — After 24 hours of anxiety, army bomb disposal officers have identified the small object found aboard a TWA passenger plane as a soldering-iron heat element often used by air-plane mechanics.

Lewis Rinebold, head of the civil aeronautics authority here, Wednesday night said the object apparently was harmless unless it was set off—and it would require considerable force to do so. He said a mechanic probably dropped it after some repair job. It in Chicago before the plane took off Tuesday on a flight to Washington.

The pilot discovered the object in the aisle of the plane and turned it over to a TWA representative at a stop in Wheeling, W. Va. Finally, an army bomb disposal unit and the FBI joined the investigation on the possibility" that sabotage was involved.

Rinebold said the heat element was a nichrome steel cylinder containing a small amount of magnesium and some chemical powder.

Grace Kelly To Wed Prince Of Monaco

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The parents of film star Grace Kelly today announced the betrothal of their blonde daughter to Prince Rainier III of Monaco, often referred to as one of the world's most eligible bachelors.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelly issued a statement which said:

"We are happy to announce the betrothal of our daughter, Grace, to His Serene Highness, Prince Rainier III of Monaco."

The prince met the American motion picture star when she was on the French Riviera making a film.

Mrs. Kelly also announced that a luncheon would be held today for the newly - engaged couple. Close friends and relatives of the Kelly family have been invited to the private affair.

At a press conference with Miss Kelly and the prince has been announced for Jan. 6 at 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the family home here. When the prince left for his visit to the U.S., all the subject had testily hoped he would bring back a bride.

They are anxious for him to get married and have children because Prince Pierre, next in succession to France the tiny principality reverts to France—and French taxes —if he dies without an heir.

Liberal Members Promise to Aid Ford Workers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Two Liberal members of Parliament have promised to raise in the House of Commons complaints by Ford of Canada workers against recent changes in the Unemployment Insurance Act.

D. F. Brown, member for Essex West, and S. M. Clark, member for Essex South, said Wednesday they also will confer on the complaints with unemployment insurance commission officials in Ottawa.

Mr. Brown and Mr. Clark met officials of Local 200, United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL), Wednesday night to explain the changes in the act.

Union officials would be invited to attend the Ottawa meetings with the commission, they said.

The union has complained that several hundred Ford workers recently laid off will lose benefits because of new regulations which require a minimum of 30 weeks of contributions by a worker during the two years preceding his layoff.

The regulation states that eight weeks of contributions must have been made during the last 52 weeks.

A union spokesman at the meeting said any worker laid off for several months may find his claim denied.

Police Court

Speeding charges continued to predominate the county magistrate's court docket today with no less than 30 such charges listed on the docket containing 101 cases.

Traffic cases ranging from speeding charges to failure to keep license plates readable comprised the big percentage of the docket. Most of the traffic charges were settled out of court.

PRELIMINARY HEARING

Following the completion of the regular court the preliminary hearing of Garry Marriott, 21, charged with raping a 17-year-old local girl, commenced and was expected to take most of the day. Two other local youths, Ronald Sharpe, and Gulseppe Ferraro are charged with the same offence with Sharpe having been committed for trial last week by Magistrate T. Y. Wills. The youths were charged separately and a separate preliminary hearing for Marriott was asked by his counsel Kenneth G. M. Ross.

Police Blotter

The crime front in the city and district has apparently taken a holiday.

Both provincial and city police today reported an exceptionally quiet 24 hours with the few occurrences noted being of a routine nature.

In the city a complaint was received from a Geddes street resident about boys playing with air rifles, while a Wilkins street man reported an attempt to force entry to his auto. He found one of the rear windows broken.

Children were believed responsible for breaking into a bootlegger on the local Lakeshore front. The only thing missing was some fishing tackle.

Neither city nor provincial police reported any motor vehicle accidents.

Wife and Three Children Chased From Their Home

QUEBEC (CP) — A 35-year-old man was expected to be arraigned in court here today on related assault charges after allegedly chasing his wife and three children from their Leclerville, Que., home Wednesday and firing two shots at them from a rifle.

The man was identified as Leonce Demers of Leclerville, 30 miles southwest of Quebec. Police said he fled into the countryside on foot after the three eldest children fled to a neighbor's home after allegedly being threatened. A two-month-old baby remained in the Demers house, but was not harmed.

Police said Urbain Lambert, mayor of Leclerville, attempted to pacify the man but was driven away by a rifle shot.

Larder Lake Shootings Blamed On High-Grading

LARDER LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Chief Constable S. Timmerman testified Wednesday that illegal dealings in high-grade gold ore led to the fatal shooting of a hotel owner and a rooming house operator last Nov. 27.

He told a coroner's jury investigating the death of Mike Woloszyn, 53, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel here, that Woloszyn and Vasso Kraly, 51, were concerned together in high-grading deals.

The jury ruled that Woloszyn "died by a gun Shot wound in the head, fired from a revolver in the hands of Vasso Kraly."

Earlier another jury decided that Kraly "died from a self-inflicted gunshot wound." The hearings were held in this village, 18 miles west of Kirkland Lake.

Evidence was that Kraly used revolver to kill Woloszyn before he and then ran to his home and shot himself in the head with a shotgun on a hook and pulling the gun toward him.

ROGUE ABOUT LOAN

Chief Timmerman said the shootings occurred after a discussion between the two as to how Kraly should repay money he had borrowed from Woloszyn to finance his defence on a charge of high-grading.

He said police had learned Woloszyn obtained a first mortgage on Kraly's rooming house by advancing between $4,000 and $5,000 when Kraly needed money to pay his defence counsel.

Woloszyn was leaving Larder Lake and Kraly must have worried that he would foreclose on the mortgage, Chief Timmerman said.

Mrs. Vera Woloszyn, widow of the hotel proprietor, said her husband was shot in the hotel sitting room.

She said Kraly entered and her husband asked him to sit down and have a glass of beer.

"At first he said no, but then decided to sit down, and when my husband got up Kraly shot him with a revolver," she testified.

Chief Timmerman said the revolver was found in Kraly's home. Kraly was found dead in another room with gunshot wounds in his chest and abdomen.

Measles Epidemic

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Sixty cases of measles among the 375 pupils in the public school at nearby Chippewa village have closed its doors until Monday, authorities said today. Most of the cases are in a mild form and medical officials throughout the greater Niagara district said they do not consider the outbreak an epidemic.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Stock market prices edged ahead today in the heaviest first-hour trading in almost four months. Of the 1,885,000 shares traded up to 11 a. m. 463,000 were of one issue, Orenada Gold Mines, following an underwriting. The stock gained eight cents at $3.

Industrials moved ahead in utilities, manufactures, foods, liquors, constructions and textiles. Papers and steels posted more losses than gains. Refining oils were mixed.

International Bronze gained $1.25 at 10¼. Walker's and Ford A added a point. Gatineau and Weston A firmed major fractions.

Algoma was off $2 at 98¼. Supertest ordinary traded actively, losing 20 cents at 24¾; as the company president denied rumors it would be sold to United States interests. B-A Oil eased ¼.

Base metals were at a new index high. Seniors traded in a fractional range. International Nickel gained ¼. Coast Copper added 20 cents at $7.75.

Other mines traded sluggishly. Can-Met gained 16 at $2.86 in the uranium section. Gunnar was off ⅛.

Pacific Pete and General Pete tacked on 25 cents in western oils.

Scientists Start To Sample Smog

LONDON (Reuters) — Scientists put operation smog into action early today as the worst fog of the winter covered London.

Officials of the government's scientific and industrial research department and 250 volunteers donned anti-smog masks and set up portable laboratory equipment to gauge the grim content of the first "pea-souper" of the new year.

Prompted by parliamentary debate, government and council action, the experts were reminded that 4,000 Londoners died in the last "great smog" in December, 1952. Smog sampling will continue around the clock until the fog lifts.

Meanwhile, the curtain of smog reduced early morning London traffic to a crawl. Visibility was nil in places.

Find Girl's Body In Rocky Ravine

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — The body of a 16-year-old blonde, a bullet through her head, was found in a rocky ravine Wednesday, eight miles from the lovers' lane where her 'air force sweetheart was slain.

Patsy Patricia Kalitzke's fully clothed body lay at the foot of a 20-foot embankment off a highway six miles northwest of this central Montana city.

The girl's escort, Lloyd Duane Bogle, 18, of Waco, Tex., was found face down beside his parked car Tuesday morning, his hands bound behind his back. He also had been shot in the head.

Sheriff D. J. Leeper said there was little doubt that the same persons killed both.

Prime Minister Is Unable to Attend Meeting

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent notified Toronto board of trade president that he was not Finance Minister Harris are unable to arrange a meeting with the board, requested last year to discuss the right to tax federal government properties in the city.

The government pays taxes on 75 per cent of its property when assessment is more than two per cent of the municipality's total assessment.

In Toronto federal government property is assessed at $18,000,000 or 1.2 per cent of the city's total assessment.

The prime minister's letter said Mr. Harris is attending NATO meetings in Paris and will not return to Ottawa until after this month. Parliament starts Jan. 10 and during the session there will be morning sittings, preventing additional appointments for both.

After hearing a letter, board of control promptly decided to send another request for a meeting, with copies to each Toronto member of Parliament.

Nickel Company Will Ask Court To Quash Ruling

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — The International Nickel Company Ltd., Wednesday announced it will ask the Ontario Supreme Court to quash a board of arbitration ruling handed down Dec. 6 in a grievance case.

An official of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.), said the move was unprecedented in Canada.

The company said it will present a motion Jan. 17 to have the board's majority award reversed.

The case concerns the dismissal of an employee, Adam Rivando, member of the union's Local 637. Mr. Rivando was sentenced Aug. 16 to 30 days in jail for impaired driving. He said he informed the company of his sentence by mail Aug. 26 and asked for a short leave of absence. Upon returning to work Sept. 17, he was told he no longer was required.

The company argued Mr. Rivando's absence from work constituted a "quit" under the terms of the company - union agreement, which defines a quit as 14 days' absence without leave.

A board of arbitration, comprising Judge Ian M. Macdonell, H. Brooke Bell and Harvey Murphy, Mine-Mill union official, ruled that Mr. Rivando should be reinstated.

Mr. Murphy said Wednesday:

"The company's action in this case, in refusing to accept the board's decision under the Ontario Labor Relations Act, threatens the very foundations of labor unions of Canada."

Latin American Expansion Said Akin to Canada's

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times, in a special section devoted to business expansion in the western hemisphere, compares Canada's progress to that of the "sensational rise" of Latin America.

In an accompanying editorial, The Times says that "the spectacular rise of Canadian industry has led to well publicized that it tends to obscure an equally sensational rise in Latin America."

"The western hemisphere," it adds, "is just as dynamic, exciting and full of troubles as every other part of the world, but the action is on progress."

In the special section, similar to one published earlier this week by the New York Herald Tribune, the 1954 - recovery, of Canada's business, coupled with the activity now under way on the St. Lawrence seaway, is compared with the emergence of the central and South American countries in recent years.

It notes the "Peron legacy" in Argentina, where the dictatorship was overthrown during a year of violent political action and inflationary trends in Brazil and other countries where the population is outstripping the means of production, leaving the impression that Canada is still an ideal area compared with the booming southern hemisphere.

Eight pages of the special section are devoted to Canada, covering activity from the iron ore developments of the east to the aluminum of the west coast.

France Hunting For Premier to Fuse Groups

PARIS (Reuters) —France is hunting for a premier who can bring the centre group enemies of the Jan. 2 elections together into a "government of union" to protect the country's parliamentary institutions.

More efforts were being made today to loosen some of the alliances formed during the election period and thus leave a "elbow room" for a government with some hope of commanding a majority in the new assembly.

One of these was expected to be made at a meeting between Pierre Mendes-France, head of the Radical party, and Guy Molle, secretary of the Socialist party, who together led the moderate-left alliance in the election campaign.

Many French political observers doubt whether the two men will continue to agree.

BREAK WITH PAST

Sources close to Mendes-France state that he thinks a brutal break must be made with the habits of compromise and bargaining that governments have developed since the war.

Speculation on the possibilities of some form of national union in the next assembly is being conditioned by the heightening tension over Algeria.

Some observers believe that if union government is formed, Mendes-France has little chance of heading it. But they also believe that if a union government fails to come about, Mendes-France may, under growing pressure from Algeria, repeat in some form applicable to the Algerians his spectacular offer of 1954, when he undertook to settle the Indochina question by a fixed date or resign.

A PLACE FOR TELEVISION

"When the opening of Parliament is televized by the CBC on January 10th," writes A. E. Powley of Toronto in "CBC Times," "viewers will see more than an important political event and more than a stately and time-honored ceremony. An opening is actually a living representation of the far-away origins of our parliamentary form of government, and a dramatic reassertion of the independence of the representatives whom the people elect."

This may all be true. Still, surely there is a more important role that the television cameras could play than merely recording a stately ceremony. Our parliamentary system will flourish or fade not by virtue of its origins, however noble, but on its performance today. Television could bring into the homes of Canadians a record of that performance, could provide the people with evidence of the manner in which they are being served by their representatives, so that they may praise and reward or rebuke and reject these men and women in accordance with their performance.

We are not suggesting that the television cameras should be focused on the House throughout its hours of debate, attempting to turn the deliberations of Parliament into an entertainment and tempting the members to turn into entertainers. We Canadians have already been critical of the manner in which the lights of publicity have been focused on certain functions of government in the United States. We do not want this performance duplicated here. Nor are there many people who would devote hour after hour to following the deliberations of the House.

There is, however, no good reason why we should not be given revealing glimpses of the manner in which our representatives conduct our business. To be effective and truthful, there ought to be no stage-setting. If the cameras were set up in the House on days when, at irregular times, recording not only the dramatic but the routine. If this record was made on film, this could be shown at a regular time, so that those who were interested could follow the record. And people would tune in their favorite comedy show or dramatic hour. If the members had no means of knowing in advance when the cameras would grind, it would be able to obtain a fairly accurate knowledge of the way the House conducts the affairs of the nation. There is no sound reason why there should be any more objection to this type of reporting for the eye than there is to the present reporting of the proceedings through newspapers.

ROYAL CLEMENCY

The Queen has granted royal clemency to three murderers in three days.

We have no means of knowing how Her Majesty felt when she granted royal reprieves to these three killers. We should not be surprised, though, if she was a little disgusted with our system which places the real power to grant a reprieve in the hands of an "adviser," the Home Secretary, and then shoves the responsibility for these reprieves onto the shoulders of royalty.

One of the most elementary rights of a man who has battered a young child to death in a rage over its crying. Another killed his 21-months-old son. A third slew his wife.

There is a certain pattern to all these cases. If a man goes out and shoots a policeman who is trying to arrest him for some crime, he is almost certain to go to the gallows. While the murderer is reprieved. We find it a little difficult, however, to understand why shooting a policeman, or a bank clerk, or a taxi driver is a more reprehensible crime than battering a child to death. Here in Canada it has become increasingly evident in recent years that if one has a real yen to kill it is relatively safe to satisfy this desire if one selects a small and helpless child as the victim and if the child is related to one by ties of blood, marriage or even mere co-habitation with one of its parents.

The latest list of royal reprieves suggests that a similar tendency to look on murder lightly exists in Britain in cases where the victim is helpless or a relative. We refuse to believe, however, that the Queen is responsible for this attitude which would wish that the Home Secretary might be moved to himself accept the responsibility for these decisions.

ATOMIC-POWERED AIRPLANE COMING

In the badlands of southeastern Idaho, tests will commence shortly on an engine which may eventually drive the world's first atomic plane through the skies.

The engine was built by the General Electric Co. at Evandale, Ohio. It consists of a compact atomic reactor harnessed to either a turboprop or a jet capable of generating tremendous amounts of power.

If this earthbound prototype of tomorrow's atomic airplane engine passes tests, another two or three years may see a mammoth plane take to the air, powered by the splitting of atoms.

If that big plane carries in its belly an atomic bomb, we shall have a striking example that man can turn the scientist's discoveries to widely differing purposes, can use the work of genius either to destroy or for constructive ends.

All in all it's a good old world - It's a good old world when you
And I'm mighty glad I'm here. sum it up
With miles and miles of smiles And look at the joys we get, unfurled The times we drink from old pleasure's cup
And tons and tons of cheer, And the tears that we sit and With hours and hours of dancing fret, joy, There's never a day but that
And weeks and weeks of birth, some bird sings,
In spite of kickers and what they And never a minute fleeting say, But joy to some bettered heart
I hold it's a good old earth. it brings
And sets it to gaily beating.

A Bank Looks at Libraries

(From the Royal Bank Monthly Letter)

Too many of us have thousand dollar kitchens and ten dollar libraries.

A lack of library service has implications for business, industry and national material development. Students are graduating from our universities in science, engineering, business administration, medicine and other faculties. While taking their courses they had at their fingertips ready collections of books to answer their questions, spur investigation and stimulate their minds. Now, engaging in practical work, they find themselves cut off from well-stocked shelves.

To understand what is going on in the world today requires knowledge that can be found only in books, and not in books in the right background against which to judge current events. The public library alone is the one which can reach of it a select society of all the centuries to which we are admitted for the price of rental, an expense of building our own shelves of books.

There were eighty-five public libraries in operation in Canada more than 10,000 population in 1954, and 28 regional libraries. The urban libraries, according to DBS, contained 3,466,887 volumes of which 509,000 were added in 1954. Current expenditures amounted to $2,773,320, or $1.30 per capita of the population.

Today's $2.50 to $5 book is cheap when compared with the price paid by the Countess of Derby in the tenth century for a volume of sermons by a German monk: two hundred sheep, a full suit of cost, one load of rye, and hoe load of millet.

In more than one locality the public library has come to be regarded as the heart of the community, around which revolves the studies and interests of the people. A meeting place for many groups important feature of the branch library.

Some libraries provide services that are extensions of their main job: movie films, film strips, photograph collections, and paintings or prints. They bring to their plat-forms speakers on many subjects ranging from the rearing of a child to the planning of a municipal centre, and display lists of books for follow-up study.

Practical people have found that a visit to the public library can save them money, time and effort. By searching the literature of their business they make sure that somebody else hasn't already done the same work, and thus consider data to make their calculations and their planning easier.

It is not enough to prohibit crime comics; positive action is needed. Good books, with interest equalling that of the "comics" must be made available under guidance of an understanding librarian.

Intelligent book selection is the prime need. Without other materials of knowledge, they must be the supreme tool of thought, they must stimulate individual development, and they must enlarge and clarify understanding.

If acquisition of books is based solely upon the already demonstrated interests of readers, the librarian is not taking his proper role in the process of community development. The librarian who is just a little ahead of his patrons' demands is playing a constructive role.

Up-to-date librarianship calls upon display, advertising and publicity to make people aware of what the shelves hold, and upon methods of listing that make books easy to find.

Librarians must know their books and how to care for them; they must know their patrons and how to serve them. They are classed with the minister and the school-teacher as community leaders and public servants.

The librarian presides over materials that enshrine the wisdom of the past and furnish the understanding, knowledge and reason that can inform the mind and prepare the reader to meet the challenges of today. The true measure of his service is the extent to which he has made the great world of books a living, appealing, inspiring reality to those his library serves.

Behind the library and the librarian is a philosophy, a feeling of purpose. Civilization, it has been said, is based essentially on three processes: the discovery of knowledge, the preservation of knowledge, and the transmission of knowledge. The library is more than a stockpile: it is a communication centre through which the custodian transmits knowledge to his world.

Here are the best books, providing an education that is not formalized but is of the wider sort: the culture of mind and spirit. What facilities we develop for use of the library; what practical help we obtain in our jobs and in getting to understand human nature; what opportunities we uncover to enrich our lives: these are ours to take or leave.

Andrew Carnegie said: "I choose free libraries as the best agencies for improving the masses of the people, because they give nothing for nothing. They only help those who help themselves. They never pauperize."

Books instruct us without rods or ferules, without force or words of anger. If we approach them, we find them friendly; if we question them, they give us answers, even if we are ignorant, they do not upbraid us. They bring us real relief from trouble, rest after weariness, comfort in distress and companionship in solitude. Books help us to see beyond our immediate task and to gain if sense of the whole.

Teachers will find that their libraries provide a valuable reinforcing of a friendly alliance with the public library. Text books are designedly limited in scope, with little or no invitation to question or debate. These may be supplemented by books reading that will stir visions and stirs an explorative spirit.

It is generally accepted today that a knowledge of reading and writing is necessary to our happiness, if not indeed, to our survival. Here, then, is an opportunity for public libraries. The concept of adult education was enunciated as the prime responsibility of the public library as early as 1850.

Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn in "Make In Study Fire": "among his books a man laughs at his bonds and finds in an open road out of every form of imprisonment."

The public library is an adult school of a lifelong class. The books it contains are the true levellers in civilization. They give to all who use them the society of the best and the greatest of our race. They say to servants the same as they say to kings.

Reds Face Mammoth Job

(Windsor Daily Star)

No state can be really progressive and prosperous unless it can be literate. That means ability to read the written word.

This is brought to light of the Communist regime in China which wishes to imbue 600,000,000 people with the principles of Communism. It is estimated only 30 per cent of the people in China can read and write. In Canada, the laundry industry has long found Coverall a way of doing up a shirt so that it comes neat and flat with out the bother and work of the laundry. It does away with the collar they used to flash in religious' faith. Where religious faith begins to operate, prayer has power far beyond anything we can understand suddenly take hold and begin to work with us more wonderfully.

Believe, as you confront the new year, that the principles of faith will enable you to give substance to the things you hope for, that it will be a test of the unseen. The unseen becomes the substance and a life that limps is the difference between faith and no faith.

Bundle Up, You Namby-Pambies

Tis the point and long remembered is this testimonial from an Alabaman.

Thank you for relieving me of the task of bundling our kids in the winter. They and their coats or other extra coverings when they want them. I wish people were not so hard headed . . .

(Mrs. .....)

And, I hope, the kids go without coats, hats, chest protectors, mufflers, earlaps and the like whenever these appurtenances may be uncomfortable or a nuisance.

From the allusion to thick headed people I infer that the fishwives in the neighborhood have been going to town about the way the lady neglects her children.

Dr. Leonard Hill, an English physiologist who is an authority on ventilation, says:

"It is absurd to put on an overcoat when going out for a walk. It is bad to go out and be braced by feeling cold and to be impelled to take vigorous exercise."

Utah lady says:

My neighbors consider me crazy or maybe just cold-hearted and careless because I let our kids go with or without coats, hats, sweaters, mufflers et cetera just as they please in any kind of weather. But I cannot help noticing that our choir bills are lower than our neighbors' the year around. Just luck, do?

(Mrs. J. N. L.)

Yes, in a way it is lucky for your children that their mother somehow received a good education, common sense, and

Let no casual reader infer that I harbor a freak notion that it is better for any one to be uncomfortably cold or wet than it is to be comfortably dry or warm.

On the other hand, when child bearers feel more comfortable with a coat, hat, muffler, thick stockings or underwear, shirt, pants or other conventional garments than he or she does without 'em, in any season or weather, the individual's personal preference alone should determine the wear, or leave off. We are talking about the health of ordinary folk. If your charge is feeble-minded you may have to put him when to button up his overcoat or take off his hat.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

STAY IN THE LIGHT

I came across this line in reading: "If a man lives in shadow, the hour comes at last when there is no more light." It's the light that guides us, so let us never get afraid of it. Only as the shadows contrast and beautify all light are shadows themselves beautiful.

As all work and no play made Jack a dull boy, so would life grow miserable without the relief of shadows. Life is essential to give the shadows, and all life grows and is full of beauty because of its light.

Often the shadows creep into our lives and we feel discouraged and lonely. But it may be only across the street that the sun still shines. It's that near; we have not to stay in the light and reap its health - giving rewards. I have known people who seemed to enjoy being miserable more than being happy.

It's in the sunlight that all nature thrives. It's on the warm sunny days that the birds sing their loveliest. Few of them choose the night in which to utter their bursts of song. They stay in the light and mingle their songs with the sunbeams.

What a blessing is every human being who gives of courage and hope even though he or she may be carrying a heavy heart. All of us have our degree of sorrow but burdens to bear. It's best to remain cheerful when we can, that's the impression that we are among the happiest of mortals. I am sure that it's worth it.

A painter demands light in his painting. It is essential to give body and contrast, and to put feeling into it. With no light there would be no painting. It's that way with us, to a large degree, we cannot get without the light.

What a glorious day it is when we pass through it without ever meeting an unhappy person! If we stay in the light, however, we are sure to find the happiest people there.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Just because a few hundred thousand Canadians spent some months years overseas in the army learning the late war, the impression is fairly general that Canadians know and understand the English people a little better than formerly. There is one thing about England that ought to be generally understood, however, and which ex-service men are not likely to have encountered. And it is this: the English still use shirts that have detachable collars iron it at the laundry.

In the services, you either did your own laundry, sent out to a commercial one or you got some nice girl's mother to do it for you. You rarely if ever came in contact with a professional English laundry.

Thus if you go back to Britain now, as very well you might, you are in jeopardy. You are liable to be caught in the toils of detection. In Canada, the laundry industry has long since discovered a way of doing up a shirt so that it comes neat and flat with out the bother and work of the laundry. It does away with the collar they used to flash in religious' faith. Where religious faith begins to operate, prayer has power far beyond anything we can understand suddenly take hold and begin to work with us more wonderfully.

Believe, as you confront the new year, that the principles of faith will enable you to give substance to the things you hope for, that it will be a test of the unseen. The unseen becomes the substance and a life that limps is the difference between faith and no faith.

Could Be Worse

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Things seldom turn out quite so badly as they could. Remember when there were dire predictions that television would bring back the musical saw?

Algar's Tales Outmatched

(Ottawa Journal)

Horatio Alger, the man who wrote "Success" books for boys, never approached in his wildest imaginings a story like Henry Ford, the man who at the turn of the century launched an automobile industry and $27,000 which in 50 years was to have assets of more than $2 billion.

Henry Ford was the son of a poor Irish immigrant. The story is told that when Canada's martyred D'Arcy McGee was publishing a paper in New York one American Colt — he used to go down to meet immigrant ships and advise Irish immigrants not to stay in the cities, to go West on the land, and that one of the young men he so advised was Henry Ford's father.

Whether the story is fact or fiction, at least it is true that Henry Ford began life with little, lacked education, capital or powerful friends. Yet at a time when the covered carriage was a luxury, the ox-cart still in much of North America and the automobile a wild dream, this man with a few thousand dollars launched an automobile factory.

The story thereafter is sheer romance; the story of the rise of an industry which sparked the industrial and financial growth of North America, revolutionizing social as well as economic life, giving employment through itself and allied industries to more people than any other single activity, setting a continent with magnificent highways.

In Henry Ford's knowledge there were many gaps; his famous World War I "Peace Ship" revealed his intellectual limitations. Yet clear it became and remains that he was an extraordinary individual, a man of remarkable vision and courage, in his way a nation builder.

And how the vast financial empire which he built passes from his family to literally millions of small owners is a lesson in how what capitalism has come to mean in our world of today and remains the vast sums of money this transaction will represent hundreds of colleges and universities all over the continent (there is to be $500,000,000 for them) will be in better position to give to millions of young Americans the advantages which Henry Ford lacked.

In the biographies of individuals and of business there is little more strange or stirring.

Size of the North

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Did you ever take a good look at the map f Canada and relate the size of Northern Ontario to the rest of the country? Have you noticed, for example, that the distance from the western boundary line to New Liskeard is the same as that from there to Nova Scotia? Almost the same as from Lake of the Woods to Lethbridge?

Or put it another way, did you know that the breadth of Northern Ontario is just about a quarter of the breadth of Canada from coast to coast?

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FOURTH STEP IN THE NEW YEAR

The fourth helpful step for every Christian to take in the new year is the step of faith.

The Bible contains few definitions, but it does contain a definition of faith. "Now faith is the giving substance to things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Heb. 11:1, marginal rendering).

Faith is more than hope more than belief. It is the movement of the whole of one's personality in the direction of the unseen. Faith is the only take place when the spirit of God takes hold of the spirit of man and works together. Faith is a supernatural power through the exercise of which things utterly incredible occur. Jesus once said that if a person has sufficient faith, he could lift up mountains and cast them into the sea. Faith operates in business, in government, in scholarship, in romance, in military campaigns; but the highest of all varieties of faith is religious' faith.

'Tamburlaine' Dazzles Critics At Royal Alex

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Sheer barbarism, wrapped in Elizabethan English and set in Asiatic splendor, was unleashed on the Royal Alexandra Theatre's stage here Wednesday night. And a capacity audience got a preview at a new-type Canadian export.

"Tamburlaine The Great," Christopher Marlow's 389-year-old renaissance melodrama about a power-hungry Uzbek conqueror, was produced by the Stratford Shakespearean festival company under British producer Tyrone Guthrie's direction.

Condensed version of the original, it was devised by Guthrie and British actor Donald Wolfit and first produced five years ago in England. Marlow's contemporaries slightly called it a "word opera." After its 2½ hour course even the most jaded audience is likely to be reeling from the impact of the concentrated horror, battle, pillage and brutality it has witnessed.

OFF TO BROADWAY

The play has a 10-day run here before opening at New York's Winter Garden Theatre Jan. 19 for a 10-week season. Rumor has it that the Shubert empire, which considers the Winter Garden one of its jewels, has let it be known an even longer New York stay might be welcome.

Most of the 83-member cast are Canadians, including Toronto's Barbara Chilcott in the principal female lead as Zenocrate, Timur's wife.

Others are British-born and-trained players now resident in Canada, while others were imported for the production.

Strikers Reach Agreement on Vacation Time

TORONTO (CP)—General Motors of Canada and United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) negotiators Wednesday spent their first day of negotiations since the new year reviewing for a U.S. union official the situation in the union's strike at GM, now in its 109th day.

Talks resume today.

Frank James of Detroit, representing Leonard Woodcock, head of the UAW's General Motors department, joined the talks, marking the first time that an official of the union's international staff has participated.

Agreement was reached on one point Wednesday. The negotiators decided the hours worked by an employee to make him eligible for annual vacation will be reduced from 1,600 to 1,400.

Cautious optimism keynoted the reopened negotiations to settle the strike by 17,000 GM workers in five Ontario cities.

As the strike enters its 110th day it breaks the 109-day Canadian record for strike longevity set at Ford of Canada last year. Twice as many workers are involved in the GM dispute.

Reserve Members Protest Action Of Sarnia Council

SARNIA (CP)—Members of the Indian reserve here have submitted a petition to Citizenship Minister Pickersgill protesting a current attempt by Sarnia city council to obtain a government grant in lieu of taxes on the reserve lands, which lie within the city limits.

The petition is signed by 133 members of the Sarnia band of Indians—representing about 65 per cent of the voting strength of the reserve.

The Sarnia reserve became part of the city in 1951 when more than 9,000 acres of Sarnia township land were annexed.

Some Indian land has been sold for industrial purposes, but the reserve still contains almost 4,000 acres.

The Indian petition said the Indians "fear that the . . . opinions and actions of the city of Sarnia pose a threat to the future peace and tranquility of our reserve."

"We consider a grant in lieu of taxes is a preliminary step to actual taxation—another step toward the actual taking over of our lands and finally the disintegration of our nation."

City officials said action in applying for a grant was intended in no way as a means of bringing about actual taxation.

Rt. Rev. Arthur M. Ramsay New Archbishop of York

YORK, England (Reuters)—Rt. Rev. Arthur Michael Ramsey, 51, broad-shouldered and forthright bishop of Durham, today was appointed Archbishop of York, second highest post in the Church of England.

He succeeds Dr. Cyril Garbett, who died Saturday and was buried Wednesday.

Described as one of the most learned of present-day British churchmen, Dr. Ramsay now comes next in seniority in the church to Dr. Geoffry Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury.

Married but childless, he has been bishop of Durham since 1952 and has built up a reputation for his outspoken and thought-provoking pronouncements.

A dominant, brawny figure, with sparse, snowy hair, Dr. Ramsay looks considerably older than his 51-years. But in fact he is one of the youngest of Britain's bishops.

He is physically strong. At a ceremony once he was required to knock three times with a staff on the massive doors of Durham Cathedral. He knocked so hard that splinters chipped from the heavy ancient timbers.

Educated at the University of Cambridge, the city where he was born, Dr. Ramsay's appointment is a break with tradition. Most archbishops of York and Canterbury in recent years have come from the rival University of Oxford.

AN ALL REET CHAP

After ordination in 1928, Dr. Ramsey rose from curate of a Liverpool parish to become canon of Durham Cathedral and professor of theology at Durham University from 1940 to 1950.

Before succeeding to the bishopric of Durham, he returned for a spell to his old university to take up the chair of theology at Cambridge.

He is popular with the tough coal mining communities which dot the Durham countryside. The miners opinion of him has often been summed up in the broad local dialect: "Yon chap's all reet."

Together with today's announcement was another announcing that the bishop of Guildford, Dr. Henry Colville Campbell, 68, has been nominated bishop of London, in place of Dr. John Wand, 70, who retired Dec. 31.

Youngster Takes Whirl in Clothes Drying Machine

WINNIPEG (CP)—A four-year-old Elmwood district girl still is shakily recovering from an unusual ride during the New Year's weekend—in an electric clothes-drying machine.

Sporting the machine in the basement with the port-hole open, the youngster climbed in and pulled the door shut.

Shutting the door automatically started the machine whirling and brought her father on the double. "I put the machine; that's what made me run," said the father, a dealer in electrical equipment who did not want to be identified. "I thought she'd started it and panicked."

He said he looked around the basement but couldn't see the girl, then shut off the machine and hauled her out.

The child, in the whirling machine for little more than 30 seconds, emerged unhurt. Not even a bruise.

SAINT HUBERT, Belgium (CP) Office buildings, sheds and equipment at a North Atlantic Treaty Organization airfield being built near here lay in ruins after a fire there Tuesday night. The fire also destroyed three cranes, two bulldozers and two new trucks but firemen and NATO personnel prevented the blaze from spreading to an 1,100-gallon fuel tank.

Miss H. McKercher Appointed Director Home Economics

RAWDON —Hon. F. S. Thomas, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, has made an announcement which will be of interest to all members of Women's Institutes in Ontario.

Mr. Thomas has recently appointed Miss Helen McKercher, as director of the home economics service, extension branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, to succeed the well known and highly efficient Miss Anna P. Lewis, who left the service in 1955 to marry Professor McEwen of Guelph.

Miss McKercher graduated from MacDonald Institute Guelph, in 1930. Later, she specialized in dietetics at Ottawa Civic Hospital. She then served a 10 year term with the Ontario Department of Agriculture and has visited this area of institute groups.

In 1941 she served with the Royal Canadian Navy and after her discharge she took her Masters Degree at Cornell University and majored in home economics and extension procedure. She then served with the Federal Department of Fisheries completing her term there in October 1955.

Miss McKercher assumes her new position on January 1st, 1956, and she is well known in the field of economics and dietetics and is a member of the Canadian organization. Her duties will include supervision of the activities of the Women's Institutes of Ontario and the Junior Institutes.

Screen Actress Tied for First In Annual Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—The young women tripped ahead of their elders Wednesday in the art of elegant attire. They dominated the new list of the world's best-dressed women.

Usually women of more years, more seasoned tastes and experienced eye to the queen of excellent apparel. But this time the accent was on youth as the New York Dress Institute announced the results of its annual poll of more than 1,000 fashion editors and designers.

Tied for first place were Mrs. William Paley of New York, wife of the president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, and screen actress Grace Kelly, one of few Hollywood notables ever to make the top rank.

Others are:

Tied for third—The Duchess of Windsor, a perennial winner in the realm of tasteful dress, and Princess Margaret.

Tied for fifth—Mrs. Byron Foy of New York, also a regular winner and the Countess Rodolfo Crespi of Rome (former New York debutante, Consuelo O'Connor).

Sixth—Mrs. Winston Guest of New York and Palm Beach.

Seventh—Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr. of New York.

Eighth—Mrs. Jacques Balsan of New York and Palm Beach. (Now past 70, she's among the elderly of the top-fashion list.)

Ninth—Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt of New York.

Tenth—Mrs. Henry Ford II of Detroit.

WEDDINGS

DOOHER — SPENCER

A pretty, Yuletide-season wedding was solemnized at Ryerson United Church on Friday, December 30, at 7.30 p.m., when Margaret Elizabeth Spencer, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, of Ryerson, in a candlelight, double-ring ceremony became the bride of Douglas Cecil Dooher. The bridegroom is on Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dooher. The Reverend H. E. Beare, pastor of the church, officiated before a background of chrysanthemums and ferns.

Miss Claire Windover, of Toronto, soloist, before the ceremony, sang "The Lord's Prayer," and "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of the "Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin," played by Miss Ruth Munby, of Stirling, wore a lovely bridal gown in waltz-length of white, ruffled nylon net and lace over white satin, fashioned with lace bolero trimmed with seed pearls and sequins, and having a Peter Pan collar and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points at the wrists. A shell-shaped headdress of matching lace held her veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a white Bible and a cascade bouquet of white, feathered carnations centred by a mauve orchid with trailing ivy and white satin streamers.

Mrs. John Spencer, as bridesmaid, was attired in orchid colored taffeta with overdress of orchid nylon net embroidered with metallic thread. The fitted bodice was enhanced with net bolero and the waltz-length skirt was in bouffant style. She wore a matching net and 'mum headdress and carried a nosegay of yellow-centred white carnations with orchid satin streamers.

Miss Patricia Grace Spencer, younger sister of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, was sweet in baby pink sparkle net over nylon pilose, fashioned on lines similar to that of the senior bridesmaid. She wore a matching headdress of net and 'mums, and carried a nosegay of yellow-centred white 'mums with pink streamers.

Little Michael Dooher, brother of the bridegroom, as ring-bearer, carried the rings on a white satin cushion made by the bride's mother.

Mr. Ronald Dooher attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. John D. Spencer, brother of the bride, and John E. Dooher, brother of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The reception, which was held at Sentinel Orange hall, Petherick's Corners, was catered to by the Ryerson Women's Institute. The bride's mother received, gowned in powder blue, brocaded nylon acetate with dusty rose and navy accessories. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in navy blue brocaded silk with white collar and cuffs, and navy accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink carnations.

The Reverend H. E. Beare acted as toastmaster. Short speeches were given by Mr. Spencer and Mr. Dooher, fathers of the bridal couple. Mrs. Spencer presented the bride with a beautiful white Bible.

For travelling, the bride chose air force blue nylon acetate with

FULTON — DAVIDSON

Christmas decorations and white chrysanthemums made a beautiful setting in St. James United Church, Peterborough, on Saturday afternoon, December 24, when Elinor Louise Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Bird, of Peterborough, was united in marriage to Mr. Reginald Bruce Fulton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil M. Fulton, of Toronto, formerly of this city.

The attendants were Miss S. June Agnew, of Lac St. Denis, P.Q., and Mr. Donald W. Brown of Peterborough. The Rev. A. Lloyd Shorten officiated.

A reception in Foster's Driftwood Room, followed the ceremony.

After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton will live at 73 Virginia Ave., Toronto.

black velvet trim and gem-centred buttons. Her pink feather hat was trimmed with rhinestones and she wore matching pink gloves, and scarf with an orchid corsage. Following the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, and other western points, Mr. and Mrs. Dooher will reside in Campbellford.

Guests were present from Toronto, Napanee, Belleville, Stirling, Huntsville and Campbellford.

Women's Activities

ELDORADO-MADOC W.M.S.

ELDORADO — The Eldorado and Madoc Missionary Society held their December meeting in Eldorado Standard Church on Friday evening with a fair attendance. John Irwin opened the meeting.

A reading was given by Gail Howard and one by Donald Wheeler.

Mrs. Howard gave a splendid report on the district annual Missionary convention held at North Gore.

Scripture reading by John Irwin was taken from St. Mark's 9. The Rev. Stobbart also gave a splendid reading on "Love at Home and Abroad".

John Irwin gave a talk on "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Fashion Flash

Ideally suited to the older woman with a less than perfect figure, is the short-sleeved, sleeved dinner dress fashioned of an opulent fabric. A nice example is a dress of silver gray and light violet satin brocade pattern outlined in iridescent thread. The neckline is a scooped oval. Sleeves reach almost to the elbow; skirt to just below the calf.

Canadian Women Not Taking Advantage of Facilities

By OLI DAUM
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian women do not dress as fashionably as women in other countries, say three men who each have been in the garment business for more than 30 years.

C.W. Skanes and C.M. Halliday of Toronto, co-ordinators of a garment salesmen's market here this week, said in an interview Canadian women aren't taking advantage of the fashion facilities Canada has.

Irving Sanders of New York, however, blamed big department stores for the missing stylishness. A trade show consultant for 22 years, Mr. Sanders said Canadian women's fashion taste compares favorably with that in other countries but they don't buy the latest styles because they don't know what the styles are.

In the United States, he said, women with charge accounts at large department stores are trained to regular fashion shows which display the newest trends as soon as they hit the market.

Smaller U.S. retailers haven't the facilities to stage, the shows but their customers learn from the large-scale advertising.

TOO CONSERVATIVE

He agreed with Mr. Halliday and Mr. Skanes, however, that Canadian women dress too conservatively.

Mr. Halliday said that jealousy accounts for much of the criticism. If her girl friends raise an eyebrow when she wears a dress that is becomingly different, a woman may never again wear that dress or another like it.

Some women believed dowdiness a mark of respectability.

The three men said it was beyond their understanding why Canadian women go across the border to shop. Mr. Sanders said that in the medium to high-price range, Canadian fabrics are fast superior to those in his country and the styling is just as good.

ESTATE TO DAUGHTER

NEW YOR K(AP)—Hans Fisher, creator of the comic strip "Joe Palooka," left the bulk of an estimated $1,500,000 estate to his 17-year-old daughter, Wendy, Fisher will, filed for probate Wednesday left the legal minimum to his second wife, Marilyn, whom he married in April, 1954. No child has been born to them.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE A HERMIT!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

The problem I have may not seem important to you, but it is so important to me that I feel it may eventually put an end to my marriage.

The trouble is that I'm the affectionate type, and my husband isn't. I want to love and be loved; my husband doesn't. If I kiss him, or even just move over to sit near him, he gets very annoyed. He says he loves me, but he certainly doesn't act like it. He never takes me out anywhere, and if I suggest even going to a movie he tells me to go by myself.

He was never like this before, and I can't see how two years of marriage could have changed him so much.

I keep myself as well dressed as our means will allow, but he never notices the difference if I wear a house dress or the best dress I own. He never says the house looks nice even though I spend most of my time cleaning and scrubbing. He gives me his pay every week, and comes home every night to eat, read the paper and go to bed. Do you think this is natural for a young man of twenty-three? I know he's not sick, because the Doctor just gave him his annual physical examination and says he's in perfect health.

As for myself, I'm finding the life of a hermit at twenty years old. I was popular before I was married, and I know I wouldn't have any trouble finding new boy friends. I haven't told him of this, but my husband knows very well that I never would.

Please tell me what to do, Mrs. A.Z.

Dear Mrs. A.Z.:

Must you live the "life of a hermit" because your husband apparently wants to do so?

It seems to me that you might well get busy with some outside interests of your own, even if it means going out, say, a couple of nights a week and leaving your husband to pursue his nightly routine of reading the paper and going to bed. Of course, if you prefer, you might start out by developing your outside interests during the day so that you could be at home with him in the evening. If you had some interesting daytime activities which brought you in touch with good friends, it might not seem so dull to stay home at night.

I suggest, however, the the first thing you do would be to have a frank talk with your husband about the situation, and ask him if he would mind if you went in for some activities which would take y o u away from home a couple of evenings a week. Evidently he is not a demanding type, who insists on your staying home to sit with him, since you say he tells you to go out to the movies by yourself, so there is no point in your asserting yourself and laying down the law to him. The better approach is to put it to him as I have suggested.

Moreover, if you went at it in a sympathetic way, you might ask him if he is too tired to go out at night, or if he has any worries that are keeping him from wanting to enjoy himself with friends. If you did it in an understanding, comradely way, you might be able to get to the bottom of his present attitude which you say is different from what it was in the early days of your romance.

If you fail to get anywhere with him discussing it this way, then I think it would be a very good idea to have a talk with a marriage counsellor, telling him all the details of your life with your husband and describing the chance which has come over him in the past two years. Such a consultant would then try to help work out a definite plan for coping with the situation.

If you start by trying to talk with your husband yourself, however, you will have a better idea whether you should go ahead with your own outside life or seek the advice of the marriage counsellor.

Mother's Helper

YOU CAN help your daughter learn to make a neat bed by marking the center of the top and bottom of sheets, blanket, and spread. A stitch or two of bright thread will do it, and will give her a guide to follow. Of course, contour sheets are a big help, too, and need not be marked.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

INVITATION-FORM IN SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Will you please guide me as to the form for my wedding invitations? My mother died several years ago. My father had deserted her when I was a small child, and although he lives in the next suburb to where I live, he really is a stranger to me and I want to keep it that way. He is not even coming to my wedding. I have no sisters or brothers or other near relatives. Because my fiance comes from a large family and has many relatives and since we have so many mutual friends we are planning to have a large wedding, in church, followed by a reception. Certainly I don't have to issue the invitations in my father's name, do I? But what form should I, may I use? — P.S.

Your father's name wouldn't appear on the invitations, since he will not be having any part in the wedding, and will not be present. Under the circumstances, the best form for the invitations is:

The honour of your presence is requested at the marriage of Miss Flora Smith to Mr. Robert Clark on Tuesday, the seventh af February at four o'clock Center Church Flora, New York

The reception card may correctly read:

Reception immediately following the ceremony Rose Suite

SHOULD MAN TAKE CARE OF HAT AND COAT?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My two sisters and I have recently taken an apartment together. When a man comes to call on our oldest sister she always just tells him where to put his hat and coat, but never makes the slightest effort to take them when he arrives, or to help him on with his coat when he leaves. My other sister and I argue with her about this, trying to convince her that she is not being polite or hospitable. But she says that she is following the advice about this that she has read several times in your column. We've told her that we're willing to you to ask you if you did say this, and to tell us who is right, Mrs. M.

Yes I did say this, and yes, your oldest sister is right in what she does. A man doesn't want a girl to help him with his hat and coat . . . he wants to take care of them himself (unless of course he is crippled and therefore needs assistance).

Ensemble for Evening

By ALICE ALDEN

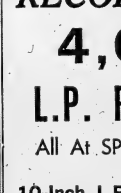
It's a starring role for the theatre ensemble in the evening fashion pageant.

The coat of velvet or silk teams up with its very own dress or else is of the type that allies itself perfectly with a separate dress.

Here, two beauties create elegant evening drama. The dress is of beige Chantilly-type lace in a floor-length pattern over red peau de soie. The coat—to go with the dress is evident, since the latter is of velvet matching exactly the red of the dress. It has leg-of-mutton sleeves and a jeweled neckline. It would also go well with a white or black dress.

Hamburg Quickies

By Mary Moore



Sometimes I chortle over the sober wisdom of food editors' "A dozen ways to use hamburger..." — when you girls can outthink us on the hamburg theme forty ways.

And I suppose you have tried the variation I did too — but did you add the dollop of sour cream I smeared on top? If not bear with me, friends, for belabouring this hamburg topic and try it.

It was late and I needed groceries and Pete offered to buy them but I didn't know everything I needed. He had a list of staples that I had been adding to for days, but we needed meat and vegetables for two nights' dinners. I asked him to get what he fancied, because he's accustomed to taking what is put before him at the fraternity. He came home with a strip of spareribs and a lovely cauliflower and a package of lean minced beef and Spanish onions. I cooked the Spanish onions in the pressure cooker and made the minced beef into

BROILED MEAT CAKES

One lb. & oz. cost 50c. To it I added ½ teaspoon each salt, prepared mustard, MSG, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 1 lb. mushrooms sliced, 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup, 1 can sour cream, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. Gently saute the onion in the butter until light gold, then stir in the beef until crumbly. Add garlic, flour, salt, MSG, pepper, paprika and mushrooms, and stir while sauteing slowly for about 5 minutes. Add soup and simmer uncovered, for 10 minutes. Add sour cream and parsley, and heat through. Serve on fluffy mashed potatoes or fluffy boiled rice or boiled noodles or toast lyzaggies. Make a delicious main course if a generous salad accompanies it.

Never leave a cooked roast of meat in refrigerator for more than two hours, for fear of spoilage.

Machinist Says Never Stopped By Foreman

KITCHENER (CP)—A machinist charged by his employer with operating an unsafe machine, contrary to Ontario government regulations, testified Tuesday he has never been stopped from using the machine by the plant foreman.

Nick Elter, an employee of Hahn Brass Ltd., of nearby New Hamburg, appeared on a charge filed by Woodrow Doerr, the firm's production manager who was convicted Dec. 7 of operating a factory in an unsafe manner.

The Ontario Factory, Shop and Office Building Act requires employers to cover certain machines with safety guards. The government charged that machines in the Hahn plant were not so covered.

FIRST IN ONTARIO

Under the act an employer, if convicted, may in turn charge his employees if he feels they were responsible for the condition.

Mr. Elter and three other employees were charged by the company.

Representatives from the department of labor and the international machinists union attended the hearing, first of its kind in Ontario.

The case was adjourned a week.

Scouts Are Told 'White Australia' Offensive Term

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — External Affairs Minister Richard Casey told more than 800 Boy Scouts from 20 Pacific nations Tuesday that the term "White Australia" as applied to the country's traditional immigration policy is "offensive."

"We in the government never use it," he said in reply to a question from an Australian scout.

"But every government has the right to be selective in its immigration policy," he added. "Australia wants to keep her population uniform."

Casey told the scouts, here for the Pan-Pacific Scout Jamboree, that he does not think "complete intermingling" of peoples is necessary for international understanding.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 5, 1956

Habits of Lemmings May Provide Clues for Arctic Fighting Say Scientists

Legal Battle Ends as Plaintiff Refuses to Appear

TORONTO (CP)—A legal battle that smacked of shipboard violence ended tamely Wednesday as the plaintiff refused to appear in court after a disagreement with his lawyer.

Frank Summerfield of LaSalle, Ont., sought $4,000 damages from Carl Ventimiglia of Detroit.

Summerfield said he purchased the superstructure of an excursion steamer, Cleveland City III, from Ventimiglia on the understanding he would dismantle it in the city.

Before he could do this Summerfield said he was ordered off the ship at gunpoint September, 1954, and thus prevented from completing the work. At that time he obtained some plating it under "arrest" and a warrant was nailed to the wreck's mainmast. The 65-year-old vessel was burned out the following month in a fire which broken up at Windsor, Ont.

At Wednesday's hearing Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow, presiding over the Ontario Admiralty District Court here, was told that Summerfield refused to appear in court after a disagreement with his lawyer, Lionel Clarke of Windsor, about calling a new witness into the case.

Mr. Justice Barlow dismissed Summerfield's action, struck it from the court list and ordered him to pay costs.

In Windsor, the Supreme Court of Ontario is scheduled to hear a suit launched by the city against Ventimiglia Demolition Company of Detroit for $20,000 damage caused to a city dock when the vessel caught fire October, 1954.

The case is scheduled for Jan. 10.

Hearing Adjourned

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The preliminary hearing of Daniel Sidorchuk, charged with the murder of his brother, Alexander, last Nov. 26, Wednesday was adjourned to Jan. 12.

Defence counsel John King asked for the adjournment, the second to date, to allow him to call witnesses concerning evidence of a blood test the crown plans to introduce.

During Wednesday's session two witnesses told of an argument that arose between the brothers as they sat in a tavern watching the Grey Cup football game on television.

TORONTO (CP)—The lemming, a furry little fat-sie animal with a reputation for mass suicide, may hold the key to any future Arctic war, say two Toronto scientists.

Dr. K.C. Fisher and Donald Smith have concluded two years' research in the University of Toronto's zoology department on the Lemming, which resembles a long-haired, blunt-nose rat. Purpose of the study, apart from its scientific interest, is to discover how the animal's peculiarities can help decide conditions for human life in the Arctic.

Mr. Smith, a Toronto graduate preparing his master's thesis on Lemmings said in an interview:

"Lemmings are walking laboratories on Arctic survival. They can be set apart from all other animals. Our laboratory tests reveal they have no preference between the 20 - below (Temperatures) of the Arctic or the 120 above of Miami."

PHYSICAL CHANGES

This he attributed to the Lemming's peculiar physical characteristics changing for color to avoid heat radiation, a groundhugging body, short legs and abbreviated tail and ears to avoid frostbite, and fur-covered paws.

And as for those stories about lemmings marching in miles-long columns from the sea to die, forget them, say the scientists.

Said Dr. Fisher:

"There have been many tales of such suicides which, on investigation, showed there was no one who could come forward to say he had seen it himself."

The mass movement could be explained simply as a search for food.

The Toronto tests to discover the lemmings' temperature preferences were carried out in a heat gradient, a long, insulated alleyway with one wire end in hot water and the other in dry ice. The lemmings roamed freely up and down the shaft.

Given 14 Years

TORONTO (CP) — Walter Swetloff, 29-year-old Polish immigrant convicted of shooting a young police constable in the face with a shotgun, Wednesday was sentenced to 14 years in jail.

Swetloff, a resident of Canada for six years, was charged with attempted murder Dec. 12 after a chase through the west end of the city by constable John Earis.

Constable Earis was shot in the face as he stepped a fence in pursuit of Swetloff. The constable lost an eye.

Ont. Cheese Eaters Developing Taste for Foreign Products

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario cheese eaters are developing a taste for exotic cheese products and the trend means both headaches and hope for domestic manufacturers.

A panel of Canadian cheese experts discussed the question Wednesday at the first annual convention of Ontario Cheese Manufacturers' Association. Here are some of the points they turned up:

Canadians last year ate 14,000,000 pounds of cheese other than cheddar, the major product of Ontario cheese manufacturers since the 1880s. About 6,000,000 pounds of non-cheddar cheese was imported.

The imports of foreign cheese could not seem competitive with domestic varieties. On the other hand manufacturers may be able to capitalize on the trend by producing foreign-type cheese themselves.

Ten Ontario cheese factories now are producing such cheeses, says E. Wright, vice - president of Kraft Cheese Company, said Canadian cheesers have not been able to duplicate the specific flavor of the original foreign cheeses. The taste goal could be achieved with more effort, he said.

Don Goodwillie, chief of the federal government's dairy products inspection and grading services, said Canadian cheese may soon be sold graded in the same manner as butter.

He said cheese is sold ungraded because of an assumption that all is first grade. Now, however, his department is conducting a survey to assess Canadian cheese quality.

So far, 300 samples had been tested from 60 stores. Eighty per cent was assessed first grade, 14 per cent second grade and 2.3 per cent third grade. The rest ranked lower.

Harold Ward of the federal government laboratory in Montreal said Ontario cheese makers have attained a remarkable record in the purity of their products. Last June the federal government decided to grant a national subsidy of two cents a pound for cheese which passed high-quality tests.

In the four years before last June, he said, 56 per cent of Ontario cheddar was free of any impurity, such as hay, coal dust, metal shavings and grit.

Since then, 74 per cent has been found pure and a high point was reached in September when 91 per cent was passed as acceptable.

Taxpayers May Be Called on To Pay Charges

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian taxpayers may be called upon to pay new charges amounting to between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 for auto wheels.

Informants said Wednesday that the federal government is working on legislation under which it would foot the bill for storing wheat in excess of what it may consider a "normal" carryover. The Prairie producer at present pays the costs himself.

The unprecedented legislation, they said, likely will form a permanent part of federal policy. It would mean another major expenditure on the federal budget and would reduce the possibility of tax cuts that might otherwise be considered this year.

Last month at Edmonton, Trade Minister Howe hinted that something would be done to help farmers meet the heavy cost of storing huge quantities of wheat for long periods because the world wheat market is glutted. He gave no details.

In the 1953-54 crop year, last for which firm figures are available, wheat storage charges totalled some $30,000,000, all paid by the farmers.

Transfer Said Promotion by Premier Frost

TORONTO (CP) — Transfer of William Little, superintendent of Cobourg boys' training school, to the same position at Brantford reformatory is regarded as a promotion by Premier Frost.

He said Wednesday Brampton is considered the "ace" of Ontario's corrective schools for boys.

Forty residents of Cobourg, a town of 8,000, 65 miles east of here, have submitted to Mr. Frost a petition protesting Mr. Little's transfer.

Cobourg Mayor J. D. Burnet said: "He is outstanding. His qualifications, both educational and cultural, are very high. It is seldom that a man with his qualifications is available for work of this kind and we are afraid Mr. Little's successor may not have these qualifications."

WILL STUDY MATTER

The premier, speaking from Renfrew, where he is visiting on business, said he will assess the situation when he returns to Queen's Park, probably Friday.

"I have every confidence in my people in the department," he said.

"If Cobourg residents wish to present a personal representation, I will consider it."

The transfer was announced five days after Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, charged in a statement that there was political appointments at the Cobourg school.

Reformer Minister John Foote said Tuesday that Mr. Little's move had been planned for a long time.

"We have never had any complaint about the school it," Mr. Foote said.

He denied Mr. MacDonald's political intervention charge.

"I never used political influence at the school at Cobourg to appoint anybody," he said. "I've made only two recommendations since I became minister six years ago."

Drivers Must Write Exams

TORONTO (CP)—Written examinations for prospective Ontario drivers, expected to be in use by Feb. 1, will be introduced first in Toronto, it was learned Wednesday.

A Queen's Park source said almost 50,000 drivers are tested annually through the highways department's Toronto headquarters and the first written tests will be taken here.

The spokesman said it is expected 30 sets of questions will be used initially and questions will be switched from time to time to avoid cheating by applicants.

Most of 13 New Senators List Selves as Liberals

By H.L. Jones
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The 13 new members of the Senate have listed their political affiliations for the Parliamentary Guide, considered the official handbook of Parliament.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in making the appointments last July 1—first in more than two years—stressed that the new senators were being sent to the upper chamber as Canadians, not as representatives of the Liberal party.

At that time the majority of the 13 was known to have Liberal leanings or past or present ties with that party. And one of the two appointees, Senator John T. Hackett, 71, of Montreal, was known to be a Progressive Conservative, having represented the party in the Commons.

But it was a matter of conjecture until now as to how the others would list themselves politically.

In replies to a questionnaire circulated by the Guide, Senator Hartland de Montarville Molson, 65-year-old president of Molson's Brewery Ltd., Montreal, listed himself as an independent.

Senator Donald Cameron, 52, University of Alberta professor and director of the Banff school of fine arts, said he is an independent Liberal.

Senator Calixte F. Savoie, 60, of Moncton, N.B., listed his political affiliation simply as "all."

Senator Hackett, of course, put himself down as a Progressive Conservative.

The other nine replied that they are Liberals.

They are Senators C.G. Power, wartime air minister and dean of the Commons until his Senate appointment; Jean-Francois Pouliot, long-time Commons member from Temiscouata; David Croll, former House member for Toronto Spadina; Harold Connolly, former premier of Nova Scotia; Fred A. McGrand, Fredericton, former New Brunswick health minister; Thomas D'Arcy Leonard, Toronto, president of Canadian Permanent Trust Co.; Donald Smith, Liverpool, N.S., a dentist and former MP; William M. Wall, Winnipeg, first Canadian of Ukrainian descent to enter the Senate; and Mrs. Florence Elsie Inman, Montague, P.E.I.

Mrs. Inman, an official of the National Women's Liberal Federation, joins five cabinet women in the upper chamber.

Mr. Hackett's appointees will be sworn in and seated at the start of the new session opening Jan. 10. Senator Croll, who becomes the first Canadian of Jewish origin to enter the Senate, will take the oath on a Jewish Bible.

Entry of the new members brings the standing in the 102-seat Senate to 80 Liberals, eight Progressive Conservatives, one independent Liberal, one independent and one with no designation. This still leaves 11 vacancies.

Soviet Officials Silent About New Embassy

OTTAWA (CP)—Soviet officials Wednesday drew a curtain of silence across their plans for the burned out Russian embassy.

The only embassy official available was commercial counsellor Alexander I. Lolaicsev, who said home Ambassador Dmitri Chuvahin and his wife have been staying since a New Year's Day fire destroyed the embassy.

Mr. Lolaichev told a reporter the ambassador must act as spokesman. The ambassador, however, was not in.

There is a report that engineers will examine the fire-gutted ruins of the embassy by the end of this week, and then decide on demolishing but its interior wrecked. It is worth restoring. None of the Russians, however, would comment on the report.

Private Service Will Be Held

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Relatives and friends of the late Sir James Dunn, multi-millionaire controller of Algoma Steel Corporation, flew into here Wednesday to attend a private memorial service scheduled for today.

Lady Dunn and Sir James's son and heir, Philip Dunn of London, England, were accompanied aboard a special plane by Trade Minister Howe, his wife and Gordon MacMillan, an Algoma director from Toronto.

Sir James died Sunday at his home in St. Andrews, N.B. He was 81.

Most Rev. W. L. Wright, Anglican metropolitan of Ontario, will conduct the service in St. Luke's Anglican cathedral. Attendance is by invitation only and many civic and industrial leaders will join outdoor guests at the service.

Others arriving Wednesday: H.J. Allen, G. C. Bateman, W. P. Scott, all Algoma directors; F. G. Harrison, manager of Canal Town Coal Company, Pennsylvania; G. M. Humphrey, son of U.S. Treasury Secretary Humphrey, and his associate, J. H. Thompson; C. MacDougall of the Fort William, Port Arthur Shipbuilding Company; R. C. MacDougall, stockbroker; T. R. McLagan, president of the Canadian Steamship Lines; Judge C. P. McTague; James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada; R. D. Mulholland, assistant general manager Ontario section, Bank of Montreal; and R. F. Palmer, manager Algoma Ore Properties.

Soviet Espionage Goes on Says Igor Gouzenko

TORONTO (CP)—Igor Gouzenko in a byline story in the Toronto Telegram, writes that Sunday night's fire at the Soviet embassy was "another chapter in the annals of Soviet espionage goes on as usual."

The former cipher clerk who fled the embassy in September, 1945, with documents exposing a Soviet spy ring in Canada, writes that his newspaper "got photographs of the blaze which virtually destroyed the embassy" and suggests indicate that secret work has been expanded.

"You can be sure that the contents of the cipher - room files which are in safes and doors were guarding so jealously from the eyes and hands of firemen were not books of cookery or diplomatic protocol."

Gouzenko notes that among the objects carried by the staff from the building was a radio transmitter. During his stay at the embassy, he says, there was no transmitter in the building.

FEATHERS RUFFLED

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Being "honeyed and feathered" during a publicity stunt was worth $750 for brunette model Mrs. Marguerite Ventre. Mrs. Ventre, 21, had asked $10,000 damages for having pots of honey and feathers dumped on her head while she stood in a bathing suit next to a Hollywood pool three years ago. When the case was called to trial Tuesday she accepted the settlement.

Believe Money Came Directly From Bank

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Police said today $17,751 found Saturday in a store basement by two youths may have been withdrawn from a bank and never put in circulation. It probably was "hot" money.

The box, apparently lying in the basement for at least nine years, was found by Derek Holme, 12, and Jack Freeman, 11, clerks cleaning up the cellar after the heavy Christmas season.

Holme and Robert Grafstein, the proprietor, knew there was a metal box in the cellar. More than two years ago Holme, in tidying the room, asked Mr. Grafstein about the box and was told it probably was a box of tools left by workmen repairing the heating system.

Holmes placed the box on a shelf and there it remained until Saturday when the young men opened it and found packages of bills in denominations of $100, $50, $20 and $10.

CAME FROM BANK

"Whether the money is hot or not has not been determined but we're quite sure it came directly from the bank," police said today.

"The bills were piled neatly, all the same side up in like denominations, just as a bank packages them."

Police also set the time at which the money was left as between 1941 and 1944.

The money and the box in which it was found are both in the vault in a Peterborough bank. The box is of a kind commonly traced and the police are following its lead.

Paper Denounces Ancient Custom Royal Warrants

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mirror today denounces the ancient custom of royal warrants and asked if a London laundry was going to get more business because it washes the Duke of Edinburgh's shirts.

The complaint was raised after the Duke lunched in his first list of tradesmen and individuals to whom he gives his business. The royal proclamation listed 79 firms, including two barbers, four tailors and one laundry.

"Are working women likely to send their hats and scanties to the laundry in the hope that they will pass through the same mangle as the diesel underpants, or be ironed in close proximity to the royal underwear?" asks the paper.

"What utter nonsense. It (the custom of issuing royal warrants) is silly and obsolete. It is royal patronage at its most undignified."

This was the first time that the Mirror, a reigning queen has given out royal warrants of appointment. Prince Albert, husband of Queen Victoria, never had the privilege.

CLAIM 85 KILLED

ATHENS (AP)—The anti-British underground group Eoka claimed today to have killed 85 British troops and wounded 88 in Cyprus between Nov. 17 and Dec. 18. The claim was made in a mimeographed pamphlet distributed in Athens through a member of the Cyprus ethnarchy (council of religious leaders). It put the Eoka casualties at one dead and three wounded. British official figures for the period are 13 dead, 35 wounded.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

SOME THINGS WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

Are the senior "E" "worms turning" and showing signs of dormant strength—or are the Whitby Dunlops an over-rated hockey club?

Is it a coincidence that Bobby Attersley, scoring leader of the senior "F" group has not notched a goal since playing coach Bus Gagnon started sitting out a suspension?

Is it true that Michael J. Rodden ate Goodyear's turkey for the New Year—and Belleville TPT's "crow" after the Moira Men's defeat of the Blair crew?

Is it true that the majority of the circuit sportswriters discovered their crystal balls were hazed with home-brew smog after predicting the complete collapse of Danny Cox's puck army?

Is it true that the rafters of the Whitby Arena arena shook when Keith MacDonald heaved the Dunnies' defenceman Redmond in a perfect parabola over his head here Tuesday night?

Is it true that zebras are the "dumbest" animals in the world. And why do hockey referees wear black-and-white jerseys?

How come the western Ontario senior "E" clubs are not rated very highly when one of their number recently held a National Hockey League team to a very low score?

Does the Whitby public relations—general manager—and by-lined columnist, secretly cherish an ambition to "cover" the Olympics in hockey tournament in Italy?

Is it a rumor that Bill McMaster used to take an appetizer (non-alcoholic) minutes before the TPT's clashed with the Whitby Dunlops? And has he sworn off "meat" for life?

Is it true, as Mr. Blair states, that the average age of the Whitby Dunlops is 23 years? And if so, what hold them back?

Is it true the California New Year celebrations were the wildest, noisiest in years? Even the TV version of the Tournament of Roses was "juiced-up." Remember those Jugs?

Is it true that hockey referees will, next year, take courses in psychiatry so they can penalize a player for what he is thinking? Or do they need the courses?

Has "Red" Doran given up the idea of operating an ambulance service for "hot dogs?"

Is it true that one of the northern section intermediate "C" clubs has applied to the OHA when it tried to pack its ranks with a couple of southern "stars?"

And when, as a Whitby report states, is Mr. Lorne Cook, OHA vice-prexy, going to call this "meeting" of the senior "E" circuit clubs to discuss group entry into senior "A" circles next season?

Will Dave Stevenson win the "limb-crawler" gunfalon for picking the Cornwall Colts to win senior "E" group honors? Did you mean this year, Dave?

What price "dope?" Lookit the Brockville Magedomas, who whomped the Dunlops 8-1 and were in turn jolted from first place in the clouds by the Montreal junior Canadiens who thrashed them to the tune of 7-2. "Pres. soup" spoiled Mulligan's "Sports Stew."

Is it true that if the TPT's changed their club colors to black and blue, Toni Parisi could guard the nets clad in nothing but his gear and birthday suit?

Why not use four referees at hockey games instead of two, the extra pair to take up positions in the goal-judge cages? This would add a little dignity to the job and raise the occupant's social standing from that of a mere switcher-onner-and offer.

Will the $64,000 question—senior "A"—be aired at the meeting called by Lorne Cook—(via the morning mail) at the Queen's Hotel come January 10th? Vice-Prexy Cook emphasizes the all-importance of the confab and wants all representatives' hands on deck.

Is it a desperation drive that has caused the Goodyears to coax their 1954 ace forward George McGregor out of the mothballs of retirement. Word from Kingston says Mac will sign today or tomorrow. He was not used against the Dunlops last night when the Goodies dropped a 7-4 decision and lost a grand opportunity to win a four-pointer.

MORNINGS AFTER

The following anonymous poem is dedicated to all the people who felt this way at some time during the holiday week-end:

"Starkie, starkie, little twink,
Who the heck I am, you think?
I am not under the influence of Inkohol,
As many thinkle peep I am.
I've just had tee many martoonies,
And the floor I sit here
The longer I get,
And besides—
I've got all day Sober to tuesday up in."

The Big Seven

Bathgate picked up one assist to move into a tie with Maurice Richard of Montreal for second place with 40 points.

Howe also had one assist and moved into a tie with Bert Olmstead of the Canadiens for fourth place.

Creighton assisted on two goals to boost his points total to 33, one more than Sloan.

GOLFERS ON STRIKE

GLASGOW (AP) — About 1,000 Scottish "weekend" golfers went on strike Wednesday—with money the root of the trouble.

They are boycotting the courses in protest against 100 per cent increased charges. A round on an 18-hole course now costs two shillings (28 cents) instead of the usual one shilling (14 cents). The Municipal Golfers' Association has urged a month-long boycott of the sheils on Guernsey. It said the Nationalists fired back vigorously.

Rangers Fire Five in Third To Overcome 3-Goal Lead; Sloan Sparks Toronto Victory

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Red Wings must be wondering what they have to do to win a National Hockey League game at New York.

Thursday night, before 10,380 Madison Square Garden fans, the Wings built what appeared an almost insurmountable 3-0 lead in the first two periods. But New York staged a third-period rally as only it has been able to do this season to score five goals and win 5-4.

In the other engagement, played at Toronto, the Maple Leafs defeated Chicago Black Hawks 4-2 to move past Hawks into fourth place in the standings. Leaf centre Tod Sloan starred in that one as he scored his 19th and 20th goals of the campaign.

The Rangers' splurge was the second time this season they have scored five times in one period. They're the only team to fire that many in one stanza and on each occasion they've been Montreal Canadiens. The last time the defending champions were New York Rangers broke a 2-2 tie that existed at the end of the second period to win 7-3.

KELLY GOT TWO

Hookie left winger Andy Hebenton headed the Rangers with a pair of goals, one minute and 29 seconds apart. Teammates Jack Evans, Larry Popein and Wally Hergesheimer were the other Blueshirt marksmen. Red Kelly scored twice for Detroit with Earl Reibel and Metro Prystai getting the others.

Wings took a 2-0 lead in the first period on Kelly's first marker while Rangers were a man short. Reibel and Prystai made it 3-0 in the middle frame.

Rangers, who have scored 25 goals against Wings in seven meetings this season—the same number as they fired in the contests between the two clubs in 1954-55—moved seven points ahead of third-place Detroit. New York is trailing Montreal Canadiens by 11 points. Canadiens, who entertain Detroit in the only game tonight, have 55 points.

Sloan's first goal was the only one of the opening period and early in the second Johnny McIntyre, who scored both Hawk goals, tied it up. Sloan and Dick Duff gave Toronto a lead shortly after the half-way mark of the frame but Mackell made it 3-2 before the period ended. Right winger Ron Stewart scored the last goal of the game 10 minutes when he fired the puck into an empty net at 18:11.

TOOK BASSEN OUT

Chicago coach Dick Irvin had removed Hank Bassen, subbing for Al Rollins who was given a rest, from the goal before Stewart scored.

Boston Bruins, hit hard by injuries this season, announced Wednesday that coach Milt Schmidt might again play for them. The 37-year-old Schmidt retired last season after 16 years with Boston.

Permission will be sought at a meeting of general managers of the league in Montreal today, Schmidt cannot play unless all other five teams agree.

If the coach is given league sanction to return to acting, he will remain as coach, with perhaps some bench help from general manager Lynn Patrick, who coached the club before Schmidt took over midway through last season.

NY Fight Club Rents Arena In Baltimore

NEW YORK (AP)—The London Sporting Club, which is shifting its Monday night television shows out of New York to Baltimore Jan. 23 because of the state athletic commission's ban on the Boxing Guild of New York, has rented the Baltimore Arena owned by Julius Helfand's law partner, Helfand is chairman of the commission.

The arena — the Coliseum—is owned by Nahaum Bernstein, one of the partners with Helfand in the firm of Silver and Bernstein. The contract was signed while Helfand was vacationing in Florida.

"Sure I rented it. Helfand does fellows," said Bernstein Wednesday. "I own it myself—inherited it in fact—and the law firm has nothing to do with it. I don't think Julius knows anything about it. I don't even think he knows that I own the Coliseum.

Promoters Irving (Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg of the London Sporting Club came to the office which only has 'Silver and Bernstein' on the door to talk about renting the Coliseum. When I told them Helfand was associated with the firm they almost dropped dead. It was the funniest thing you ever saw.

"We closed the deal because the Coliseum is for rent and they wanted that. It's as simple as that.

"It was the screwiest coincidence —a million to one shot," said Gilzenberg.

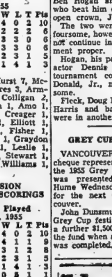
"When he gave us the contracts, he told us to look it over before we signed. He put us in Helfand's office. We signed the contract with a pen on Helfand's desk."

Golden Golf Trail Opens In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 1956 golf campaign opens in a light mood today but the seasoned tournament professionals will down to serious work Friday in the first round of the $30,000 Los Angeles open.

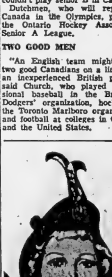
The Rancho Municipal Golf course was the setting for today's prelude, a $2,500 pro - amateur celebrity match featured were Ben Hogan and the young man who beat him out of his fifth U.S. Open crown, Jack Fleck.

The two were not in the same foursome, however, and Hogan will not continue in the 72-hole tournament proper.

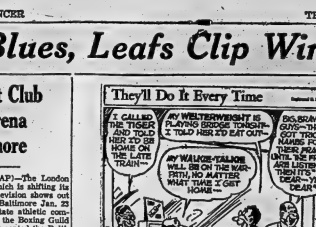


Hogan has pal Jimmy Demaret; actor Dennis O'Keefe and the ex-champ's co-sponsor, Mac-Donald, Jr., made up one foursome.

Fleck, Doug Ford, comedian Phil Harris and baseball's Del Webb were in another group.



GREY CUP TRUST FUND



VANCOUVER (CP) — A $3,500 cheque representing a surplus from the 1953 Grey Cup festivities, budget was presented to Mayor Fred Hume Wednesday as a trust fund for the next Grey Cup in Vancouver.

John Dunsmuir, chairman of the Grey Cup festival committee, said a further $1,500 might be added to the fund when auditing of the books was completed.

Dutchies Six Goals Better

Russ, Czech Hockey Strength Said to Be Much Over-Rated

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto athlete, who earlier this season played in the British Ice Hockey Federation, and Wednesday he rates Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen as five or six goals better than any other team that might compete in the Olympic hockey tournament in Cortina, Italy, this month.

Cam Church, 25, who played with Wembley Lions in the BIHF before an old knee injury ended his hockey career, said reports on strength of Russian and Czechoslovak teams based on results of exhibition games played recently in England were exaggerated.

Church said the calibre of hockey being played in England was far below that of senior hockey in Canada.

He said it was hard to assess the comparative strength of British teams. A club might have one good defenceman and three who couldn't play senior B in Canada."

Dutchmen, who will represent Canada in the Olympics, play in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

TWO GOOD MEN

"An English team might have two good Canadians on a line with an inexperienced British player," said Church, who played professional baseball in the Brooklyn Dodgers' organization, hockey in the Toronto Marlboro organization and football at colleges in Canada and the United States.

"Most Canadian players in England say the Czechs have as good a team as the Russians and they cannot understand all these reports that have been reaching Canada," Church said.

Church played against the Czechs and also saw the Swedish team in action. He did not see the Russian team. He said the Czech team is well-conditioned.

"They play positions well and can skate all night," Church said. "They are superior to the Swedish players in general. They know edge but are poor shooters by Canadian standards."

Church said the Czechoslovak team is weak in goal and players such as Dutchmen's Jack McKenzie and Ken Laufman should have little trouble scoring.

"They impressed me as a positional team that throws the puck around a lot, backchecks well and will be bothersome from a skating standpoint."

POTENT MIXTURE

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A glass jug of apple cider left over from Governor G. Mennen Williams' Christmas office party exploded while state employees were working in the office reception room Tuesday. The explosion shot the neck of the jug 30 feet across the room and showered frightened office workers with glass and cider.

Rocky-Patterson Title Bout Being Readied for September

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — A Floyd Patterson-Rocky Marciano match in Los Angeles for the world heavyweight title is in the making for next September.

Marciano may box Archie Moore, Bob Baker or Bob Satterfield in June before he meets the 1952 Olympic 165-pound champion, a sensation since he turned pro.

Although the Brooklyn Negro, who celebrated his 21st birthday Wednesday, weighed less than 165 during the Olympics he came in at 178½ for his latest start, a seventh-round technical knockout Dec. 8 over Jimmy Slade.

Marciano, who said Wednesday in Los Angeles he didn't know when or where he'll return to action, weighed 188½ for his most recent start against Archie Moore in September.

PARTY, ANNOUNCEMENT

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, launched his boy as a full-fledged heavyweight at his birthday party at a downtown hotel.

"I have decided that 1956 will be the year, if Patterson continues to function as he has," said d'Amato, who previously had set 1957 as his target date.

D'Amato said he hadn't talked with Al Weill, Marciano's manager, but wouldn't want the rematch until September. Weill suggested Patterson fight Archie Moore, the winner to meet Rocky.

Patterson listened quietly while d'Amato spoke for his own comments, Patterson said, "It my manager makes the match, I think I can beat him (Marciano)."

Patterson has won 28 of 29 pro fights, 19 by knockouts. In nine starts in 1955 he stopped nine opponents. His only defeat was an eight-round decision loss to Joey Maxim, former light-heavy champ in Brooklyn, June 7, 1954. He became eligible for 15-round title matches at that time but will receive the second cash award of $75.00. Their score is 1536. Third prize goes to No. 7 in Dunsmoor team of the North End Business-men's League bowling at Memorial St. Clair in Toronto. Their prize amounts to $33.00 for a score of 1433.

Here are the six teams who matched in Mystery Average Score this week. They will each receive a cheque for $25.00: "George's Sunoco" in Port Colborne; "Bellwood" in Fergus; "Vanillin Inn" in Thorold; The "Blenders" in Sarnia; No. 8-B Section" in Brampton; "Dodo's" in Toronto.

The scores for these teams ranged from 945 to 1424.

Every bowler in Ontario is eligible to participate in Dow's Bowl O' Fun contest with contributing prizes each week amounting to $350.00.

Bring This Guy Down Thisaway

ORILLIA (CP)—Lorne Doolittle, whose job as a Georgian Bay District Hockey League referee includes keeping the peace on the ice, had to do some off-rink policing Tuesday night in a game here between Orillia Pontiacs and Bracebridge Bears.

Doolittle broke up a scrap between Dan MacDonald of Pontiacs and Gary Long of Bracebridge in the third period and sent both to their dressing rooms.

The pair went at it again in the dressing room corridor. With no policemen in sight, Doolittle jumped the boards and separated them. Then he dispersed a rapidly-gathering crowd and went back to finish the game.

Bracebridge won 11-4.

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK (AP) — Patricia Jane Berg, who once quarterbacked a football team that included Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson, was the woman athlete of the year for 1955 in the opinion of sports writers and sports lovers casters.

The stocky, 35-year-old Patty won this honor entirely on her ability as a professional golfer. Her football playing days as one of the 50th street Tigers in Minneapolis ended before she took up golf at the age of 15.

As the acknowledged "dean" of women's golf and possibly its most intense competitor, Miss Berg set a record for the game to shoot at in 1955. She led all the pros on the women's circuit in money-winning with a total of $18,492.34 and won the Varden Trophy for low average scoring in tournament play. It was the first time one player had taken both in the same year.

THE HARD SECOND

In the balloting by 179 sports writers and broadcasters in The Associated Press year-end poll, red headed, blue-eyed Patty beat out another celebrated golfer, Babe Didrikson Zaharias by 90 points—200 to 146.

Doris Hart, the women's tennis champion, was the only other one who cut much of a figure in the voting as the experts apparently had trouble recalling the performances of the ladies. One writer glumly marked his ballot: "I don't know the names of three female athletes."

Miss Hart received 93 points. Swimmer Florence Chadwick, who failed in several attempts to make a round trip swim across the English channel, placed fourth with 60.

Flyers Nudge Biltmores 9-7 In Overtime

BARRIE (CP)—Barrie Flyers, led by two three-goal performances Wednesday night moved out of the cellar of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League by defeating Guelph Biltmores 9-7 in overtime.

George Ranieri and Bob Beckett each scored three goals as Flyers erupted for three goals in the 10-minute overtime period. Beckett scored two and Ranieri one in the extra session.

It was the first time in two seasons that Barrie players had scored three times in one game.

Besides the scoring by Beckett and Ranieri, Don Parkes, Bob Beckett, and Sid Wonoski scored for Flyers. Brian Webber and Dan Bellaie each counted twice for the Biltmores. Other marksmen were Ron Brown, Bob Forhan and Ron MacMillan.

Injured Skier Doing Well

FELDKIRCH, Austria (CP)—Canadian skier Andy Tommy was reported in "excellent condition" Wednesday night after an operation on his broken leg.

"Andy came through the operation very well," said Mrs. Patsy Ramage of Brantford, leader of Canada's Olympic ski team now training in Austria.

Tommy, 22-year-old Ottawa ski ace broke his right leg during a practice run on Tuesday. Doctors at the Baluna Hospital operated on the leg Wednesday. They found it necessary to wire the break just above the ankle.

Dr. Hans Schalle, one of Austria's leading bone specialists, told Canadian ski officials the operation was a "complete success."

"If saw Andy today and he was in fine spirits although naturally disappointed at missing the Olympics," said Mrs. Ramage. "He does not appear to be suffering much pain."

Mrs. Ramage said doctors say he will be able to ski again next winter.

265 ACCIDENTS

NEW YORK (AP)—A record of 12,377 driving violation tickets were handed out in New York City over the New Year's holiday weekend. Authorities said Tuesday night two persons were killed and 419 injured in 365 auto accidents.

Bedard, Rochon Tennis Winners

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Two Quebec players won first round matches Wednesday in the annual Dixie tennis tournament.

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, No. 4 in the foreign seedings, defeated Shelby Creagh of Bradenton, Fla., 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

Henri Rochon of Montreal eliminated Leslie Longshore of Annaston, Ala., 6-2, 6-1.

Defending champion Ed Moylan of Trenton, N.J., was pressed hard by Reynaldo Garrido of Cuba before winning 6-3, 7-5.

Stars Last Night

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ted Sloan, Toronto, who scored two goals and assisted on a third as Ole Maple Leafs defeated Chicago 4-2 at Toronto.

Jack McIntyre, Chicago, who scored both the Black Hawks' goals.

Eddy Hobenieu, New York, who rapped in a pair of goals as the Rangers came from behind for a 3-4 victory over Detroit.

Red Kelly, Detroit, who scored two goals for the Red Wings in the game at New York.

Miami Will Buy Stadium For Ball Club

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Miami city commission voted Wednesday to buy the Miami Stadium and lease it to the new owners of Miami's triple-A International League franchise.

The double action settled some of the questions about whether Miami would be able to operate in the league. But it left others unsettled.

City attorney Olavi Hendrickson meets today with owners of the baseball team to discuss terms of the lease.

Sid Solomon Jr., a St. Louis investment banker; who heads the group which bought the franchise from Syracuse, N.Y., has insisted on a 10-year lease on the stadium.

At least one of the city commissioners, Otis W. Shiver, said he is "definitely going to know more about any lease arrangements before I give anybody a 10-year lease with a chance for 10 years more."

Gene Fullmer In No Hurry To Meet Champ

By BILL NEWKIRK

CLEVELAND (AP)—At last, a victorious fighter who doesn't want to take on the champion next.

Brawler Gene Fullmer, winner of a split decision over Rocky Castellani Wednesday night in a blood-splashed 10-rounder at Cleveland Arena, says he would much prefer another crack at the Argentine's middleweight title in a middleweight title fight with Sugar Ray Robinson. Fullmer dropped a decision to Lassie last November.

"I just don't like to have someone keeping records who has beaten me, that's all," Fullmer said after his bruising charges won the nod from referee Joe Eagan and two judges punching. "I'll get to Robinson in time."

BY GOOD SHAPE

Castellani, despite blood streaming from a deep cut over his right eye from the sixth round on, was in good shape and was pleased to have Fullmer in trouble the last few rounds.

Fullmer, however, was willing to take the best Castellani could offer. He cut himself from a gash across his hairline, he kept driving his head on and on legs that steadily lost steam after the eighth round.

Fullmer, 24, of West Jordan, Utah, weighed 157½. The victory was his 34th in 37 professional fights.

Castellani, 29, of Cleveland, weighed 159. He was the third-ranked middleweight behind Robinson and former champion Bobo Olson and the defeat was his first in his last 10 fights.

Indians Scalp Dutchmen 6-3; Take Over Second

STRATFORD (CP) — Stratford Indians defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, 6-3, in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A contest here Wednesday night to take sole possession of second place, two points ahead of the idle Windsor Bulldogs.

The loss was the fourth straight for the league-leading K-W club and narrowed their league-leading margin to 13 points. The Dutchmen have played more games than the rest of the league, to allow for the Olympics.

Stratford ran up a 6-1 lead at the end of two periods, with Kitchener scoring the only two goals of the final period.

Doug McKay topped the Stratford attack with a pair of goals. Others were scored by Billy Flick, Herve Dejordy, Lou Bendo and Tommy Walker. Don Rope, George Scholes and Jim Logan scored for the losers.

Stratford served six of the 10 minor penalties.

NASHUA'S MAW FOR SALE

LEXINGTON, K. (AP) — The mother of Nashua, thoroughbred racing's near-millionaire, and four yearling sons and daughter of Nasrullah go on the auction block Friday amid speculation of a possible record American price.

The spotlight is focused on Nasrullah's dams, who was bred again last spring to Nasrullah. Her foal will be a full brother or sister to the American horse of the year.

Speculation has put the tab on the 14-year-old dam at anywhere between $90,000 and $150,000. The American price record for a mare is $105,000.

Sixteen yearlings and 23 mares will be auctioned off in the annual sale of horses which Miss Mildred W. Woolwine and associates purchased three weeks ago from the estate of the late William Woodward Jr.

ADONIS LEAVES

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Adonis, one of the most sinister United States underworld chieftains, went into voluntary exile Tuesday to beat a new prison rap. He sailed for Italy. In effect, he was deported. But he agreed to go voluntarily to escape formal deportation proceedings and an eight-month prison sentence. There is little or no chance for him ever to return legally.

Backs Plan For 1960 Winter Olympics

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The state Olympic commission today backed a plan for staging the 1960 winter games at California's Squaw valley. Estimated cost: $3,500,000.

From all indications, a request for the money will go to the legislature, which already has appropriated $1,500,000.

State officials have indicated the money may be forthcoming.

The commission approved a plan calling for locating all facilities on a 60-acre site in the northern California mountain valley. The survey was adopted over protests of several valley landowners who contended the natural amphitheatre would be turned into a "scene of island."

The commission also asked Gov. Goodwin J. Knight to support the additional financing and to go to Rome, Italy, this month to help clinch the games for Squaw, about 200 miles east of San Francisco and 40 miles west of Reno.

The money is to be repaid from admissions, concessions and sale of movie, radio and television rights.

CHICAGO (AP) — Julius Boros was 1955's top golf money winner, as entirely expected, but slammin' Sammy Snead was the year's big surprise among the touring pros with the best scoring average, 69.86 strokes a round.

The 41-year-old Snead carried his sizzling average over 4,401 strokes over 63 rounds to capture the Vardon Trophy award for the fourth time, the Professional Golfers' Association of America announced Wednesday.

The PGA credited Boros with 1955's earnings of $63,121, the biggest chunk being his $20,000 purse in Tam O'Shanter's "world" meet. Snead earned $23,464 to finish seventh in the standings.

Astrologers, Soothsayers Predict Unpredictable TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Our operatives have finally reported in after consulting the soothsayers, astrologers and assorted prophets on what's in store from television and radio in 1956.

The statisticians have projected their crystal ball and see a boom business year for the industry. There will be an increased number of longer television programs; the two-bear program will be commonplace by the end of the year. The brief newcast, which reached an all-time high in radio in 1955, will be heard with even greater frequency in 1956.

In lighter-hearted vein the astrologers see other things.

Arthur Godfrey will fire five more employees, each attended with newspaper headlines. Every other producer in the business will fire many more employees than Godfrey—and no one will think of reporting it.

BUSTED DREAMS

A total of 14,737 men and women now are working on program ideas which they are certain will be more popular than "The $64,000 Question." Of these, 14,736 will fizzle. One, marked by extraordinary simplicity, will succeed.

All the comedians in the business will at various times be assailed by the conviction that they're on the way out. Yet all but one will still be in business at the end of the year. This one will fade so slowly he won't even know it happened.

Some of the hottest television properties of 1955 and 1954 just won't be around in 1956. Nobody will especially miss them until somebody asks, "Wonder what ever became of old blunderbuss?" Diligent investigation will reveal that old blunderbuss is merely taking an extended vacation from television. Nobody—but nobody—ever really quits. Not even Betty Hutton.

As the astrologers all agree, the only predictable thing about television in 1956 is that it's generally unpredictable. It's true there will be millions of viewers and thousands of programs. But when you try to visualize what they'll like—and why—the crystal ball grows cloudy.

Given 30 Days

TORONTO (CP)—Louis Mancuso 27, whose car collided with a police cruiser, a fire hydrant, street sign and two buildings New Year's Eve was sentenced Tuesday to 30 days in jail for drunk driving.

Mancuso was fined $100 or 60 days for driving while his licence was under suspension.

Mancuso told the court: "I don't even remember driving the car."

Commented crown counsel Bowman Galbraith: "That makes it all the worse."

VETERAN PRINTER DIES

MONTREAL (CP)—James Flynn 89, veteran Montreal printer and typographer, died Monday. He was a member of the International Typographical Union for 80 years. He retired 16 years ago from the Montreal Gazette.

Biggest Stars Are the Nicest Says Retiring Goldwyn Exec

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week Sam Hill begins a new life of leisure after 34 years of caring for one of the most fabled studios in Hollywood.

Sam, a big, craggy-faced man of 65 years, has retired as superintendent of Samuel Goldwyn studio. He takes with him a wealth of memories about a lot which has been a rich segment of Hollywood history.

As he was winding up his duties at the studio, Sam reflected on his years there:

"I came to take over the place in 1922. Broncho Billy Anderson had built the studio a couple of years before, then Doug Fairbanks and Mary Pickford took it over. Mr. Goldwyn moved in in 1928. He did the place over then, and again in 1935.

SEEN THEM ALL

"Yes, I've seen just about every star in Hollywood working here. D. W. Griffith made 'Topsy and Eva' on the lot. Harold Lloyd did 'Movie Crazy.' Doug made most of his great pictures—'The Iron Mask,' 'The Black Pirate.' I've had them all, from William S. Hart to Marion Brando.

He pulled out a drawer that contained the name plates for stars' dressing rooms. "I've always kept them," Sam remarked. "You never can tell when they might be coming back."

He flipped through the cards and read off the names: John Barrymore, Fredric March, Rod Laroque, Will Rogers, Gary Cooper, Eddie Cantor, Groucho Marx, Ronald Colman, Loretta Young, Dan Simmons, Frank Sinatra, etc., etc.

Did he have any favorites among the stars?

"No," he replied. "But I did find one thing: the bigger they are, the nicer they are. The ones who raised a fuss were generally the small-time actors."

PRACTICAL JOKER

He did look back with fondness on the days when Doug Fairbanks ruled the lot.

"Oh, he was a live one," Sam smiled. "He was always bouncing around and playing jokes. He was full of fun, and sometimes I think that was why he and Mary broke up.

"He was a great one for practical jokes. He never had a set without at least one chair wired with electricity. He didn't care who the victim was—Mary Pickford or anybody—he'd set them down in the chair and give them a real shock."

The studio has seen good times and bad during the hectic history of Hollywood. The worst days came in the late '30s when TV cut movie production to the nub. But the studio weathered the storm by switching to 70mms and now is busier than it has ever been.

Little Benny's Notebook

I had to get my hair cut and so did Jimmie Jenkins, so we went to the barber shop together to lessen the strain, and the big barber took me and the little barber took Pudd, keeping on talking to each other about fishing and such like but the barber saying, Well Joe, they're carrying your prices customer today.

You mean Mr. Grotch, that's a fact, said the little barber said. Well, I aint going to lose more than a few minutes sleep crying. In the whole 10 years I shaved that peculiar face of his, he never gave me a single tip, he said, and the big barber said, He never even gave me a word. I must of said good morning to him a thousand times, but the best I ever got back was a half size grunt. Oh well, Joe, there must be some good we can say about them all.

Well yes, come to think, he did give me a necktie for Christmas, the little barber said. It still had egg stanes on it, he said, and the big barber says I don't know you could think of something on the credit side, I bet they were stanes from expensive eggs, too. Mr. Grotch took the best of care of himself, he said.

Yeah, I guess he had lots of little points in his favor, the little barber said. I remember once he bragged about a singing canary he's got. I bet he never beat that bird without good cause. I bet that bird was so happy he woke up the next morn at 5 o'clock every morning, he said, and the big barber said, Yeah, and I bet Mr. Grotch gave his wife a washing machine for her birthday and let her keep the money she saved on laundry bills so she could buy herself one of these new dish washers that cut down the soap bills. Give him credit, Joe, he said.

Being the last we heard on account of our hair being finished.

"MONTREAL'S 10TH

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Rose Lupes, 45, died Tuesday from injuries suffered in a two-car collision near her home New Year's Eve. Her death brought to 10 the number of persons to die in Montreal from traffic injuries suffered during 1955.

There is no law that requires a bridge player to have the true values his bid should show. Consequently, there are some who will bid hands that are not sound or fitted to good rule.

NORTH
♠ A Q J 10 7
♥ J 10 3
♦ Q J 10
♣ A K

WEST
♠ K 8 3 2
♥ A
♦ 9 8 7 3
♠ Q 9

EAST
♥ 9 8 5 4
♦ K
♣ J 8 7 5 3 2

SOUTH
♥ A K 9 8 7 2
♦ A J 4
♣ 10 8 4

The players bid it like this:

South	North
1 Heart	2 Spades
3 Hearts	3 Spades
3 No-Trump	4 No-Trump
6 Diamonds	7 Hearts *

The opening bid by south was not correct. He lacks a fourth high card for a sound opening of one. However, some players are unable to control the urge to start the bidding with such a hand.

Assuming the south first bid to be correct, north had what his immediate jump promised; six tricks inclusive of two sures and a lot of other stuff to back it up in all departments.

Despite his strong suit, south did not have the additional trick promised by his raise. But he could not be blamed for the advise to show it is was rebiddable. He was evidently accustomed to lying.

In answer to the north four notrump, six diamonds is the Gordon convention signal for showing two aces and one king. This did north learn that their opponents had two kings.

This should have touted north off to the hazard of going seven. But the opening and raise by south led north to believe that partner was short suited or fortified in weak spots with queens.

Anyway, there was south in seven hearts with trouble lurking in three suits. To make it worse, he muffed making it when he could have.

When courting danger, to skill be no stranger.

AT THE CAPITOL — "The Glenn Miller Story" returns to the Capitol starring James Stewart and June Allyson. The Technicolor attraction is the story of a love that made wonderful music! On the same program "Canadian Pacific" filmed in the Canadian Rockies stars Randolph Scott, Jane Wyatt and J. Carroll Naish.

AT THE McCARTHY — A scene from "Heidi and Peter", filmed in color in the Swiss Alps. A United Artists release opening Friday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. 2nd. feature also in color is "Fort Yuma" with Peter Graves and Joan Taylor.

Russian Tilling Of Virgin Soil Will Have Impact

LONDON (Reuters)—A leading British farmer forecast today that grain from 75,000,000 acres of virgin soil which Russia plans to cultivate would have a "considerable" impact on world markets.

Sir Peter Greenwell, who went to the Soviet Union with a British farming delegation "last autumn, told a farmers' meeting in London today: "One must give the Russians great credit for the way in which they have tackled this gigantic undertaking.

"We flew for hours over tracts of steppe land which appeared to be hundreds of miles from any habitation—but the land had been broken, much had grown wheat this year and a lot more will be cropped for next harvest."

Price Increases In Steel Expected To Be $11 a Ton

NEW YORK (AP) — The year 1956 will probably bring both record-breaking steel production in the United States and price increases aggregating about $11 a ton, says Iron Age, the national trade weekly.

The mills are off to a running start toward a probable record of from 118,000,000 to 120,000,000 long tons this year unless labor troubles interfere.

The United Steelworkers want higher wages, supplementary unemployment benefits, an unqualified union shop and improved pension and social insurance benefits.

"That's a big order," the magazine says, "and steel companies will buy only part of it."

Any one of these principal demands could lead to a strike which could cost enough steel production to make the 1955 shortage look like a period of plenty, it adds.

22 LOST IN LAKE

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Twenty-three Africans were feared drowned in the crocodile-infested Lake Victoria when a launch capsized in a heavy storm Friday night. Another launch was sent out when the storm became severe, and picked up 17 survivors. Most of East Africa has been struck by heavy rains and gales in the last few days.

WASN'T MUCH FUN

BORDEAUX, France (AP)—Bernard Lorich, 13, and Jacques Derive, 14, of the nearby village of Lormont, decided Friday it would be fun to lie between the rails and let the Paris express thunder over them. They did, but at the last minute Jacques got frightened and instinctively put out his hand. The train cut off two fingers. Bernard was unhurt.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, January 6, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — There is such a thing as being too enthusiastic, even about a good subject or project. Don't force matters as may be the tendency now. Give the other fellow the benefit of the doubt, too.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Personal advancement, perhaps unusual gains possible in business, work. Money interests sponsored. However, watch out for reckless or rash tendencies, and do not be too critical of others.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Is it wise to proceed the way you have planned? Look at matters from a practical, common - sense view, you will probably alter some methods. Don't hesitate where true progress is indicated.

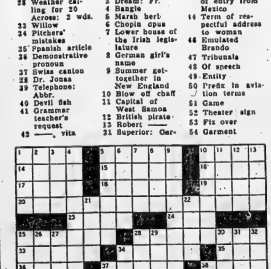
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Look out for flatterers and an unbalanced budget. Get sufficient sleep and keep your disposition even, unruffled by others' acts or words. You can be a good leader now.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — It is important to recognize your own faults as well as those of your associates. Check a desire to push on without giving consequences sufficient thought.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Give as much attention to the little things as to the big ones, and you will gain far greater success in work, results. Configurations sponsor all well thought-out propositions, plans.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — You will have to curb tendencies toward moodiness and dwelling on past successes or errors if you would advance. Be your own part to promote harmony.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — To respect confidences is one of your happy faculties and its use is strongly urged now. Discretion — plus smiles — can make this day for you.



November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Do all that is reasonably expected of you — and pleasantly — but refuse to be pressured or intimidated. Lose no time saying "no" to questionable schemes or schemers.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Back up convictions sensibly. Don't indulge in needless effort, worry. Go about your work philosophically and take problems in stride. Be tactful, too.

January 22 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — A good period, this, for getting details out of the way. Tackle problems realistically, logically — as you so well can.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — It is never too late to start anew, or to say, "I'm sorry," which Pisceans can do with ease and graciousness. Today you may be called upon for extra effort, chores. Remain serene.

You born today: Your industriousness and love of study are highly commendable. You are capable in world affairs, economics, as teachers, researchers, etc. Do not you may not be fond of domestic chores; would rather be among many people and tending to public affairs. You make astute managers, superintendents; plan efficiently, can put those plans into efficient operation. Indigestion, sleeplessness and moodiness could bother you if you are not careful. Associate with cheerful, sound-principled folks. Be sure your talents are directed into right channels; you have considerable power. Birthdate of Joan of Arc, animartyr; Carl Sandburg, American poet.

FIND $37,910, HOPE TO KEEP IT

Employees of a shoe store in Peterborough, Ont., Jack Freeman, left, and Derek Holme hope they can keep the $37,910 richer in 90 days. They found a box containing the money in the basement of the store and turned it over to police. Not one, outside of their employer, Robert Grafstein, has claimed the box and he has done so only on the basis of the fact that it was found on his property. They now say that only a person with positive identification will be able to claim the cash. (Central Press Canadian).

Fingers so Painful She Couldn't Sew

Your peace of mind, happiness, your very livelihood can be wrecked by the misery of arthritic or rheumatic pain. This is what Mrs. Catherine MacKinnon, 348 Gladstone Ave., Windsor, Ont., has to say: "For some time I was bothered by arthritic pain in my right hand. The fingers were so painful and swollen I was very much afraid I'd be unable to use my hands for my sewing. Fortunately, I learned of Templeton's T-R-C's in time! They gave such satisfactory relief from the pain and suffering that I was able to continue my work. Without T-R-C's I would have been no good for my sewing and my family. I'll say I'll always keep my young. (I'm past 70!)" Start using T-R-C's regularly for the same welcome relief. Only 79c and $1.50 at drug counters. 5-111

Gave Best Relief From Sick, Upset Stomach

"I find that nothing ever helped me as much as Syntona," said Mr. Elmer Pearson, 219 Lincoln Street, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"In fact I don't know how I would get on if I was without this medicine as it has certainly proved the most effective remedy I've had for my sick, upset stomach and indigestion. There is no doubt that my nervous spasm along with this it, too, has gone. I don't have to worry from it again."

"I always feel better after taking Syntona tablets; I have more energy, sleep better and don't get tired-out as I otherwise might."

Has Helped Thousands

Continuing proof of the good results Syntona gives is found in the thousands of reports that come from people who have used it for stomach upset, gas and indigestion. It is a medicine that helps with satisfactory results. Why not give this Herbal Medicine a chance to help you, too?

London, England, Smog Kills One; Many In Hospital

Pollution Worse Than 1952 When 4,000 People Died

Tongue Viewing Waste of Time States Doctor

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Irvine Loudon has told the medical profession that doctors are wasting their time by asking patients to stick out their tongues.

Writing in the British medical journal, he says he examined 700 patients with coated tongues and discovered:

Almost all heavy smokers have furred tongues.

Many non-smokers with upset stomaches do not have coated tongues.

Some perfectly healthy people can have a furred tongue even if they do not smoke.

LONDON (CP) — Fog slowly lifted from southern England today, easing London's choking two-day blackout, but it spread north as far as the Scottish border.

London was warned by the meteorological office that its poisonous mixture of fog and smoke —the worst since 4,000 people died in December, 1952—might thicken tonight.

One London death early today was attributed to the stifling fog. Many are in hospital.

The Automobile Association announced that road conditions improved today in the south, where the chaos of the last two days was the worst on record.

In the Thames estuary ships were on the move again after a two-day standstill, but on the northwest coast the normally bustling Mersey lay silent under a murky shroud.

Temperatures in London air taken Thursday showed worse pollution than the average for the "killer smog" of 1952, the headquarters of the fuel research station reported.

Hopes that operations from London airport might restart were dimmed when the industrial ceiling improved to 350 yards, shrank to less than 100 yards later in the morning. All aircraft were grounded.

DRIVERS WARNED

Regular radio warnings went out to Britons who normally drive to work to leave their cars at home in the big cities like London this helped minimize the danger of accidents.

Heavy police patrols were out, acting as guides as much as protectors of law and order. One woman was clubbed in an outlying London district by three men who grabbed her handbag and disappeared in the fog.

Unions Request Support from House Members

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CCL) is asking Montreal district members of Parliament for support both in safeguarding the right of railway workers to strike and in opposition to compulsory arbitration of railway disputes.

A joint action committee representing 18 rail unions has been doing the same thing in the Toronto area.

The action here and in Toronto springs from the dispute between the 17 co-operating rail unions and the major Canadian railway carriers over demands for a 19-per-cent wage increase and a health-and-welfare plan. A conciliation board has been established.

Frank Hall, chairman of the railway union general negotiating committee, said Wednesday at the Toronto canvassing of MPs that his committee hadn't sanctioned any such approach, but that this was by no means a criticism of the action.

Apartment Damaged

MONTREAL (CP)—A three-hour fire, which started in a basement locker room, Thursday night damaged a five-storey apartment building in the city's west end.

Five tenants were driven over-come by smoke or slightly bruised or burned. None of the residents of the three-year-old 84-unit Fourwind apartment on Ridgewood avenue was injured.

Most of the residents returned to their apartments for the night.

Today's Chuckle

He was practising on his saxophone late at night when the landlord came in. Said he: "Do you know there's a little old lady sick upstairs?"

"No," replied the musician. "Hum a little of it."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The storm that brought cold and surging southeastward out of the Prairie provinces Thursday, is slowing and slowly eastward across northern Ontario this morning, and is expected to give snowflurries in the north country today followed by clearing skies and falling temperatures tonight and Saturday.

A second weak disturbance centred in southern Michigan this morning will give cloudy skies as it moves rapidly across the lower lakes toward the American coast. Skies will begin to clear this afternoon except for some flurries along the eastern shore of Lake Huron. Tuesday will be mainly sunny and milder in southern regions as the cold dry air engulfs the entire province.

TAX FORMULA TERMS BELIEVED SENT TO PREMIERS

Proposals Will Be Tabled in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Terms of a federal-provincial tax-sharing formula to take effect next year are understood to have been worked out by the federal cabinet and are expected to be sent to provincial premiers this weekend.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Thursday following 5½ hours of cabinet session that a tax formula had been discussed, but added:

"I hope to send a letter to the provincial premiers this weekend."

He declined to elaborate on the letter's contents. But it was understood that final details of the tax plan were agreed on a the cabinet meeting and will be embodied in a formal proposal to the provinces.

It is believed that a copy of the proposals will be tabled in the Commons soon after the Tuesday opening of the new session of Parliament.

LAST OCTOBER

The tax plan, which would replace the rental agreements expiring in March, 1957, was first suggested by the provincial premiers at last October's conference here. It is believed to have been revised since then to meet the following criticism from most provinces who wanted a bigger share of federal tax revenues.

Mr. St. Laurent was asked by reporters after their talk if the cabinet were conferring with provincial premiers on the tax plan.

"I don't know," he said, shrugging his shoulders.

The prime minister was asked to comment on a report that Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario had expressed confidence in an early tax agreement.

"I hope his optimism will be justified by the events," he replied.

MEET AGAIN MONDAY

He said the morning and after-noon cabinet meeting revised legislation for the new session, and added that another meeting will be held Monday.

Under the existing tax-rental agreements, signed by all provinces except Quebec, the provinces give the federal government sole collection rights in direct tax fields —personal and corporation income taxes and succession duty—in return for annual federal payments. The new proposals envisage that the provinces return to the direct tax field, but prevent a measure of double-taxation, the federal government would allow certain deductions from federal taxes, to provinces which accept the formula.

Named Candidate

TORONTO (CP) — Margaret Aitken, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for York-Humber, Thursday night was chosen to contest the riding in the next federal election.

Miss Aitken said she expects an election this year, was elected to the House of Commons for the first time in 1953.

Her Serene Highness Princess Grace Pledges to Save Monaco from Taxes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Grace Kelly, the movies' blonde beauty with the patrician manner, will marry Prince Rainier of Monaco next April.

She said so at a press reception in her parents' home here late Thursday, several hours after word of her engagement had flashed around the world.

Hollywood, used to surprises, said it seldom had been more flabbergasted. The little Riviera domain of the handsome 31-year-old Rainier III made today a full holiday, keeping up a merry pace set by a brilliant people when they heard the first bulletin of the betrothal on the radio. The radio in Monte Carlo, showplace of the principality, has talked about little else ever since.

The prince and his 25-year-old highness-to-be were toasted in champagne and danced and wreathed around their pictures in shop windows. At the Hotel de Paris it was best drinks on the house to all comers.

Butter Storage Program Aids Consumer Says Assoc. Head

TORONTO (CP) — A leader in Canadian agriculture says consumers benefit most from the federal government's butter storage program.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said Thursday that the butter support program means a direct dollars-and-cents benefit to consumers.

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association that a few years ago, when no butter was in storage, the price went to 85 cents a pound while at present first-grade butter is selling in Toronto for about 63 cents a pound.

He said Canada has and always will be a high-cost area for milk production because of long winters and the high cost of stable feeding. For this reason, the Canadian industry had a legitimate argument for tariff protection.

The United Kingdom was still the chief importer of butter. But before the Second World War she took four-fifths of butter exports; now she takes only two-thirds.

Mr. Hannam said Russia and her satellites are short of fats and oils and may provide a market for Canadian butter, although there is no assurance how Iron Curtain countries will become regular and important importers.

"I am satisfied," he said, "to sell butter to these countries if the need arises."

A federal government official told the meeting it is time Canada exploited her reputation as the best cheese-maker in the world.

D. B. Goodwillie, chief of the dairy products inspection and grading services, said a higher price could be obtained for export cheese.

"For years we have been letting ourselves and hearing from others that Canadian cheddar cheese was the best in the world," he said, "but what have we done to capitalize on it?"

Association president W. O. Cook said Canada last year imported cheese worth more than she exported.

About 6,500,000 pounds of cheese, valued at $3,500,000 was imported during 1955. The 10,000,000 pounds of Canadian cheddar exported last year was worth just over $3,000,000.

Among the imports was 3,500,000 pounds of New Zealand cheddar. Mr. Cook said a request will be made to the federal government for higher tariffs on New Zealand cheese to protect the Canadian industry.

Mendes-France and Mollet Reject Faure's Coalition Bid

PARIS (AP)—The outlook for formation of a new French government became gloomier today with a rebuff by the Republican Front alliance to overtures by Premier Edgar Faure for a wide centre coalition.

The recently formed Republican Front is led by former premiers Pierre Mendes-France, who heads one wing of the Radical Socialists, and Socialist leader Guy Mollet.

Mollet announced the rejection of Faure's bid after a meeting with Mendes-France. He said all elements of the Republican Front must stick together and form a government on their own if they get the chance.

The Republican Front controls some 186 seats and Faure's grouping about 180.

FEARS EXTREMISTS

Faure suggested that the next government be formed by a wide coalition of centrist parties because of the strength—202 seats—recorded in Monday's election by the Communists and anti-tax supporters of Pierre Poujiade. Together, however, the two centre factions' 340 or so seats would be a majority in the 596-seat assembly.

Mollet called such a move impossible because of differences between the Republican Front and Faure's supporters. Faure is a Radical Socialist like Mendes-France, but they have fought each other bitterly and the party has divided behind them.

Colder Weather Reaches Ontario From Prairies

TORONTO (CP)—Cold air, surging southeastward from the Prairies, carried snowflurries and falling temperatures into Ontario today.

The storm was blamed for at least one death. A railway switchman suffered fatal head injuries when he walked into a slow-moving locomotive in a Toronto freight yard.

In one, Toronto suburb snow caused a mile-long traffic jam. Skidding vehicles tangled traffic for an hour on the Queen Elizabeth way entering Toronto from the west.

Clear skies and lower temperatures were forecast for southern Ontario later in the day.

LONDON (Reuters) — Firemen were called out to a London blaze early today, but had to walk—in front of the fire engine—to quick it through fog-bound city streets.

RCAF MAY FORM MORE SQUADRONS OF JET FIGHTERS

Undecided What to Do About Reserve Units

OTTAWA (CP)—Officials say the possibility is increasing that Canada's air defence will be strengthened by the RCAF forming more jet fighter squadrons for home defence.

However, no decision has been taken by the air force, faced with the problem of how to strengthen air defences since it was decided last year that Canada's reserve fighter squadrons are not capable of handling modern jet planes.

Canada now has nine regular home air defence squadrons, fully equipped with the long range, all-weather CF-100 interceptor. They are based at Bagotville and St. Hubert, Que., Ottawa and North Bay, and Comox, B.C.

FONDER ROLE

Another decision yet to be taken is what role to assign to the reserve squadrons. Their commanding officers are to meet here Sunday to hear latest defence department views on air defence but officials said the RCAF's short-term role because it has not been decided.

There are two auxiliary fighter squadrons at Montreal, two at Toronto, two at Vancouver, and one each at London, Ont., Winnipeg, Calgary and Hamilton. One major problem in increasing the number of jet fighter squadrons is cost. Estimated at about $15,000,000 to equip one squadron with CF-100 jet interceptors. In addition there would be the cost of training aircrew, building hangars, and other expenditures.

However, increasing the number of squadrons seemed more likely than the other proposals that have been discussed.

Bringing home some of the 12 RCAF fighter squadrons in Europe has been ruled out on political grounds, at least for the next year or two.

Divorcee Faces Murder Charge With a Smile

BROCKVILLE (CP) — With a smile on the faces of jovial newspapers, Mrs. Virginia Ricks, 42, four-times-married daughter of a former mayor of Syracuse, N.Y., was led into a packed court room today to face a charge of murder.

Daughter of the late mayor Charles Hanna of Syracuse, Mrs. Ricks set up housekeeping as a chaperone for girls and married women in Rideau and district who wanted an unlocked door and a chaperone to attend to travel greater distance to work.

The plant also meant a great deal to Tweed from the standpoint of taxes and local assessment," he said.

Mr. Graham stated it was his understanding from plant officials that they would try to resume production in Tweed as soon as possible, although he said there was no other building available which would suit their purpose.

In addition to Chesley and potato chips the Hawkins plant manufactured Snacks, caramel corn, popcorn and jel pop. The company's product saw considerable Canadian demand and was also exported.

75 Employees At Hawkins Ltd. Are Jobless

Plant, Machinery Lost; Company Plans Indefinite

TWEED — Seventy-five workers, most of them women, were thrown out of work here this morning when the plant of W. T. Hawkins Ltd., manufacturers of Cheesies and potato chips, was destroyed by fire with a loss estimated at over $250,000.

The roof of the 100 by 80 foot plant was destroyed as the interior of the plant was gutted and big sections of the concrete block walls collapsed. Costly imported manufacturing equipment was ruined.

The blaze was discovered by the plant night watchman, Egbert Lessard, who spotted the blaze in the roof of the building at about five o'clock as he was making his rounds. He immediately turned in the alarm and the Tweed volunteer fire department, with Chief C. M. "Mike" Moon reigloned but the fire was already too far advanced and efforts to bring it under control proved fruitless.

The Tweed volunteers were assisted by five members from the Belleville Fire Department and Fire Chief Gerald Vance who responded to a call for help with one pumper truck.

Between o'clock, six hours after the fire was discovered, firehen were still watching the debris.

Operations at the Hawkins plant which commenced business in Tweed six years ago was carried on in two shifts, night shift had left their jobs at midnight.

HEAVY LOSS

Company officials stated their loss would be in the neighborhood of $200,000, while loss to the plant owners, Tweed Steel Works was stated to be about $50,000.

The office of the plant was the last to burn and all records of the company were saved.

This morning an emergency meeting of Tweed village council was called by Reeve T. C. Graham and arrangements were made for W. T. Hawkins Ltd. office manager, Lloyd Jackson and James Marker, production superintendent, to set up temporary office quarters in the village municipal building.

OFFICIALS EXPECTED

No decision has been made about the possibility of rebuilding the plant. W. T. Hawkins president of the firm which has its headquarters in Chicago and who is holidaying in Florida, has been contacted and with his son, W. W. Hawkins, firm vice-president, is expected to visit Tweed as soon as possible.

Mr. Graham stated it was his understanding that the plant officials expected to visit Tweed as soon as possible.

Mr. Graham stated it was his understanding from plant officials that they would try to resume production in Tweed as soon as possible, although he said there was no other building available which would suit their purpose.

Bodies of Five Members of Alaskan Family Are Found Frozen on Tundra

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The bodies of five members of the Wassela family were found Thursday afternoon on the snowswept tundra near Lake Illiamna, 225 miles southwest of Anchorage.

Only two of their nine sled dogs remained alive.

Dead were the 40-year-old father, his 35-year-old wife and their three children, ranging in age from less than a year to 14.

A civil air patrol plane out of King Salmon, one of many scouring the frozen land, made the discovery. Searchers said the family apparently died from exposure.

The Wasselas started from their home at Newhalen Dec. 17 for an overland trip to the native village of Iliamna, 30 miles away on the western tip of the big lake. The journey should take two days, or two nights. A search for them began Wednesday—seven days later.

Patient Has Numbers Game In Hospital

NEW YORK (AP)—A tubercular patient operated the numbers game from a free bed in Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn for 18 months, taking bets from fellow patients.

The non-medical operation was disclosed in Brooklyn District Court Thursday when 51-year-old Gaston Philips pleaded guilty to possessing number slips.

He was held in $1,500 bail and sent to jail, instead of back to the hospital, to await sentencing.

Phillips told the judge he received 30 cents of each $1 he bets he took in. The bookmaker with whom he dealt has not been caught. A plainclothes policeman nabbed Phillips last August and reported he seized 248 numbers slips from a cabinet next to his bed.

Feed Starving Or Fight Them Canada's Choice

TORONTO (CP) — Five hundred Ontario farmers were told Thursday night Canada and other food-rich countries must either feed the starving populations of the world's under-privileged country or eventually fight them.

Norman Moore, an official of Cockshutt Farm Equipment Company, Brantford, said at the annual meeting of the Ontario Wheat Milk Producers' League hunger and want still stalk the globe.

"We in Canada are among the 30 per cent of the world's population that seems to eat. It's our responsibility to see to it that starving people get enough to eat. If we don't feed them we will eventually have to fight them."

Two Belleville Young Men Join Provincial Police

The campaign for new recruits to bolster the Ontario Provincial Police had results with two Belleville young men joining the force this week.

One of the new provincial police officers is former city police constable Dave Richardson who resigned from the local police department at the end of December. The other new provincial police recruit is Don Byers, formerly with the Belleville Burial Company.

Constable Richardson was with the Belleville police department for eleven months. Constable Byers was with Belleville Burial Company for six years.

Constable Richardson has been stationed at Kingston, while Constable Byers is still at Belleville.

Three to Stand Trial at Next Spring Assizes

Two Belleville youths, Ronald Sharpe, 18, and Gary Marriott, 21, will stand trial for rape, and a third youth Guiseppe Ferrara, 18, will be tried on a charge of attempted rape at the spring assizes scheduled to commence at the Hastings county courthouse on January 17th.

Sharpe was committed for trial following his preliminary hearing a week ago, while yesterday Magistrate T. V. Wills, Q.C., committed Marriott on the rape charge following a separate preliminary.

Ferrara was committed on the charge of attempted rape after a brief argument by his counsel. Ronald Case that the evidence was not strong enough for committal on a rape charge.

The bench youths were charged by provincial police following the complaint of a local 17-year-old girl that she had been raped by the three young men on a side road east of the city early in November.

Yesterday's preliminary hearing took up almost the entire day with the complainant being on the stand for over three hours. The greater part of the time was taken up by cross examination by the defence counsel Kenneth G. M. Ross.

Santa Is Late But Welcome

Santa Claus was rather late arriving for some of Belleville's older youngsters, but he landed Wednesday evening for the meeting of the Senior Citizens of Belleville Club, in the Kiwanis Centre. Those present acclaimed Santa as enthusiastically as the children done in pinafores. He distributed daintily wrapped gifts in an exchange of presents by club members. Old St. Nick was escorted by Mr. Parker and was thanked for his appearance by President Cooke.

Mrs. Leslie H. Field, the first president of the Citizens' Club, was called upon by President Cooke to receive two "citizen" spoons, as a mark of the appreciation of the club for the work he had done since its formation. Mrs. M. M. Drummond also was presented with a "citizen" spoon for her work as convener during the term of the first executive.

Entertainment was provided by members of the SPEDGSA and was much enjoyed. Several appropriate numbers were sung by the chorus and Mrs. Drummond also joined in some of the old songs. Mrs. Drummond, Mr. Cancer, performed a solo number, accompanied on the piano by Roscoe Gardiner. She was well received and applauded.

The meeting closed with the serving of refreshments, including Christmas cake, under the convenorship of Mrs. Fred Cooke.

Christ Church To Have New Organist in Feb.

Belleville's Anglican Christ Church next month will have a new organist.

He is Joseph B. Herdman, at present organist and choirmaster at All Saints Anglican Church, Ottawa, who commences his duties here in early February.

He succeeds John Withers, organist at Christ Church since 1932 when he came here from England. Mr. Withers is returning to his homeland.

Mr. and Mrs. Herdman arrived in Ottawa from Glasgow late in 1954 and have been prominent in music circles there. Mrs. Herdman at present leads the Ottawa Lyrette, that of her husband at the capital city's Trinity Church.

In addition to his church duties Mr. Herdman also was musical director for the presentation by Ottawa's Orpheus Operatic Society and was guest conductor for the Ottawa Choral Union during its 1954-55 season.

His wife also has conducted pianoo classes in Ottawa public schools.

BELLE RIVER CLUB

In its issue of December 23rd the Ontario Intelligencer was kind enough to make a very generous write up on on Belle Haven Club's Christmas Dinner and Variety Show which has been held for the previous evening.

While deeply sensible to the honor, we are however bound to admit in all humility, that our best efforts would have been of no avail, had we not enjoyed the whole-hearted co-operation of a great many people.

Let credit be where credit is due.

First and foremost, our most enthusiastic acknowledgments to the Boys who, under the able direction of Mr. E. Underhill, put up such a splendid performance, with the characterization to the Star of the show, Mr. H. Amyot who charmed the audience with a more than excellent impersonation of the late Al Jolson, world-famous blue, black comedian.

Our grateful thanks to the many business men who placed their cars and their persons at our disposal and provided transportation for our most helpless members.

And to the magnificent Fire Brigade whose services were beyond praise.

And to Messrs. Doug Bone, Stan Creeggan and Niel Burgess, the three funny men who accompanied the Turkey to the besides of our shut-in members and dispelled for awhile the gloom of their lives.

And to the pretty hostesses who graciously seated the members and their guests.

And to the directors of Kiwanis who allowed the use of their halls and to the many, many people in all walks of life who contributed to the success of the evening.

Luxury Aplenty Awaits Actress In Tiny Kingdom

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—There's a palace, 35 yards of Mediterranean, a sleek yacht, four shiny cars and a budget in six figures awaiting Grace Kelly when she comes to Monaco with Prince Rainier.

She is familiar with luxury as a member of a wealthy family and reigning movie queen, but Monaco will provide some variety. Here, there's even a private zoo with a pair of chimpanzees.

Prince Rainier III is given $2,000,000 francs ($5,571) a year with no taxes to pay to run his household and set up his activities as a sportsman.

The prince has a sports car enthusiast, a sculptor of sorts and enjoys skin-diving.

Commenting on Eisenhower's call for payments on the national debt before the end of his term, one of the Republicans had been bragging for months about reducing taxes in a period of deficit spending.

Chairman Harry Byrd (Dem., Va.) of the Senate finance committee backed Eisenhower's statement that in a time of prosperity the country could not afford to go further in debt to cut taxes.

He said also he is pleased by the fiscal prospects Eisenhower outlined, "but I am disturbed by the fact that it may encourage indecisive proposal of additional expenditures in a half-dozen or more directions."

Senator Walter George (Dem., Ga.), another committee member, reiterated his determination to push for a tax reduction for those in the low income brackets as soon as budget balancing is in sight.

Regardless of what finally is done on individual tax relief, quick congressional action is regarded as likely for Eisenhower's request for another year's extension of existing excise and corporation income tax rates, now due to drop April 1 to pre-Korean-War levels.

Democrat Claims Eisenhower Paints Too Rosy a Picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political skirmishing was on in Congress today before the first official word on President Eisenhower on foreign, farm, tax and other major question-year issues.

Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate Democratic leader, signalled the attack, saying the state of the union and the world is not nearly as rosy as Eisenhower pictured it in the annual message to Congress Thursday.

Johnson said the "political overtones" of the President's message "are the subject of deep disappointment and great regret" to Democrats who have tried to cooperate with the administration in the national interest.

"Many Democrats believe that the domestic situation is not as rosy as it is painted and that the international situation is one of deep concern."

He said the administration had become "frantic about the farm situation" and was rushing up a program to appeal to the voters—particularly those in the Midwest —in this year's elections.

No Lift Spas On New Bridges Are Contemplated

MONTREAL (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority does not plan lift spans on Montreal bridges, assistant secretary-president of the authority, said Thursday.

Mr. Gavsie said lift spans would have to be necessary, but some extensive modifications would have to be made to the bridges to allow sufficient clearance for ships.

The Victoria Mercier Bridge as an example, where he said alterations would have to be made to allow a clearance of 120 feet between the bottom of the bridge and the St. Lawrence river water level.

COST FACTOR

He added the seaway authority would be willing to cooperate in any changes sought by the province, provided the province would underwrite the cost.

Mr. Gavsie, in Montreal to sign a $7,400,000 contract for the building of the seaway's St. Lambert lock, was interviewed by reporters following a statement by Premier Gohier, chief engineer of the province's highways department.

Mr. Gohier said in a speech Wednesday "Another lift bridge project, similar to the one proposed between Montreal and the south shore." He also said the province and the seaway are in disagreement about Mercier bridge plans. Mr. Gavsie said it would be unfair to charge the seaway authority for the cost of fancy approaches to the bridge, particularly in calculating seaway tolls against cost. Discussions are continuing.

GM Strike Now Second Longest In Car Industry

TORONTO (CP) — The strike of 17,000 workers at seven General Motors of Canada plants today entered its 110th day, becoming the second-longest automotive strike in Canadian history.

It is surpassed now only by the walkout of Chrysler of Canada workers in Windsor in 1945, which lasted 123 days. A strike of Ford of Canada workers a year ago lasted 109 days.

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL), said Thursday night there still are more than 30 issues to be settled in negotiations, scheduled to continue today.

IN MEMORIAM

ALEXANDER — In loving memory of a devoted and faithful father, Senator Alexander, who passed away January 6th, 1932.

At his call we come all wet still,
God gave His great command,
Silently we stand or kneel
Into a better land.

Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughter, Mrs. Mary J. McKenzie.

EARLEY. — In loving memory of our dear daughter, Bonnie Lee, who passed away January 6th, 1953.

God took her home, it was His will,
We know that He does things in our Saviours home above.
Grown lonely days we sit and sigh,
And think of her with love.

Sadly missed by mother, dad, sisters and brothers.

WHITE. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Ernest White, who died January 6th, 1952.

Sweet memories are all I have,
Of one I loved so dear,
Remembered by husband Robert and sons David and Daniel and families.

CARDS OF THANKS

To the many neighbors and friends who in any and every way gave help and sympathy during my husband's illness and sickness, we extend our sincere thanks and deep appreciation.

Milanese Show Their Loyalty To Archbishop

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Thousands of Milanese put on a flag-waving loyalty demonstration for their archbishop today as police sought to prevent any repetition of the city's ancient arch-episcopal palace riots.

Thousands upon thousands, including boy scouts and members of various Roman Catholic organizations carrying their banners, marched to the damaged palace in downtown Milan and cheered Archbishop Giovanni Battista Montini. They were the close confidator of Pope Pius and now known here as "the archbishop of the Vatican."

The bomb, a crude but powerful contraption, was set off in the middle-ages structure that houses the archbishop and other members of the archdiocesan curia. Milan's famous, many-spired Duomo Cathedral No one was injured.

Vincenzo Agnesina, Italy's chief police inspector, who came here from Rome, ordered scores of reports as police sought clues to the bombing. The building was the target o ftwo previous bomb attempts, one in 1925 and the other in 1929.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed to a little higher in moderate first-hour stock exchange trading today. Papers were firm while selective dealings moved financial institutions, liquors and manufactures narrowly ahead.

Hendershot Paper dipped $2 on 25 shares for the biggest industrial change. Algoma Steel was off a point and Supertest eased for the second day, down ¼.

On the curbs, Southam Co, posed a $1.50 advance at 48.

Senior base metals moved in a fractionally ragged international Nickel and Steep Rock firmed. In the low-price section, changes seldom went beyond a few pennies. There was some light profit-taking. Uraniums were best demand among mines. Gains ranged, to Pronto at 240 or 23.25. Exchange dropped 40 cents to $3.35.

Up 30-25 cents in golds were Campbell and Preston East Dome. Declines in the same range went to Hollinger and Giant Yellowknife.

Prairie Oil and Gas slipped 30 cents to $3.35 in the western oils

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings sufficient for a steady demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: eggs, in the case, grades: A large 44; A medium 43; A small 40; B 40; C 36. Wholesale to retail: A large 49; A medium 43; A small 40; B 40; C 36.

Butter solids: Canada, first grade, Ontario 58½; western 58½.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight lower this week at the Ontario stockyards. Calves were unchanged. Hogs were steady and lambs 50 cents a hundredweight higher.

Cattle receipts were 200 head more than last week and 300 head less than the same week in 1955. Western cattle receipts were 630 head, 360 head more than last week. There were no western stock calves.

Western receipts were mostly replacement cattle. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were light and there were no exports to the United States.

A liberal offering of steers and heifers met with a poor demand. Steers traded generally fully 50 cents to as much as $1 a hundredweight lower from late Tuesday to the close of trading. Heifers sold generally $1 a hundredweight lower. Cows closed 50 cents a hundredweight lower. Bulls were strong to 25 cents a hundredweight higher.

An estimated 1,000 head of stockers and a few slaughter steers and heifers were unsold at the close.

Prices

Choice steers $19-19.50; good steers and heifers $17-19; medium commons $12-14; good heifers $16.50-17.50, an odd choice to $18; medium $14-16; cutters $12-14; boner steers and heifers $8-12; choice stock yearlings $21-21.50; odd sales to $22; good fed yearlings $20-21; mediums $15-19; good cows $11-13.50, sales to $12; canners and cutters down to $6; good heavy bologna bulls $13-14; commons and medium light bulls down to $9.

Replacement cattle: This class was slow with sales generally $1 a hundredweight lower; a few good stockers sold at $16-17 with a few stock calves up to $18; medium and common stockers ranged from $13-16.

Veal calves were in good demand with a scarcity of the better kinds; good vealers were $28-29 with choice calves selling up to $30.50 and extreme tops to $31; medium calves were $26-27 with commons at $12-19; grass calves sold for slaughter were $9-15.

Grade A hogs were generally $23.50 with several loads shipped on at $24; some were $16 dressed and stags were $13 dressed.

Lamb prices were fully 50 cents a hundredweight higher; good 90-100 pound ewes and wethers sold at $21; bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight; heavy lambs were discounted $2; commons and medium lambs were $12-17; good light sheep sold up to $10 with common and heavy sheep selling down to $3.

Dairy Farmers Said Locked in Own Cold War

TORONTO (CP)—George Lowry of Almonte, president of the Ontario Cooperative Milk Producers' Association, said Thursday Canadian dairy farmers are locked in their own cold war with foreign competitors.

He told the annual convention of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League dairy farmers are "fighting for their very existence" against dairy imports. These imports are similar to Canadian products but come from countries where production costs are much lower, Mr. Lowry said:

"I see some dark days ahead. We are in a cold war. The various branches of the industry must become more closely allied if the dairy farmer is to get a fair share of the bulging economy."

TO AID PRODUCERS

Agriculture Minister Thomas said the Ontario government is considering amendments to the Milk Industry Act which would aid primary producers. These might be introduced at the next legislative session.

Mr. Lowry: ... The varying problems bound up in the marketing of milk in a province of this size makes the planning of details a difficult task."

He suggested the legislation would encourage dairy farmers and distributors to undertake cooperative action at local levels.

Mr. Thomas added:

"In the next two or three years, if every branch of the dairy industry co-operates, I believe we can increase consumption by 25 per cent."

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of ⅛ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 99 23-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.80 5-16, up 1-16.

C.C. Head Sees Prosperity but With Troubles

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—An optimistic picture of continuing Canadian prosperity was forecast today by Professor Charles Curtis, chairmerce president J. G. Crean, speaking at the 44th annual meeting of the Ontario C of C.

But Mr. Crean shaded his picture with predictions of a record adverse trade balance with the United States and continuing trouble in finding Canada's surplus wheat.

A 400 per cent increase in U. S. post war wheat production is mainly responsible for Canada's loss of world wheat markets, Mr. Crean said.

Canada will continue to buy 30 to 40 per cent more goods from the U.S. than she exports to that country.

"When we try to redress this balance, not so much by increasing our manufactured exports, but increasing the exports of food stuffs and raw materials, which are traditional for Canada, there is always a great clamor which goes up in Washington for more protection."

Possible solution to Canada's unfavorable trade balances, he suggested, is an "escape" clause in the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs, to cover specific duties, to reduce the import of a particular commodity.

As an alternative, Mr. Crean said, would be to concentrate on secondary industries geared to growing Canadian domestic markets instead of the export of raw materials as in the past.

Ministers Offer Services to Mediate Strike

OSHAWA (CP) — The Oshawa Ministerial Association, comprising 36 community churches, today offered its services as a mediator in the strike of the General Motors of Canada plants.

The strike, by 17,000 members of United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) is in its 109th day.

The association said in a letter to the negotiators that the company-union struggle is becoming "sinful and destructive."

"Evidence of this is apparent in our community and beyond. Continued non-production, non earning, and hard words, are poisoning the moral and personal, as well as the corporate and economic health of our people."

The association offered its good will to both negotiating parties and "willingness to serve in any mediating office between your two sides in the present dispute."

Horses Only Fit for Dog Meat After Season in Ont. Bush

NORTH BAY (CP)—Judge J. A. Ploufle, in a written judgment on a case heard in Nipissing district court Nov. 24 and involving cruelty to horses, expressed views Ishmeel Thursday's evidence that 50 per cent of horses rented to lumbering companies by a New Liskeard horse dealer emerge at the winter's end fit only to be made into dog meat.

The case was an appeal by J. W. Brown of New Liskeard against a conviction in North Bay magistrate's court last April 11 for cruelty to certain horses. The appeal was dismissed.

Judge Ploufle censured conditions in lumber camps and called for a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to see that the evil may be curbed.

JUDGE ASTOUNDED

The judge also criticized railway companies for ignoring a provision in shipment regulations that livestock be accompanied on journeys of more than 150 miles.

"I was astounded by the evidence of Inspector Appelbert," Judge Ploufle said, "who said that 50 per cent of the horses he rents to lumbering companies return to him after the lumbering season in a condition such that they have to be disposed of by selling their meat to slaughter houses.

"This is not one may call the machine age. When a part of a machine breaks it is readily be replaced and animals are treated the same way. The maximum li

Around the World

Story of the Twelfth Day After Christmas

BY NICHOLAS MIKA

Today on January 6, bells are ringing from church steeples, and choirs are singing beautiful melodies in many places on the earth. It is the feast of Epiphany or the commemoration of the three wise men who on this day, guided by a blazing star, came to Bethlehem to worship the new-born Messiah. And it is also the traditional end of day on which Jesus was baptized in the river Jordan.

There are many different ways in which the twelfth day after Christmas is celebrated around the world, although some of the old customs are lost or forgotten by now. But there are people who still exchange their gifts on the 6th of January rather than on Christmas and others who burn their mistletoe and holly. An old superstition claims that it means bad luck when the Christmas decorations are not taken down on the feast of Epiphany.

However, I was going to tell you about the way the people in eastern Europe celebrate this day. In the Eastern orthodox church belongs to one of the greatest holidays and with its impressive ritual it is one of the most colorful festivities of the year. Because of Jesus' baptism it is called the Day of the Blessed Waters.

GAMES PLAYED

The holiday actually begins on the eve of the 6th. As soon as the sun goes down, people in snow-covered hills and the first star appears on the sky, the young folk begin to play all kinds of games connected with fortune telling. Usually a bonfire is a large pull in the house, and when it has melted they pour hot lead over it in order to read the fortune in the shape of the hardening wax. Many dares to do this more than once since it would bring bad luck.

The girls open the front door and throw a shoe over the shoulder on the road. Depending how many feet away the shoe falls to the ground, so many months she has to wait for a husband to bear hand.

In this night everybody likes to sit around, eat and drink and sing songs. Throughout the night the house is open for friends and relatives who are expected to drop in. Vodka, pork sausage, black bread and herring are piled on platters and wine comes from the himself, thanking the man of the house for the beverage and the woman for the food.

The youngsters make "multi-colored candles" out of wax inside an orn from house to house singing merrily and wishing a happy New Year. In exchange, they get money but plenty of cakes and candies as well as sausages and home-made cheese.

When the clock strikes midnight the girls run out of the house along the street and ask the first boy they meet: "Please, tell me your name!" Sometimes a boy gives his own name and sometimes another one. Anyway whatever he says, it will be name of the man she is going to marry. The older people try to read their future in a mirror or drop their wedding ring in water to find some prophesy.

INSPIRED POETS, AUTHORS

This merry night inspired many great authors and poets to write the most fascinating stories and poems. You might have read some of them by Tolstoy, Gogol, or Chekov. Pushkin, the Russian classic, devoted to this night nearly thirty beautiful poems.

On the following day, the 12th day after Christmas, the church service begins with the ringing of bells. The day is cold. The snow glistens and sparkles under the feet. It is twenty below zero. The girls have nice pink cheeks and dark red lips. My parents told me that on this day the sun always breaks through the clouds for a while, as only for a few seconds. So I am quite sure that on this Friday the sun will also try to do her best.

From the church a long procession led by the bishop slowly moves with songs and music down to the bank of a river, lake or creek. Here the aldermen of the town have carved a huge cross from ice, breaking open the frozen water, and decorated the place with hundreds of spruce trees and pines. In the centre rises an altar made from ice.

After mass the bishop blesses the water with a golden cross and while the crowd watches anxiously he drops it in the water. Ten or twelve men dive in the water at once into the icy element and try to recover the cross. Whoever brings it back to the shore has earned the blessing and receives a special reward. When the cross is saved, people fill large and small containers with the blessed water, so they can take it home and preserve it throughout the year. They believe it is a healing power and use it for baptism.

DOVES RELEASED

And then comes the most spectacular event. All the boys have brought along hundreds of doves in remembrance of the dove God has sent down from heaven as sign of the Holy Ghost. At a given signal the priest stretch out their hands and let the doves fly into the clear cold morning air.

The entire Ukrainian village is the main attraction of that day is a contest among the men. They jump into the icy water and whoever holds out the longest is the best of the day. Mostly he spends the next few weeks in the hospital and sometimes it happens that he dies of pneumonia.

Well, as I said, scffie of the old customs seem to vanish, but in the wide country, in the little villages and towns of Eastern Europe they still live. Not only in stories and poems, but in the hearts of people.

who shared in the rejoicing that Rainier at last will take a wife. That is important to the Monacans —the future of the throne and the independence of the principality.

If Rainier were to die without heir his principality, which does not require its 1,000 permanent residents to pay taxes, would revert to French rule—with French tax rates prevailing.

Miss Kelly, in radiant mood, told reporters who thronged the family mansion for the reception that she does indeed plan a family—and that, too, was warmly welcomed by Monacans.

Both Miss Kelly and the Prince are Roman Catholics. Neither has been married before. What's more, Grace said that she was in love only once before, with a Philadelphia boy now dead. Thus did she dispose of persistent rumors until recently that she and actor Jean Pierre Aumont were keen on each other.

EASY AND GAY

The press reception in the house of John B. Kelly, millionaire builder and civic leader, was easy and gay.

When the question was put to Miss Kelly whether she planned a large family, she laughed and blushed in pure joy. She was about to celebrate but her mother took it from there, asserting:

"Why, certainly she'll have a large family. I'm a grandmother, and I like a lot of grandchildren."

Miss Kelly said the actual wedding date has not been set, and that is all uncertain whether the ceremony will be performed here or in Monaco.

Does the elegant Miss Kelly, Oscar winner in 1955, mean to retire from movies to devote her marriage in April?

"I plan to live in Monaco" was all that she would say.

DIAMONDS, RUBIES

At the moment she was more interested in showing off her engagement ring of interlocking diamonds and rubies.

When the prince, impeccably tailored in blue, confided that he got the ring in Monaco, Grace kissed him, held him tight and folded her hand in his.

If Miss Kelly goes to live in Monaco, someone asked, will she have a title?

The prince obliged brightly: Yes, she'll be known as "Her Serene Highness, Princess of Monaco."

Farmer Wants Brassieres for Short Cows

SHAFTESBURY, Eng. (Reuter) Wanted, urgently: A manufacturer who will undertake to produce specially-designed plastic brassieres for short-legged cows.

Farmer Frank Newman Turner, who owns 80 cows in England's west country, has been pondering the delicate problem of how to alleviate the misery of his short-legged cows whose milk-making equipment drags in the mud, requiring much palatal scrubbing.

And after hours of thought and research, he has hit upon the simple but practical idea of what he calls "a cow-bra." He makes them out of a semi-transparent plastic which he loops over the cow's back.

EASY TROUBLE IS," he confided, "the cows are not completely happy with the bras. The plastic makes a sort of crackling noise when the cows pad about. They don't like the noise.

"But we're still experimenting. I'm looking for someone who will be willing to mass-produce the cow-bras. I think there is quite a market for them from what I've heard from other farmers who keep low-chassis cows and allow them out in the winter."

WHAT DO WE GET FOR TAXES?

Monsieur Pierre Poujade surprised French political observers. His newly-founded party won 51 seats in the National Assembly in Monday's election. Almost everybody except the French Poujadists agree that this is a poor omen for France. Amongst those who dislike French Poujadists are the Poujadists in other lands.

Oh, yes, other countries have their Poujadists, too, although in most lands they have not yet organized themselves into a separate party. The Poujadists dislike paying taxes. So do most of the rest of us. The Poujadists, however, do something about their dislike. They refuse to pay. They run tax collectors out of town.

Before these who dislike taxes can be induced to resort of such extremist measures, they must be convinced that taxes are unnecessary. There are a number of people in Canada who are seemingly bent on spreading this conviction amongst taxpayers, although the great majority of them almost certainly wish to do no more than to prove that existing taxes are excessive, which is a very different thing. Some of the latter class, when pressed to answer, they consistently emphasize the vast amount collected by federal, provincial and municipal governments in taxes without ever referring to the many services which the taxpayer receives for his money. There is a grave danger, if this policy is followed, that taxpayers may be deluded into believing that all, or at least most, taxes are not necessary but actually harmful to the well-being of the nation. When that day comes, our Canadian Poujadists will become a real problem.

For instance, "The Printed Word," in one of its customarily witty and entertaining articles, observes that there are three things on which most Canadians agree, "a longing for Spring, a liking for having money and a liking for it." Unfortunately, continues "The Printed Word," governments also like to spend money. They spend so much that they take about one-quarter of the national income "out of the pockets of the Canadian people, rich and poor."

"Being deprived of some quarter of their income means that Canadians cannot roughly do winter's work. Not until spring will they get their hands on their own money. It is no wonder that Canadians look forward with a special interest to spring, when the snow and governments may get the "heave-ho."

This is all true—and maddening. But before we complain too bitterly about what governments are costing us, let us also consider what they are doing for us.

We woke up this morning reasonably certain that we were still free, that no foreign nation had seized control of our country over night.

Our taxes bought that protection from aggression. We also get other government services provided by our taxes. For instance . . . We flipped the bathroom switch and the light went on. Taxes do not pay for that light, but a government certainly has assisted in the establishment of the Ontario Hydro.

We turned on the radio, listened to the weather report. The government paid the scientists who brought us that information.

We walked to the milk box, took out a quart of milk, pasteurized in accordance with law and poured a glass for breakfast.

The meal completed, we went out the front door feeling reasonably certain nobody was going to step up over the head and rob us. Taxes paid for that protection.

We started the car and drove down a street which taxes had built, let our youngsters out at the school built by taxes, parked the car and walked down a sidewalk paid for by taxes.

We went to work in a factory which was able operate because of tariff protection, because the government was collecting money from foreign competitors of our employer.

When we returned home at dinner we were not surprised to see our house still standing. Tax-supported fire departments have reduced fire losses.

When we made a purchase in a store in the afternoon, the merchant accepted our cheque, because governments have made it rather risky to forge another man's name to such a slip of paper.

We were reasonably certain that the goods we purchased would prove satisfactory, because governments require the maintenance of certain standards in the manufacture of a host of articles.

We walked back to the office without bumping our head on a single over-hanging sign, because there is a law regulating the height of signs.

Before lunch, we had a drink of water, purified according to law, and washed our hands, in a basin required by law.

After a hearty supper, we opened our mail which had been delivered by a government service, pocketed the family allowance cheque and the notice that a payment was due on our National Housing Act mortgage, opened a circular urging us to protest the high level of taxation and promptly signed the enclosed card and mailed it to our Member of Parliament.

After all, we told our children, copying their homework from textbooks purchased by taxes, the government never does anything for us.

JUST FOLKS

ON ORATORS

I heard a man the other day
Get up and have his little say
And then sit down.
He did not wave his arms about
And paw the air and rave and shout
And make his hearers frown.
He merely spoke his little piece
And that done, knew enough to cease.

Another fellow took the floor,
And straightway started in to roar
And thump the table, too.
He hashed up fourteen stories old,
And these he very poorly told.
The eddies he palsied blue;
He quoted poetry by yards
That did not bother the listeners.

He talked about our glorious flag,
The splendor of each southern crag.
He made the eagle scream.
Alive he cooked each millionaire,
Instead of being full of air,
His lungs were full of steam.
But long before he ceased to spout
His audience was sneaking out.

I'm sick and tired of windy chaps
Who like to exercise their yaps
At other folks' expense.
I'm for the simple, quiet bloke
Who's listed with the "also spoke"—

He gives us common sense.
He makes his point and then sits down!

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 6, 1939

Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of Toronto are the weekend here with relatives.

Mrs. Charles D. Campbell of Hamilton, formerly of this city, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Foster, Victoria Avenue.

Mrs. J. Scott, West Moira St., has returned home after spending the holiday season with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bray at Cold Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Burwash, of Baltimore.

Mr. Dan Doran of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting his sister, Miss Mary Doran, George Street.

The annual meeting of the city council for this year took place at the city hall this morning and the council chamber was filled with interested citizens. Mayor Hicks delivered an address to the chair and the chain of office placed over his shoulders by Mr. Harold Armstrong and ally Laurie Lewis. The devotional part of the meeting was conducted by the Rev. Dr. James Semple of Bridge Street United Church and the Rev. Robert Hall of John Street United Church. Mayor Hill delivered an excellent and constructive address and a vote of thanks to him for the address was moved by Ald. Arnott and seconded by Ald. Thompson. Ald. Green for occupied the chair for the appointment of the various committees. After the passing of the by-laws which are usual at the inaugural meeting of the year, the council adjourned and Mayor Hill entertained the members of the council and some friends at luncheon at the Queen's Hotel.

Belleville barbers discussed at a recent meeting the price which they are at present charging for the "honoured" hair. They claim that many girls are "fussy" and that the time occupied in cutting their hair is excessive, especially when the price charged is only 25 cents. It is expected that the price will be advanced to fifty cents.

S. E. Rollins was elected Reeve of Tweed; the council was elected by acclamation.

Charles Thompson was elected Reeve of Madoc township. The following were elected councillors: Robert Woods, Delos Fox, Blackburn and James Hunter.

Fred Curry was elected Reeve of Moira Village.

John D. Blue was elected Reeve of Stirling township and the councillors are as follows: William Ashe, Charles Morley, Sam Dunnett and William Morton.

C. B. McGuire was elected Reeve of Stirling Village by acclamation. The councillors are as follows: H. Morden, Sam Hatton, Thomas Craigie, and J. Thompson, all elected by acclamation.

In Sidney township W. A. Reid was elected Reeve and Col. Reeve Vanderwater was elected Deputy Reeve.

The councillors elected are:—B. Rodgers, A. Burke and J. Vandervoort.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DO IT YOURSELF!

One of the great essays of the world is that one written by Emerson, which he called "Self - Reliance." It was first separately printed and given as a tract to every school boy and girl in every land. Nowhere in history has self-reliance been at so low an ebb in the world.

You know the phrase: "Let George Do It." Well, those George fellows are the only ones who are making movement in the world, and getting things done! I can understand the immediate response to that brief essay of the late Elbert Hubbard's—"A People's Line of Garcia." Employers took to it at once, and millions of copies were distributed throughout the world. It is rarely read today. The spirit of today is: Oh, let some one else do it. I am too busy, and besides it's too much work. There isn't enough money in it, and who wants to go to all that trouble?

Edison, Ford, Joseph Pulitzer —and hosts of others—were poor boys in their youth, but they did not talk that way. They were self-reliant. They had ideas and ideals. They had vision. At every step ahead they saw new worlds, and they explored them! And each time left a glow of light behind.

What so many people are today lack is self-confidence—in themselves and in the future. Never have there been so many failures, inside of us! But self-reliance, and self-confidence can wipe them all out. We are agents unto ourselves. But, higher than this, we are the inheritors of a God - given spirit that every one of us should clearly recognize. It can be the guiding star!

In a letter to Thurlow Weed, in reply to a compliment paid by Weed to Lincoln's Second Inaugural Address, Lincoln wrote: "Mine are not flattered by being shown that there has been a difference of purpose between the Almighty and them. To deny it, however, in this case, is to deny that there is a God governing the world." It was this very increasing confidence that there was a God guiding him, and the world, that gave to Lincoln his great wisdom during one of the most critical times in all human history.

Pearson Tames Absolutes

(By Max Ascoll, editor of the New York Reporter)

There have been quite a number of pleas for diplomacy lately, mostly lamentations over the passing of what used to be considered, for centuries, a most dignified profession and a noble art.

Now comes a book ("Democracy in World Politics") proving that diplomacy is not merely a lost art, that it can still be made to work, and that the real reason for its operation we don't need to turn antiquarians and go back to Machiavelli.

Moreover, the book, written by one of the most skilful practitioners of contemporary diplomacy, has the additional advantage of being short: 60 pages in all, and it can hardly be said that its publication has produced much of a stir.

This is a real pity, for the Stafford Little Lectures, which Lester B. Pearson, Canadian secretary of state for external affairs, delivered at Princeton University in the spring of 1948 and has now collected, thoroughly deserve to reach a wide audience.

American readers badly need to know the kind of diplomacy that the salvation of democracy demands — the pluridimensional diplomacy fit to cope with the new issues of a world dominated by the coalition of free nations and between conflicting yet coexisting totalitarian systems. Above all, the new diplomacy is a North American style synthesis of the various, but singularly unedifying, ingredients, cynicism, and gramophonic psalmsinging.

In the pages of this book, Mr. Pearson performs the role that he has made his own in the councils of the allied foreign ministers and of the UN: that of the expert in taming the unqualified, unconditional absolutes, the boundless, unmanageable ideals which have greatly contribute to the clumsiness of democratic diplomacy.

One by one, he tackles these revailing illusions. He demonstrates the qualifications that circumscribe their range of validity. Thus in the controversy over the principle of "collective security," Mr. Pearson performs the role that he has made his own as the expert in taming the unqualified, unconditional absolutes, the boundless, unmanageable ideals which have greatly contribute to the clumsiness of democratic diplomacy.

From his unique position, Mr. Pearson derives an optimistic conception of the difficulties which Western democracies are facing, and of the way to overcome them.

His analysis evades those freezing novelties of our times — the new weapons of total annihilation. But only by the scale of our present problems is new, he points out, and men since the beginning of history always have had to reinforce their conflicts if they wanted to avoid slaughtering each other in an endless chain of feud and revenge.

The aid that comes from history is invaluable to us, Mr. Pearson believes, and we are not half as unprepared to face the new tests as some people assume.

We have on our side the experience of the legal systems we have inherited: an unbroken experience in taming violence and finding substitutes for it that has been going on uninterruptedly ever since the Romans and even before.

As a supplementary modern jurisprudence that can guide us in the present crisis, Mr. Pearson finds we have the experience of our politicians, who in North America have consistently succeeded in establishing common bonds among men divided by ingrained prejudices and hatreds.

Above all, we have our tradition of freedom which gives the individual the opportunity to develop all his responsibilities. It is the tradition which has allowed the West to articulate the conscience of the human race.

Of course Mr. Pearson recognizes that democracy, popular sovereignty, and mass participation in foreign affairs have not precisely created the performance of the diplomat's duty. Nor, indeed, has he not made it impossible — far from it.

Here, too, he exhibits his uncanny gift of circumscribing with qualifications general principles and limiting them to reasonable, practical aims.

So, for instance, he refuses to recognize in the people's opinion, no matter how large the majority is, the source of all wisdom and wisdom. The ultimate obligation of the statesman and of the diplomat is to his own conscience, Mr. Pearson thinks.

Unquestionably, he believes in democracy, but only in the sense it does when he comes to define his own conception of the relationship between the governmental and the represented, he finds that Edmund Burke had the last word on that relationship when he declared: "Representative owes you, not his industry only, but his judgment; and he betrays instead of serving you if he sacrifices it to your opinion."

On the basis of this book, as well as on the record he has made as Canadian secretary of state for foreign affairs, the Canadian minister for external affairs appears as a diplomat who is capable of combining the spirits of Machiavelli and Metternich and realize that the diplomatic requirements of all our times and our country must in varying degrees combine the skills of the statesman, the philosopher, and the politician.

Attlee As Bomb Thrower

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FIFTH STEP IN THE NEW YEAR

Can there be any step after the step of faith? Isn't faith the end of all things, so far as a religious life is concerned?

Perhaps there are two other steps. The first of these is the step of trust. Faith is the spirit in action; trust is the spirit of man in repose. Faith is the step we take; trust is the step we leave. "The deal is closed; the paper is signed; the money is through tomorrow." Trust is that confidence that the deal is closed. Man has exercised the supernatural quality with which God has endowed him—the power of faith. God has said, "Your thing is now accomplished; relax and be at peace."

As Jesus expired on the cross, he cried out, "It is finished"—that is the confidence we have in what is achieved. Yet sin was to go on for all we know, millions of years. Yet the triumph is won.

Trust is the realisation that the deal is closed and we can relax and be at peace. Between here and next year and the next decade lie periods of prosperity—but we are on God's side and He is on ours. The deal is closed.

Personal Health Talks

Acetanilid, Anemia

A preceding piece dealt with hydochromic or nutritional deficiency anemia, which accounted for the gray look of many middle-aged women—the gray complexion, that is—"the gray sickness," as I call this type of anemia. It has narrowed in the 20th century the "green sickness" (chlorosis) of teen-age girls in the 19th century.

It is my belief that "the green sickness" was due to lack of refrigeration and hence absence of fresh fruit, fresh vegetables, etc. from the diet. And I believe that "the gray sickness" is due to overrefinement and devitalization of the present day diet. Please excuse me from trying to explain why the green sickness affected teen-age girls while the gray sickness affects middle-aged women—or, for that matter, why females were or are more likely to be anemic than males. Just in case you are going to tell me—I excluded that before I mentioned the discrepancy.

Another cause of anemia which is too often not recognized is the acetanilid habit.

Although there are on record many deaths from acetanilid, the stuff is as cheap as dirt and as freely available, though seldom under its proper name. It is in the pain-killing or sense-deadening ingredient in dozens of headache, neuralgia, "cold," arthritis, sciatitis, rheumatism, "run down," set stomach," grip nostrums. Irresponsible people resort to the drug for any kind of pain, and often without bothering to read the fine print on the label, which warns a person who can read that the medicine contains acetanilid.

Acetanilid unquestionably numbs the sense of pain if you take enough. So do phenacetin, antipyrin and other coaltar derivatives. But there's no reason to believe these anagesic drugs have any remedial or curative effect, and frequent resort to them seems to make some victims of the habit more susceptible to rheumatism, neuralgia or other aches or pains.

To take such drug in the early stage of an illness which, for all you know or even your doctor knows at that stage, may be pneumonia, is a reckless way to gamble with life. And one destroys a few more red blood corpuscles, interferes with the oxygen-carrying functions of the hemoglobin in the blood, increases anemia (oxygen deficit) in the body cells, particularly in the heart muscle. Anemia is the chief feature in heart disease.

The acetanilid habit is characterized by severe anemia, general weakness, mental depression, and skin eruptions. Cyanosis (color) of the skin, particularly of the lips and nails, and digestive disturbances, sometimes sudden death from slight overexertion.

If you have a nerve, joint or head pain you don't stand you but better (1) lie down and rest, (2) find somebody who can read the fine print on the label before you take what the pitch men offer. If it contains acetanilid—and remain lying down for at least half an hour after taking it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"There is a scornful type of merchant who cannot abide the pretensions of his customers, and it is a type that is not confined to any one trade or profession. It is found in almost all. You find them most commonly among druggists, sporting goods dealers and textile salesmen. A good druggist is one who gives the customer what he wants, especially liniments, painkillers and cough cures, and shows real interest when the customer relates how his grandmother swore by goose grease. But all these almost always successful sporting goods dealer is one who frankly admits he knows about sport, and who doesn't bat an eye or twitches a lip when his customer describes how he shot a bounding deer at three hundred yards, and wants some more 44-40 ammunition.

But then there is the textile man, who, when a customer comes with a knowing air, fondles a piece of tweed and says Ah, the real stuff!—and is indignant and retorts that it is shoddy. And then produces a piece of the real stuff, to show the ignoramus what real stuff feels like. And there is the haberdasher, who when the gentleman about town drops in to chinwag about clothes, soon detects the phoney and has a fling with scorn. And the druggist who, when he comes into finger in the sliding wall cabinet, won't put any of his medicaments on it whatever, but bathes it, and leaves it to the air and his own good health to repair it. Like a real alcohol-master, he governs his shop, offering to let any one sample what he likes, but his customers and treating their old wives' notions about drugs and the world with derision.

It's a wonder they do any business, these characters: but they do. To the textile man's shop come all the canny buyers of cloth. The druggist is the accredited adviser to the necca of all the sage sportmen of the town. And what the cranky druggist loses on patent medicines he makes up in the prescriptions of all the best doctors in the district, who know an honest apothecary when they see one.

All Skiing Done on Water

(London Observer)

Why does a ski slide on snow? Dr. F. P. Bowden, reader in physical chemistry at Cambridge University and himself a fanatical skier, has been making some experiments.

He moves forward on the thin film of water formed when friction makes the snow melt. The wax or lacquer with which skis are treated helps to produce the right kind of friction.

Dr. Bowden has now found that if a layer of a plastic substance called polytetra-fluorethylene is fixed to skis, they perform even better. In one test, a run which took 83 seconds on waxed skis took only 54 seconds with the plastic coating.

For skiing, Dr. Bowden says, the plastic surfaced skis confer a considerable advantage in poor snow conditions, although the difference in the best conditions is less marked.

How Hoover Tells Tune

(Philadelphia Inquirer)

Lt. Cmdr. Charles Benter, former leader of the Navy band, tells us that President Hoover once confided to him that he was tone deaf.

"The only tunes I can recognize are 'The Star Spangled Banner' and 'Dixie'," Mr. Hoover said.

"If you are tone deaf, Mr. President, how do you tell one from the other?" Benter asked.

"Well, when they play 'The Star Spangled Banner' everybody stands up," Hoover replied. "When they play 'Dixie' everybody cheers and yells."

Ontario Chamber Wants Secret Ballot Before Strike Called

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Chamber of Commerce will urge the Ontario government to prohibit strikes called by an organized labor group, until authorized by a secret ballot by a majority of all employees affected.

In a resolution, the annual meeting of the chamber Thursday said strikes should not be called on the authority of union leaders, but only on the results of a secret ballot.

Secret votes should not only be held on strike action but also on whether to accept settlement offers from employers, the resolution said.

Officers of the chamber said the resolution is aimed primarily at preventing employees of one company from being called out on strike by a majority vote of union members in another or affiliated plant. The intent is to allow the majority of employees in any one plant to decide their own collective bargaining issues.

BY TORONTO BOARD

The resolution was presented by the Toronto board of trade.

The chamber also maintained that "sympathy strikes, strikes due to jurisdictional disputes, mass picketing, intimidation and the secondary boycott of goods are inconsistent with the Canadian way of life and the provisions of the Ontario labor law relating to them should be enforced."

The secret ballots should be supervised by an independent body, if necessary, appointed by the provincial government.

The chamber reiterated its stand as being opposed to "any form of compulsory health insurance or state medicine" but "will ask the Ontario legislature to extend existing facilities for the care of the chronically ill.

ASKS INCREASE

The Sarnia chamber asked for an increase in the government's share in payments to hospitals for indigent patient care.

Establishment of a college by the provincial police where municipal constable and officers could be trained was asked.

Sudbury and district Chamber of Commerce sought more strict control over access to provincial highways, saying the present setup defeats the usefulness of many highways in the North.

The Brantford board asked that all vehicles in motion on public roads be required to have a clear field of vision through all its windows.

Six Nations Indians Riled About Red Tape

OHSWEKEN, Ont. (CP)—The Six Nations Indians are riled about red tape.

They've been roused by an Ontario government order to register all reservation marriages taking place in the ceremonial longhouses and they plan to prove the Six Nations Confederacy does not come under provincial jurisdiction.

As a matter of fact, says a reservation spokesman, the Six Nations are a nation in themselves, an ally rather than a subject of Canada.

Thursday the confederacy's hereditary council of chiefs advanced their first claim to sovereignty—some passports issued by the Six Nations and honored in several European countries.

Several chiefs hold the passports, the last of which was issued in 1933. Chief Joseph Logan showed his to reporters in this village nine miles southeast of Brantford.

PASSPORT WORDING

Dated in May, 1930, it declares that the Six Nations Indians "are not all states and nations extend upon his travels to our well-behaved and reputable national chief Joseph Logan, Tah-da-da-O, of Caledonia, Grand River, Province aforesaid hereditary chief of the Onondaga Nation all things of which he may stand in need and offer him every protection whatsoever."

Chief Logan said it was the same single-sheet, sealed document which took him to London in 1930 to appear before the House of Commons. He took along the silver peacepipe presented to the Six Nations by the British government in 1769 and it was passed smoking among the parliamentarians before Chief Logan and five other chiefs spoke in defence of their sovereignty.

Chief Logan said it is less than 100 years since Canada first tried to interfere with the affairs of the Six Nations, by passing an Indian Act in 1859. At a general council in 1870 the Six Nations and other Indian bands rejected it. Despite the rejection, the act has been enforced and it's under which Indians are governed.

HAVE INCREASED

Today there are about 150,000 Indians in Canada, living in 600 bands on more than 2,300 reserves. Ontario has about 35,000 Indians.

There are nearly 6,000, all members of the Mohawk, Onondaga, Oneida, Tuscarora, Cayuga and Seneca nations, living on the 60,000-acre Six Nations reserve.

This is not their first brush with the Ontario government. The council urged Six Nations residents not to vote in last June's provincial election, for fear voting would jeopardize their rights under treaties with the federal government.

Premier Frost assured the Indians that they would lose no rights if they voted, but few turned up at the polls.

Minor Hockey

Several outstanding individual efforts highlighted the midget action at Memorial Arena last night as Team Five whipped Team Two 6-1, Team One downed Team Four 5-1 and Teams Three and Six battled to a 3-3 tie. The Black Hawks shaded the Rangers 2-1. The Maple Leafs blanketed the Bruins 1-0 and the Red Wings edged Les Canadiens 3-2 in the squirt games.

The district juvenile league game scheduled between Picton and Belleville Team Two was cancelled. Team Two will travel to Picton on Tuesday night in place of Team One, originally scheduled to go.

MIDGET

Jack Elliott turned in the top performance of the season as he led Claude Carr's Team Five to victory over Team Two. Elliott, alternating between forward and defence, scored four goals to pull him near the top in the scoring race. His seventh goal gives him a tie for league leadership in that department. Sprague and Mowers also scored with Bernie Boulter assisting on three. Pelster, Hepburn and McNevin each had an assist. Ron Hull tallied in defeat with Dave Coe assisting.

Norm Rushlow starred as Team Three tied Team Six 3-3. Rushlow netted two goals and assisted on the third with Ralph Boomhower also scoring and Jim Dolan helping once. Trudeau was tops for Team Six with a brace of goals while Gary Goyer potted the odd one. Masters, Davis and Waite drew assists.

Garry Rowbotham spearheaded the league - leading Team One attack, firing a single goal and assisting on three more to match Elliott's four-point effort. Gord Fuller tallied two goals with Green and Cooper also scoring while assists went to Mann, Clarke and Belanger. Larry Greene scored with Keller assisting for Team Four.

SQUIRT

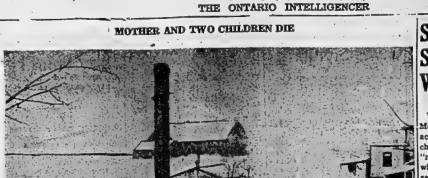
In the Red Wings victory, Tommy Bennett, Allan Wright and Billy Graydon each potted one goal. Brian Williams and Dean Williamson were the Canadiens' marksmen.

The Maple Leafs rode to victory on Raymond Smith's tally in the goaltender's duel.

Richard Eves tallied his tenth goal of the season for the Black Hawks with Barry Aikey getting the other goal. Carrigan was the Ranger Marksman.

Nike Missiles To Be Installed In West Europe

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—The United States Army plans to install its Nike guided missile antiaircraft guided missiles in Western Europe, it was announced today.



U. S. Army headquarters here said that survey of sites for the radar-controlled weapons would begin immediately.

The Nike rockets "intercept and destroy enemy air targets regardless of evasive action," the army said.

Nike units are stationed around American cities and strategic targets but none has so far been sent overseas.

The Nike, a large rocket, is named after the Greek goddess of victory. The army claims it has proved highly effective against modern jet aircraft in tests in the United States.

Liberals Seeking Two Heavyweights To Head Vital Commons Committees

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is scanning its Commons membership for two heavyweights capable of outmanoeuvring the best critics opposition parties can muster.

They are needed at the new session of Parliament opening Tuesday as chairmen of two of the most important committees outside the Commons chamber—external affairs and banking and commerce.

The external affairs committee reviews Canada's foreign policy each session and the banking and commerce committee gives detailed study to legislation calling for expenditure of public funds.

The committees have been headed during the last two sessions of Parliament by two of the Liberal party's most competent debaters. Philippe Picard, appointed Canadian ambassador to the Argentine last August, was chairman of the external affairs committee and David Croll, named to the Senate last July, headed the banking and commerce committee.

SEVERAL MENTIONED

Liberals being mentioned for the two posts include Lucien Cardin, Richelieu-Verchères; Walter Tucker, Rosthern; George Mcilraith, Ottawa West; Rene Jutras, Provencher, and Don Brown, Essex West.

The work of House committees this session is expected to be as heavy if not heavier than last year. The amount of work accomplished by last session's committees set a modern record.

Four special and 11 standing committees met last session, in addition to those on estimates and corporal and capital punishment, special committees studied Canadian broadcasting and veterans affairs.

Special committees will be established this session to study government activities in the field of research and the national capital plan "for the beautification of Ottawa.

The research committee will investigate operations of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., crown company in charge of Canada's Chalk River, Ont., atomic project, and the National Research Council.

Certain Marlowe Was Not Author Of 'King Lear'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Whatever Thomas Walsingham's tomb may contain when they open it, Dr. Frank C. Baxter feels certain it won't be evidence that Christopher Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's plays for him.

Baxter, a Shakespearean scholar and professor of literature at the University of Southern California, expressed his opinion in discussing the latest revival of the Marlowe Shakespeare controversy.

"Whoever wrote the plays of Shakespeare it was not the learned Marlowe," Baxter said Thursday in an interview with a CBS reporter. "One has only to read a page of 'Dr. Faustus' 'by Marlowe' and 'King Lear' (by Shakespeare) side by side to see that there were two different minds and two different kinds of perception."

Three days ago in England a bishop's court granted permission for opening of the 300-year-old tomb of the Walsinghams, lords of the manor of Scadbury, in Scadbury chapel of St. Nicholas church, Chislehurst, a London suburb.

SOUGHT PERMISSION

This permission was sought by Maj. John Marsham - Townsend, present lord of the manor, who hopes to prove that Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's poems and plays. Thomas Walsingham was the patron of Marlowe, who was born in 1564, the same year William Shakespeare is believed to have been born.

"They will find only some bones and a handful of dust in Walsingham's tomb," said Baxter, who received his doctorate from Cambridge University in 1934. "They will find no manuscripts which will show that Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's plays."

The only mystery about Shakespeare, he said, "is that he was a genius."

He watched and studied human beings and his knowledge was there, not to anything that a 16th century could have taught him. No reputable scholar has ever been convinced that Shakespeare didn't write his own plays."

Baxter conducts a television program, "Shakespeare on TV."

Eden Remaining Unmoved Under Fire of Papers

LONDON (CP) — Nine months after taking office, Prime Minister Eden is being subjected to a volume of criticism seldom experienced by a Conservative premier in modern times. He is said to be unperturbed.

"He is taking it in Winstonian fashion," said a source close to Sir Anthony, Eden's predecessor, Sir Winston Churchill, had a favorite way of remaining unmoved under fire Sir Anthony is usually less Olympian, but this time he is reported keeping calm.

In the last few days, articles unfavorable to the government have appeared in Conservative as well as opposition papers. Criticism has been concentrated on Middle East policy, particularly the sale of surplus war stores to Egypt. Underlying this is an uneasiness over home affairs, a feeling that the government "isn't doing anything."

MOST EXTREME

Opposition is at its most extreme in The Daily Mirror, a left-wing tabloid which says tersely: "Eden is a Flop." (During the war The Mirror was even more outspoken against the Churchill government). The Daily Telegraph and Daily Mail, which normally support the government, have also been hostile, although in their latest editorials Thursday they appeared to be backtracking a little.

There is no easy way of determining to what extent press comment reflects current opinion in the Conservative party or in the country. One view, expressed today by a man who is in contact with ministers, is that the present storm has blown up over comparatively minor matters and that it will subside soon.

DEATH ACCIDENTAL

MONTREAL (CP)—The death of a 17-year-old youth who was found on the street has been ruled accidental, coroner Dr. A. B. Clement said Thursday. The youth, Fred Bellefeuille, was taken into police station Wednesday night when found lying in the snow.

YOUTHS WERE TRAVELLING ARMORY

Sixteen guns and one hatchet were found on two Brantford, Ont., youths, Frank Rapp and John Brown. Provincial Police Constable Wilfred Bennett had stopped them on suspicion of carrying an offensive weapon, but wasn't prepared for the armory the youths emptied from their pockets. Senator McCarthy Says Acquittal Was 'Ridiculous'

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator McCarthy Thursday called the acquittal of Leon J. Kamin, 28, of charges of contempt of Congress a "ridiculous" decision by a judge who "would have disqualified himself."

Kamin, now working as a researcher at Queen's University at Kingston, Ont., was acquitted at Boston by Federal Judge Bailey Aldrich who ruled that Senator McCarthy acted outside of his committee two years ago in a one-man investigation of subversion in U.S. defence plants.

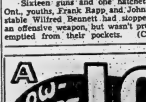
In handing down his lengthy opinion, Aldrich freed Kamin, former research assistant at Harvard, of the charges. He said the Senate committee on government operations, which the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations is a part—had no powers to investigate general subject of communism; that government operation meant the Communist government departments, not private operation of private industry, even though under government contract.

McCARTHY COMMENT

"It is ridiculous to the point of being ludicrous," McCarthy told reporters here. Judge Aldrich "should have disqualified himself since he was a member of the board of overseers of Harvard University and Kamin was a Harvard professor."

"The decision," McCarthy said, "was a foregone conclusion when the judge kicked out the jury when they put some spectators in the hall cheering me."

Kamin refused to answer McCarthy as to whether he knew any Communists in defence plants. Kamin had admitted being a member of the Communist party at times between 1946 and 1956.



Evidence had been introduced that Kamin worked in Harvard's project at Beavertail point, Jamestown, R.I., on radar equipment. But a Harvard official had testified Kamin did not have "authorized access" to classified material.

Kamin said he didn't "expect decision but I had hoped for it."

BUT CARTOON FIRM

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System Thursday announced the purchase of Terrytoons, Inc., which makes the "Mighty Mouse" and other animated cartoon films. Financial details were not disclosed. Paul H. Terry, industry pioneer in this type of film production, will continue to head the firm which he founded in the 1930s.

Weddings

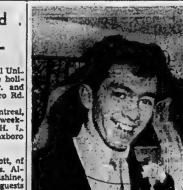
GREGORY — REID

White and yellow pom chrysanthemums and roses interspersed with ferns adorned the altar in the Protestant RCAP Chapel, Trenton, on Saturday, December 17, at 9.30 a.m. when Father P. D. Ross, united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony, Betty Doris Reid, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garney Reid, to William Robert Gregory, of the RCAF Station, Trenton, son of Mrs. Clifford Gregory, of Windsor, Ontario, and the late Mr. Clifford Gregory.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. Ledingham.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Garney Reid, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white nylon lace over nylon net featuring a fitted bodice buttoned down the front and enhanced by nylon lace jacket having a demure Peter Pan collar and long, tapered sleeves. The full, ankle-length skirt fell in graceful folds. Her finger-tip veil of nylon tulle was held by a Juliet headdress encrusted with rhinestones and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses. Silver sandals completed her ensemble.

Mrs. D. Coughlan, of Belleville, attended the bride as matron of honor, gowned in a floor-length, pale pink silk jacquard taffeta with silver overtones. A white feathered band headdress and pink slippers completed her costume. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.



Mr. W. Lightfoot, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. T. Townsend, of Trenton, and C. Kidd, of the RCAF Station, Trenton, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Social Centre, at the Station Trenton, where the bride's mother received, gowned in a floral embossed Peau-de-soie with white hat trimmed with iridescent sequins, with matching accessories and corsage of yellow 'mums. The bridegroom's mother, wearing charcoal blue with corsage of white carnations, assisted in the receiving line.

For travelling to Toronto, the bride wore a powder blue knitted suit with matching accessories, and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Gregory will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Windsor, Ontario, Picton, Toronto.

The bride's gift to her matron of honor was a matching pin and earring set; and the bridegroom's gift to his attendant and ushers, cuff links.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cornell are shown following their wedding in St. Mary's Basilica, Halifax, N.S. The bride is the former Margaret Sampson, daughter of Mr. Lorenzo Sampson, of Louisdale, Cape Breton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cornell, of Belleville.

Mr., Mrs. W. Downey Celebrate 40th Wedding Anniversary

On December 30th., Mr. and Mrs. William Downey were "at home" to 65 friends and relatives from the surroufding district in honor of their 40th wedding anniversary.

The home was beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers, white wedding bells and yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

The wedding table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a bride and groom and flanked by candelabra on either side.

Mr. and Mrs. Downey received their guests accompanied by the bridesmaid of 40 years ago, Mrs. Robert Downey and the groom, Mr. Robert Downey.

The bride was attired in dusty rose brocaded satin with corsage of rose pink 'mums and fern. Mrs. Robert Downey wore navy with a corsage of pink 'mums and fern. Mrs. Beverly Nicols was in charge of the guest book.

The guests were invited to the dining room and were served a delicious luncheon by their daughter, Mrs. Ernest Holland. Mrs. Roy Holland, Mrs. Percy Downey, Mrs. Van Dusen and Miss Shirley Douglas.

Flash pictures were taken throughout the day by Miss Shirley Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Downey thanked their friends for the lovely gifts and for calling to make the occasion such a happy one.

All joined in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Downey many more years of happy married life.

Fashion Flashes

Strongly endorsed for cruise and early Spring wear—and therefore sure of Summer success—is the casual frock done in textured silk. A typical number is a dress of linen-textured silk with crushed kerchief-finished neckline and wide skirt. Short, cuffed sleeves and below-the-waist closing.

A fireside fancy that we fancy is a shirtwaist dress of bronze silk printed all over in golden discs. Casual, open-necked top, elbow-length sleeves, and full, floor-length skirt composed of unpressed pleats.

Miss Cannons Heads Christ Church AYPA

Marjorie Cannons has been elected as president of Christ Church AYPA at the last regular meeting along with the following: vice-president, Peggy Sargent; secretary, Sally Young; treasurer, Ron Philip.

Rev. E. P. Smith chaired the election of officers with Audrey Stewart acting as scrutineer.

Fred Page, the retiring president, gave a report of the activities of the organization during 1955; a report which showed how the Christ Church, Belleville branch of this native Canadian youth organization, that has branched out all over the world, followed the four-fold plan of worship, work, fellowship and edification.

DISCUSSIONS

In addition to devotional periods at the beginning and end of each regular meeting, there were talks and discussions on various religious topics ranging from "Preparation and Service of Holy Communion", to "Bring Back Christ to Christmas," a dovetailing of two of the four-part AYPA plan (Worship and Edification). On Anglican Youth Sunday in October, the group followed its usual custom, acting as sidesmen and reading the lessons at the evening service.

Throughout the season, the group conducted various work projects and social events to round out the program schedule. Highlight of the spring season was the annual party, held in June, for the Anglican students of the OSD. In October, members attended the provincial conference held this year in Ottawa.

Two years ago the conference was held in Belleville.

To close his report, Fred quoted from the report given by his predecessor, Alan Gardiner, "To be a member of Christ Church AYPA is good, but to be a worker is better."

The devotional portion of the program was conducted by Marjorie Cannons, Ruby Vickerey and Fred Page.

Miss Chilcott Gives Stunning Performance

By JEFF RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario-born Barbara Chilcott soared Thursday on the praise of drama critics lauding a Broadway-bound production of "Tamburlaine the Great." A 10-day pre-New York run opened at the Royal Alexandra Theatre Wednesday night.

Christopher Marlowe's melodrama, performed by the Shakespearean Festival group from Stratford, Ont., concerns the life of Timur the Lame, or Tamburlaine, 14th-century Mongol conqueror of the Middle East.

The 368-year-old play, an extravaganza of violence, passion and poetic dialogue, was tumultuously received by actors and critics.

Irish director Tyrone Guthrie and Britain's Anthony Quayle, as Tamburlaine, both received plaudits from reviewers.

PRAISE ACTRESS

But it was Miss Chilcott's night. Harley mentioned in advance notices, the Canadian actress's emergence as a star resulted from her stunning performance as Tamburlaine's wife, Zenocrate.

"It's all overwhelming, gratifying—and unexpected," she said in an interview Thursday.

The Globe and Mail placed "the highest praise at the feet of Barbara Chilcott's wonderful study of a conqueror's wife, taken by him, loved by him, leaving him. A womanly heart shines from the countenance that was what Cleopatra's must have been."

The Star said she "gives a most excellent and strangely affecting performance. Miss Chilcott, always a competent actress, is at the top of her form as a woman who brings out whatever tenderness may be lurking in her wild mate and who plunges him into wild grief on her death."

IS APPREHENSIVE

Miss Chilcott said she is "a little apprehensive" about the New York opening. She is confident success there will directly affect the future of Canadian theatre.

"If Tamburlaine is a hit in New York, then Canadian actors and actresses will be accepted there," she said, but we must get the American seal of approval."

"Theatre is just beginning in Canada. So far we have relied on name stars from Britain and the U. S. to boost Canadian productions, but soon we should be able to draw Canadian audiences using Canadian stars alone." Early rehearsals were at the University of Toronto.

"They were pretty hectic," recalled Miss Chilcott.

ALWAYS STIMULATING

Tyrone Guthrie's direction was "always stimulating, he has so many ideas, you just have to respond."

The dark-haired star, born at Newmarket, Ont., has practised a stage at the age of eight. She has played in more than 20 plays at Toronto's Crest theatre since it began two years ago and was Katherina in Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" during 1954's Stratford Festival.

When "Tamburlaine" hits New York, Tyrone Guthrie will have three plays under his direction there at the same time. The others are Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," at the Royal theatre, and Luigi Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author," at the Phoenix.

BEST-DRESSED ACTRESS WEARS "READY-MADES"

Grace Kelly, Hollywood actress who was listed as tying for first place among the ten best dressed women of the year, says she chooses her clothes off a rack and seldom has them tailor-made. She admits she has an extensive wardrobe but she wears her clothes for years and years." Her expected engagement to the Prince of Monaco has been announced.

Princess Margaret, whose clothes have often been a subject of debate, was rated among the best-dressed ten. She shared second place with the Duchess of Windsor.

College Hill Baby Band Has Successful Year

College Hill United Church Baby Band met for the first time in College Hill church on Wednesday from 4 to 5.30 p.m.

Due to measles being in the district there were not as many children present as were expected. Twelve mothers and 13 children were present with the registration of four new members bringing the actual enrolment to 28 children under six years of age, which is a good start for the Baby Band now organized just one year.

Mrs. Douglas Watson, Baby Band superintendent, with assistants, Mrs. Leona Bailey, Mrs. Alida Watson, Mrs. F. Treverton and Mrs. F. Walker, welcomed the tiny members.

Mrs. Watson mentioned the fact that during the previous year it had been a task to visit the community also and welcome the newly-elected and capable assistants.

Mrs. Bailey played "Jesus Loves Me" to open the meeting and Mrs. D. Watson led in prayer for the mothers and for the little members of the band, also for those sick and shut in home. Birthday was then taken to the front of the room by the tiny tots, totalling the sum of $8 collected for the Presbyterial treasury. This was in charge of Mrs. Alida Watson.

"Away in a Manger," the Baby Band hymn was played by Mrs. Bailey.

Mrs. D. Watson introduced Mrs. D. Williams, Baby Band secretary for Belleville Presbytery. Mrs. Williams told the members of the advantages of the Baby Band in the church and their duties and functions and read a poem which she had placed in her Bible as a mother a number of years ago.

Mrs. Watson told a story to the children of "Noah's Ark," which she accompanied by a flannelgraph. Mrs. Watson also gave a brief chalk talk on the little tug and the ocean liner, comparing these to the child and parent, as the tug brings the liner to dock, so the child brings its parents in to church with the low-line of love.

Mrs. A. Dickens brought greetings on behalf of the church and W.A. and on behalf of Mrs. Bentley, the minister's wife, who was not well enough to be present.

Mrs. Williams gave a delightful dialogue with colored slides about the "Three Bears," which was enjoyed by all present.

Many thanks are due Mrs. Williams for her efforts on behalf of the Baby Band.

Shirley Anne Brown, being the only member not ill to graduate to Mission Band was presented her certificate by the secretary, Mrs. Bailey, and the superintendent, Mrs. D. Watson, offered her congratulations.

The following children will receive graduation diplomas: Sharon Marie Sweet and Cannon Reginald Fleming and Ronald Thompson. They will be presented their certificates when they are able to attend the Baby Band as a later date.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. A. Watson, Mrs. F. Treverton, and Mrs. Frank Walker, and Mrs. D. Watson, the superintendent.

The young mothers enjoyed the social hour following, while the little band members became acquainted.

It was voted this first meeting a success. The superintendent, Mrs. Douglas Watson, with the committee of assistants, would like to thank those who contributed toward the success of the party in any way.

Women's Activities

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

The December meeting of Plainfield W.M.S. was held in the church.

Mrs. Clayton Hall, 1st vice president, opened with a Christmas poem and prayer and Mrs. Clarence Hall opened the worship service with a Christmas carol. Mrs. Brennan, Mrs. C. Treverton, Mrs. B. Emerson read Bible Scripture and a carol was sung between each one.

Mrs. Clarence Hall closed with prayer.

Roll call was wall answered.

A letter of thanks for cards and flowers was read from Mrs. Fred Hall.

Mrs. Dickens, Mission Band leader, reported $52.60 sent in.

Mrs. B. Emerson, group leader, had charge of following program: Reading, Mrs. Kelly, "Christmas Service"; solo, Mrs. Brennan "O Holy Night"; a story "He Came that He Might Give" by Mrs. Emerson.

Rev. R.W.T. Maddleton read from Timothy and conducted the election of officers.

Bannockburn Couple Mark Anniversary

Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blakely, Bannockburn, celebrated 60 years of married life at the home of their daughter, Mrs. William Chambers, Eldorado, with all of their children present.

Although Mrs. Blakely has not been in good health for three years she was able to enjoy a very pleasant day with her family.

In the afternoon several called to congratulate the bride and the bridegroom of 60 years, including their minister, the Rev. J. F. Lane.

They were recipients of several gifts, cards and messages of congratulations, including a telegram from the Queen.

The best wishes of the community go to Mr. and Mrs. Blakely, and it is hoped they will be able to enjoy many more such happy gatherings.

A DESIGNER NIGHTGOWN

By VERA WINSTON

This nightgown is delightful to give, a joy to own and a cinch to launder and keep fresh and pretty. Dacron and rayon mixture in yellow, the gown has a slit of nylon lace ruffles to give it a demure air. In contrast to the fitted bodice, the skirt is a dirndl job with a narrow lace inset near the hem.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

A TEEN-AGER'S GUIDE TO BEAUTY

One of life's little ironies is that the average woman has to reach 40 before she realizes what she could have made of her looks had she only begun taking care of them in her teens.

If you are lucky enough to belong to the teen-age contingent, and are willing to work just a little but sensibly and consistently—you can almost guarantee that you will evolve into an attractive woman.

How well you succeed depends upon several factors. Being fairly good looking to start with is a help —or can be. But if you weren't born with that fact mind, do not stop you from acquiring them—perhaps to a devastating degree. Time is all on your side and you can perform miracles. But you must use good judgment. A keen sense of discrimination between the essentials and the frills in a beauty routine is necessary.

Needless to say, the vivid cosmetics that might be suitable for a siren of 30 must not influence your ideas of glamour. If you use lipstick — and you probably do—use only a nearly natural shade of rose which goes so well with teen-age complexions. Exotic shades clash with a peaches-and-cream skin and succeed only in looking garish.

The same applies to nail polish. It is desirable to use polish, of course—especially if it matches your lipstick, but it is infinitely more important to keep the nails healthy. To keep them strong and smooth, rub nails, cuticle and all the surrounding area with olive oil nightly. Apply with a cotton ball and leave on overnight.

Don't go in for fancy hairdos, but adopt a simple one and keep it lustrous and pretty through weekly shampoos and nightly brushing.

At your age, unless skin is excessively dry, you don't have to worry about creams for your face. Soap and water it to the best bet. But do be careful of your hands which get more quickly dirty there. No matter what the season, use a good hand cream or lotion to keep them soft and smooth.

And don't forget your teeth. Brush them three times daily if possible, but at least twice. And don't forget your dentist. He want to see you twice a year.

Watch your posture, too, since the figure problems of the mature woman often arise from slumping in youth. Keep your head high, shoulders straight, hips tucked down under, and your whole body will fall into beautiful alignment.

It's not really a difficult program, is it? It's mostly the cultivation of good habits—habits that will pay off in years to come!

A simple hairdo, natural looking make-up and lovely posture add up to make a pretty teen-ager.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

AREN'T YOU BOTH A LITTLE CONFUSED?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I have been going with a boy since September, and today my brother told me that he said he didn't like me any more. So I called him and he said to meet him. And when I did meet him, I asked him why he didn't like me any more. His answer was that he didn't have any reason. I had his medal, so I asked him if he wanted it back and he said No. Then when I asked him if he were sure, he said he would take it.

Why do you think he said No the first time, and why didn't he have a reason for not liking me?

I am 15 years old, and he is 16, and I still like him very much. I think the whole trouble is because of my father. He doesn't like boys to come to the house. So the only time I can see this boy is either at school or when my father has to work nights and my mother is home. — J.M.W.

Dear J.M.W.:

I think maybe both you and your boy friend are just a little confused. And I think you had told your brother that he didn't like you? That sounds like a very odd thing for any boy to tell another about his sister. Perhaps your brother was just teasing you, or perhaps he was teasing your boy friend and the boy friend got so self-conscious that he said what he did just to make your brother stop teasing him.

As for the medal, don't you think it was a little silly of you to press the matter after he had told you he didn't want it back? I think you brought that on on yourself.

If I were you, I'd stop wondering about either of these boys' matters and just act natural and friendly with the two. He probably was perturbed into saying things he didn't mean on both occasions.

It is too bad your father doesn't want your boy friend to come to the house and it seems to me it is up to your mother to straighten things out in that direction. If she doesn't want to take it up with your father, however then the first opportunity you have, ask your boy friend if he won't call your father up some time and ask his permission to take you out on a date. I think your father would find it rather difficult to refuse if a nice boy asked him this in a nice way.

BE FRANK WITH JOHNNY ABOUT THIS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Johnny and I used to be the best of friends. He told me all his troubles, and we would go places together all the time.

Then, all of a sudden, he didn't even speak to me and I still can't figure out why. I don't know of anything I said or did to make him mad.

Please give me some advice on how to get back his friendship, because he really is a wonderful boy and I think a lot of him. — S.

Dear S.:

If Johnny really is the "wonderful boy" you say, then I'm sure he would want to be more understanding cleared up. So I suggest you come right out and ask him if you said or did anything that upset him. It does sometimes happen that we do a wonderful boy thing it, do things that may disturb someone, and we may have happened in your case.

To my mind, complete frankness is always the best plan when any friendship seems to be getting upset, so try speaking right out to Johnny as I have suggested. If you prefer to write him a note that would be quite all right too.

TO SEE "TAMBURLAINE"

TORONTO (CP)—Governor-General Massey is to attend a performance of Christopher Marlowe's "Tamburlaine The Great" at the Royal Alexandra theatre here Jan. 17, it was announced Wednesday. Canada's Stratford Festival Foundation said word has been received that the governor - general will travel from Ottawa "expressly to see the Canadian production."

THINK DRIVER STRICKEN

BRANTFORD (CP) — A car crash that killed three persons Monday may have been caused by the driver suffering a fatal heart attack, coroner Dr. A. A. Overhoff said Wednesday. George Hoe, 63, the driver, his wife Emilie, 62, and Hoe's brother John, 66, were killed on their way to a funeral in Burford, nine miles west of here, when the accident occurred. The coroner said there will be no inquest. His autopsy showed "strong indications" that Hoe had suffered

CORRECT FORMS FOR NAMES ON ENVELOPES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I have a sister-in-law who addresses her letters to us "The H. Phillips." My husband is very critical of this form. As for me, I accept it just as I would accept "Mr. and Mrs. H. Phillips." Which one of us, my husband or I, is correct?

2. When greetings cards are sent on any occasion and the card intended to include not only the husband and wife but also the children, is it correct to address the envelope to "Mr. and Mrs. H. Phillips and family?" If not, what is the really correct form to use for the address? — Reader

1. Your husband is right not to approve of this form: "The H. Phillips." The correct form is: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phillips." (I have not used your name, but I have used a name which, like yours, ends in "s". Are I also wanted to point out that the form "The H. Phillips" is really intended to be plural, and so should be "The H. Phillipses." Just as if you were saying or writing "The H. Smiths." You would not, in other words, write "The H. Joneses.") I dislike using this awkward-looking name-form for any reason to use "Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phillips."

2. It is never correct to address an envelope to "Mr. and Mrs.—and family." The phrase "and family" is to be used either in the envelope address or in a signature. When the greeting-message is to include the children also as in the envelope to "Mr. and Mrs. Paul North," or "Dear Paul and Jane," for example, the message "Devoted greetings to you both, and to Maria and Joan and Jonathan." +

ON ACCEPTING SHOWER INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it a breach of etiquette for a girl to accept an invitation to a bridal shower to be given for a girl she either has never met or very scarcely knows? Nowadays a girl is very often terribly embarrassed by being invited to a shower for a girl she means nothing to her. Am I expected to accept all invitations to showers and do my best to budget so that I may take or send at least some kind of small, inexpensive gift (or even a present) "regret" the invitation? — Patricia

When you are invited to a shower to be given for a girl you don't know at all or know very little, it is proper, sensible, for you to "regret" the invitation if you wish to. Today there's a flourishing racket in the world of shower-giving. People who aren't supposed to give bridal showers give them — the mothers for their daughters, sisters for their sisters. Or the bride's mother gives the same list of names over and over again of friends to be invited to showers. People who aren't supposed to be invited, are "invited" — people who've never met the bride-to-be, or who perhaps met her once casually. Precocious children ... bids-for-gifts . . . donations, please, and please make them important presents. And so many, many readers complain in their letters that so often the thanks for the present is depressingly casual, a "Thank you for your pres-ent" at the shower, no follow-up note or thanks, and very often no invitation to the wedding and no future acquaintanceship with whatever with the bride. So today a girl just must use her social judgment to accept the invitations she really wants to accept. And not accept them and not accept them merely because she doesn't want to accept.

Question: Do you have a formula for making Dancing Shoo-balls using mothballs? — a Reader.

Answer: DANCING MOTH-BALL CENTREPIECE

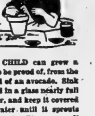
With a few drops of food coloring (but cold water to a pretty light red. Measure into a clear glass, deep rose bowl the tinted water. For each 4 cups add 1 tablespoon citric acid (a powder to be bought at drug store) and slowly now, a bit at a time, add 2 tablespoons baking soda. Now drop the moth balls in and see what happens—add a dozen or so. Do your mixing in the kitchen for the bowl may fizz over. If the mothballs get lazy try adding a tiny bit more citric acid. Do not use best tablecloth under this—but if you must stand it on a glass plate or mirror.

Question: Would you please put down a good meat loaf made with minced hamburg with a sauce for the top of it after it's finished? Also a good sauce for the top of Christmas pudding that can be made at the same time the pudding is heating. I will be looking forward to seeing this — no name.

Answer: I hope the pudding sauce part of this was answered in my copy before Christmas. This reader did not give a name or address, so I could not mailit to her.

MEAT LOAF

Two pounds twice-ground beef hamburg (or 1 lb. ground beef and ½ lb. each ground fresh pork and veal), ½ cup each finely chopped onion and celery, ¼ cup margarine or good dripping, ½ cup tomato soup or tomato pulp, 1 (or 2) eggs, 1 cup soft breadcrumbs, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons salt. This loaf is improved if meat is ground twice. Very gently saute the onions and celery in the margarine, but do not brown. Add tomato soup to onion mixture, then beat in egg. Add crumbs and seasonings to meat, then add onion mixture and mix very well with the hands. Pack into greased loaf pan or form into a loaf. Bake 1½ hours at 375 deg. Fhr. Excellent both hot and cold. Serve hot with (if desired)



TOMATO SAUCE

Four tablespoons each shortening and flour, 2 cups tomato juice, 1 teaspoon each salt, sugar and chopped parsley, 1 small onion finely chopped, ¼ teaspoon dried celery leaves (or 1 tablespoon fresh chopped celery leaves.) Stir flour into melted shortening and stir in tomato juice until thickened. Add remaining ingredients and simmer gently 3 minutes.

LEMON SAUCE (serve hot on puddings).

Two-thirds cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated rind, 2 tablespoons butter, shake of salt. Mix cornstarch and sugar and stir boiling water in quickly until thick. Cook over medium heat, stirring, for 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice and rind, butter and salt. Delicious on many hot puddings from rich plum to plain cottage.

Sunday School Lesson

The Atheism of Worry

By ROY L. SMITH

The genuine atheist is an exceedingly rare individual. He who undertakes to declare his complete faith in a mechanistic universe that has come into existence purely by chance and is maintained by accident is faced with an insuperable problem of logic and reason.

The unfortunate fact is, however, that our world is crowded with practical atheists — people who say they believe there is a God and then live as though there were none.

WORRY MARKED

We are the best fed, best clothed, best housed, and most generously supplied generation the world has ever known. We have conquered a hundred diseases that terrified our fathers. We are producing at such a rate that our surpluses exceed by far the ligerberns are a constant embarrassment to us. The average American people, for example, comprise one fifteenth of the world's population and enjoy more than one-half of the world's income.

In spite of these impressive facts our hospitals are full of people who, no matter from which pet selves sick, our psychiatric clinics are crowded with patients, and the market for buy books on the subject of peace of mind is almost limitless.

More suicides are recorded inside the circles of the prosperous of the welfare state than among the circles of the destitute among the underfed nations.

There is one fact concerning us which cannot be successfully denied. Our prosperity has not improved to be our salvation! No statistics are available, but it is probably true that the average of us worry more than do the members of almost any other race on the face of the earth. FAR AWAY GOD

There is a very intimate relationship between religious faith and mental health.

Dr. C. C. Jung, the world famous scientist who has been treating men and women for mental ailments for more than a generation, declares that 85% of all those over 35 years of age who come to him for professional care do so because they have lost, or because they have never had, a religious faith.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for January 8: "Jesus Teaches Confidence in God," Luke 11: 6-13.

The educated and sophisticated university man of today, for example, may laugh at the infantile faith of the primitive man in the jungle. And at the same time he is compelled to admit that the attitude of faith produces in the mind and life of the jungle dweller a sense of security which is the despair of the scientist.

There is an intrinsic scientific value in a confident faith which cannot be ignored.

A DEFENSIBLE FAITH

To be really defensible, of course, faith must be reasonable. It must conform to science and a proposition that is demonstrately false is false, however religion never sanctifies ignorance.

There are, however, a few principles upon which we can rely. Life, for example, was made to fit the creatures that live it. We have been provided with all the instincts, intelligence and skills they need in order to be successful.

In the same token, life is adjusted to the requirements of lities, so that lilies are able to fulfill their destiny as lilies.

A good religion will inspire in man that faith in life which will enable him to fulfill his vast destiny as one made in the image of God. He who is content to live, and seeks to do the will of God, lives within both an unfailing antidote for worry.

ALL OF CANADA IN ONE DINING ROOM

Soldiers serving at Winnipeg's Fort Osborne barracks get frequent glimpses of their home province no matter from which part of Canada they originally hail. In the men's spacious dining-room a soldier-artist has taken his spare time to paint a series of murals. They depict in color the map of each province in Canada. Here a group watches the artist, Staff Sgt. Bert Surtees of Fort Frances, Ont., put finishing touches to his work. Left to right are Pte. Rudy Quesnelle, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; L-Bdr. Carl Keller, Pinewood, Ont.; Gnr. Elton Grant, Leamington, Ont., and S-Sgt. Surtees.

DEPORTS HIMSELF

Joe Adonis, dapper U.S. racketeer, sails from New York on the Italian liner Conte Biancamano, thus keeping an agreement to deport himself to Italy to escape an eight months to two years' prison term he faced for lying to a senate crime investigating committee. Adonis, a New York - New Jersey gambling kingpin, was convicted of perjury when he swore he was a U.S. citizen. He was put on a five-year probation on condition that he leaves the country after Jan. 1.

Current Phase Of Hunt for Reds Is Nearly Over

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (Dem.-Miss.) said the Senate internal security sub-committee planned to "wrap up" today the current phase of a search for Red influence in the press and other news media in the United States.

Earlier Thomas said that the sub-committee already has been conducting closed-door hearings in preparation for additional public hearings later and added that the investigation "will not be confined to New York City."

So far most of those heard in the current phase of the inquiry have been employees of New York City newspapers.

One of them, who refused to say Thursday whether he was a Communist, promptly lost his job as a reporter for the New York Daily News. He is William A. Price. He said he started working on The Daily News as a reporter in 1940 and has been with the paper ever since except for 41 years at a naval aviator during the war.

REFUSED TO ANSWER

Declining to invoke the Fifth amendment's protection against possible self-incrimination, Price refused to answer many of the sub-committee's questions, although Eastland repeatedly told him he could claim the amendment for contempt of the Senate.

The Daily News publishes in today's editions a telegram it said was sent to Price by executive editor Richard Clarke, saying in part:

"Your conduct as a witness before the Senate internal security sub-committee has disqualified your usefulness to The News. Therefore your services as an employee of this paper are terminated immediately."

Price, declining to answer questions put to him, said the subcommittee had no right to inquire into any man's affairs if since he held no public office and drew no pay from the government.

Three witnesses questioned Thursday refused to say whether they are Communists. A fourth, Dan Mahoney, a rewrite man for the New York Daily Mirror, swore he is not now a Communist but declined to tell if he ever had been.

Besides Price, those who declined to say if they are Communists were Richard O. Boyer of Cortese-o-Hudson, N. Y., a freelance writer and former reporter, and Otto Albertson, a composing room employee of The Times.

Water Supply Serious Problem Says Minister

KEMPTVILLE (CP) —Ontario Agriculture Minister Thomas said Wednesday night that cultivation of farm lands in some parts of Ontario may lead to a shortage of water and the setting up of a commission to administer water supply.

Mr. Thomas, who addressed a meeting in conjunction with the annual conference of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association said unless something is done to conserve water in those areas, water supply might come under the administration of a commission in somewhat the same way as hydro has come under commission administration.

He said the water supply was already a "serious problem" in some parts of western Ontario where land has been entirely cleared and intensively cultivated.

PICTON

Tuberculosis Still a Disease To Be Reckoned With Says Field Secretary of Assoc.

PICTON — While tuberculosis is losing out as a killer, it is a disease still to be reckoned with. It would be a tragedy if this progress is not maintained until the final battle against it is won. Trevor Pierce, field secretary of the Ontario Tuberculosis Association told the annual meeting of the Prince Edward County Association. His topic was "Tuberculosis" and he explored the economic and social upheaval the disease leaved in its wake.

Great advance has been in the development of tuberculosis drugs during the past ten years and such voluntary organizations as this are needed.

Praising the work of official agencies, such as the Health Unit, the speaker stressed that voluntary effort is also essential to the official groups.

The Health Unit plays a vital role yet cannot alone carry on the fight. Real success lies in the co-operation of organizations and individuals.

Health education is an important object of the T.B. Association. The public must be made aware of the need for regular check-ups. In the last Prince Edward mass X-ray, 1,100 persons were on hand so far from satisfactory. It is likely that more T.B. cases could be found among non-attendants, he said. Co-operating with the Health Unit, cases can be discovered and treated earlier.

Tuberculosis causes long illnesses and recuperation and the association can provide useful and practical assistance. There is room to be done in the field of social service and rehabilitation, said Mr. Pierce.

A beneficial program in Prince Edward County can be developed, as has been done elsewhere, said Mr. Pierce.

Dr. Bernard Thomas Walker presided and welcomed the thirty representatives from the county municipality and organizations.

Treasurer Mrs. Annand reported 3600 letters with seals sent last year. Returns had averaged 1100 yearly. Contributions per capita, Prince Edward contributed 50 cents, the provincial average is 20 per cent.

Dr. Turpel, MOH, stated that there was now cancer among the 30 and 40 and up age group. This applies to youth alone through schools is proving effective. T.B. is controllable and largely curable, he cannot rest on our oars," he said in promising the fullest co-operation.

ELECT OFFICERS

Earl Smith, of Bloomfield, was elected president of the County Association for 1956, and also representative on the Ontario Association and delegate to the annual in Niagara Falls on May 14. Clare Platt of Wellington, is vice-president and John Celb Arnaud, honorary treasurer.

Chairmen were named for the committees:

Medical advisory, Dr. Pierce; fund raising, Clare Platt; case finding and clinics, Miss J. Falconer, PHN; social service and rehabilitation, Phil Dodds, Picton; education, Mrs. Wannamaker, Wellington.

At a directors' meeting, Mrs. Edwin Allan, Picton, was engaged as secretary. She succeeds Miss Dorothy Learie who fell unable to carry on the duties.

Named as members of the board were T. Walker for Ameliasburg; Mrs. R. Covert, Mrs. Shelley Williams, Sophiasburg; and Mrs. Ken Carson, Calvin Hughes, Meyn Marysburgh; Howard Gyde, South Marysburg; Jas. Cleminson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Platt, Mrs. Wannamaker, Wellington; Mrs. and Mr. G. F. Spencer.

Miss Eleanor Smith attended the Carriers-Gentlemen's meeting at Carmel United Church on Wednesday.

Speed-Zoning System Being Studied by Govt.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Ontario is studying its speed-zoning system to determine whether it is working properly or a more flexible system should be considered, Highways Minister Allan said Thursday night.

Mr. Allan, speaking at the annual meeting of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, said reduced speed zoning now is governed only by density of building in the area adjacent to the highway.

He said a system of uniform speed traffic signs will be undertaken by April 1 with completion of the changeover set for the end of five years.

For the first time colored signs will be used, the minister said. Green will indicate directional instructions, black and yellow will show curves and crossroads.

Ottawa Lawyer Is Retained In Murder Case

OTTAWA (CP) — Roydon A. Hughes, Ottawa criminal lawyer, has been retained as defence counsel for Mrs. Virginia Ricks of Syracuse, N. Y., charged with murder in the shooting death of fishing guide George Franklin Knapp, it was reported today.

Knapp was found shot to death last Friday in a cabin owned by Mrs. Ricks at Newboro lake, in the Smiths Falls area about 40 miles southwest of here.

Mrs. Ricks is slated to appear in magistrate's court at Brockville Friday when she is expected to be remanded a week for preliminary hearing.

Canada's Political Scene Enlivened by Three Events

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's political scene was enlivened by three events in 1955. A CCF member left his party in the Commons, three provinces had a by-election which brought no change in their governments, and a federal-provincial conference was held which may do much to alter the complex relationships within Canada's federal union.

Ross Thatcher, economy-minded Saskatchewan hardware dealer, produced probably the biggest political spark of the year on April 26.

The 38 - year - old member for Moose Jaw-Lake Centre jolted the Commons by leaving CCF ranks to sit as an Independent. He said he couldn't reconcile policy differences between himself and other party members.

It was the first open break by a Commons member with his party in more than a decade.

GOVERNMENTS RETURNED

Voters of three provinces decided to keep their existing governments, returning Liberals in Prince Edward Island, Conservatives in Ontario and Social Credit in Alberta.

The P.E.I. and Ontario governments got slightly increased majorities in the new legislatures. That of the Alberta government was reduced as Social Credit retained its 20th successive year in power there—a mark reached also in 1955 by the Liberal government at Ottawa.

More far-reaching results, however, likely will flow from last October's meeting here of Prime Minister St. Laurent and provincial premiers.

From it came a federal suggestion by which provinces would return, after a long absence, to the personal income tax and inheritance and succession duty fields. It would replace federal tax rental agreements existing with all provinces except Quebec. Under the proposal, Ottawa's withdrawal has been—with one minor exception—total from the fields of direct taxation in nine provinces.

Follow-up negotiations have continued. Premier Frost of Ontario says he don't expire until March 31, 1957.

ESSENCE OF PLAN

The federal proposal, in essence, involves sharing with provinces on set ratios the fields of personal and corporation income tax and succession duty where provinces accept the formula, preventing extra taxation by taxpayers.

Extra federal payments would average out provincial governments' incomes, proportionate to population, to the level of Ontario and British Columbia. An additional proviso would ensure against any province getting less than it gets in the tax rental pact.

Another result, apart from fiscal effects, may be closer relations between the central government and Quebec. Apart from the dispute from tax pacts and other agreements with Ottawa, Premier Duplessis recently spoke of a policy at co-operation and a desire to go "hand in hand" in co-operation" so long as Quebec's tax rights are not affected.

There were two surprises among the seven federal by-elections held in 1955.

Progressive Conservatives scored a record win in vote-rich Liberals Toronto Spadina, on Oct. 24, and New Brunswick Restigouche-Madawaska on Sept. 26. Liberals had held the Toronto riding 25 years and the New Brunswick one 22.

On June 20 a Social Credit candidate retained Battle River-Camrose in Alberta for his party.

Liberals retained three Quebec constituencies, Sept. 26—Pontiac-Cabeque South and Bellechasse—the last two with majorities doubled by Conservatives.

In the last by-election of the year, Dec. 19, Liberals again were successful in St. Jean-Iberville-Napierville, a Quebec constituency.

The seven by-elections left Commons party standings: Liberals 169; Progressive Conservative 53; CCF 23; Social Credit 15; Independent 1; total 261.

Thirteen Senate appointments were announced by Mr. St. Laurent July 26—the first since November, 1953—and they left the party makeup of the Upper Chamber in doubt. Eight of the newcomers have close Liberal ties and one is a staunch Conservative. But the political leanings of the other four are in doubt, at least publicly.

Mr. St. Laurent has said all appointees to the "perfectly independent" and under no obligation to his government.

At the Jan. 10 opening of the next parliamentary session appointed Senate members will comprised 71 Liberals, seven Progressive Conservatives and 10 new appointees and 11 vacancies.

OPPOSITION ACTIVE

The last half of 1955 brought an upsurge of federal political activity unusual for a non-election year. Leaders of all three opposition parties in the Commons made extensive speech-making tours unmatched since the 1953 election.

Conservative leader Drew crossed the country in two months speaking to party meetings and groups of party workers. CCF Leader Coldwell spoke mainly at public meetings—almost 70 of them chiefly in small centres. Social Credit leader Low concentrated on the Prairies and Ontario.

Mr. St. Laurent, who has cabinet members didn't match this burst of public travelling in two months before the prime minister could call an election any time before the five-year limit in 1958, or a year life of the present Parliament expires, it is generally believed the election will be held in 1957.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL DIES

Postmaster - General Cote died Aug. 7 after a long illness which followed a heart attack in February. Veterans Minister Gregg resigned to be named Nov. 3 to succeed him while continuing to hold his veterans portfolio.

Mr. St. Laurent broke a bone in his ankle as a result of Quebec fishing trip Aug. 19. He was back at work by the end of the month but spent the next two weeks later.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair, touring Russia, fractured his back in the Soviet Arctic port of Murmansk Aug. 27 and then contracted jaundice on a painful trip home via Scandinavia and Quebec. Minister Prudham became ill during the summer, and was absent from the Commons for months he had his appendix removed in November.

Several cabinet members had successful recovery from a 1954 attack of coronary thrombosis, or heart.

Solon Low, 35-year-old national leader of the Social Credit party, was taken to hospital in Calgary after suffering a heart attack Nov. 25. Doctors, satisfied with his condition, said Mr. Low needed a rest for a month.

PARTY DISPUTES

During the year, too, there were disputes over party management within parties.

Mr. Drew faced a challenge to

Solemn Tribute Paid Sir James

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) As elaborate ceremony at St. Luke's pro-cathedral Thursday was the final tribute to Sir James Dunn, who died New Year's Day.

Leaders of government, commerce and industry, together with representatives of all divisions of the financial empire he controlled, gathered at a special memorial service to join his widow, Lady Dunn, and his son, Sir Philip, in paying last respects.

Sir James was president of Algoma Steel Corporation, the giant organization he shaped on Europe interrupt Sault Ste. Marie plant.

Funeral service for the magnate was held Wednesday in Toronto, N.B., and his body cremated there, Thursday, Jan. 1 at St. Andrews, N.B., aged 81.

SAYS PATROL ATTACKED

JERUSALEM (AP)—An Israeli army spokesman said an Egyptian post opened fire on an Israeli patrol in the troubled El Auja-Nitzana area. The spokesman said the patrol returned the fire and suffered no casualties.

his leadership from his party's provincial organization in British Columbia, which voted non-confidence in him in a dispute over direction of the party's federal affairs there.

It culminated in May at a meeting here of the Conservative national executive. Deane Finlayson, leader of the B.C. association, was censured by the executive and ousted from its closed meetings. Later in the year the provincial body agreed to end the dispute by requesting a meeting with federal party representatives to iron out differences.

Disagreements within the CCF cropped up briefly when top party members in Quebec took offence at speeches by a few federal members of the party concerning Roman Catholic schools, Quebec tax rights and use of the French language. The speeches were followed by an expression of regret by the federal executive and the incident was considered closed.

Later, the CCF Quebec branch changed its name to the Social Democratic Party of Quebec (Parti Social Democratique du Quebec). The reason given was that CCF—Co-operative Commonwealth Federation — couldn't be adequately translated into French. No change was involved in the Quebec branch's connection with the national CCF organization.

Impressive Red Wings Hand Canadiens First Home Setback In 2 Months

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

BROCKVILLE TONIGHT

The TFT's fresh from their sparkling victory over the pace-setting Whitby Dunlops trek to Brockville tonight where they take on the Magedomas of the riverside city in what should be a real struggle for third spot in the group standing.

Both club won victories over the potent Dunlops—and won them the hard way. There were no flukes about either "upset" as observers at the Brockville-Whitby game inform us the Maggies really played hockey. They had to, to whip the Blair crew 6-1.

That means that a torrid tussle is in store for the Brockville faithful if the Teeps and Maggies come up with the same sizzling brand that characterized their winning efforts against the Dunnies.

The Maggies, at present holding down third spot in the league with 14 points, one in front of our side, will be battling desperately not only to hold their position but to creep closer to the second-place Kingston Goodyears at the moment reclining behind the pace setters with 27 points. Gerry "Sports Stew" Mulligan, Brockville sports editor, who has called the Maggies to oust the Goodies from second place and finish the schedule that way, will likely burn a few candles, how-tow a few Shinio prayers, and call on the gods of Olympus for victory.

It is to be hoped the Teeps' victory over the Dunnies was not a flash in the pan. Last time out in Brockville they hung a 6-3 defeat on the Maggies in a brisk set-to—and they intend repeating tonight. A win will give them 15 points —and third position.

Meanwhile, the Cornwall Colts, who have won three of their last four starts will be the guests of the Goodyears at Kingston and that should be a battle royal. The Goodies battled desperately to cut down the six-point margin held by the Brockville club but failed in the attempt. Right now they are eight points in arrears. They cannot afford to lose to the Colts, not that they are overly worried about the Brockville "threat," but they still fondle hopes of catching or overtaking the leaders.

And tonight, sometime, Bill McMaster and Rus Gagnon should know their hockey fate. The Teeps-Dunlops players, principals in a battle here a few weeks ago ect their cases sized up the OHA executive. Both were given match misconducts by Referee Moon Flanagan of Kingston, who will appear in person at the meeting to give his version of the affair.

SHUTOUT BATTLE WAGED

It is pretty well agreed that Harry Lumley and Terry Sawchuk are two of the greatest goalkeepers to ever play in the National Hockey League. Many will argue that they are the best. Right now these two outstanding netmen are engaged in a bitter battle for all-time shutout supremacy.

When Harry Lumley started the 1953-58 season with the Toronto Maple Leafs, he had registered a total of 62 shutouts during regular scheduled NHL games. He earned this amazing total during 11 years in the league while playing with Detroit, Chicago and Toronto.

No other goalkeeper in the history of the National Hockey League had ever registered so many shutouts. The 33-year-old Lumley reigned as the undisputed "King of the Shutouts," but now he is having his title conicsted, and the one conicsting is none other than his perennial rival, Terry Sawchuk.

In five seasons with the Detroit Red Wings, Sawchuk had racked up a total of 57 shutouts. He was traded to Boston during the off-season but still maintained the magic touch with his new team and in games played up to the morning of November 15, this season, he had tossed in five shutouts. This boosted his all-time total to 62.

Lumley in the meantime has registered two shutouts this season with the Maple Leafs, to bring his total to 63 and give him an edge of two over his younger rival. During playoff competition, Sawchuk has a big jump. Terry has recorded nine in the playoffs to Lumley's six.

The careers of Lumley and Sawchuk run a similar parallel in many ways. Both were brought into professional hockey by the Detroit Red Wings and both were property from the start. After six seasons with the Red Wings and shotly after they won the Stanley Cup in the spring of 1950, Lumley was traded to the Chicago Black Hawks in a big deal involving many players. He was succeeded in the Detroit goal by the 21-year-old Sawchuk.

Sawchuk won the Calder Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League's best rookie during his first season with the Red Wings. He boasted a record during the five years with Detroit that will be difficult for any goalie in future to duplicate. He won the Vezina trophy as the circuit's top goalkeeper in three of those five years. He won it three times in four seasons and it was Harry Lumley who broke his stranglehold, Lumley copped the cup in 1953-54.

From the time he joined Detroit in 1950 until he departed in the summer of 1955 to Boston, Sawchuk was selected as All-Star goalkeeper on either the First or Second Teams every year. He was First Team All-Star for three straight years, 1951, 1952 and 1953. The last two seasons he has been shunted back to the Second Team and the person doing the shunting was none other than Hollywood Harry Lumley.

Sawchuk was a member of three Stanley Cup champions during his five years with Detroit and five National Hockey League champions. This is some record for a young fellow who wasn't 26 until December 28 to maintain.

Lumley spent his two roughest years since he entered the NHL as a pink-cheeked youth of 17, with the Chicago Black Hawks in 1950-51 and '51-52. The Hawks finished in last place both seasons and Harry had his highest goals-against average those years than of any time during his entire NHL career. Toronto traded four players to Chicago to get Lumley prior to the start of the 1952-53 season. Harry had 13 shutouts his first season with the Leafs which was high for the league. The next year he had 13, also top mark for the circuit, won the Vezina trophy and was named to the First All-Star team.

Recover from Ranger Defeat To Score Upset 5-2 Victory; Crowd Blues for Second Spot

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings are the best in-end-outers in the National Hockey League.

Twenty - four hours after the Wings blew a three-goal lead to New York Rangers, they blast back with an upset 5-2 victory over the league-leading Montreal Canadiens.

The Wings looked impressive Thursday night in handing Canadiens their first setback on home ice in more than two months. The last club to beat the Canadiens at the Forum was Chicago Black Hawks, who took a 4-1 win Oct. 27, Boston Bruins, now in the league's basement, also dumped Canadiens in Montreal.

The victory, resulting from the only game of the night, lifted Red Wings to within five points of the second-place Rangers. Montreal maintained its 11-point edge over Rangers, who have 44 points.

LOSE ST. LAURENT

Canadiens, who expect injured defenceman Doug Harvey to rejoin the club within three games or so of games, suffered another blow. Defenceman Dollard St. Laurent received a shattered left arm he collided with Detroit left winger Red Kelly early in the third period.

Rookie Henri Richard is on the injured list with a leg ailment. He isn't expected back for another week. Goaltender Jacques Plante retired after three games ago after recovering from a broken nose suffered during practice.

Kelly set up St. Laurent out of action, but he also scored a goal. It was the time his marker of the third period and relieved the pressure for Wings who were trailing 4-2 at the time by a referee being hard pressed by Montreal.

Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio each scored their 17th goals of the campaign for Detroit. Metro Prystai and Larry Toppazzini were the other Wing scorers.

STUBBORN DEFENCE

Bernie Geoffrion and rookie Bob Turner counted for Canadiens whose desperate offensive efforts, with 13 shots, bowled over Hall. short against the stubborn Detroit defence and a standout game by goalkeeper Glenn Hall.

Hall made 21 stops, many boreering on the unusual. Plante stopped 29 Detroit drives. The five-goal output by Wings equalled the most markers they've hit in the NHL one game this season. Rangers routed Montreal 5-1 at New York Christmas night.

The game was marred by rounds old when Terry and Wings the lead. Turner's goal, his first in the two games he has played in the NHL, tied the score but Prystai gave Detroit a 2-1 lead before the period ended. Delvecchio and Kelly made it 4-1 near the midway point of the middle stanza before Geoffrion completed Montreal's scoring at 10:40.

Quebec Leagues

MONTREAL (CP)
Royals and Chicoutimi Sagueneens made progress in the Quebec Hockey League Thursday night by winning games away from home.

Chicoutimi turned back the league-leading Cataracts 5-4 on Stan Smrke's second goal late in the final period, while Montreal Royals edged place cut the Cataracts' big lead to 10 points by trimming Quebec Aces 5-3.

GETS U.S. POST

GUELPH (CP)—Jay Fry, an all-star lineman for the last three seasons with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in Ontario Quarterback Rugby Football Union, has been appointed football line coach and wrestling coach at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, it was reported here Thursday.

Golf Stardom Readies for Rich Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The annual Los Angeles Open gets under way today at the Rancho municipal courses. The purse is $30,000 and the winner will collect $6,000.

Julius Boros, top money-maker of 1955; Doug Ford, the golfers' "golfer of the year" for winning the PGA championship; Gene Littler, last year's local champion, and Jack Fleck, the darkhorse winner of the U.S. Open, are listed in the bulky field teeing off over the 7,042-yard par 36-36—71 course.

To this list must be added Cary Middlecoff, the Masters champion, and off his play here Thursday, Tommy Bolt, the Los Angeles Open victor in 1952. Bolt shot a 65 in the pro-amateur celebrity event, a record for the revamped course.

Littler, the young ace from Palm Springs, won the only event last year over much the same type of course in 276, which many believe may be hard to match this time.

Hamilton Snaps Losing Streak; Whips Canucks

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Cubs, winless in their last 10 league games, in two midnight contests, broke out of their 12-game slump Thursday night by whipping Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks 7-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game before 1,431 fans.

Defenceman Burton and Jerry Sullivan will two goals each led the last-place Cubs in their win over the Canucks. Other Hamilton scorers were Max Sturm, Jack Hendrickson and Bob Robertson.

Walt Bradley scored both goals for Canucks, the Canucks who have won only two of their last eight games.

The game was interrupted by fans who pelted the ice with debris in the second and third periods. Officials of Canucks' Ken Douglas who was banished for the remainder of the game before Referee Ron Ashbourne and Linesmen Bill Hall and Ken Ross.

Cubs outshot the visitors 34-28.

Major Boxing Dies in Gotham Managers' Guild Defies Brass

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Big time boxing in New York is dead, gone with the six-day bike race, the Third avenue elevated and the roller derby. Final services will be held Jan. 16.

The Boxing Guild of New York Thursday night voted unanimously not to dissolve its membership as ordered by Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, who set a Jan. 16 deadline. The guild said it had the full support of the 16 other guild affiliates.

"We've done nothing wrong," said Charlie Johnston, president of the International Boxing Guild, of which the local guild is an affiliate. "We're ready to fight in New York right now. But if he (Helfand) takes our licences away, we have to go out of town. We'll go anywhere to get fights, none of us is resigning."

HELFAND STANDS FIRM

Helfand isn't backing down either from the force of his press conference Thursday afternoon, about six hours before the guild met. He blasted the Monday night television fight promoters who decided to move to Baltimore effective Jan. 23 and called one of the Baltimore promoters with whom they will work "Public Carbo's representative."

Carbo, Helfand says, is a notorious character with a powerful influence in boxing.

"I state from the most unimpeachable source that Benny Trotta who promotes in Baltimore with his son-in-law, Angelo Munafo) is Carbo's representative in the city of Baltimore," said Helfand.

"In the last three weeks, previous to this deal (moving the televised fights from St. Nicholas Arena in New York to Baltimore) Frankie Carbo and Benny Trotta, whose real name is Benny Magliano, met in the city of Baltimore to engineer the deal."

Helfand said he will hold a hearing to see whether disciplinary action is necessary against Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg, the St. Nick's promoters. Madison Square Garden and Yankee Stadium in New York will be the only boxing arena in the state if Helfand has his way.

Johnston, speaking for the guild, said any possibility of court action against the commission is "in the hands of our attorneys."

When Helfand outlawed the guild Dec. 15 after a month inquiry and set a Jan. 16 deadline for all managers to get out or have their licences, he said the guild was guilty of "acts detrimental to boxing," "monopolistic," and "a continuing menace to boxing in this state."

Helfand said he would throw the support of his commission into the fight to save boxing but "not at the price of doing business with the elements who now apparently control boxing." He identified the "elements" as the guild.

Toronto's Al Balding Named 1955 Ontario Athlete of Year

TORONTO (CP)—When Al Balding captured the Maybee open golf tournament in Florida 2½ weeks ago he also stroked his way into recognition from Ontario's sports standing athlete of 1955.

Members of the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association picked the 25-year-old Toronto professional for their fifth annual athlete - of - the - year award over swimmers Cliff Lumsden and Marilyn Bell, the 1954 winner.

Balding will receive a memento commemorating the award at the association's annual $25 - a - plate sports celebrities dinner for crippled children in Toronto Thursday, Feb. 2.

Balding picked up a $2,400 cheque for winning the $15,000 Maybee event at Sanford, Fla., in the first victory for a Canadian in a major U.S. open golf tournament.

Lumsden, who ranked second to Balding in the balloting, was the only swimmer to finish the Canadian National Exhibition's 32-mile waterfront swim last September. Miss Bell, who won the award a year ago for swimming Lake Ontario, was on the English channel last summer.

Record 90 Nags Eligible for Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Jockey Club said Thursday 90 horses are eligible for the 97th running of the $30,000 - added Queen's Plate June 16.

At no time in the history of the racing classic have so many thoroughbreds been eligible at this time of the year.

The field probably will be reduced to 16 or so before the horses go to the post.

Sport in Brief

THARP INDUCTED

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Gaynor Tharp, former Canadian leading ground gainer last season, has been inducted into the U.S. Navy and won't be with the Big Four football club next season, assistant coach Bill Earley said Thursday.

Tarley said the 175-pound, five-foot 10-inch backfield star entered the navy just before Christmas and is stationed at the Great Lakes training station, Chicago.

He became Argos' payoff runner when he joined the club after the 1955 season got under way following his release from Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Early also disclosed that Bill Albright, 240-pound, six-foot-one-inch guard, has signed a contract for next season.

ASKS NOMINATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The Lou Marsh Trophy committee said Thursday it will accept nominations until Jan. 31 for Canada's outstanding athlete of 1955. Nominations should be sent to Miss Alexandrine Gibb of the Toronto Star.

The trophy is awarded to the outstanding athlete of Canada—amateur or professional, male or female. The name may be proposed by an organization or by an individual. The 1954 winner was Toronto's Marilyn Bell.

GETS TOP WEIGHT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Nashua Thursday was assigned top weight of 127 pounds for the $100,000 added Widener Handicap at Hialeah Feb. 22. Nashua, one of the year for 1955 may wind up carrying 130 pounds.

In issuing his weights for the Widener, Charles J. McLennan, Hialeah's director of racing, said: "Nashua never has raced in a handicap, and if he wins the $50,000 McLennan on Feb. 4 he'll have to carry 130 pounds instead of 127 in the Widener. Winners of $25,000 after publication of the Widener weights pick up a 5-pound penalty."

APPOINT ADVISER

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Samuel (Mike) Wilson of Philadelphia Thursday was named technical advisor on rules and in full charge of officials of the National Football League. Wilson starred in football, baseball and basketball at Lehigh University in 1918, 1919 and 1920.

MAY STILL PLAY

SYDNEY (AP)—Australian ace Lewis Hoad may still play in the U.S. national tennis championships this year—it's largely a matter of expenses.

Lew and his wife Jennifer are leaving in February on a private overseas tennis tour.

Hoad said Wednesday he would not be able to afford to go to the United States to play because courts there are high and the USLTA not too generous with financial help. Later, USLTA chairman Myles Mann replied he felt sure his association would pay Lew and Jennifer $30 a day expenses.

HIS COMEBACK BOOSTS BRUINS' HOPES

Decision of Coach Milt Schmidt to redon his skates will surely boost the morale of his Boston Bruins and possibly lift the Bruintowners from their cellar position in the NHL. One of hockey's greatest centres, Schmidt scored 229 goals during his 15 seasons with Boston. The 37-year-old sparkplug will also continue his coaching duties with help from General Manager Lynn Patrick. (Central Press Canada).

CAHA Announces Plans to Raise Olympics Funds

MIDLAND (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Thursday announced plans to raise $25,000 in Canada to defray expenses of the Canadian hockey entry in the winter Olympic Games in Italy.

George S. Dudley, CAHA secretary-manager, said the association has asked all teams operating under the association to hold an "Olympic hockey night" at which an additional charge of 10 cents a ticket should be turned over to the CAHA's Olympic Fund.

He said the money will be used to help send Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, last year's senior Ontario Hockey Association champions, to Cortina d'Ampezzo.

Dudley said the association has asked that teams try to arrange the special night during the week of Jan. 30. This would tend to create the greatest interest in the Games which start Jan. 26."

He said it is the first year the plan has been tried.

"Last year arranged for the Canadian entry to play a number of exhibition games in Europe. Since this can't be done this year we had to find a new way of raising the money."

All CAHA teams except the minor clubs will be asked to take part in the plan, he said.

FELL INTO CREEK

SIMCOE (CP) — Frank Vernon James Emsley, two-year-old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Emsley of Simcoe, was drowned in nearby Kent creek Wednesday. Footprints showed that the boy had climbed a two-foot fence at the rear of his grandparents' property and tumbled into the water. Simcoe is 20 miles south of Brantford.

Hungarian Star Set Five New World Records

LONDON (AP) — Six American track and field athletes received credit for world record performances Thursday at a meeting of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, but their combined record-breaking efforts only matched those of Hungary's Sandor Iharos.

Iharos was credited with five new world records at distances from 1,500 metres to 5,000 metres, plus one mark which he subsequently broke himself.

The IAAF, in its first overhaul of the track and field record book in 1½ years, approved a total of 45 record-breaking performances but many of these were immediately superceded by better performances recognized at the same time. Duplications reduced the list to 23 new men's records and six in women's events.

NAME MANAGER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Eddie Stumpf, minor league "executive of the year" in 1954, Thursday was named general manager of Miami's new International League baseball club. Stumpf won his honor while at Indianapolis of the American Association.

Draft Widened

Non-Protected Juniors Prey For Any National Loop Club

MONTREAL (CP) — General managers of the six National Hockey League clubs Thursday tentatively agreed that no player will be immune from the draft unless he is protected by his club.

In effect, the would widen the draft so that the five-or-six of the NHL could reach into the sponsored junior teams of any NHL clubs and pick up a budding young star.

Heretofore it has been hands off so far as sponsored junior clubs are concerned. The parent NHL club, spending money freely on its hockey nursery, has had first call on the youngsters. There has been no necessity to place a junior among its 18 players, named before the start of the season, on club's protected list.

CAN BE SNATCHED

Under the new proposal, unless a junior is included among the 18 considered indispensable, he can be snatched by another club. Sponsorship and the draft came in for considerable discussion at the closing meeting. The general managers now will report to their club owners and will reassemble here probably in Toronto Jan. 25.

The purpose of Thursday's meeting was to work out recommendations that will be passed along to the league governors. Action taken was with the object of having any approved changes come into effect next season.

No action was taken on a repeated suggestion that players on protected lists become liable to draft after 30 days if sent down to a minor club.

APPROVE SCHMIDT

The general managers gave approval to the request that Boston Bruins that coach Milt Schmidt be restored to the active list. Schmidt has not played since December, 1954, after he took over coaching duties for the Bruins.

Confirmation was given to a proposed regulation regarding pre-game warm-ups by clubs. It was agreed that each team will remain in its own end of the limit will be the near edge of the centre-ice faceoff circle. The circle, 30 feet in diameter, now becomes some thing of a no man's land in the centre-ice red line.

The change came about because

Queen Mother Enters Pair in Grand National

LONDON (AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth Thursday gave a straight answer to critics of the Royal Family's love of horse racing and steeplechasing by entering two horses for the Grand National Steeplechase March 24.

The royal-owned M'As-Tu-Vu and Devon Loch are among 16 noninjured for the four miles, 856 yards, 30-jump Aintree grind—the world's toughest steeplechase.

Some animal societies and religious organizations have criticized Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret for their keen interest in horse racing.

Four horses were killed or destroyed after the 1954 race. A public outcry followed with charges that the National Steeplechase is cruelty to animals.

Bonin Back With Bruins

BOSTON (AP)—Forward Marcel Bonin will rejoin his Boston teammates in time for Saturday night's National Hockey League game at Toronto, the Bruins announced Tuesday. He has been out with several injuries.

Coach Milt Schmidt, who is applying for reinstatement as a player, probably will appear tonight in an exhibition game against the junior Flyers at Barrie, Ont.

friction has cropped up between players of the opposition teams when the warm-up extended to the centre-ice red line.

Calgary Stamps Manager Resigns

CALGARY (CP)—Manager Bob Robinett of the Calgary football Stampeders Thursday tendered his resignation, effective Feb. 15, to the club's new directors.

His contract was due to terminate Feb. 15. Robinett listed "pressure from my family and various other reasons" as the cause of his resignation.

Comedy Show Being Spotted In Opposition to Ed Sullivan

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the toughest assignments in the world is when a man is told: "You're to make them laugh for an hour."

But that's what they told Sam Fuller a few weeks ago at NBC when he was dispatched to Hollywood with orders to assemble a comedy program for the NBC-TV Sunday spot opposite Ed Sullivan on CBS-TV. The result, beginning this Sunday, is "the NBC Comedy Hour."

It take the place of "the Colgate Variety Hour," which went thataway after its audience was massled by Sullivan's larger audience.

The host will be Leo Durocher, a gentleman of impeccable charm and vast good humor since he left the Polo Grounds and computated a fat contract with NBC. Music will be incidental to comedy on the new program.

Fuller is not making bold promises of having 'em howling in the aisles. He's cautious—but optimistic. He realizes it will take time and experimentation with all types of comedy and all sorts of comics.

Most encouraging, he feels, is that the show has a big stable of top-flight comedy writers who have been given a free hand in putting together fresh material. "They're sparked with enthusiasm," he says. To begin with, at least, the comedy writer rather than the comedian will be king of this show.

Speaking of that heavily contested Sunday night spot, Kate Smith has just been signed for five appearances on the Ed Sullivan show at a figure reported running over $100,000. Her first appearance will be Feb. 5.

Among the things to see this Sunday (all times eastern):

3:30 p. m., CBS-TV, "Sunday News"—This is the debut of a weekly half-hour program of film and verbal reporting conducted by Eric Sevareid.

4 p. m., NBC-TV, "Hall mark of Fame," presents "Th Corn is Green," starring Eve Gallilenoa. This is the story of a school teacher early in this century who has tremendous faith in education and, especially, in one of her students.

5 p. m., CBS-TV, "Omnibus" presents Helen Hayes, Franchot Tone and Susan Strasberg in Sir James Barrie's "Dear Brutus."

And don't forget that at 7:30 p. m. Monday evening Mary Martin and Cyril Ritchard return to television in a two-hour showing of "Peter Pan" on NBC-TV one of the television treats of the year.

Grace Kelly's Father Is Real 'Cinderella'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The romance of movie actress Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III of Monaco is not the old story of a poor Cinderella meeting her prince. The "Cinderella" in the Kelly family is really the film star's father, who started life as the bricklayer son of a County Mayor farmer in Ireland, but built up one of the largest brickyard construction companies in the United States.

A champion sculler, Kelly went to England to participate in the Henley regatta. But he was ruled out by the Henley committee because he had once "worked with his hands," which disqualified him as a "gentleman" sculler. But Kelly went to the Olympics where he beat the Henley winner.

In 1947, Kelly's son, John, wearing the University of Pennsylvania's colors, went to Henley and won a smashing victory. His father had coached him.

Last March Miss Kelly won an

In one of the best contracts ever signed by a motion picture actress, Marilyn Monroe is back in films but still free to engage in any type of theatrical venture she chooses. She may realize $8,000,000 over seven years under the terms of her new agreement for which she held out for more than a year.

Oscar as the long suffering wife of a drinking actor in "The Country Girl."

Wednesday, Miss Kelly was named by the couture group of the New York Dress Institute as one of the world's best dressed women. In the annual poll conducted by the institute she tied for first place with Mrs. William Paley of New York.

A week ago Miss Kelly was named runnerup to James Stewart in the annual motion picture box office poll in the United States.

Hollywood generally has credited her spectacular career to three facts—she is blonde, beautiful—and can act.

From the beginning she has had top roles in pictures. She studied two years at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, and had a role in a New York show "The Father." Her big break in pictures came in "High Noon."

You may have a good reason for getting your pair overboard in a bridge deal. But one of your best reasons is your ability to take full advantage of every break that offers itself.

South did not do this in the typical deal here:

NORTH
♠A Q J 10 7
♥J 10 5
♦Q J 10
♣A K

WEST
♠K 8 3 2
♦9 8 7 5

EAST
♠9 6 5 4
♥Q 9 8 6 4
♦K
♣J 8 7 5 3 2

SOUTH
♥A K 3 2
♦A 8
♣10 8 4

Due to the wrong information south gave his partner, north went to seven hearts for south to play. As you can see, there were several holes that needed plugging up.

Declarer got his first break when west led a diamond. It caught the east king flat and left no diamond losers. He got another break when he slapped down his trump ace and learned west was naked in it.

But he failed to make the most of it by carelessly throwing the dummy two trump on this trick. That was his undoing. Because now he blocked himself off from the play that would have saved him.

A club entered dummy and trump Jack was returned. East refused to cover and the Jack held. Trump ten was led and also held when east again refused to cover. Now look what he is up against.

East would ruff a diamond return. West would win a spade return. There he was, stuck in dummy and no way to get out. All because he failed to look ahead after being tipped off.

When west showed out on the first trump, he could have known to have the four outstanding trumps. Instead of the three, the play from dummy should have been the ten of trumps.

Getting in with a club, dummy returns trump jack that east does not cover. So what? The small trump is then led and east can refuse to cover. South merely finesses and picks up east's queen.

Then, with the spade finesse successful, there are no worries left. All this despite the many troubles he first thought he had.

The guy who fails to look ahead is just about as good as dead.

Piece of Pork Rind Removed

TORONTO (CP)—An emergency operation performed at the Hospital for Sick Children Wednesday night removed a piece of pork rind which had lodged in the bronchial tube of Gordon Burke, 12, of North Bay.

He was flown to Toronto Wednesday for the operation. His condition today is reported satisfactory.

Dr. J. R. Hall of North Bay said the boy suffered a choking spell during a meal, early this week. When the coughing stopped it was assumed the trouble had cleared.

He was taken to a doctor Tuesday and when the obstruction was located he was ordered to Toronto.

AT THE BELLE — The biggest cattle stampede ever caught on film, taking full advantage of the awesome dimensions of CinemaScope, is displayed in "The Tall Men", Twentieth Century-Fox's big scale western epic, now at the Belle Theatre. The roster of stars matches the size of the spectacle in this ambitious venture. Clark Gable and Jane Russell are teamed for the first time, Robert Ryan and Cameron Mitchell fill the other leads. "The Tall Men", is in color Deluxe, and is a tremendous motion picture.

AT THE CAPITOL — A scene from the Technicolor musical "The Glenn Miller Story" starring James Stewart and June Allyson showing today and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Canadian Pacific" filmed entirely in the Canadian Rockies and starring Randolph Scott and J. Carroll Nalah. Continuous show on Saturday from 1.00.

Buster Keaton, After Brush With Death, Ready for Action

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Back from a brush with death, Buster Keaton says he is ready, willing and able to resume his long career as "the most knockabout comic in the business."

A month ago, the veteran comedian was stricken with an internal hemorrhage. Placed on the critical list, his condition was termed "very grave" for a number of days.

But old comics don't die easily, and Buster clung to life, gradually regaining his strength. Now he's up and around, and there's even a smile instead of his famous deadpan.

"Yes, it was a tough time," he remarked at his modest bungalow in the heart of Los Angeles. "But I didn't know anything about it. I was fighting the anesthetic when they put me under. Every time I started to come out of it I'd be fighting again. So they kept me out cold for four days.

10 PINTS OF BLOOD

"They pumped 10 pints of blood into me in 14 hours. Ten pints—that's as much as I had in me, so you can see how much I lost. They cut a hole in my trached so I could breathe and were feeding me intravenously in my ankle. At one time I had six tubes stuck in me."

Perhaps the reason for his amazing recovery was the fact that he has remained in good physical condition since childhood. Said he: "There's no doubt about it—my father and I had the roughest act in vaudeville."

He continued his violent routines during his long movie career. Only two months ago, Keaton at 60 was performing pratfalls on a television spectacular. Because of this, he has most younger men into insensibility.

Despite his illness, Buster said he will be able to resume his physical activity.

NO SPICY FOODS

"That doesn't worry the doctors at all," he remarked. "The thing they are concerned about is my diet. No spicy foods. No cigarets or coffee on an empty stomach. And no drinking."

His plans for the future will be bold up until a final checkup in three or four weeks. Then he plans to resume his TV career. He plans to stay here until late June, when he'll go to work on "The Buster Keaton Story," which will star Donald O'Connor at Paramount. Buster will help on the script and comedy routines.

Dumping Duties To Be Imposed On French Goods

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada may impose dumping duties on goods imported from France starting next April, it was learned today.

A special order-in-council which had the effect of suspending the dumping tolls on French goods expires next March and informants said today there are no indications it will be renewed.

The complaint of Canada and other members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade is that France subsidizes her exports by certain refunds of excise security taxes to manufacturers of exported goods.

The GATT members maintain this creates unfair competition in international trade. France is reported to have reduced the scale of the refunds, but GATT members feel more progress should be made in removal of the special concessions.

Major imports from France range from brandies and wines to fine textiles and perfumes.

Imports from France in the first nine months of 1955 rose to $16,800,000 from $15,640,000 in the similar 1954 period. Exports to France however, rose more sharply to $31,900,000 from $25,300,000.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, January 7, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Even though this day may be a free one for you, essential labor is favored; also needed recreation, hobbies and creative pursuits.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A day to stimulate healthy action, constructive thinking, spiritual and material gain. Be wary of unsavory acquaintances.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Enthusiasm can be harmful, so be careful about this. Keep emotions under sensible control and you can have a profitable, pleasant day.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You usually conscientious fuss often stand in the way of your own advancement by worrying over trifles. Let others shoulder their own responsibilities now and take your just due in happy and carefree hours.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Travel, new or necessary obligations decidedly favored; also essential work, conferences.

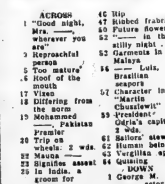
August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — A test day both personally and in business. Check yourself as well as others. There are always possibilities for improvement; new methods to save time, material.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Today's influences lean toward mental rather than physical activities. Be alert to others' ideas. Friendly, enlivening rays. Enjoy some healthy pastime.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — A good time to catch up with neglected correspondence, do some creative writing, improve music or other talent you may have. Rest, too.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Plans for advancing personal interests, aiding government, civil and charitable causes highly favored. Keep pace with current events, public interests.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Favorable rays for family and personal affairs; also for matters of public interest. Sports, hobbies, good reading, writing among the many activities encouraged.



January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — A friendly period for many endeavors — necessary work, household tasks, as well as artistic professions, study, all mental work.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — As with Sagittarius now, there are fine prospects for making good plans in your own interests. But don't go overboard on an specific idea. Be reasonably moderate and you will gain more.

You born today are endowed with intellectuality, independence, practicality, studiousness and a strong sense of duty. Any tendency to overwork, worry or be too self-conscious should be curbed. Your big needs are moderation and faith in your God-given abilities. Don't waste time on gloomy thoughts or silence. Recognize your fine assets, also your failings. Improve the former daily and strive at slightly to eradicate the latter. Prayer is your constant, satisfying friend; good, cheerful companions a great comfort.

Birthdate: His Holiness, Pope Gregory XIII, reformer of the calendar; Israel Putnam, famed American soldier.

Socialistic Medical-Care Plan Rejected Strongly by Voters In Two Large Areas of Sask.

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — A socialistic medical-care plan that developed from the CCF government's 1952 election platform has been rejected overwhelmingly by voters in two large rural areas of Saskatchewan.

The proposal was to bring approximately 118,000 persons under a compulsory scheme offering medical and health services in return for taxes — mostly personal taxes—payable at the start of each year.

The provincial government had no direct part in placing the issue before rural ratepayers. Existing voluntary medical programs had been reported causing dissatisfaction among councillors in two "health regions" and as an alternative they proposed to implement the CCF's compulsory program which has been operating since 1948 among the 50,000 residents of Swift Current health region, an 11,000-square-mile block of southwest Saskatchewan.

CREATE FIXED POOL

To finance the program, personal and land taxes are collected, these being supplemented by government grants. From the total revenue, a fixed pool is established for payments to doctors.

Medical groups opposed the idea while defending voluntary medical plans such as Medical Services Inc. incorporated, a non-profit agency organized by the province's doctors.

The rural ratepayers decided the issue in the November referendums:

In the Regina rural health region, a 13,000-square-mile area surrounding the capital, they voted 14,040 against, 4,510 in favor. In the Assiniboia-Gravelbourg region, a 8,500-square-mile block farther south, the vote was 7,392 to 1,329.

While opposition groups say the decision indicates a lack of enthusiasm for health registration, the CCF spokesmen tend to discount the importance of the vote. They argue that a relatively poorly-farmers, short of cash until they can sell their grain, were unprepared to take on more tax obligations.

A general provincial election, expected in June will be the present CCF government's third test at the polls since elected in 1944 when one of its pledges was to institute a system of "socialized health services" in Saskatchewan.

RURAL REALITE REGIONS

Eleven years ago, the government mapped out 14 rural health regions, designed to decentralize public health and medical services. They are administered by a municipally-appointed council, which elects its own directors. The provincial government ramains in a supervisory capacity. There now are eight health regions operating.

Four of these health units had been set up when, in 1946, Premier T. C. Douglas' government announced it had worked out a tax-supported medical-care plan, and was offered to the regional councils.

Only the Swift Current region approved the scheme, the only one of its kind in North America.

Basically, the Swift Current program provides for all medical and health services, plus a limited amount of dental work for children under 12. It is financed by land and personal taxes which average $15.44 per capita, and government grants equal to about $2.25 per capita. The region pays half the cost of health services provided outside the region.

Major services excluded are drugs issued outside hospitals, physical examinations for employment, optometrical care, and medical appliances such as artificial limbs. Treatment for tuberculosis, cancer and mental illness is provided under federal and provincial programs.

SEPARATE SCHEME

Hospital care is covered by a separate CCF scheme, the Saskatchewan Hospital Services Plan.

This, too, is compulsory. A province-wide plan, it costs $15 a year for the individual—triple the original rate of 1947-48—and $30 for a married couple, with a family maximum of $60.

However, this is not enough to finance SHSP. To meet operating costs of roughly $17,000,000 annually, it also requires one-third the revenue from a three-cent per cent general sales tax, and—last year, at least—about $8,000,000 from the provincial treasury.

The beneficiaries of the Swift Current plan are not overjoyed. They must pay the SHSP tax—in addition to the cost of their own program.

More than $6,000,000 in regional taxes has been levied since the Swift Current plan started nine years ago. Only one per cent remains outstanding. Municipalities are held financially responsible for their delinquents.

NON-PAYMENT PENALTY

Late payment to SHSP results in certain benefit losses. Non-payment brings a fine.

The initial cost to the Swift Current region resident is the personal tax plus a land tax averaging 2.2 mills. The personal tax is $18 a year for the individual, $29 for a married couple, $27 for a family of three, and $44 for a family of four or more.

Taxes for the regional program do not meet the total outlay. The provincial government makes a flat annual grant of 25 cents per capita, as it does with all other health regions. For the Swift Current region only, it pays half the cost of hospital out-patient services and three-quarters the cost of radiologists and statistical work.

Revenue doesn't end there. The region, despite governmental objections, has added "deterrent charges" to house and office calls by doctors to overcome annual deficits which, in the first two years alone, totalled $120,000.

They have been in effect three years. Now, instead of receiving home and office calls free as at first, the patient makes direct payments to the doctor of $1 for an office call, and $2 for a home call up until 10 p.m. and $3 after 8 and on Sundays and holidays.

OUT-PATIENT CHARGES

In hospital out-patient departments, the patient must pay the first $1 for x-rays, laboratory tests, electrocardiograms, physiotherapy and so on. The expectant mother pays the first $1 for all pre-natal and post-natal care.

A government spokesman said of deterrent charges:

"They tend to hinder people from going to the doctor at the outset of illness, or when they suspect it, and so the preventive aspect of the plan is somewhat lost."

Stewart Robertson, secretary-treasurer of the region's board of directors, says that since the deterrent charges have been added the doctors' services are being spread more evenly over urban and rural areas; are economically running into debt each year, the region now could "scrap the plan any day and start paying them $150,000 to its municipalities.

The board has other financial troubles. The worst is faced each year in setting the fund, or pool, for payments to doctors. For 1955 the pool was $473,000 for 36 physicians practising in the region.

In effect, each doctor receives a guaranteed minimum of 80 per cent of the fees he laid down by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Saskatchewan. Thus, he gets $96 for a $120 appendectomy. Any surplus in the pool is pro-rated to the doctors.

DOCTORS PROTEST

The doctors have called this aspect of the program an "iniquitous arrangement." It meant that for a determined amount the doctors were being asked to carry out an undetermined number of services.

A medical profession brief said that to earn a "reasonable income" doctors in the region were forced to "sacrifice quality for quantity services." And, they added, in the end "it is the public that suffers."

Except for this pool arrangement the CCF scheme is really an expansion of the municipal-doctor plans which have been operating in Saskatchewan since 1914.

They were designed to attract physicians to rural areas. The village or rural municipality would enter into a contract guaranteeing doctors an assured income in return for specific services.

In Saskatchewan such plans now take in approximately 165,000 persons. Manitoba has a similar schemes that cover roughly 30,000 persons.

Benefits vary widely. In Saskatchewan, only about one-third of these contracts provide for surgery. The others being for only practitioner care—home and office calls, plus obstetrics. In most cases participation is compulsory, and in Saskatchewan, Sonne municipalities restrict benefits to ratepayers.

Financing usually is done through a general property tax, a personal tax or—as in Swift Current—a combination of the two.

PLANE CRASHES PILOTS UNHURT

—Central Press Canadian

F/O Barry Armstrong of Bowmanville, Ont., was one of two crew members of a CF-100 jet plane that crash landed near the RCAF station near North Bay. Both Armstrong, above, and F/O Beverley Field of Carragana, Sask., were able to walk away from the crash, which happened without apparent reason when they were trying a routine landing. The plane cut a quarter-mile path through a forest before coming to rest and burning.

The municipalities get the government's 25-cent grant, plus an equal-sum grant.

Medical Services Incorporated, upheld by the doctors' organizations, also expands on these municipal-doctor plans. Underwritten by the province's doctors, it now holds contracts with more than 80 communities in Saskatchewan.

MSI's rates vary, too. Each community is "experience-rated": the rates charged are in proportion to the number of claims made previously. Thus, if suspected abuses of the plan bring more claims than budgeted for, the rates go up the following year.

The MSI office at Regina quotes these figures for one municipality: about two years ago the rates there were $24 for the individual, $48 for two persons, and $60 for the family of three or more. They are now $30, $56 and $76 respectively.

These are not compulsory rates. They are negotiated by or enter a community. MSI makes a door-to-door canvass seeking the 75-per-cent enrolment it requires. It may refuse benefits to certain "bad risks."

DRUGS EXCLUDED

Compared with the Swift Current program, the chief difference in MSI's services is that they do not include drugs issued in or out of hospitals. Added to the 1955 contracts were waiting periods—one-year for chronic or congenital conditions, nine months for maternity. In comparison, Swift Current has a six-months residence restriction.

MSI has no deterrent charges. Its community plan benefits are a good anywhere in the province and if necessary to refer a patient outside the province, the case is borne by MSI and the patient are determined by a special cost-review board.

The Swift Current region pays half the cost of referrals or emergency treatment outside the region.

Of two doctors with comparable practices, the one operating under MSI probably would show an income slightly higher than that earned by his counterpart in Swift Current. Although conclusive figures were not immediately available, it is believed MSI pays participating doctors about 90 per cent of the fee schedule, compared to Swift Current's .80 per cent.

A public health department spokesman has estimated average doctors' incomes under the Swift Current plan at a gross $14,500 a year, some approximately $3,500 per cent for operating costs. Under MSI, he said, a doctor could earn a gross of between $15,000 and $16,000.

Cheese Producers Plan To Change Group Into Co-Op

Halve Number of Exchanges, With Belleville One of Three

KINGSTON (CP) — Fire early today destroyed the interior of one of the four observation towers at Collins Bay penitentiary.

Col. W. S. J. Richmond, warden, said the tower, at the southwest corner of the penitentiary, was not manned. It was heated by a coal stove and had been left vacant for the night at 8 p.m.

Col. Richmond said prisoners remained in the cells and did not panic.

Provincial and city police took up posts at the front gate of the penitentiary and guards covered the rear gate while firemen fought the flames.

STOVE BLAMED

Firemen confined the flames to the inside of the stone tower, the wood panelling, floor boards and two doors were destroyed. The flames buckled the metal roof on the tower.

Col. Richmond said the only cause he could think of was the coal stove which might have become overheated. He said an inspection would have to be made before damage could be estimated.

Fire Destroys Interior of One Prison Tower

TORONTO (CP) — Delegates to the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association annual convention Friday approved in principle a new cheese-marketing scheme which would change the association from a private corporation to a co-operative.

No date was set for adoption of the plan. Under its terms six cheese exchanges in Ontario, where cheese is sold to companies by factories, would be reduced to three at Stratford, Belleville and Cornwall.

The scheme, it is reported, would be an effort to centralize buying with the hope that more buyers would turn up and make bidding for cheese more competitive.

The association also adopted a resolution urging the federal government to raise the tariff on cheddar cheese imported from New Zealand.

IMPORTS NOT NEEDED

Canadian production, it was said, was enough to satisfy domestic needs, but more than 5,000,000 pounds of New Zealand cheese were imported last year. A tariff of four or five cents a pound would not increase the minimum necessary to help Canadian producers and would be a clear statement in favor of the industry.

The present tariff on New Zealand cheese is one cent a pound, negotiated in 1931.

Trenton Man Milk Producers' Vice-President

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League Friday discussed the touchy question of bulk hauling in the final session of the annual convention and passed two apparently paradoxical resolutions.

The first recorded the league's opposition to bulk hauling, which sometimes distributors picking up milk from farmers in the tank truck every two or three days instead of daily pickups in milk cans.

The second resolution called for negotiations with distributors to obtain a premium on bulk - hauled milk.

The opposition motion was carried by an overwhelming show of hands. Only a scattering of delegates opposed the second motion and fewer opposed it.

Most delegates spoke critically of the bulk-haulage system in preference to the present system of storage tanks.

Gordon Callon of Ancaster was re-elected league president, succeeding W. H. Holles of Nobleton. Mr. Callon is also manager of the Hamilton Whole Milk Producers' Association.

Kenneth Greene of Trenton was elected first vice-president and W. R. Peters of New Liskeard, second vice-president.

TOPPLES TO DEATH

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Horrified shoppers today saw a 33-year-old woman topple 150 feet from the top of a department store, then fall another few feet to her death. Badly mutilated after striking a sixth support in her descent, Mary May Macknell lay for five minutes on the roof of a verandah at which she landed. Police police could reach her, she staggered up, tottered to the edge of the roof and died in a fall to the street.

Clergy Mediation In GM Strike Is Turned Down

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiators of the strike of 17,000 workers at five General Motors of Canada plants have gently but firmly turned down an offer of aid from the Ohawa Ministerial Association.

The association, representing 50 community churches, said the struggle between company and union, now in its fifth day, has become sinful and destructive. It offered its goodwill to both sides and its services as a mediator.

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers (UAW-CCL), replied Friday that the Oshawa ministers should serve their function best by studying the issues in the strike and making moral pronouncements on the moral issue involved.

AT BARGAINING TABLE

William Mitchell, GM president, said in a written reply:

"It has been our experience that agreements must be reached at the bargaining table between the two parties involved."

He said GM has long been recognized for maintaining stable employment and harmony among its employees and offered to supply further information on the subject "sound" offer the company had made to the union.

Mr. Burt said:

"If in this or any other strike we are asked to act in morally wrong or economically not feasible, we will be glad to decline and we will conduct ourselves accordingly."

The union is seeking a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase and other benefits. Negotiations resume here Monday.

IMPOSE CENSORSHIP

BOGOTA, Colombia (Reuters)—The Colombian government has imposed censorship on three Liberal and two Conservative newspapers, the Liberal Executador of Bogota—did not appear Friday.

Today's Chuckle

Notice in doctor's office: "Ladies in waiting room are asked not to exchange symptoms. If gets the doctor hopelessly mixed up."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis—A large mass of cold air centred over northwestern Ontario has now spread across the whole of the province and except for snowflurries in the lee of open water skies will be sunny throughout the province today. Sunny and cold weather will continue through Sunday except for increasing cloudiness in northwestern regions Sunday afternoon.

SAYS GIRL PUT IN CONFINEMENT FOR 92 DAYS

CCF Leader Attacks Galt Training School

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald, launching his attack on the province's reform institutions department, said Friday night a trouble-some 12-year-old girl lived "a caged existence" for 92 days at the Galt training school.

Mr. MacDonald said in a prepared statement that under a new regime at Galt the girl became a model inmate but attempts to reduce her to rigid conformity unleashed a rebellious spirit.

The girl's spirit was met by "a terrifying effort to crush her on the part of the staff," the statement said.

"She was placed in virtual solitary confinement for 92 days. She lived a caged existence in a small cell with its cold cement floor, one heavily-barred window, three other walls and door solid to the ceiling.

"She was let out only for visits to the washroom. Her food was brought to her. On two occasions she were skipped as punishment for making too much noise."

LATEST ATTACK

Mr. MacDonald concentrated his latest attack on Galt school superintendent, Miss Ruth Bentley, who has been there 15 months.

Reforms Minister Foote was unavailable for comment.

Col. G. Headley Basher, deputy minister of reform institutions, declined to make any statement in a telephone interview or to comment on it.

"Mr. MacDonald appears to be basing up information either from a single investigator or from a source I don't know," Col. Basher said.

Miss Bentley would not comment on the statement. She said any comment would have to be made by the department.

Mr. MacDonald said the case of the girl was the most significant example of what has gone on at Galt since the Liberals took office. He apparently was taken without the supporting recommendation of the training school superintendent.

"FOR TWO MONTHS"

"When the confinement had gone on for two months and the child was growing more and more hostile, a meeting was held in Toronto among the staff comprised with the urging of the medical superintendent and the superintendent to permit her to join painting work on the staff for a period during the final weeks of the 92 days," he said.

The girl was then sent to the Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, returned when a problem, and attempted to take her own life by swallowing pills.

At this point the Galt training school gave up and she was transferred to the Mercer Reformatory in Toronto where she appears to be fitting in without too much difficulty.

Mr. MacDonald said he would like to know today, "discussed the institution's problems with the superintendent, and what he told the girl causes no more trouble than other girls in the institution."

The girl was sent out this 12-year-old, now turned 13, will ever fully recover from the confinement she received at Galt, time alone can tell.

DIFFERENT PERSONALITY

"Those who knew her more than a year ago and have seen her since report that as a result of her experience she has become an almost unrecognizably different person. Those who have known her properly convinced her that nobody cared for her. Certainly she had been made to care for no one, including herself."

OTTAWA (CP) — Cold-weather tests of Nike, United States army anti-aircraft guided missile, will be resumed this month at Fort Churchill, Man., the army announced Thursday.

Professor at OAC Tells His Class Ontario Has Too Many Farmers

GUELPH (CP)—Professor D. R. Campbell, head of the Ontario Agricultural College's economics department, says the province has too many farmers.

The thing to do, he said in a class room lecture Friday, is for farmers and farm organizations to persuade the poorer farmers to give up and take city jobs.

There were some other possible solutions: increase farmers of two-price systems, marketing research and more efficiency in farm management and in buying through co-operative groups.

He said the farmer today receives about the same portion of consumer dollar spent as he did in the low years of 1935-39—40 per cent. This was a drop of 12 per cent from the peak year of 1946.

"The decrease is due to greater demand for processed foods, cut up, oven-ready and pre-packaged products. Each additional service increases the cost to the consumer, but does not return any profit to the primary producer."

Crazed Man Fires 100 Shots, Terrorizing Northern Village

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIDDRIE, Ont. (CP)—Flight of a railroad worker from a crazed stand in a barricaded shack with bride's presence shielding him from any possibility of answering gunfire—ended Friday night in anticlimactic capture in the deep northwestern Ontario snow.

He was burdened by the sleigh on which he was hauling his young wife, Annie, 23, and what remained of the arsenal he used in holding off police for about 24 hours before their flight on the edge of darkness. He offered no resistance.

The police had huddled behind boxcars and sheltered themselves the day while Mike Timocenko, 35-year-old Russian immigrant, let loose with intermittent volleys through the smashed windows.

When darkness came the officers—afraid to fire any shots of their own because of the girl—rushed the shack after throwing tear gas bombs. They found it empty.

HEMMED HIM IN

Shortly after, they caught up with him on the Canadian National Railways mainline two miles east of here, making their capture after hemming him in on two sides.

Mrs. Timocenko who, police said, was in the shack against her will and a virtual hostage, is expecting a child in two months. She and Timocenko were married seven months ago.

To the end, in the cruel bolshevero cold, her husband kept her with him.

Police said Timocenko was being driven to Kenora. It was not known immediately what charges he may face.

The simple surrender ended an episode which terrorized the dozen families of railway section workers in Niddrie, isolated hamlet 300 miles east of Winnipeg.

Six policemen came to Niddrie after a group of residents trudged the six miles to Amesdale, Ont., where they could get help. There was no telephone in Niddrie and no road connecting it with the outside.

Friday afternoon, police were able to get close enough to throw two tear gas bombs but they had no success. Timocenko may have had a gas mask with him.

The laboser began his rampage Thursday night following a dispute with his brother-in-law, Anthony Sydor of Oakburn.

Sydor, Timocenko's section foreman, was in Niddrie on a two-day visit.

Hearings Show Red Effort To Get into Newspapers

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chief counsel of the Senate security subcommittee says evidence is being developed for a new round of hearings into Communist infiltration of press, radio and television in the United States.

Senator James Eastland (Dem., Miss.) said the inquiry by the subcommittee would not mean any significant effort on the part of Communists to control leading American newspapers.

The sub-committee late Friday concluded three days of hearings in which 16 witnesses were questioned. Most of them had been active or former employees of the New York Times.

Eastland later told reporters he was unable to say how soon the next set of hearings would be held but, in answer to a question, he said that as far as he knew only one of the witnesses would be employees of The Times.

The final witness Friday was Dr. Benjamin Fine, education editor of The Times and the holder of many honorary university degrees for his contributions to education.

Dr. Fine testified that in 1935, while a graduate student of Columbia University, he made "the tragic mistake" of joining the Communist party for about a year.

He said he always had been an "inactive" member "in the sense that my heart was not in it." He concluded his testimony by advising today's students to "keep away from anyone who talks Communist line."

Other witnesses were questioned by the sub-committee Friday and all of them also were employees or ex-employees of The Times. Two said they had been fired or left the paper "for cause" after they had indicated to the paper they intended to invoke their privilege under the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination.

Three other Times news department employees who had been questioned earlier, but did not invoke the Fifth Amendment, they said they had been fired or asked to resign by Clifton Edgar Brooks Jr., Joseph Seyhan, both copyreaders, and Seymour Peck, a reporter on the newspaper's Sunday magazine.

The New York Daily Mirror Friday announced the discharge of Daniel Mahoney, a rewrite man who appeared before the sub-committee Thursday. Mahoney testified he is not now a Communist but invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to say whether he ever was.

The New York Daily News earlier had announced the discharge of Max Gilbert Price, a reporter, for similar reasons.

Book May Help Opposition in Defence Debates

OTTAWA (CP)—A history book rather than current events may provide the opposition with major ammunition for defence debates during the parliamentary session that opens Monday.

The book is the first volume—of the "Years of War"—a new official history of the Canadian Army in the Second World War, written by C. P. Stacey, director of the army's historical section, it was published last month.

The history discloses that the Liberal government of the late 1930s ignored the warnings of its military advisers that a major war was approaching and that Prime Minister King in 1938 asked his cabinet to cut expenditures so that taxes might be reduced before the next general election.

The book also provide additional backing for Lt. Col. Gordon Churchill, Progressive Conservative member for Winnipeg South Centre, in his long campaign for more armored units in Canada. Army now has 15 infantry battalions but only two armored regiments.

SIGN TRADE AGREEMENT

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Yugoslavia and Britain Friday signed a one-year trade agreement here providing for an increase in trade to a total volume of $70,000,000 for 1956. Yugoslavia also decided to pay a 33½-per-cent premium on all foreign currency, thus devaluating the value of the country's diner currency. The premium will be paid by the British and Yugoslavia, the only authorized exchange bank, on the official exchange rate for all foreign currency payments.

CHILEAN GOVT. ARRESTS 250 TO HEAD OFF STRIKE

Says Workers Incited By Communists

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—At least 250 persons were under arrest today as the government pushed a strike campaign to avert a threatened general strike in Chile, and a government spokesman said there were signs of "international communism" inciting the workers.

Those arrested included union leaders, opposition politicians, newspaper men and some former associates of President Carlos Ibanez. The government asserted that many of those taken into custody were Communists or pro-Communist.

The action was taken under a state of siege decreed Thursday night by Ibanez.

Chile's big Central Labor Union called a country-wide strike for Monday in opposition to a government proposal to freeze wages, prices and pensions in an effort to curtail inflation. The government said such a plan was necessary to save the national economy, but union leaders and opposition political groups said it would cause hardship.

AS SCHEDULED

Baudilio Casanova, secretary-general of the labor union, said on Friday night that the strike will begin as scheduled. Government spokesmen, he issued his statement from a secret hideout. The spokesman said the Labor Court-Best, and other union officials were among those arrested.

Interior Minister Benjamin Videla said in a radio broadcast that the government had "information" an attempt against public order by "international communism" and charged that there were signs of "international communism" in the labor agitation.

Persons taken into custody by Friday squads of police included Jorge Prat, secretary of the treasury in 1954, who is publisher of a newspaper occasionally critical of the government. A government spokesman said Prat's newspaper men picked up by police were not arrested for their journalistic activities but because of their "political complexion."

Engineemen Seek Big Pay Boost

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen Friday declared it will back a demand for a $30-a-day pay raise and company-financed hospital and health insurance from the nation's railroads.

The 96,000-member independent brotherhood also will ask 13,000 members in Canada, said a 25-per-cent wage increase would pay for Canadian engineemen.

Union president H. E. Gunderman made the announcement before the Brotherhood's nine-man national wage committee opened its meetings, which began Thursday.

Storms Plague Prairie Folk And Maritimers

EDMONTON (CP) — The stormweary Prairies, locked in the grip of one of the severe winters in 25 years, today was swept by a blizzard and chilled by bitter cold.

Blizzard conditions swept across a wide expanse of Saskatchewan and were not expected to abate in the southwestern part of the province until mid-day.

Although the overnight temperatures ranged down to the 20-below mark in the Peace River country.

In Saskatchewan Friday night the bitter winds were howling up to 50 miles an hour in gusts.

COLD IN MARITIMES

Overnight temperatures plunged toward the 30-below mark in Moncton and 20 to 25 below in the southern part of the province. Fredericton, Saint John and Charlottetown are expected to move into western Manitoba today.

WATCH BROOKS

HALIFAX (CP) — Police and volunteers throughout the province kept a watch on cautious eye on brooks that within the last 48 hours have turned from raging torrents flooding over banks and across roads.

Weather forecasters here said the situation was "gradually improving" and in most districts the rain has turned to drizzle as temperatures slowly fall. Forecasters said the rainfall wasn't exceptional, except in the Truro district where more than 4½ inches fell in seven hours. Many families were forced from their homes by rising waters.

Cream of New York Society Welcomes Grace and Prince Charming at Ball

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

NEW YORK (AP)—The future Princess of Monaco and her prince charming were welcomed into society Friday night amid the dazzle of a fashionable charity ball.

Grace Kelly made her public appearance of movie star—and heiress-to-be—at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel since their engagement Thursday.

In her latest film, "The Swan," the blonde star falls in love and marries the prince of a small but mythical European kingdom.

But it was no prince who the Philadelphia girl Friday night when the orchestra struck up the national anthem of Monaco, a principality overlooking the Mediterranean, as she and her fiance entered the flower-bedecked grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Some 1,000 guests, representing the cream of New York society, the social aristocracy and members of the diplomatic corps, rose to their feet.

The 26-year-old movie star was clad in an off-shoulder brocade dress, dazzling white. A spray of white orchids with a single red rose — the colors of Monaco — adorned her bosom. Her shiny blonde hair was swept in a bun. Her jewelry consisted only of a double string of pearls, her engagement ring and tiny earrings.

Discover Body Of Missing Girl At London, Ont.

Vanished After Talking To Man in Church Grounds

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The body of a small girl was found today near the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks at William street, one mile north of the home of five-year-old Susan Cadieux, who vanished from a near-by school yard Friday evening.

Police said the body was immediately identified as that of the missing girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Cadieux, who disappeared about 8:30 p.m. while walking a patch of ice with her two brothers and a girl friend.

The brothers, Pet, 9, and Mike, 10, told police an unshaven man went up to the walk leading to the rectory of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church. The children had been playing in the grounds of the adjacent parish school and the man started talking to them.

Then the girl's hands and cheeks were frozen but the body was fully clothed and there were no outward signs that the girl had been sexually attacked or molested.

It was believed that the body had been placed only recently at the spot where it was found by a storage yard near the railway yards. Ironically, the girl's father is CPR locomotive engineer.

Workmen had been around the area earlier in the day but did not see the body.

Mr. Cadieux collapsed earlier this morning after an all - night search for his daughter and was under a sedative. He moved to London with his family from Ottawa five years ago.

Roy Jones, London sexillary civil defence police, firemen and 400 other volunteers searched all day for today's search while a hopeful family prayed Susan would be found.

Her brother Michael said police and a stranger said he was to see Rev. W. T. O'Rourke, parish priest at St. Mary's at 3 p.m.

"He started talking to Susan. Me and my brother went to help a girl who fell. He came ice a few feet away. When we looked around he was gone," Michael said.

The brothers called for their sister a few times and then went home. Mrs. Cadieux called police about 9 p.m.

The children described the man as about six feet tall, slim and between 40 and 50 years of age. He was wearing a long, light brown unbuttoned coat, unbuttoned fawn sweater and a "Scotch" cap of black plaid.

Police and London residents reported seeing a man and a girl resembling Susan standing in front of the Bank of Montreal building at 11:30 p.m. The building, at Dundas and Clarence streets, is one mile from the school.

Mrs. Cadieux said her daughter is rather pretty with slightly curly brown hair with bangs. She was wearing dungarees and a fawn jacket.

"She has never strayed before," said the mother. "She knows her name and her address and I think she knows her phone number. She has not yet started school."

Radio station CFPL remained on the air all night and for a closing hour this morning to give details of the search.

The hunt for the girl was concentrated in the area south of York street, near St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, not far from the river.

Mr. Cadieux is employed as an engineer with the Canadian Pacific Railway. The couple has three children.

Princess Takes Part in Frolic For Ballet

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret interrupted a country wedding and travelled through grimy Ivy Friday to take part in "Swan Lake" backstage fun at the Sadler's Wells theatre which Friday night celebrated the 250th anniversary of its reopening.

Margaret was asked to cut the traditional twelfth night Shadeley cake." The cutting and eating of the luscious cake, made from dozens of eggs and pounds of chocolate and marzipan, has been a theatrical tradition of a select group of London theatre folk since 1756.

The annual cake was willed to them by Robert Baddeley, a pastry cook-cum-actor who left £100 for a cake which would be cut in the presence of and eat by the "His Majesty's company of comedians then appearing at Drury Lane."

Princess Margaret has been president of the Sadler's Wells Foundation since 1949.

Water Standpipe On Hillcrest St. To Be Torn Down

A city landmark which down through the years has served to boost water pressure for Belleville residents will soon be no more.

The Belleville Utilities Commission this week announced that the water standpipe overlooking Hillcrest Ave. on the East Hill will soon be demolished in preparation for the construction of a new three-quarter of a million dollar water tank.

Population growth of the city and the suburban area receiving water service from the city water filtration plant had made the old standpipe obsolete and a new storage tank of greater capacity was necessary.

Mr. O. H. Scott, utilities manager, stated that the Foley Foundry Company would demolish the old water standpipe. Two houses on property adjacent to the present standpipe which is needed for the construction of the new water tank are being moved to new locations.

One of the houses, No. 40 Hillcrest, has already been moved to a new location on Great St. James at Brown Street, while the other will be moved to the same location.

Tenders for the construction of the new water tank have been called and the contract approved by the commission.

At the inaugural meeting of the 1956 Utilities Commission held Thursday, Commissioner W. Harris Nodwell was re-elected chairman of the Commission.

Expect Decline In Immigration Will Stir Battle

By W. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration to Canada slipped more than 30 per cent in 1955, thinly settling over the 160,000 mark, unofficial officials here estimate.

The reason? They say immigrants pools in foreign lands are drying up because of better economic conditions and more employment abroad.

They estimated the 1955 total won't be more than 110,000 immigrants, compared with the 154,227 persons who came to Canada on shores to make new homes in 1954. The official 1955 figure won't be available until next month.

This latest shift in immigration has been going down almost continuously since 1951—undoubtedly will influence a hot debate at the new session of Parliament opening January 26.

RIVAL LAST SESSION

It probably will rival that of last session when the government's immigration policies and practices were sharply criticized by the opposition. Immigration Minister Pickergill was charged with playing favorites with "little Canada" and government immigration policy was described as a farce. At one point, Liberal Opposition Conservatives moved a non-confidence motion on the issue, defeated in a formal vote.

The government has taken some steps to liberalize the immigration flow and informants say others are contemplated.

One of the main proposals expected to be made at the new session is the setting up of a new type of appeal board to hear appeals of deportation orders against landed immigrants.

At the last session opposition members complained that these ordered deported don't get a proper hearing and are not told what they are being deported. Appeals at present are heard in camera by a group of immigration officials.

Informed sources here say the government plans to set up a board which would hold public hearings and whose personnel would come from outside the department as well as within it. It would be setting up a deportation orders passed on landed immigrants only a part from visitors to Canada who had overstayed their time.

Hees Likely To Retire as PC President

OTTAWA (CP) — A spokesman at Progressive Conservative headquarters said Friday night it is quite possible George Hees himself will carry out his announced intention not to stand for re-election as leader of the party at the April convention.

He suggested it was unfair to Mr. Hees to allege, as had been done in published reports, that his letter setting out his plan for convention executive was merely a trial balloon.

The spokesman said Mr. Hees' letter of intent not to stand for re-election as party leader at conference here Jan. 16-18 was received three weeks ago.

He said Mr. Hees had given him permission to make public his reasons for making the announcement. The reason was that he believed presidency of the association should be held by one person for only a relatively short period. Mr. Hees' Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto Broadview, has been president for the last two years.

Meanwhile, it was understood that the heavy favorite to succeed Mr. Hees is Leon Balcer, PC MP for Trois-Rivieres.

Road is Sinking

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Suburban Westminster township has a problem with an 80-foot stretch of one of its country roads. It has been mysteriously sinking for many months now.

So far 450 tons of earth and gravel have gone into the road hole, but it is still four feet below the level of the rest of the road and surrounding land.

Road superintendent Melvin Dale says the answer may be that a well drilled by the London public utilities commission about three-quarters of a mile away may have tapped and partially drained an underground lake, affecting some peculiar formation beneath the section of road.

Three Mothers Sentenced in Family Court

PORT ARTHUR (CP) —Three mothers were sentenced to juvenile family court Friday for neglecting their children. The women's names were not released by officials.

One woman, who left her babies aged six weeks and 18 months with a gentleman friend and did not return, was sentenced to one month. She told the court she wanted to leave her three children, who were laid by her husband who found the children when he returned from work.

A second mother was given four months for a second offence. Court was told she left her children with a baby sitter Dec. 29 and failed to return. The sitter laid a complaint with the Children's Aid Society.

The third mother was sentenced to one month for leaving her five children unattended on several occasions. The complaint was laid by her husband who found them from work and found the children alone.

Labor Minister Asked to Probe Amusement Tax

TORONTO (CP) — The United Steelworkers Union has asked Labor Minister Gregg to investigate a report that the Aluminum Company of Canada has reduced its allotments to Canadian fabricators for 1956.

C. H. Millard, the steelworkers' national director, said in a letter to the federal labor minister that while shipments to Canadian fabricators are being cut, they are reported to foreign fabricators are being increased.

The text of his letter was released to the press today.

He said Canadian fabricators have been notified by the company that shipments are being cut back because of a shortage of power.

The cutback means layoffs at a time when the Gregg law requires manufacturers to arrange production schedules so employment may be maintained during the winter, said Mr. Millard.

Blames Heredity For Increase In Heart Deaths

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A leading specialist blames heredity more than high-pressure living for the increase in rate of heart deaths.

Dr. Irvine Page of Cleveland, president of the American Heart Association, Friday said "I think that men lived at high pressure a century ago just as they do today in Egypt—Something else is responsible for the continued increase in heart deaths.

"About 800,000 are dying of heart disease now, and we have predicted that no less than 1,200,000 will succumb to heart diseases in 1960."

Dr. Page was addressing the opening of a "heart research and health" sponsored by the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

Heredity, he said, is probably responsible for the fact that heart disease strikes and may incapacitate Negroes and Mexican-Americans than it does Indians or Japanese. But diet also was a factor.

Father of Four Killed by Car

KESWICK (CP) — Harold C. Anderson, 40, of nearby Baldwin and father of four children, was fatally injured Friday night when struck by a car he was trying to flag down on the Dalton Woods down on a sideroad five miles east of here.

The truck apparently stalled during a heavy snow storm and police said they believe Mr. Anderson was waving at the car when the accident occurred.

Police said the car was driven by Mrs. Winnifred Foster, of Holland Landing.

Keswick is 45 miles north of Toronto.

Three Plead Guilty to Cattle Theft

NEWMARKET (CP) — Three men who pleaded guilty to theft of cattle from a Sutton area farm August were remanded Friday to Jan. 13 for sentence.

Murray Ris-borough, 19, his brother Reginald, 21, and Ronald Beaudrow, 34, were charged in connection with theft of 17 head of cattle.

Born in Holloway, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sunbury Hough, he had been resident in the district for the past 15 years. Previous to that he resided in Demorestville. A member of the Northport United Church, he had been in failing health for some time.

He leaves his wife, the former Georgina Juby, and one son, Leo E. Hough, of San Francisco.

Also surviving are three sisters: Mrs. Robert (Clara) Seal, of Detroit, Mrs. Spencer (Lena) Hamilton and Mrs. George (Minta) Eggleton, both of Belleville.

Resting at the Thompson Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

SMITH DANIEL FRASER

STIRLING — St. Mark's Anglican Church was filled to capacity with a large number of Masonic brethren seated in full regalia for the funeral of Smith Daniel Fraser on Thursday afternoon, January 5th, which was held under the auspices of Marmora Lodge, No. 222, A.F. and A.M.

His pastor, Rev. Canon J. M. Bowden, officiated at the service and the bearers were: Messrs. Lorne Ashley, Norman Parkitt, Hiram Mumby, Gordon Bateman, Tom Frost and Jack Fraser.

Interment was made in Mount Nebo cemetery, Springbrook.

The funeral was under the direction of the Duffin Funeral Home, Stirling.

MRS. WALTON ANDERSON (Stirling)

The funeral of Mrs. Walton Anderson, the former Louise Parks, was held from the United Church Carmel United Church, Rawdon township, on Thursday afternoon, January 5th and was under the direction of the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton.

Mrs. Arthur Pryer officiated at the service and Mrs. Douglas Pryer sang "The City Four Corners."

Her pastor Rev. A. Packman of St. Paul's-Carmel, brought a message of comfort to the bereaved nieces and nephews.

Those who were in attendance were: Messrs. Don Vandervoort, Brantford; Arthur Long, Peterborough; Harry Parks, Trenton; Orno Sharp, Mount Pleasant; Ernest Carlisle and Harry Brown of Carmel.

The interment was made in Stirling cemetery.

Her husband predeceased her a few years ago. Mrs. Anderson was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John S. Weaver of the Carmel community. She is the last of a large family and was in her 84th year.

She has been a faithful attendant at Carmel United church since childhood and was a valued member of Carmel W.A.

Mrs. Anderson's pastor, Rev. Packman, in his address paid tribute to her many fine qualities of heart and mind.

Loyalty Board Ruling Stirs New Controversy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A loyalty board ruling vindicating Canadian born William Henry Taylor has ignited a controversy over whether the finding cast doubt on testimony of Attorney - General Herbert Brownell and Elizabeth Bentley.

Byron N. Scott, counsel for the International Monetary Fund official, said it did. But Henry S. Waldman, chairman of the board which cleared Taylor, said later that this was not so. He said "their names never would have been linked with this case."

Taylor, 48-year-old native of Revelstoke, B. C., is assistant director of the fund's Middle East department. He became an American citizen in 1940.

NO DOUBT

T. Bruce Fairbank, secretary of the international organization's loyalty board, said Friday the panel had considered new evidence and had found there is "no reasonable doubt" about Taylor's loyalty. This action reversed a board ruling against Taylor last June.

Taylor earlier had announced that he had been "completely cleared and was glad it was all over. . . to say what it means for the future." Scott had insisted all along that he is loyal.

Apple, Potato Price Supports Are Authorized

OTTAWA (CP) — Limited price support for Maritime-grown apples and potatoes was announced Friday by the federal government.

The subsidies will come from federal treasury about $700,000 Agriculture Minister Gardiner estimated.

Nova Scotia apple growers and New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island potato producers have had difficulty disposing of surpluses.

Support price on apples will provide a minimum average payment to growers of 75 cents a bushel for top quality 1955 fruit delivered to plants and warehouses. The same will apply only to Canada fancy or better grades of the main dessert varieties.

Nova Scotia estimated last month it has a surplus of some 2,000,000 bushels of apples. The support price will total no more than $200,000, Mr. Gardiner said.

For potato growers, the government said it will participate in a program to divert surplus stocks into starch factories and thus prevent a further decline in current low prices.

Growers will receive a minimum return of $1 a barrel — about 2½ bushels — for Canada No. 1 grade potatoes. The subsidy will cover about 2,000,000 bushels and be limited to $500,000 under the federal government. The starch diversion program will end May 1.

The government said it is prepared to extend its apple support program to growers of other provinces if they are interested. Howard L. Le Surveyer, secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council said he doubts that any other province will be interested.

DEATHS

RICHMOND, Elizabeth Ann. — At the Belleville General Hospital, on Saturday, January 7th, Elizabeth Ann Brown, widow of James Richmond, late of Marmora. Funeral from the Chapel of the Grant Funeral Home, 68 North Front Street, on Monday, January 9th at 2.30 p.m. Interment, Belleville Cemetery.

HOUGH, Gilbert Turner. — At his home, Northport, on Tuesday, January 3rd, Gilbert Turner Hough, beloved husband of Georgina Juby, in his 84th year. Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, 179 Church Street, on Saturday, January 7th at 2.30 p.m.
Interment, Foxboro Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

JOHNSTON. — In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away suddenly on January 8th, 1953.
Dear is the memory that time cannot take away.
For grief often dwells where it cannot be seen.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last, Her lovely memory will remain and shall are past.
In silent sorrow suffered, in patience borne
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Sadly missed by daughter Blanche and son-in-law.

MACDONALD. — In loving memory of Mary Ann Brown, who passed away January 8th, 1953.
Nothing can break the love that binds
Nothing can sever the heart that mourns
The love a heart holds dear;
And memories live of days gone by,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Sadly missed by husband and family.

MacDONALD. — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Charles MacDonald, who passed away suddenly January 9th, 1953.
Dear is the memory that time cannot take away.
For memory keeps you ever near us,
Though you are not seen.
—Ever remembered by son Jim, Daughter-in-law and four grandchildren.

REID. — In loving memory of our dear son, Gerald Leslie Reid, who passed away January 7th, 1950.
He is gone, but not forgotten.
In our loving hearts we're framing,
Of one we love and shall remember.
Sadly missed by wife and friends may think the wound is healed.
But they still know the sorrow,
Which is hidden from the world.
Lonely missed and always remembered by wife, Dorothy and Albert Reid, Sr.

HILL. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Clara Annie Hill, who passed away January 7th, 1954.
No one knows how much we miss you
Or how we think of you
Our home is lonely since you left us,
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by husband Robert and Viola and Stewart.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to neighbors and relatives for all acts of kindness shown us during our recent bereavement in the loss of our beloved husband, father and grandfather. Special appreciation is extended to Rev. H. N. Messages of comfort and the beautiful floral tributes during our sympathetically cared for Mr. Gray during his short illness.
—Mrs. William H. Gray and family.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to neighbors and friends for cards, flowers and gifts received during my recent bereavement in the loss of my dear husband, William. For the gifts of flowers and for the use of the hearse. Also to Rev. Packman, Mr. Mr. McSherry, Archiecon Creegan, Mr. Bateman and Mr. Ross Bateman.
—Mrs. Wm. Gray.

To the many neighbors and friends who in any and every way gave help and sympathy in the sickness, passing and sickness, we extend our sincere appreciation.
—The Tummon Family, Foxboro, Ont.

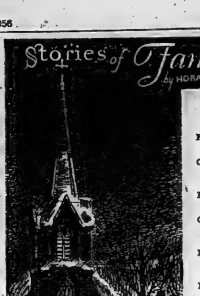
WINTER SPORTS

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

You have no doubt heard about otters that toboggan down slopes and may actually have seen rabbits playing "ring-around-a-rosy" in the snow; but perhaps you are not aware that birds, too, enjoy winter sports. Whole flocks of snow buntings play leap frog on our snowy country roads and fields where tall weeds peek above the white. Several dozen may be found feeding together—then suddenly up fly the members of the rear guard, right over the backs of those in the lead, to settle down in front. This may happen again and again as we watch, and has the appearance of blowing snow.

Even our common English sparrows sometimes look as if they were engaging in some winter sport when they fly from branch to branch of snow-laden trees, changing places as children do in old-fashioned games, while the snow drops from the boughs as they leave them.



Just as dogs roll in fresh snow, so do birds—at least they crouch down, fluttering and puffing out their feathers, then stand up and shake themselves. this is useful, too, as it is a substitute for bathing. Before the days of dry cleaning, good housewives often cleaned their carpets in the snow.

BATHS—WATERY OR DUSTY

It is said that in arid countries most birds take dust baths. In Canada, the majority bathe in water whenever it is available, summer or winter. Our flickers, sparrows, and a few others may take baths in either dust or water. Our city birds never seem to get clean. Notice the appearance of English sparrows in large cities and in tiny villages. They look like different species.

Members of the heron family, which includes both birds known to us as herons and also all the bitterns, bathe in water, but they are able to give themselves a dry cleaning without using either dust or corn meal. They wear their own dry cleaning material.

Each bird is supplied with what ornithologists call "powder-down tracts", which is to say that in certain parts of the body, hidden under the ordinary feathers, are use her presents.

FAITH OF OUR FATHERS

Faith of our fathers! living still
In spite of dungeon, fire and sword;
Oh, how our hearts beat high with joy
Whene'er we hear that glorious word:
Faith of our fathers! holy faith!
We will be true to thee till death!

Our fathers, chained in prisons dark,
Were still in heart and conscience free;
How sweet would be their Children's fate,
If they, like them, could die for thee!
Faith of our fathers! holy faith!
We will be true to thee till death!

Faith of our fathers! we will love
Both friend and foe in all our strife;
And preach thee, too, as love knows how,
By kindly deed and virtuous life;
Faith of our fathers! holy faith!
We will be true to thee till death!

Protestantism has no finer or more popular hymn than "Faith Of Our Fathers", written nearly a century ago by a Catholic—Frederick William Faber—just after he had given up an Episcopal rectorship to join the Roman Church.

The hymn first appeared in "Catholic Hymns For Singing And Reading", published in 1849, and in a preface to that volume Faber explained that all of the songs in the collection had been written to give his fellow Catholics some hymns marked by the same simplicity and religious fervor that characterized those used by the Wesleyans in their famous English revival meetings.

It was at Oxford, from which he was graduated in 1836, that Faber found his first interest in Catholicism—an interest which was whetted by a European tour which he made in 1839, following his ordination to the Episcopal priesthood. Returning from his trip he served very successfully for a time as rector at Elton, England. But always he was troubled by religious doubts and misgivings and finally, one mid-November Sabbath evening in 1845, he told his parishioners that he had decided to become a Catholic. That very week he joined a Catholic Church in Northampton.

Faber's hymns, free from limiting creeds and denominational barriers and prejudices, are precious to Christians of every faith and sect. In most of his songs, the hymnist has sung of his own spiritual reactions and longings. Discussing his hymns, he once said: "It is an immense mercy of God to allow anyone to do the least thing which brings souls nearer to Him. Each man feels for himself the peculiar wonder of that mercy in his own case. That our blessed Lord has permitted these hymns to be of some trifling good to souls, and so to contribute in a very humble way to His glory, is to the author a source of unmerited consolation".

A Lift For Living

The Light That Lingers

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

In the early summer of 1942 we were dining one evening at the home of a friend when the blackout siren was heard sounded. Immediately all lights in the outside rooms were extinguished. As it was a balmy night we gathered at the open windows to watch the effect of the blackout in a city of myriad lights.

The transformation was impressive. From the tenth floor window the street seemed a well of darkness with eerie sounds rising from unseen persons. Then an air warden blew his whistle and called out that an apartment on the sixth floor was showing a light through the open door of an inner room. Then another whistle and another warning. And on it is a difficult task to attain a complete blackout in a city of multitudinous lights.

That experience recurs to my mind as I read the Prologue of the Gospel of John: "In him was life; and the life was the light of men. And the light shines in the darkness and the darkness has not overcome it."

Many blackouts of the Christ-light have been tried. According to the Christmas story, Herod tried to put out the light which came with Christ. When he was foiled in his attempt by the Wise Men, he is recorded as having executed all the male children in Bethlehem and its neighborhood. But "the light shone in the darkness and the darkness did not overcome it."

GENUINE ELEMENTS

Now let us ask why does this Christ-light refuse to be put out? One reason, may I suggest, is that it is fed by the deepest and most genuine elements of our human nature. When we wish to test the genuineness of a person, just turn little children loose in his presence. Their unspoiled natures respond to what is real in a person. They hung around Jesus so that He said to their elders. "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." They took to Jesus because He was real.

Little children take to the Christmas story likewise because it is made up of the most real things in life—the innocence of childhood, the brooding love of a mother, the generosity of the humble. Those are real. Christmas is the bright day of childhood because on that day the best in life becomes the most real.

And yet, isn't it true that most of us look on the Christmas season as a bright dream set amid the stern realities of the rest of the year? We say: "Now that the holidays are over, let's get down to brass tacks again and return to the real business of living."

About 40 years ago a popular magazine had an editorial entitled: "The Lord of Christmas Week." It ran something like this: "Each year for a handful of days, so brief, so swift to go, the Lord Christ assumes leadership. Each year we give Him Christmas week, permitting His will to prevail. His brooding spirit to rest upon the nations, Toward that gentle interlude, the days of the truce of God, longingly look through the trail of the weary months, and when the brief term is ended, yearningly our thoughts turn back to that time when we were good together."

Well, the holidays are behind us. We have taken down the Christmas trees. But let's not put out the Christmas light. We cannot completely black it out anyway. We can close the windows of our hearts against the cold of competition. We can shutter our minds with suspicion. But the light of love and kindness and good cheer which shone at Christmas will still shine somewhere deep in our natures.

Why keep the Christ-light "hid under a bushel?" During the months to come "let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

THE BIBLE is itself the infallible and inerrant Word of God, the divine authority for our faith and life.

GOD is one God in three persons, Father, Son, Holy Spirit; infinite, eternal, unchangeable in His being, wisdom, power, holiness, justice, goodness and truth.

JESUS CHRIST is God incarnate by His virgin birth and sinless humanity; so that His substitutionary death satisfied divine justice as proved by His bodily resurrection. He will personally return to reign on earth.

MAN is under condemnation of sin, subject to the power of physical death, and spiritual death which is eternal punishment.

SALVATION is by faith, without works pardon of sin solely on the ground of the shed blood of the Lord Jesus Christ, freely offered to all men.

THE CHURCH. It is the duty and privilege of born again Christians to meet regularly in fellowship for edification and spiritual growth, according to the Word of God.

TV USE IN POST OFFICE JUSTIFIED

Peterborough has a new post office.

It will be the first to be equipped with closed-circuit television cameras.

The cameras are designed to keep employees handling mail under constant scrutiny.

When this innovation was first announced, we were certain it would be protested.

Alas, we were right. The Peterborough Review, a weekly paper, has denounced the scheme as "civically revolting, personally humiliating."

The first time we read this editorial, we dismissed it with a shrug of the shoulders. But now it is starting to turn up on the editorial pages of several of our contemporaries, apparently having won their approval. In one instance it was mistakenly credited to the Peterborough Examiner. The point at issue is not petty but of some importance.

The Postmaster-General's Department wishes to keep handlers of mail under scrutiny because some of these handlers have been stealing considerable sums of money from letters. The department has a duty to prevent this. It has done so in the past by a variety of methods, including having inspectors watch through thin slots in a wall of a gallery surrounding the room in which mail is sorted.

The Review appears to recognize the necessity for some safeguards against theft.

"The Post Office Department will spend some $50,000 installing the electronic sleuths in the Peterborough building," it says. "It seems to us that the Department could employ an additional supervisor at less annual cost, with more privacy to the employees. If postal employees must be watched more closely let the supervision be more alert. . . . If they have human failing, they have human feeling, too."

This acceptance of the necessity for supervision but dislike for supervision by machines is unreasonable. The vast majority of postal employees are honest. Every time money is stolen from the mail, all these honest employees are made the real thief under the cloud of suspicion. The honest employee should welcome, rather than resent, the installation of machinery which will protect him constant scrutiny, for it will be safeguarding him from the danger of unjust suspicion.

Whether the supervision should be by a man or by a television camera is, we suggest, merely a question of cost and efficiency. The Post Office Department has almost certainly considered the question from this standpoint. It should not be discouraged by stupid criticism. If television cameras are less costly and equally efficient, their installation is justified on economic grounds. If they are more efficient without excessive additional cost, their use is a very desirable additional protection not only for the general public which uses the mails but also for the vast majority of the department's employees.

ONCE UPON A TIME . . .

Grace Kelly is engaged. The males of two continents can return to reality.

The announcement of the betrothal of Grace Kelly, of Philadelphia and Hollywood, to His Serene Highness Rainier III, Prince of Monaco, left much to be desired—for instance a script by Hans Christian Andersen, a score by Sigmund Romberg, and 10,000 gally-costumed extras dancing and singing in the streets.

Fiction could never tolerate the truth of the Kelly-Rainier betrothal. The world's reigning cinema queen; the Academy Award winner; the beautiful girl with the cool draw; the millionaire daughter of a multi-millionaire father; the best-dressed woman of the year marrying "the world's most eligible bachelor" is too, too good to be true.

But this is not all. Not by any means. The stuff of which romantic operettas are made is as nothing to the background of the betrothal. Monaco, one of the world's tiniest principalities, a mere league square of 20,000 people and the world famous Casino of Monte Carlo. The 20,000 inhabitants live on the profits of sun and fun of the French Riviera and pay no taxes. Everything depends, therefore, on the continuance of the family line of Rainier. Should the present Prince fail to produce an heir the principality, its people and its casino revert to France and pay taxes.

What fatalist, what composer could wish for more? The Prince's subjects beg him to take a wife so that they can elude the tax collector. The Prince, spurred by the high sense of duty which his family has handed down since the 13th century, embarks for the new world to seek a wife and ten days later announces that one of the most eligible girls in the world has said "yes."

The Prince's announcement was read to the Monaco parliament by its chief minister who was so choked with joy he could hardly make himself understood. Monacans, deliriously happy at the news, burst out flags and started a national champagne party by declarine a public holiday.

Fairy tales are less entertaining than this. Fairy tales never happened. This is fairytale stuff that has happened to real people who, from all accounts, are very nice people, indeed, and thoroughly deserving of their idyll.

A real-life fairy tale in a world as jaded as this is like a long draught of champagne. And what makes the whole thing even more enjoyable is that everybody, everywhere can enjoy it too.

INDEPENDENCE

If you would independent be,
These things you must not do:
Ask anyone to borrow
Or for assistance sue.

You must not stoop to do a wrong
Or even be unjust,
Nor must you compromise with sin
Or parley in the fight,
And though you lose or though you win
You will
Care not, if you are right.

If you would independent be,
And gratitude disown,
The path of right you first must flee
And quit in a quiet stream.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 7, 1936

Bridge Street Methodist Church was destroyed by fire January 6, 1856.

The fire was discovered about a quarter past four in the afternoon and the full fire brigade was soon fighting the flames which spread rapidly. The four walls only remain standing. The huge bell fell with a great crash carrying with it several floors until it rested upon the vestibule floor. Here the bell rested and the bell fell to the basement. The fire originated in the basement and it is supposed to have been caused by the furnace fire which was started by the caretaker about one o'clock in the afternoon. The stoves in the vicinity of the house church were crowded with spectators. The church was dedicated on May 14th., 1865 and the following pastors have served during the period: Rev. Dr. Wood, Rev. Dr. Burwash; Rev. G. R. Sanderson; Rev. Dr. Rose; Rev. Dr. J. S. Bland; Rev. Dr. A. Hanson (who in later years became Lord Mayor of London, England); Rev. William Briggs; Rev. S. F. Rose; Rev. E. B. Harper; 1895, W. H. Willoughby; Rev. J. J. Hicks; Rev. Dr. Jeffers, and the esteemed pastor at the time of the fire, the Rev. J. B. Clarkson. The original cost of the church was $26,000.00 exclusive of the lot and the handsome pipe organ. With insurance the church was valued at $32,000.00. The organ was first used on April 1, 1878 and cost $4,000.00; the new bell was hung in 1883 and cost $600.00. The insurance on the building and contents is $18,000. The value of the 1,500 Methodist edifices in Canada of which there were several, was commemorated in this church in 1894. Prior to the union in this city, Methodists worshipped in the Wesleyan Methodist Church and the Ameliasburgh Episcopal Methodist Church; Albert College prior to union was Episcopal Methodists.

At a meeting of the church trustees on the evening of the fire the pastor, the Rev. J. B. Clarkson, the choir leader, Horace Yeomans were appointed a committee to select a suitable temporary place for worship until the new church building is erected. At a meeting held by the rectors of the Belleville Ontario House Company, which was presided over by Rev. W. N. Fonton, on motion of Mr. J. C. Hamilton, seconded by the Intelligencer, and seconded by Mr. H. Doyle, the use of rooms was placed at the disposal of the Bridge Street Church congregation which is to hold services for a period of six months free of all charges except light and heat. Largely through the efforts of Mr. William Johnson, superintendent of the Sunday School the school organ and the fine piano recently presented by the ladies of Mr. C. F. Holton's Bible class were saved. A number of choice and rare part of the school library were also rescued from the fire.

Fly Can Break Sound Barrier

(Unesco Features)

"Plodding wins the race", wrote Aesop in the fable of the hare and tortoise, but this is certainly not the opinion of aviators and racing motorists who set up new speed records every year.

An exhibition recently held in Paris on the theme of "Speed" gave visitors an idea of the time taken not only by machines but by animals, insects and even tiny particles of matter to cover a given distance. A number of unusual facts were revealed. For instance, a certain species of fly, the Cephenemyia, holds the "Animal World Speed Record", flying faster than sound, at 817 m.p.h. But even the human body pulses through the arteries at a speed of almost one foot per second, and performers at the rate of 5/1000ths of a millimetre an hour.

By a series of imaginative comparisons, visitors to be exhibition were made aware of the increasing importance of speed in our daily lives. Modern man is forever creating machines to work faster, but his achievements appear modest when it is realized that electrons in an atom of hydrogen move at a speed of something like 1,200 miles a second.

Dislike Strong Government

(Montreal Gazette)

Attempts are now being made to determine how the French elections will affect the future government of France. But such an analysis, though interesting, many be comparatively irrelevant. By and large the vote in France was a vote against government as such.

This, to be sure, is less than new. What is new is the determination to vote against government as such has been taken with new vigor and resolution. Negation has become still more positive.

It has long been the tradition in France that weakness in government is not an accident to be deplored, but a condition to be perpetuated. There has been an intolerance, or repugnance, of a strong executive. It is felt that in governmental weakness lies not final—or at least individual—security.

The best system of checks and balances, it is believed, lies not in having a single party in opposition to a stronger party in power. It lies, rather, in having so many parties that no one party is feared, and can uneasily be held together.

Appeals for a stronger government to create a stronger France have been made by various recognized leaders. Pierre-France, who emerged from this week's voting politically shaken, has been one of those who have appealed for strength.

He has declared: "I ask you for strength only . . . It is precisely because we are in a position to choose between two possible realities that I have denounced... illusions . . . That is why, more than ever before, I believe in the vigorous and prompt rebirth of our nation."

But this history of French politics suggests that Pierre-France is literally not popular—it fails to command popular support. For example, in August, 1938 (about one year before the outbreak of the Second World War) Premier Daladier of France was saying much the same thing: "Let all Frenchmen forget for a time their secondary differences, and in the present situation of Europe and the world unite to accomplish the effort demanded by their safety and their country."

But to respond to this kind of appeal—to conclude a truce of secondary differences—would lead to the formation of a strong government. And this would be an inadmissible violation of that supreme guarantee of individuality that comes from creating as divisive a force in government can exist.

If this week's voting were only an automatic reflection of an old tradition it would still be serious enough. But this time an alarming percentage of the French vote turned to extremes of Communism and of Poujadism.

Yet it cannot be said that the increase of the Communist vote marks simply a strengthening of the Communist Party as such. The majority of those who vote Communist in France are not full or active members of the Communist Party.

In February, 1952 the French Institute of Public Opinion conducted a poll for the magazine Realities. It claimed to find that 85 per cent of the Frenchmen who voted Communist did so as a protest against established authority, and not in support of a Communist regime. In the south of France, for example, it has become a practice for many well-to-do farmers to vote Communist, even though they may be employers of labor and owners of property. The cynicism of such an attitude enjoys its own flavor.

So it is that the success of the fascist Monsieur Pierce Poujade (whose name in English means the push-cart peddler) should excite such alarm. The fact is that Poujade has a small but compact following. Nevertheless in my spectacle-way I tell you that if I had a broken hip or thigh bone I'd choose Hodgen suspension treatment, for I saw how satisfactorily the method was in several cases in elderly persons and one case of a 13-year old boy with a compound fracture of the thigh bone.

In most hospitals victims of fracture of the "hip" (head of thigh bone) have no choice — the doctor ties them in bed for many weeks with weights pulling on the leg, or operates, inserting a metal pin or similar device calculated to

Gallantry At Long Last

(Kansas City Star)

In Russia the women literally work like horses. They are assigned to the heaviest jobs. Female longshoremen, female lumberjacks, ditch diggers and harvest hands are almost as common as men toiling at such labor. This is how it has been for decades under a stern Communist concept of what equality of the sexes really means. But a change may be coming.

The Soviet labor newspaper, Trud, recently reported that government orders have been issued to transfer women out of assigning to back-breaking chores. Belated line of gallantry is that jobs of this nature can be harmful to women. It's particularly serious, says Trud, for women to be pushing 100-pound loads around while

Tartan Budgies

George Dowan, of Glasgow, has bred a tartan budgerigar whose feathers are blue, green, black and yellow. Scientists have calculated that the sheer mechanical acceleration of life has increased more in the lifetime of this generation than it has increased in all the rest of history. And if we are figuring that in the next fifteen years, it will probably double that again.

Some of our more liverish philosophers hold the view that human nature won't be able to keep pace with the speed of life. They suggest that it won't be an atom bomber but a super-war head that will demolish the human race. We will merely blow our own legs. Hence the speed will burst us.

Science may not have sufficient by fact, however, that there are large sections of the human race who are entirely unaffected by ravaging haste of our time. They are to be found in the remoter country dages but in down-town department stores. You will meet considerable numbers of leg-going folk who are only in the backwoods but on your way to work riding in ferry boats. One of the most curious experiences of everyday life is that when you are in a hurry, everyday else seems to be going slow. And when you are inclined to dawdle along and take your time, every body else appears to be in a hurry.

It is quite true, as our hearty-duty thinkers point out, that the basic characteristics of human nature

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DR. SAMUEL JOHNSON

I have just finished reading the world famous biography by James Boswell of Dr. Samuel Johnson. Why I never read it in my youth is my great loss. A reading of it a half dozen times in one's lifetime should be none too many. It is one of the most entertaining and also the most outstanding biography.

In this story you will read of Johnson's virtues and also his faults and virtues. There is no variation in his character. The man stands out. He was born in a nest of poverty, and so indelibly did this fact impress him, that in later life, its influence still clung. In a letter to Boswell he wrote: "Poverty, my dear friend, is so great an evil, and pregnant with so much temptation, and so much misery, that I cannot but earnestly recommend it to you."

Dr. Johnson was born in 1709 and died in 1784. His fame has come to him after the publication of his Dictionary and, although he later became the author of many other books that are still read, his reputation has been endured because of Boswell's "Life". In this great work he is followed by Boswell for a period of nearly a quarter of a century and his wise sayings and witty remarks were given. He was the friend of the great of his day—Sir Joshua Reynolds, Oliver Goldsmith, David Garrick, about him to have "good talk."

A most interesting visit is recorded in Boswell's Johnson and an old classmate of his, at Pembroke college, after a period of many years had passed. Ed wards: "You are a philosopher, Sam Johnson." I have tried long time to be a philosopher; but I don't know how, cheerfulness was always breaking in."

This unique biography reads like a fascinating novel—not a report. It was first published in 1791 in two large volumes, but dozens of editions have since followed. A very good one is now to be had in the "giant" edition by Modern Library that sells for less than a good lunch today—and is a priceless addition to a life-time of pleasure and intellectual profit gained.

Just before Johnson died a letter was handed to him upon his death bed, and he made this remark: "An odd thought strikes me—we shall receive no letters in the grave." His last words, spoken to his young girl who waited on him before he died, were these: "God bless you, my dear!"

Protection from Depletion

Speaking from experience I'd hold the fragments in place until union occurs. Either method is tiresome and exhausting, and the outcome is problematical.

The patient in Hodgen's suspension has the freedom of his bed from the beginning — that is, he or she can move about the bed and even get over into a chair beside the bed for a while every day, without in the least disturbing the alignment of the fragments. This activity, slight though it seems, ends to prevent the various complications likely to occur when any one, particularly an elderly person, is confined to bed for weeks or months without getting any exercise at all. One such complication which a good many doctors ignore is the progressive depletion of the body's calcium reserve which inevitably accompanies prolonged disability. This, if not controlled by high calcium diet supplemented with a daily ration of calcium and vitamin D, may lead to delayed union or non-union. In my opinion — remember, I'm no authority — calcium deficiency accounts for much of the pain, stress, irritability and feeble morale of persons long disabled by injury.

So I'd prescribe this diet in one which includes good proportions of high calcium foods such as milk, cheese, eggs, peas, beans, lentils, nuts, peanuts, cabbage, turnips, celery, greens.

Strength for The Day

SIXTH STEP IN THE NEW YEAR

The final spiritual step which all of us are called upon to take during the step of commitment. There is a fine statement in the Book of Proverbs, 23:6, which reads: "Buy the glorious truth: "In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths."

In other words, the end of all religion is the living of a beautiful and helpful life. There is Sunday religion, and sectarary religion, and creed religion, and tongue religion. At best these are inadequate; at worst they are trash. Below a little religion that works than a complicated theology that is sterile. Seven or a few beliefs regarding decency, honesty, and kindly dealing than philosophies stacked in a bookshelf, and theology enough

THE PACKSAW

By GREGORY CLARK

It's a good thing to remember that human nature was designed for a much more leisurely age than ours. Scientists have calculated that the sheer mechanical acceleration of life has increased more in the lifetime of this generation than it has increased in all the rest of history. And if we are figuring that in the next fifteen years, it will probably double that again.

Some of our more liverish philosophers hold the view that human nature won't be able to keep pace with the speed of life. They suggest that it won't be an atom bomber but a super-war head that will demolish the human race. We will merely blow our own legs. Hence the speed will burst us.

Science may not have sufficient by fact, however, that there are large sections of the human race who are entirely unaffected by ravaging haste of our time. They are to be found in the remoter country dages but in down-town department stores. You will meet considerable numbers of leg-going folk who are only in the backwoods but on your way to work riding in ferry boats. One of the most curious experiences of everyday life is that when you are in a hurry, everyday else seems to be going slow. And when you are inclined to dawdle along and take your time, every body else appears to be in a hurry.

It is quite true, as our hearty-duty thinkers point out, that the basic characteristics of human nature were formulated over the past several thousand years in which any speed faster than that of a horse was unknown. The speed of mankind, through most of the past three thousand years, has been three miles an hour, which he did on foot. And even that rate is exhausting because we now know of human nature, we must recognize that we were designed to be long did not keep on walking all through history at three miles an hour. The species would paused and dawdled along the way, to look at the sky or the flowers, or to have a grassy bank for a snooze. Let those who care to go by the fast lane. There is room. The main enough to carry on the species without having to the subsetic natural breed.

Wife by Installments

Fires Breaking Out in Last Phase of Moon

MICOLET, Que. (CP) — This disaster-shadowed St. Lawrence river town may conceal a moon mad arsonist with 11 fires to his credit.

Police chief Edouard Beaulac said Friday night that a $800,000 religious order blaze a week ago had been deliberately set and that 10 other fires since last March also had broken out on weekends in the last phase of the moon.

Beaulac, who is also fire chief made his disclosures in the course of an investigation of the Dec. 31 fire which burned to the five-storey mother house of the Grey Nuns Order. His investigation, which started Thursday, is continuing with the help of provincial police.

Damage estimated at $700,000 was last March 21 when fire destroyed 35 buildings in the heart of this sleepy, 5,000-population town about 90 miles northeast of Montreal.

The other fires were much smaller, but one claimed the lives of two persons. On top of that, a disastrous earthslide last November killed three persons and caused damage estimated at $5,000,000.

YOUR CAR

A Little Oil Goes Long Way In Distributor

By EUGENE MILMOE

The distributor is probably foremost among car parts which require some lubrication but seldom get any. Such preventive maintenance is definitely specified by all car makers, though they may differ on its frequency.

Failure to lubricate the distributor doesn't mean it will suddenly go dead, but it will accelerate wear and affect ignition timing. Several parts require attention. Your service station can tell you exactly how often, where and what kind of grease or oil is recommended for your particular model.

Its important to remember, however, that very little lubricant is required—and too much can be worse than none at all. If you decide to tackle the job yourself, be sure you apply it very carefully and sparingly.

From A.C.: "I use a well-rated brand of premium engine oil and change it every 2,000 miles or so. Lately, I find that the oil is much dirtier than it has ever been. The car is a 1954 model with less than 10,000 miles on it. Does this indicate trouble of any kind?

(A) I doubt it. You are probably overdue for an oil filter change.

GAS OFF, CAR STALLS

L.Z. writes: "My car is a 1953 automatic drive model. When I take my foot off the gas quickly to make a sudden stop, the engine stalls. This will happen even when the engine is well warmed up."

(A) Your carburetor has a bullin check valve or dashpot which slows down closing of the throttle and prevents stalling when the gas pedal is suddenly released. Evidently, this unit is in need of adjustment or repair.

From J.M.: "It's almost impossible to shift on my 1949 car without great clashing. Even in hot weather it will not shift easily and smoothly. So far, the clutch has been adjusted, transmission grease changed, shifting linkage overhauled and adjusted, and a new synchronesh unit installed but it still clashes."

(A) On a older car, worn bearings are often the cause. But I wouldn't overlook the possibility of misalignment of the transmission with the engine or crankshaft. You would be surprised at the number of cases traced to this condition.

FLOAT ADJUSTMENT

K.A. asks: "A complete ignition check-up and a new fuel pump has not helped me to get a good strong speed out of my 1953 6-cylinder engine. Now, I am told that a low carburetor float level is probably to blame. Must the carburetor be rebuilt or replaced to correct this?"

(A) If it's just a question of incorrect float adjustment, the level can usually be reset by bending the float arm slightly—but, let an experienced mechanic do it.

W.W. writes: "Black smoke comes from my exhaust and I have been advised that it could be due to a dirty air cleaner. What do you think?"

(A) A clogged air cleaner, sticking choke valve, faulty carburetor adjustment or anything else which produces an over-rich fuel mixture, can be to blame for black exhaust smoke.

400 Citizens Attend Session Of City Council

TORONTO (CP)—More than 400 citizens watched Friday at the inaugural session of Toronto's 125th city council.

Forty - five motions were presented to council but only one, bill authorizing borrowing of $20,400,000 until taxes are paid, was passed. Other motions deal with a civic swimming pool, streetcar and truck noise, parking sites, reports on east-west rapid transit facilities and protection of pedestrians at city intersections.

Council also heard motions that a limited dividend company be set up to construct and operate low-rent housing projects and that the city provide $100,000 for loans to enable residents to bring their houses up to required standards.

The motions will be allocated to civic committees for discussion and action.

Make Fish 'Flour,' Find Bread Good

OTTAWA (CP) — Fish bread may some day appear on Canadian tables.

Dr. Henry Fougere of Halifax, chief of the Atlantic fisheries experimental station, said Friday his staff has made small amounts of fish protein which, when mixed with ordinary flour, produced bread of "good appearance and taste."

He told the annual meeting of the Fisheries Research Board that the protein product was made at the Halifax station from fish flesh and was white, odorless and tasteless. A sample left exposed to light and air for a week showed no change in taste or color.

Dr. Fougere added that bread baked with flour containing 10 to 20 per cent of fish protein has an agreeable odor. The problem now was the cost of production and scientists were making trials in this field.

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vincent Massey left Friday night for Toronto, where he will attend the Saturday evening performance of "Tamburlaine the Great," presented by the Stratford Festival Foundation and Producers' theatre. He will return to Ottawa Sunday.

Patient Gunman Robs and Binds Ten Victims

DETROIT (AP)—A patient gunman robbed and bound 10 victims in a five-hour marathon robbery Friday in a basement washroom of the brand new Michigan Life Insurance Co. building in suburban Royal Oak.

The gunman's first victim was George Bandshub, a boiler operator. Bundshub was held up in a basement corridor about 8:30 a.m., forced into the washroom and bound with tape.

The gunman, armed with a .38 pistol, propped Bandshub against a wall and followed the same routine in robbing nine other men who wandered into the washroom between 8:30 and 1:30 p.m.

At 1:30 p.m. the gunman released Bundshub and forced him to walk in front of him out of the building which fronts Woodward Ave., one of metropolitan Detroit's most heavily travelled thoroughfares.

Police said the loot totalled about $450.

Canada One Of World's Bright Spots

MONTREAL (CP)—The Gazette today publishes its 60th annual economic review and forecast describing Canada as "one of the world's bright spots."

Associate editor Guy S. Cunliffe, in the leading article, writes: "On balance, the past year has been an exceptionally good one. And Canada remains one of the world's bright spots as a place to live and work and contribute to productive progress."

Optimism pervades the comprehensive review, with exceptions in the wheat and textiles industries, which reported an uncertain outlook.

Motorists Pay Record in Fines

TORONTO (CP)—More than 3,500 motorists summoned to appear in traffic courts here Friday were estimated to have paid a record $22,000 in fines.

The large numbers resulted from there being no traffic courts on the day previous Friday, Dec. 23 and Dec. 30, eves of the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

Icelanders Won Hockey Crown

By LEONARD L. KNOTT
Illustrated by Jack Tramblay

People from many countries all over the world have come to live in Canada and be Canadians in their homes, many of these people speak foreign tongues and observe strange customs, but in their love of Canada they are as strong as the people who have lived here for two or three hundred years.

Among these Canadians are the descendants of those who came here from cold, lonely Iceland back in 1874. There were 400 people in that pioneer group and their home was in Iceland, a country with a long history of democracy and rule by parliament. They had intended to go to the United States but the ship that brought them to North America brought them up the St. Lawrence River to Quebec and they decided that they could get land here, they would remain in Canada.

Just four years before, the new province of Manitoba had been formed. Here in this almost empty part of Canada. There was land for the Icelanders. Sigtryggur Jonasson, a young man in the party was sent ahead to select a location. He travelled to Winnipeg, the new city on the Red River, and turned north to Lake Winnipeg. There, he found land he liked, fishing and claimed it for his islanders.

GIMLI FOUNDED

The next autumn, the newcomers went to their new homes. The men cut down trees and built log houses, their cabins formed a settlement, called Gimli. Here on the lakeshore, they began the Lake Winnipeg Fishing Industry which is still carried on by their descendants. They suffered many hardships, but they had expected difficulties and were prepared to overcome them. During the first year in the snow and ice, they published their own newspaper, printed by hand, in which they laughed at their own troubles.

The next year, some 1,200 more people came from the island. Other villages were built and some of the young Icelandic couples married and left Gimli to go to Winnipeg and to other provincial towns.

The people of the young west were glad to have these new arrivals, but they did not know what wonderful future Canadians they were getting. The Icelanders had a strong urge for education and a tradition of learning. They invested the University of Manitoba and began graduating doctors, lawyers and writers. Several of these people became authors of Canadian books; one, Vilhalmur Stefanson, became a great explorer. Many of them are now judges, members of parliament and ministers of the crown.

Bigger Share Of Tax Field To Aid Quebec

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A bigger share of the direct tax field along with federal equalization payments may boost Quebec's revenue by some $50,000,000 a year under the new federal tax-sharing formula with the provinces, it was learned Friday.

Informants estimated roughly Quebec's revenue may rise to about $150,000,000 a year from the $100,000,000 or so she currently obtains through direct tax levies on corporation and personal incomes and succession duties.

Under the formula, which Prime Minister St. Laurent will put before the provincial premiers in a letter this weekend, Ontario's revenue may increase by about $30,000,000 to some $170,000,000.

Ontario currently gets about $140,000,000 in annual payments in return for renting out her corporation and personal income tax fields to the central government. The province has retained succession duties. If she had rented this out, her total payments would have been about $153,000,000.

It is understood that all other provinces, parties to federal-provincial tax rental pacts which expire in 1957, will get revenues higher than those obtained through the annual payments.

Terms of the new federal proposal are still a closely-guarded secret. But it is considered increasingly apparent that the federal administration has decided to bow to provincial demands and reduce its share of the direct taxes.

The real proof that Icelanders had become true Canadians, however, came in 1920, just about fifty years after their arrival in Canada. That year, the Winnipeg Falcons was a hockey team on which every player was an Icelander. The Falcons won the Manitoba championship, captured the Allan Cup in a playoff with Toronto and went to Europe to represent Canada at the Olympic Games.

A few weeks later, they returned to Winnipeg, the second largest Icelandic city in the world, as world champions, the first team from Canada to win an international title and champions in the sport that Canada claims as its own.

The Book Which Travelled Through the World

(Article 13)

Once upon a time there was a little girl in the Swiss mountains who was so poor that she did not even have a bed. She slept in the hayloft of an old shack and ran barefoot like the mountain goats that were her only friends. But she was as happy as a princess and loved her grumpy grandfather so much that she would not have traded her life for anything in the world. And when she was sent away to a big city she nearly died of homesickness. I think you know the little girl. Her name was Heidi.

All over the world millions of youngsters read Heidi's story. They climb with her over the meadows and rocks away up in the mountains where the kine gentian and the primroses bloom and where the sun makes the snow-capped peaks glow as if they were aflame. The grass up there is fragrant and juicy and the goats milk tastes sweet and rich. The air is fresh and pure and the world is peaceful but full of wonders. And as Heidi lived in the mountains, so do the children who read about her, although they might be many hundred miles away from the districts of Switzerland.

KIND HEARTED WOMAN

The author of Heidi was born in the Swiss Alps herself. Looking through her window she often dreamed of climbing high on the mountain tops and looking down into the valley. She was a very kind-hearted woman and fond of children.

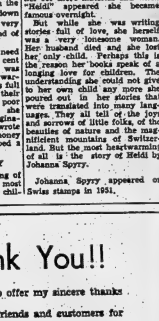
When someone was in need she would give her last cent away. When Switzerland was flooded with refugees from war torn countries, her home was full of sympathy and pity for their misery. But she was rather poor herself. The only thing she possessed was a lively imagination. So she sat down and wrote a little story. With the money she received for it she helped a needy family.

ROSE TO FAME QUICKLY

And that was the beginning of her career as one of the most beloved writers of books for children. Because her stories were natural and charming they won every heart. Editors kept asking her for more material and when "Heidi" appeared she became famous overnight.

But while she was writing stories full of love, she herself was a very lonesome woman. Her husband died and she lost her only child. Perhaps this is the reason her books speak of a longing for children. The understanding she could not give to her own child many more she poured out in her stories that were translated into many languages. They all tell of the joys and sorrows of little folks, of the beauties of nature and the magnificient mountains of Switzerland. But the most heartwarming of all is the story of Heidi by Johanna Spyry.

Johanna Spyry appeared on Swiss stamps in 1951.



Thank You!!

I would like to offer my sincere thanks to my many friends and customers for their encouragement and patronage. May I take this opportunity of wishing everyone a Happy and Prosperous New Year. I trust that my successor, Don Stanton, will receive the same loyalty and support.

Letters from Mexico

By Arnold Meyers

Perhaps it is fitting at this point to take you down to the Cenote. We follow a slightly winding dirt road for a few hundred feet and come out upon the edge of a vast pit. Jungle knocks a big hole in the limestone and one edge of the vine covered pit. For size, as the various ferns and other vegetation: layer upon layer of white and yellowish stratified rock. Half way to the bottom of this great Cenote, descending down sheer to the surface of the water, we spy what we are looking for far below.

OVER 100 SKELETONS FOUND

Right at the edge of the Cenote in a little natural ledge which a brief ceremony was performed prior to the maiden's jumping into the well. At various times archaeologists have sent divers to the bottom of the well. Over 100 skeletons have been recovered together with large quantities of jewelled ornaments. All were sacrificed to propitiate the Rain God.

Coming back along the road, the Sacred Way, we come to the Great Ball Court on our right. This is like a huge stadium, the walls being the bench containing one wide terrace. Situated about midway along these terraces and at each end or two ends of the terrace top are two rings of carved rock projecting from the walls. Here was played the game of pelota, a game somewhat resembling our basketball or more probably volleyball. The object of the game was to be first to knock a ball of skin through one of these holes. It is said that to be chosen in this game went all the clothes of the olive participants and consequently, at the end of the game there would be a sudden rush for the exit. But the losers' friends would pursue the unfortunate ones and make them pay up. The game is reported to be the forerunner of our basketball.

ACOUSTICAL PROPERTIES

This ball court has remarkable acoustical properties. If a person be standing upon the throne at one end of the court and his friend upon the throne at the other end, the two can converse without raising their voices in any great extent, although the distance between is in excess of 500 feet.

The wall before the kings' throne at the north end of the ball court is surmounted by a sloping ledge. If you stand on the ledge, you have only to mount a few steps to the top and look up toward the sky, you will notice at once the rings of velour on the inside of the upper part of the black wall. These rings have been the object of full adornment, such as a priest receiving a token offering from a captain who has just won the whole idea is, you see, that the kings and the lords sat on these seats apart from the ordinary spectators since they were exempt from the law of gravity in that yet another group of ruins up still the north-western end going around the end of the wall of the king's throne there is a path leading to the ruins of what is known as the principal temple of the ancient Mayas.

A Mexican informed me that there is a snake out there and I decided to look anyway. While on the wall, I walked carefully and kept my eyes peeled for signs of queer looking plants. He was right. Just below the wall on the seats apart from the ordinary spectators since they were exempt from the law of gravity in that yet another group of ruins up still the north-western end going around the end of the wall of the king's throne there is a path leading to the ruins of what is known as the principal northwest group, no doubt connected with the temple complex once more with the jungle.

CARNGIE EXPEDITION

Of one thing I am sure, I've visited here for it was made by the Carnegie Expedition under Sylvanus G. Morley. Dr. Morley himself went on for ten years and after that his assistants continued excavation went on for ten years and after that his assistants continued excavation took over, proceeding with the work of restoration.

I'm glad I saw it all. It was very, very hot by this time and I had to sit down for a while to get my nerve to eat under a tree. The king's throne looked extremely interesting and I was sorry I was not climbing.

The other side of the Merida highway contains equally interesting sights. A picturesque dirt road leads to the Mayan chicken Itza through thick jungle; rays of sunlight streaming down through the trees.

The first object that comes into view is a large, partially dilapidated building situated on a slight rise of ground. Early in the day, however, I was quite bushed, so I sauntered down the road a little ways and sat in the full view of the rectangular building which is known as the Caracol or the observatory, the nunnery, Temple of the Murals, and the Temple of the Jaguar. I shall leave it there for now until I have more time to examine these more closely.

CURIOUS UNLOOKERS

The other day I was sketching a young Indian girl. She was dressed with colored pencils. Of course it was quite a thrill for her and a modest crowd gathered around so curious are they. So great was the general interest that one poor fellow fainted. I figured that when that fellow is painting it's about time to move on. Later, I also met an artist in the plaza who invited me to come to his studio, so I went. Once there, he insisted on showing me his work. He was an amateur of ten years standing. Some of his stuff was good, but much of it was utterly amateurish. Some were copies of old masters, but too well done at that. However, he is a useful person to know. He has had no lessons at all.

I have met another very interesting person down here. He is an oldish American, a man who has been in business many years in Central America and South America for the past twenty years. He don't have to fly a mile to go to church because he is the church. Of course, I knew that before, but not by the method he suggested. He suggested going up Campecha, Tenosique and Palenque from there to Guatemala then on to Teapa where I would get a car to Ville Hermosa. From there I would go to Tuxtla to Zuala Gutierrez. Thence on down through Tuxtla and so to Tapachula, crossing the Guatemala border at Suchiate, (spelt on.) Quezaltenango by bus, one of the most trying experiences of travel is to find a bed for the night. If you can always be sure exactly where you will be on a certain day all well and good, but that kills the lucky spirit for it does away with the sense of freedom. So far I've kept my budget is bad enough but to fit in dates with your landlord is equally bad, even out of the times of the usual tourist season. So you spend almost as money on letters, telegrams confirmation of telegrams and telephones.

It is encouraging to see the fine work done in remodelling the old hotels and better still the planning of the new. The traveller at night is in need of rest and in addition to it being good business it is true kindness to remember that fact and to make the guest comfortable. In a big city it is good to have a room facing on a court so few sounds of street traffic penetrate one's sleep.

In a small place it is better to face the scenery, with a balcony to enjoy it any hour of the day or night or both. It is pleasant to have a little breeze blowing in one's face and to hear the surf. One does not do that in Monte Carlo, nor near the equator in Africa. The latter is a terrible Africa, is a safer risk than in Monte Carlo as far as the danger of being robbed is concerned, but it is not easy to cope quickly with a resourceful mosquito. However in most lands windows can be left wide open so that one awakens truly refreshed.

DINING IN COMFORT

It is also pleasant to have one end of the room so arranged that you can eat comfortably the morning rolls and tea or coffee instead of the discomfort of a table by the window. One also needs a table and chair where to post cards and letters can be written while the conversation of people passing by, though how anyone can write a letter comfortably is a marvel.

Then, too, it is much such a spare for eating is likely to be a little sitting-room where one can have friends to tea but unless you are very well off indeed, it is a luxury beyond the means of most travellers. It is more tiring than many people realize to be closely surrounded by a host of strangers or unknown people and due regard to this must be paid to the need of the travelling public for a restful meal, good food and comfortable surroundings are all 50% to the benefit.

DUBLIN HOTELS BUST

The Dublin hotels are about as they always have been, but are different than in the old days. It seems to have been a profitable year at the Shelbourne for my first Gaelic coffee and it was even better than I had been led to expect. The ceremony, the ritual of their combination, the preparation, the serving, the enjoyment of the mixture, are too complicated to explain properly. Suffice it to say that it is the first plane to Shannon and find out for yourself.

It is not easy to remember two hundred rooms in the first land is a good journey but after you have driven over stony roads in a car you are more likely to forget, so we started off early in the morning to get over to Galway and on up to Kylemore Abbey where we were to spend the night. We had to get over to Clare and over to cross into Mayo.

It seems to me you either love Connemara or you loathe it. My impression was that it was the only relief was that she got lost about every ten miles and that I had to stop and ask the way and enjoy the delightful speech of the men who waited and their courteous manners.

The speed limit is not exactly correct. You do not meet somebody every two miles and sometimes not for when it is getting dark and you are sure you are lost you long for an upward there presumably to begin my tour of Guatemala.

CHEAP TRAVEL

At the moment of writing, this is purely geographical as the next country could be covered for actually less money that it takes to fly to Guatemala. The only old fellow tells me that they have recently put an intervention on this Gulf railroad a new train which makes the distance to Mexico City in about two and three days, but one would have to take pot luck as to the time on the way. There is no dining car, you must buy native fruit from the sellers who are stationed along the way. The hotel at Palenque is primitive and I am told that that at Villa Hermosa it is not too much better, but one can manage altogether be quite an experience, though.

He also told me what to do about malaria: If I fear malaria I am to take a pill every week a pill, which, incidentally, he has been taking for the past five years and has escaped the disease. Simple trick. This pill to be taken once a week and you are free. He is a very experienced traveller and should know whereof he speak.

Alan Jarvis Director N.A.G. To Speak Here

Mr. Alan Jarvis, director of the National Gallery of Canada who will address the Belleville and Canadian Club on Tuesday evening in the St. Andrew's Presbyterian church hall on the topic: "Is Art Necessary — A Canadian View", is widely known and respected in the art circles of Canada and the United States.

Graduating from the University of Toronto with a degree in mechanical engineering, he entered Oxford and later, held a fellowship in the Graduate School of Fine Arts of New York University.

During the war years was in the British Ministry of Aircraft production and became special assistant to Lord Beaverbrook and Sir Stafford Cripps.

Mr. Jarvis is also the editor of many books, particularly in the Penguin series, and has lectured widely in the field of design.

His wide experience has made him an interesting and lively speaker, and his address, which is most appropriate at this time, should be highly enjoyed.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS:

We want to correct an error in Wednesday's column which was inexcusable. When we said that we wrote our Mrs. Roosevelt address last July, we were forgetting the New Year. It was in July, 1954, that we wrote to the late Mr. Robert Sinclaire.

Great prominence has been given lately to the poison of hatred which was spread in India by the Nationalist agents during their recent tour. It is worth while, we feel, to point out that there have been words of hope, peace and encouragement spoken in India.

At Ahmedabad on December 31 former British Secretary of State for India, Lord Stanagate, spoke the following words publicly: "India deserves all the support which Britain could give her today, the world needs India and her doctrine of non-violence today. In the present day world, no one could compete in the manufacture of nuclear bombs, but everyone won't be able to prevent the other man from producing one."

We want to express the hope that India, the land of Mahatma Gandhi and Nehru will be able to lead the world on the path of peace and thus save it from catastrophe.

In reply Mr. G. V. Mavalankar, Speaker of the House of the People (Parliament) remarked in his welcome address: "Our relations with Britain and the Commonwealth, that the people of India had only reciprocal feelings, but not the British people or their friendship.

* * *

Women the world over are praying for peace, and we would like to see more and more prominence given to the contributions which India is making hatred being cultivated by communism. While Bulganin and Krushchev are trying to worm into goodwill and peace, a former Indian leader is spreading love, inspiring hope and confidence. India, where about one out of every five of the world's people live, has become a mighty force in the world and we should know too much about it. At any rate, it is reassuring to know that one of the callibre of The Hon. Lester B. Pearson and Lord Stangate have been there and are now spreading confidence and goodwill in greater measure than the haters.

We hope that a large number of readers saw the lead editorial in The Intelligencer published last Wednesday. Last November 19. This & That spoke of the large number of boys in the city and lenses for the Start House Orchestra and the Girls' Choir and to give youth a pat on the back then, saying that the youth of the city of Canadians should have our encouragement. We feel that the Frank Scott of the Vancouver Sun and express the hope that the Ontario Intelligencer editorial receives the response which it deserves.

* * *

Our thought for the weekend: "Train up a child in the way he should walk. And walk there once in a while yourself."

* * *

Talking about youth and walking with them, brings to mind a young boy who hero-worshipped Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of the Montreal Canadiens. He never lost his admiration for the Rocket, but last spring's riot episode in Montreal was a severe jolt. Last week this boy had the Rocket at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto. The Rocket remembered the boy whom he had met before and you can imagine the pride my young friend got out of introducing the hockey hero to his dad. Later, on the way to the Maple Leaf Gardens, the boy turned to his dad and shouted, "The Rocket is playing the game so cleanly this year, they ought to give him the Lady Byng Trophy!" It is a little story dear and simple, but the impact of the example is terrific.

Did you know that federal expenditures for health, welfare and social security ranks second only to expenditures for national defence, in Canada.

It almost seems that the youthful year has taken This & That by the hand and today's column and asked it to walk along in kindergarten step. It is a little premeditation, but we are happy that fortuitous accident has brought the matter to your attention so we can pass it on to you.

The National Council of Hospital Auxiliaries of Canada and the Canadian Hospital Journal are sponsoring an essay contest for girls between the ages of 16 and 18, in secondary and private schools. The title of the essay is "Why I Want to Become a Nurse" and the latest postmark date for receiving them is January 30th.

There are two prizes to be awarded in each province, one for the best essay in English, and one for the best essay in French. When the provincial judges have made their final decision, they will be forwarded to the National Council in Montreal where a national prize will also be awarded in the amount of $50 for each language. The prizes for Ontario are credit certificates for purchases from the Robert Simpson Company, and donated by this company to the auxiliaries for this province.

We are fortunate indeed this year to have a Belleville woman on the Hospital Social President. Mrs. J. E. Buchan. She is so enthusiastic about the contest that her enthusiasm is infectious. A quote from one of the letters sent to the schools describes the high purpose of the contest as well as the problem. She writes, "Realizing as we do, and concerned as we are, with the shortage of nurses in hospitals throughout Canada, we are very anxious to aid in stimulating the interest of young women in the profession of nursing."

We trust the response will be inspirational to the thousands of young people in Canada who are devoting so much of themselves to hospital auxiliaries.

Holloway W.M.S. Enjoys Meeting

The first meeting of the year was held by the ladies of Holloway Street W.M.S. on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Champagne opened the meeting with the reading of the following timely poem:

The year is closed, the record made;
The last deed done, the last word said,
The memory alone remains,
Of all its joys, its griefs, its gains,
And so with purpose full and clear,
We turn to meet another year.

In her opening remarks Mrs. Coulter thanked the members and officers for their co-operation and sympathy.

Across the years they met" was the theme of the study book, given by daughter. They are Mrs. Leonard Reid, of Belleville, Mrs. Stewart Campaign, now a resident of Gananoque, and Clifford Champaign, of Trent Road. Mrs. Champaign also have two grandchildren.

the wonderful story God would have us write.

Mrs. Bunnett favored with a solo, "God Has Promised," and also read a paper on thoughts from Psalm 103, "Bless the Lord, O My Soul," and Rev. 21: 5, "Behold I Make All Things New."

"If we find life a purposeless grind it is because we have not united God. When we work with God life is an exciting adventure, our days are filled with brighter as the days roll by.

"Our gifts may be humble but every healthy and wholesome thing created is part of the creative power of God.

"Life was never meant to be a solo performance. It is duet at the most — humanity in the wrong way and not sharing it with God. Jesus knew God's will and lived it to the full."

Mrs. Bunnett reported on the study and prayer for the furtherance of God's kingdom. We have an opportunity of making friends of other races and creeds, by breaking down the barriers of prejudice and building up friendships and understanding.

"The many tons of clothing sent to needy areas make for neutral brotherhood. The cards sent to shut-ins and sick in hospitals shows some love being exercised in our auxiliaries.

"We have come to the gateway of another year, may it be filled with humble hearts and with peace to overcome temptation so that we may be led into the perfect day of the coming of Thy kingdom."

Mrs. Wesse, Community Friendship secretary, gave a report on the sick and shut-ins in 1955.

DEVOTIONAL PERIOD

The devotions were taken by the executive committee. Mrs. Wilson read an article, "Another Chance," relating to the New Year picture, Phil. 3: 13, "Forgetting the things that are behind." Each of us the new year brings new opportunities but it must be on God's terms, not ours. His terms are confession of sin and failure and a whole-hearted commitment of ourselves to Him. The new year offers a clean page and another chance to write afresh.

EXECUTE TRAITOR

RENNES, France (Reuters)—A Frenchman who served German military courts during the By the Second World War was shot at Rennes today for treason. Claude Besson, 34, was sentenced to death in March, 1955, after he was found guilty of betraying 30 Maquis (members of a French resistance force) to the Nazis in France to the German authorities. Many of them died in concentration camps, and 20 were shot.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PERHAPS IT'S NOT REALLY TOO LATE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I guess I have waited too long to ask for advice now. But maybe this letter will help some young people to be sure they know just what they are doing when they tie up for life. At least marriage is supposed to be for life.

I am of middle age, have raised a nice family of children, all of whom are now married, and I am very lonely. My husband is living but we have never seemed to be as close as we should be. He does not think oft in Georgia at eateries no more glamorous than roadside stands.

Wherever you're going, there's just one dish for which the locality is famed. Here are some to look for.

New England, of course, is famous for its seafood, which, raw, fried, and varied. There are probably more varieties of clams alone, in ways of serving them, than even most natives know about.

STEAMED QUAHOGS

The above - mentioned quahogs aren't frequently served steamed in their own broth; a style frequently preferred by those who have't developed a taste for the soft raw clams, served on the half shell or fried, cut with a middling-to-hot red sauce. For those who can't take them any other way, clams come fried, too.

The pride of the Atlantic, from Nova Scotia to New Jersey, however, is the delectable crustacean known as the lobster, the most delicately flavored of all the fish family. Nothing may be quite as boiled, preferably in sea water over a seaweed fire.

With all modern transportation and refrigeration, lobster and other indigenous sea foods are now available everywhere, but they never taste quite the same as they do fresh out of the ocean.

RARE POMPANO

The southern half of America's Atlantic shore has a shell fish called Florida or Bermuda lobster but is heavier and tougher. A more delicate-flavored fruit of the sea below the Mason-Dixon line is the magnificent and dearly sure pompano.

No trip south is complete without this dish in one of its many forms, such as sauteed with almonds, or in filets poached with various minced fish and baked in a paper bag. More common throughout the South and almost as delicious is the red snapper.

But the Souths chief claim to culinary fame comes from its great variety of ways to cook shad. Only the Northa comparatively bland hams as fish from fowl.

Smoked, corned, pickled and otherwise preserved, they differ subtly from state to state. One part of rural Tennessee they even bury them in the ground to bring out the preserved. We found Kentucky's preference a balance of sweet, salt, smoke, and spice meat to be perfect, but Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, and even some Ohio hams have their devoted followings.

The hams painstakingly barbecued in pure pits offer the South still another distinction.

GOURMET'S PARADISE

New Orleans long has been famous as the gourmet's paradise for its creole cuisine, basically French. It blends some hearty Americanism with a touch of the Spanish and Italian, but has some of the best eating to be had on the continent. Seafood, especially the shrimps, abound here too. Try spicy Gulf coast seafood gumbo, more of a stew than soup, and good almost everyplace.

Texas cooking at its best is heavily under the Mexican influence, with almost everything flavored by chili. Great if you like chili.

In most things California offers a summary of pure Americana, and so it is with the west coast's hearty American style food. In this land of the automobile, the drive-in restaurant has reached its peak and the lavish menus which glorify hamburgers, hot dogs, ham and eggs, hot cakes, pies and ice creams, make the ordinary foods of the simple roadside stands of other parts of the country look unimaginative.

More distinguished are California's seafoods—its shrimp ranging from small-size to giant prawns, and abalone, a meaty fish which comes from a huge clam-like shell.

Chinese cooking here, far different from that in the East (both Asiatic and American East, that is), reaches an exotic height which makes good use of both California's abundance and the mastery of herbs and spices for which Chinese food is noted. If you really want to try something different, Chinese bunsenburner bears almost no resemblance to American or European cookery—it's a virtuoso style of eating.

The west coast also boasts some Hawaiian - Polynesian restaurants which combine the best of Hawaii, the South Pacific, the East Indies and Asia, much as Hawaii itself does.

In the Pacific Northwest, King crab is king—the giant meaty crab with the great legs which is virtually unavailable elsewhere in the country. Salmon, too, is a regional pride.

Then there's Pennsylvania, where the German influence is strong in the ponderous portions, multiple dishes, carefully blended with rich sauces, and wholesome air of heartiness and plenitude about everything. Don't miss it. I've forget a Pennsylvania meal.

MONTREAL TOPS

Canada's gastronomical headquarters is Montreal, which not only has many fine French restaurants than any other North American city, but also features this distinguished food at prices which generally make tourists blink. Either Canadian restaurateurs can be very cheap or they're willing to settle for less profit than American operators, which may be the reason, Montreal is the poor gourmet's paradise.

Of course, if you don't want to go without traveling, you can eat your way around the world in New York, where you can get anything from a succulent hot pastrami sandwich to the finest cheese everything in between — within walking distance from your hotel-apo hotel.

Going Places
New Foods Are Travel Delights

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

One of the unquestioned delights of travel is the opportunity to sample the foods for which different regions are famous. You get the most out of the menu you've got to abandon your traditional home fare of steak and potatoes, but chances are you won't be disappointed.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

HOW TO ACQUIRE A DAZZLING SMILE

Her favorite star's dazzling smile isn't done with mirrors—but with a tricky lipstick technique.

"I brush my teeth regularly," writes a girl signing herself "Puzzled Susie." "but no matter how hard I brush them, or how often (at least three times a day) they never seem to get really white. What do you think is wrong?"

Well, Sue, the first thing I'd say is that really white teeth are as scarce as the proverbial hen's. If you've never seen a dentist's sample case which is used to match up porcelain enamels, ask your dentist to show you one the next time you visit him. You'll find that there are some dozen of shades from blue-whites, through yellow whites but-practically never in the pearly white of which the poet sings. So don't worry about the fact that they don't measure up to the ideal standards where color is concerned.

And don't think, either, that because your favorite movie star seems to have the gleaming white teeth that you envy, that she's the lucky exception. Chances are that hers are just as off-white as yours are, but she has learned a few make-up tricks that enhance their dazzling gleam. Of course, a movie star has to have lovely smile and most of them have spent many hours in the chairs of both dentists and orthodontists to acquire the pretty teeth they have. But, where the color alone is concerned, unless the teeth have been capped in as light a shade as is possible, the results are achieved through the use of varying shades of lipstick. And you can try some of these tricks yourself.

All you have to do is to one of the five-and-dime stores and pick up a dozen or so of the least expensive lipsticks in various colors. Experiment with them and see what each shade does for your teeth. You'll probably be quite surprised. Try some with an orange-red cast and you will find that your teeth look yellower. Try blue-reds and they look whiter. Now, of course, your lipstick must harmonize with your natural coloring, so you don't want to use one that clashes with your complexion just because it makes your teeth look shade or so whiter. Do that, that's why you must experiment. Try all the in - between shades until you find just the right color—one that harmonizes beautifully with your complexion and yet lightens the shade of your teeth. Simple, isn't it?

Now, of course, we're taking it for granted that you brush your teeth properly and that you eat all the foods essential to the health of your teeth—plenty of dairy products, lots of fruit, especially the citrus type; vegetables, with emphasis on salads, and plenty of protein foods such as meat, fish, eggs and fowl. If you are doing all this, and seeing your dentist regularly, you haven't a thing to worry about. Just fool around a bit with those lipsticks and you won't be a "Despondent Sue" for long.

To clean a hair brush, dip it into warm, soapy water in which you have added a few drops of household ammonia. Rinse in clear warm water, then brush until wash. Shake and place on the side in an airy place to dry.

Mother's Helper

"PINK MILK" is a pretty drink for a party in a hurry or a welcome change from mixed beverages. All you need do is add a few drops of food coloring to regular milk. Of course, you can use other colors, too, to fit your special party decorations.

Melrose W.M.S. Installs 1956 Officers

The New Year's meeting of the Melrose Woman's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Roy Badgley with 13 members in attendance.

Due to the illness of Mrs. Morgan, Miss Bailey acted as president and gave the call to worship, theme being "The Call to the Mission of the Church Through One's Vocation."

Mrs. Demille presided at the piano.

Several members read the passages of Scripture and Miss Bailey commented on each passage and asked each member to think on these teachings during the year. The worship service was closed by Miss Bailey.

A short business period was conducted. The list of group leaders remains the same as for timely readings, "Giving Thanks" and "A Quarter Speaks."

It was decided that upon the death of a member an "In Memoriam Card" be sent to the bereaved family and that the money which formerly has been given to send flowers, would be donated to the W.M.S.

PROGRAM

Mrs. Roy Badgley conducted the following program which had been prepared last fall. Mrs. Badgley who was unavoidably absent. The study was "The Canadian Indian Today," and was based on the Indian population in Canada, the Reserve system, the government and the church. The provision of educational services is a federal responsibility. The Indians were the first Canadians to receive formal and hospital service.

The United Church has established and carried on missionary work in many places, some of which are Credit River, Grand River, Rice Lake, Muncey and others. The Rev. Peter Jones was one of the first converts and his name is known as a great leader and a monument has been placed in his memory.

Dr. Grover, in writing this chapter said: "In visiting the United Church Indian mission fields, he had come to see the realization of the prophet's words: 'The people who walked in darkness, have seen a great light.'"

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The Rev. T. Hogerwaard conducted the installation of officers for 1956, which are as follows: President, Mrs. George Morgan; first vice-president, Miss M. Bailey; second vice-president, Mrs. Charles Bates, Sr.; secretary, Miss Beatrice MacFarlane; assistant secretary, Mrs. Fred Jeffrey; treasurer, Miss Mary McLaren; pianists, Mrs. Fred Robinson and Mrs. S. Demille; Baby Band leaders, Mrs. J. MacFarlane; Mrs. Band leaders, Mrs. K. McMechan and Mrs. Newton Demille; Christian Stewardship secretary, Mrs. MacFarlane; Temperance secretary, Mrs. E. M. Badgley; "Missionary Monthly" secretary, Mrs. Charles Bates, Sr.; literature and press secretary, Mrs. Ernest Embury; social service secretary, Mrs. Fred Jeffrey; Mrs. E. Embury; community friendship secretary, Mrs. Charles English; card secretary, Mrs. S. Demille.

Mr. Hogerwaard closed the meeting.

During a hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

The next meeting, "The World's Day of Prayer", will be held at the home of Mrs. Carmen Milligan on February 17.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECRMAN

THE PROBLEM OF THE DROP-IN - ERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have recently come to live in a super-neighborly community. I've found out to my great inconvenience that it is the custom for people here to drop in and see you at any time, with never a 'by-your-leave' as to whether it is convenient. I do my own housework and take care of my two teenage children, and am a volunteer worker in the children's ward of our hospital several hours a week.

Now I am fond of my new neighbors, and I am very grateful for their friendliness, and wouldn't for the world do or say anything that would hurt them or would make them feel that I don't appreciate their welcome to me, a comparative stranger in town. So would you please give me some guide as to how I may politely explain to these unexpected callers that I am very busy, or as quite often happens, that I am just ready to go to my hospital work or to some other appointment. R.S.H.

This and the hostess' tact vs. the too-casual irresponsibility of the drop-in guest is a perennial problem in these so-busy-busy days. With a pleasant voice and countenance, and a seasoning of firmness, you can explain, for example, that you have only a few minutes, Mrs. Brown. I'm so sorry I can't ask you to stay for tea, but you know how it is with us busy housewives, and I'm trying to get to my hospital work by two. I'm glad you you'll understand." On some occasions you might add, "I do so want to have a real chat with you. Perhaps we could have a cup of tea this morning or the next day. May I telephone you early in the week? I'll wire, I think, that I'm sorry to disappoint you" idea, with its suggestion that telephoning beforehand is a courteous gesture around.

DUTIES OF BEST MAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son, who is to be best man at his best friend's wedding soon, has asked me for a list of his duties. I have several special questions that are bothering him.

1. Is it true that he does not stand in the receiving-line at the reception?

2. There is to be a bride's table. Is it the best man's duty to sit at this table?

3. May he be asked to read the congratulatory telegrams: (I seem to recall this was the procedure at several wedding receptions I've attended.)

4. Is he supposed to propose the toast to the bride's table?

5. What are his financial responsibilities? J.H.H.

1. Yes, this is true . . . the best man does not stand in the receiving-line, but he should remain near the line so that he can carry out any duties which the groom wishes to have done.

2. The best man sits at the right of the bride. (The bride sits at the right of the groom.)

3. Yes, the man often is asked to read the telegrams of congratulation. However, if he is asked to be asked to do this, for sometimes the bride's father takes over this responsibility.

4. Yes, usually the best man proposes the toast.

5. The best man has no "financial responsibilities" in connection with the ceremonies. (1) He provides his own attire for the wedding, and (2) he gives the couple a wedding present.

REDNERSVILLE W.M.S.

The first meeting of the year 1956 of the Redneersville W.M.S. was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Townsend in Bellecille.

The president, Mrs. Frank Townsend, opened the meeting with a New Year's verse, "At the Gate of the Year."

The secretary's report was read, also the treasurer's annual report which showed a very satisfactory had been overpaid.

It was decided to hold the "World's Day of Prayer" in the Redneersville church on February 24.

Mrs. T. F. Townsend took the worship service, which was in keeping with the new year. The study book on "Christianizing Our Communities" is given by Mrs. Ralph Stafford.

At the close of the meeting a social half hour was held and delicious refreshments served.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess by the president, Mrs. T. F. Townsend.

Rossmore

ROSSMORE — Word has been received by Mrs. J. Empey that their daughter, Mrs. Jack Westfall, reached England before Christmas, and was met by her husband, who spent Christmas with friends in Margate, Kent.

Mr. Art Deline returned to Montreal Tuesday where he is employed by the S.A. Co.

Mrs. Mark Mason, Lindsay, has returned to her home after spending the Christmas week with Mr. and Mrs. J. Empey and family.

Euchre is resumed again in the community after the holiday. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Belnap opened their home Wednesday to all who were interested. A social evening was enjoyed and prizes awarded according to score. The afternoon euchre is to be resumed Thursday at Mrs. Orra Reddick's home.

Some of the children ill the community are confined to their home due to measles.

here is a good way to use extra milk powder to make this dish more nourishing), 4 bay leaves, 4 tsps. salt, 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 cup buttered crumbs. Mix salmon with broken bread. Add bay leaves to milk and scald. Remove bay leaves. Melt fat, blend with flour, and add to scalded milk, stirring rapidly. Add salt and paprika and cook 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Combine the 2 mixtures and pour into greased pans. Sprinkle buttered crumbs on top. Bake at 350 degrees Fahr. 30 minutes. I'd like to give you a recipe for a cheese dish too.

CHEESE FONDUE (serves 24)

Pour 6 cups milk over 8 cups soft breadcrumbs. Add 12 beaten eggs, cups grated cheese (or thin slices cut fine of process cheese) and 4 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika, ½ cup melted butter. Mix well and pour into greased baking dishes and bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for 1 hour or more, 45 minutes. This is popular. Try adding ½ cup fresh wheat germ occasionally.

QUESTION: I have recently taken position of assistant . . . manager at . . . 30 bed hospital . . . duty is to prepare supper for patients and staff —seventy. Supper — cream soup; a hot dish; a fresh vegetable or a salad; fruit and cake or cookies. I'm supposed to use up any leftovers so often make up my own soup, but do open cans if necessary. The hot dish is my biggest trouble . . . am anxious to get away from serving the same thing on a certain day week after week. The former cook always served salmon loaf for supper on Fridays . . . could you send my recipes suitable for hospital patients? I can multiply it if recipe is enough for 20. Perhaps you could tell me where I could write . . . Lang may yer lum reek

. . . Frances G.

ANSWER: My lum is reeking just fine, thank you. I hope the administrators of the hospital appreciate the prize they have got. I have mailed you recipes and ideas, and will give you here 2 basic ones that may be varied.

VEGETABLE SOUP

Twleve cups stewed or canned tomatoes, ½ cup salt, 1¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 bay leaves, 2 cups margarine or butter, 2 cups raw rice (preferably brown), 6 medium onions, 4 cups celery, 12 cups diced potato (raw), 4 cups diced carrots, 2 cups diced turnips. Bring to boil 6 gallons water OR water mixed with leftover vegetable or meat stock or gravy and add all but rice. Simmer 1½ hours then add rice and simmer until rice is cooked. Serves 50. As you see this may be varied endlessly—by the addition of meat or substitution of other vegetables or barley or macaroni alphabets for rice.

ESCALLOPED SALMON

(Serves 50)

Tuna or chicken may be substituted for the salmon OR hardcooked eggs may be used for half of the salmon. Ten 1-lb. cans salmon, 12 cups diced day-old bread, 3 quarts milk (this may be reconstituted dry milk powder and

FIND STORM VICTIM

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)— The RCMP said Wednesday they have found the frozen body of 34-year-old district farmhand George Mutes, the fourth victim of December's big blizzard. Buttes disappeared during the height of the storm when he left his shack to walk 300 yards to a well for a pail of water. Three other persons died in the three-day blizzard, biggest since 1947, which struck Saskatchewan Dec. 12.

THE NEW YEAR

We have been good-bye to the year now past,
The dear, dead days that have been so fleeting,
Through sunshine and shadow
they traveled fast
The wonder of dawn and dusk repeating.
There were days of sorrow and days of dream,
There were days of losing and days of winning,
But the golden dawn of a new year's gleam
Gives us the chance of a fresh beginning.

The book of the old year is blotted o'er,
We gaze on its leaves with heartfelt sigh
Sadly we turn from its page once more
And think of the days now before us lying!
The days of the new year gleaming bright
Their store of light and life are flinging,
Gladly we turn from their dawning light
And hail the chance of a fresh beginning.

— Helen B. Anderson

WELLINGTON — There is no place in the word "new." What a thrill it must have been to the people of the old world when the new world, America, was discovered! And the new year often urges us on to greater endeavor.
And if our efforts fail, we gain by our experience. However, this one has written: "not failure but low aim is sin." So let us greet with new ambition this new year 1956.

Wants Industry To Alter Times For Shipments

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Urban traffic could be eased, a transport man said Friday, if industry would change its hours of work.

W. H. Male, past president and director of the Automotive Transport Association, told a meeting of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce annual meeting:

"Transport management has been attempting to schedule pickup and delivery services to meet heavy morning and evening traffic peaks."

But the success of the ventures depends on co-operation from shippers.

Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows were pretending to be firing machine guns at each other, so Shorty Judge's grandfather Mr. Peevy started to go past, saying, Most wars are ignorant, but the most ignorant war I was ever mixed up in was between 2 savage tribes in the Goola jungles.

How did you get mixed up? I said, and Mr. Peevy said, I was miss led. Chief Ug, of the Wampa tribe, talked me into leeding his warriors against Chief Glug, the head man of the Oompa tribe, with my devil's eye. That's what Ug called my flashlight, which naturally he thought was magic. You wouldn't believe any man could get as ignorant as Ug told me Glug was, Mr. Peevy said

How ignorant was he? Glasses Magee said, and Mr. Peevy said, He actually believed that the moon is made of butter, and that's why it slides across the sky. That was more ignorance than I could stand, so I agreed to leed the Wampas against the Oompas. So I started off with Ug by my side waving my flashlight in a Southerly direction, where Glug and his warriors were waiting, and I heard Ug mutter to himself, "I'll bet that dumbell Glug in oil and pickle him in vene-gar if he dont admit that the moon is made of solid silver and only slides because the whole sky is made of butter."

G, he was even more ignorant, I said, and Mr. Peevy said, Exactly. So I gave his thick head a terrific crack with my flashlight and ran away in a Westerly direction. Also remember, boys, all wars are ignorant, unless you're defending your own country, he said.

And he kept on going in his sailor hat and his blue coat with brass buttons.

Will Amalgamate District Office

OTTAWA (CP) — The veterans affairs department announced Thursday that effective
Feb. 15 its district office will be amalgamated with the Ottawa district office for Northumberland county which will be transferred to the Toronto district.

The Kingston office will become a sub-office, serving as headquarters for veterans welfare officer in the former district, less Northumberland county.

The Kingston district at present consists of the counties of Leeds, foot runway during takeoff from a base after lapding from a training mission. The crew members escaped, although some were bruised and scratched in leaping from the still-moving plane.

Garden Notes

How to House a Houseplant

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Looking for brilliant color and interesting form in houseplants?
Try growing the Hawaiin Anthurium. Each year has been followed by a new bloom in shrimp pink or Chinese red depending upon the variety. The flowers have a waxy sheen and are formed like a jack-in-the-pulpit with the spathe spread open and the spadix standing erect.

There is no dormant period with this plant. A new leaf unfolds about every two months and this is followed by a flower which grows from the base of the leaf.

The leaves are large and handsome with deep veins and they too have a waxed appearance. The shape is like an elongated heart, or arrow.

The size of the blooms vary according to the age of the plant. In young plants they may be one and-a-half to three inches across, while in mature plants they may measure up to seven inches.

ANTHURIUM

The anthurium may be propogat-ed in four ways, by seed, by cuttings, by pieces of root stock and by division of plant.

When the roots become crowded the plant is taken out of the pot and the roots washed free of soil.
The lower part of the root is cut off and planted in a pot, or in another pot. Half an inch of the root stock should be allowed above soil surface. The remaining root is again planted in a slightly larger pot. If the upper root is large it may be divided into two or three pieces, each of which is set to four small roots to each section that is planted.

When suckers appear they should be allowed to remain on the plant until three to four leaves have developed before serving it from the mother plant. Tip the plant out, wash off the soil and sever the sucker from the plant as close as possible to the main growth.

Soil used for this plant should be mixed with a high percentage of spagnum moss, and moss should be used in the base of the plant and growing roots. Keep the moss damp at all times.

Temperatures should range between 80 degrees during the day to not lower than 50 degrees at night.

If room permits the bathroom has been found to be an ideal place to grow anthuriums if the family talks frequent showers. Another way is to place a shower-mist ampula daily spraying with tepid water from a plant syringe.

Some other houseplants require syringing weekly with tepid water,
MARY'S GARDEN

John S. Stokes and Edward E.
McFague of Philadelphia have established Bonnie Mary's garden.
They were inspired by a church garden in Woods Hole, Mass. Mrs.
Mary Livingston Chilcott created and planted the garden.

In searching through libraries for sixteenth-century garden flowers they discovered more than 500 common garden flowers once been named to honor Mary.

Such presents as gloves and earrings were named Mary's earrings, Madonna's gloves, Our Lady's mint (foxglove). Other plants were name for liturgical feasts at Christmas time as Blessed Assumption
Lily,

Madonna lily and Marigold
(Mary's gold) still retain their names from olden days. The study of ancient names for common flowers makes an interesting garden sideline.

Charge Two Men In Payroll Grab

TORONTO (CP)—Two men have been charged with robbery in connection with Thursday's $19,000
payroll grab.

Gordon Christie, 30, was arrested a few hours after the hold-up, police said. Another man, aged 25, was caught in Bracebridge, 80 miles north of here.

Police said two men jumped from an old car and grabbed the payroll bag from Gladys Lee, 18, a company employee returning from a local bank in the west end.

Chile Is Under State of Siege

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Most of Chile was under a state of siege
Friday as the government moved to meet a general strike call by what it termed "Communist agitation."

The government of President
Carlos Ibanez declared the state of siege—an emergency set up under law—Thursday night after adjourning Congress. All Congress members cancelled and all soldiers were ordered on the alert.

Chile's big Central Labor Union called for the strike Jan. 9 to protest the government's plan to freeze wages, prices and pensions for civil servants as an anti-inflation drive. Workers said the freeze would cause hunger.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"FEW ARE CALLED"

Larry Middlemas, sports writer of the Detroit News has a hobby. During the year Larry collects predictions, prognostications and words of pre-season "wisdom" from the "experts" in all branches of sport.

When all is over Larry matches the words with deeds. And the outcome is amazing. It all goes to prove that "limb-crawling" is becoming a lost art—and a tip to the boys in the backroom that it is a sure thing to let in reverse. In other words plank your fish—and eat the plank.

Following are some of the experts' predictions—and what actually happened:

Jan. 1—"I'm happy in Arkansas and expect to stay"—Bowden Wyatt, Arkansas football coach. (Left Arkansas on Jan. 8 to become the coach of Tennessee.)

Jan. 13—"I'm through after the Pro Bowl game, and that's final. I won't play next season"—Otto Graham. (Rejoined the Cleveland Browns on Sept. 2 and led them to the National Football League championship.)

Jan. 14—"I've signed contracts for fishing expeditions in May and June. I thought I made my retirement from baseball clear last fall."—Ted Williams. (Rejoined the Boston Red Sox in May.)

Jan. 16—"I am not to be condisered a candidate to coach the Los Angeles Rams. I hope this makes it clear to people in Cincinnati that my whole future is wrapped up with the university."—Sid Gillman, football coach at the U. of Cincinnati. (Signed as Ram coach ten days later.)

Feb. 14—"Wes Santee has burned himself out. He's through for this season"—Fred Dwyer. (Dwyer didn't win another indoor mile. Santee won five straight.)

April 18—"I will enter a completely new type of car in the Indianapolis 500-mile race. It has no cylinders, no pistons, no valves and no crankshaft"—Walter F. Strader of Los Angeles. (No car, either. It didn't show up.)

May 15—"I'm confident I can hit Rocky Marciano and win the fight"—Don Cockell. (Marciano did all the hitting and flattened Cockell in the ninth.)

May 27—"I intend to manage the St. Louis Cardinals for a good many years"—Eddie Stanky. (Replaced as manager by Harry Walker the next day.)

June 13—"Gene Littler will win the National Open. The Hogan era is ended. All the old pros are over the hill"—Gene Sarazen. (Hogan almost made it, losing to Jack Fleck in a playoff. Littler was 13 strokes behind.)

June 22—"With either of these fists I can knock out any man alive. That includes Rocky Marciano"—Archie Moore. (When Moore had the chance in September Marciano knocked him out.)

July 8—"By staying in amateur tennis I can make the necessary business contacts for my firm, come out better financially and build a future"—Tony Trabert. (Turned professional in October.)

July 16—"Don Larsen still isn't ready to win in the majors"—Jim Turner, Yankee pitching coach. (Larsen returned from the minors at the end of the month and produced a solid 9-3 record.)

July 27—"I can feel it in my bones. We're gonna pass those Yanks and I think they'll finish 1—"Marty Marion, White Sox manager. (His Sox went past the Yankees briefly, but sagged back to finish third.)

Aug. 21—"How can the United States lose the Davis Cup?" —Jack Kramer, the optimist. (The Aussies took the cup by a 5-0 margin, that's how.)

Aug. 30—"This team definitely is not over the hill. In fact, it's the best I've had in my five years here"—Buddy Parker, coach of the Detroit Lions. (His heroes wound up in last place with the worst record of the Parker regime.)

Sept. 14—"Frank Algozi is a better passer than Dave Leggett was last year"—Woody Hayes, Ohio State football coach. (The Buckeyes averaged less than two completed passes a game.)

Sept. 16—"It's doubtful if Johnny Podres will pitch in the world series because of a chest injury"—Dr. Eugene Dorn, Brooklyn team physician. (Don't they Yankees wish it. Podres beat them twice, including the final game.)

Dec. 8—"Sure, Ray Robinson has been me twice. But I'm the champion now and I'll stay champion"—Bobo Olson. (Robinson dethroned Olson with a second-round knockout.)

What's that again, Bud?

Lausse Gets Off Floor to Get a Draw

NEW YORK (AP) — Eduardo Lausse, the darling of Argentina, knows today why they call Milo Savage a "cutie." The hard-hitting South American had to get off the floor and close with a rush to get a draw in Friday night's 10-round battle at Madison Square Garden.

Savage is the veteran from Salt Lake City who pulled the old "shoestring trick" on Holly Mims at St. Nicholas Arena last year. Yelling at Mims "Look out, your shoestring's untied" to the hapless gentleman on the whickers when he dropped his glance.

Savage said in his dressing room Friday night he would have tried the trick on Lausse, too, but he found out that Eduardo's English is limited.

IN ONE TRAP

He did lure Lausse into one trap in the seventh round. For six rounds Savage fought out of a shell defence, marching forward with hands held high. In the seventh he dropped his hands, although inviting Lausse to throw his devastating left hook.

"I threw lobs to his body, just enough to get his guard down," said Savage. "When I threw the right, his chin was there."

Lausse got right up almost as soon as he hit the floor but he had to go to a neutral corner while referee Barney Felix gave him the automatic eight-count required by New York rules.

Cut on the right eyebrow in the eighth round, Lausse shot the works in the ninth and 10th to gain the draw. In the last round he battered Savage into a corner to cut-off but couldn't drop him. Lausse, the 5-to-1 favorite, weighed 159¾, Savage 159.

Lausse's winning streak of 31 fights wasn't broken although it was slightly bent.

SELL NASHUA DAM

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Segula, Nashua's dam, was sold Friday for $125,000.—a North American record for a broodmare—to Humphrey Finney, acting as agent for an undisclosed buyer.

30-Year-Old Veteran Winger In Throes of Terrific Slump; Scored 33 Goals Last Season

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sid Smith has skidded from all-star prominence to near-obscurity among National Hockey League scorers in a few months.

It was only last season that Smith, 30-year-old veteran with Toronto Maple Leafs, was acclaimed the outstanding left winger in big time hockey. He scored 33 goals in 70 games.

So far this season he has produced only one goal in 34 engagements, an incredible slump.

"If I could just get a couple of goals I'm sure I could get rolling again." Smith said Friday as Leafs worked out in preparation for tonight's game against the last place Boston Bruins. "I guess I'm pressing even though I'm not trying to."

BACK TO KENNEDY

What's the reason for Smith's dismal showing? Some fans point back to the retirement of workhorse centre Ted Kennedy, who set Smith up for many goals. Kennedy quit hockey after last season.

"Smitty used to get most of his goals from directly in front of the net," Leaf general manager Hap Day says. "He always is in position to bat in or tip in a pass. How many times do they score in front of the goal any more."

"In past years Smitty had Kennedy to do the digging for him and get the puck out. Now Smith has to do a lot of digging for himself."

In an effort to help Sid, Leafs will shift him to right wing on power plays.

"I'd like to give him a little more work because I can see signs of the old confidence coming back again," said coach King Clancy. "But don't misunderstand me. I'm not planning on benching Smith or anyone or even thinking of a permanent job on the bench for him. We're deep enough on right wing without trying to crowd it."

HAVEN'T SOURED

The Leaf management hasn't gone sour on Smith's tremendous forward. After all, in the last six full seasons he has scored more than 20 goals or more each year. In the 1950-51 campaign he accounted for 41.

If Leafs happen to ditch Sid there's a lot of other coaches who'll be glad to sign him. Boston coach Milt Schmidt says:

"I wish Leafs would give up on him. I'd take him on my team any day, slump or no slump. He's a wonderful hockey player caught in the old trap of needing work but not being able to get it until he produces."

Schmidt has troubles of his own. Two Bruins will miss tonight's game in Toronto. Defencemen Leo Labine is out with a groin injury and forward Vic Stasiuk is convalescing from a shoulder separatory ailment.

In the other game tonight the Hawks clash with the league-leading Canadiens at Montreal. On Sunday it's Chicago at New York and Boston against the Wings at Detroit.

Canadiens got a little heartening news Friday. They learned that defencemen Dollard St. Laurent, who suffered a fractured lower jaw in a game against Chicago last Thursday, may be able to return to action in three weeks. It was at first feared St. Laurent would be out for a month to six weeks.

The new ownership will complete a full working agreement with Washington Senators today. The sale is subject to approval by the directors of the American Association. The franchise will stay in Louisville.

McMaster, Gagnon Are Reinstated; Get Reprimand

TORONTO (CP) — Bus Gagnon of Whitby Dunlops and Bill McMaster of Belleville TPT's were reinstated to the Ontario Hockey Association Senior B League Friday night at a meeting of the OHA executive.

Both players were given indefinite suspensions December 23 as a result of a wild-swinging fight at Belleville December 20. Whitby won the game 9-5.

Frank Buckland, president of the OHA, fined both players, who sat out four games as a result of the suspension, a reprimand at the executive meeting.

Basketball Star Approached on Code Violations

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bob Pickell, 27, one of Canada's top basketball players, said Friday he has been approached by an official of the B.C. Amateur Basketball Association on possible violations of the amateur code.

Pickell played football with the Edmonton Eskimos in 1951 and has played basketball in a commercial league in Bellingham, Wash., also with a commercial basketball league in Honolulu in 1953 and tried out for the B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union last season.

Pickell said he told the official he made nothing more than expense money in any of these ventures.

COMPLAINTS REPORTED

Complaints as to his amateur status were understood to have originated from teams in Montreal, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Alberni, B.C., all entered in Canada's Olympic representative.

Pickell, who has played a number of times on Canadian championship teams, this year is a member of Vancouver's C-Fun, an entry in a senior loop, here.

He said high-ranking officials said: "They can kick me out if they want to. If they do they are obviously not thinking of Canada and its chances in the Olympics."

Presidential Bible Bestowing of the B.C. Basketball Association said the association executive would be meeting today to discuss coming playoffs. He said the status of Pickell "could come up then."

Canucks Thump Hamilton 9-1; Irish Edge Bilts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Every time Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks see a chance of losing first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League they start to score goals.

Canucks have occupied the top spot ever since early in the schedule. Toronto St. Michael's Majors and Sudbury Cataracts have been threatened but Canucks have produced a clutch win every time.

They did it again Friday night. While Majors were edging Guelph Biltmores 3-2 at Guelph, Canucks thumped last-place Hamilton Cubs 9-1 at Kitchener.

The win put Canucks' 16th of the season. They have 21 points, three ahead of third-place Majors, who are a point behind Majors.

Despite their loss Biltmores remained in fifth position with 23 points, four behind Marlboros and two ahead of Hamilton and Barrie, tied for the cellar.

FIRED THREE GOALS

Centre Kenny Gribbons provided one-third of the scoring for Canucks Saturday night. Kitchener's largest crowd of the season, the first three goals. The others were distributed among Kent Douglas, Wally Hergesheimer, Howie Young, Sonny Larose, Stan Balukk and Willie O'Ree. Centre Max Senuru scored Hamilton's only goal on a breakaway in the second period.

Dennis Riggin played well in the Hamilton goal despite the one-sided score. He kicked out 37 drives compared with 22 by Canucks' Claude Dufour.

Canucks led 2-0 at the end of the first period. They increased the lead to 5-1 in the second and scored three times within 39 seconds midway through the third when Hamilton defenceman Guy James was in the penalty box.

Dick Matthusz scored the only goal of the third period at Guelph. That broke a 2-2 tie and gave St. Michael's the win. Tim Rook and Frank Mahovlich fired first-period goals for Majors against Ed Shack's marker for Guelph. Bill Sweeney tallied the only goal of the middle frame, giving Guelph a temporary 3-2 lie.

Helfand Scores Vital Punches In Battle With Boxing Guild

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—It's too early to count up the rounds in a rapidly changing battle that looks today as if Julius Helfand has his chief opponent — the Boxing Guild of New York—on the ropes.

The crusading chairman of the New York state athletic commission scored two vital knockdowns Friday. Attorney Morris Norris of the powerful International Boxing Club assured Helfand of his "100 per cent support" and Governor Theodore McKeldin of Maryland vetoed his commission's permission for the shift of the London Sporting Club's Monday night television fights from New York to Baltimore.

These hefty punches had Helfand on the verge of winning a technical knockout. Several members of the guild, which had voted 66-0 Thursday night to defy the edict of the commission to dissolve by Jan. 16, appeared ready to throw in the sponge.

Helfand had ordered guildsmen to sever connections with their organization or face charges as being "monopolistic," "devious," and "extorsive"—or face loss of their licenses.

CAME AS SURPRISE

Norris' statement that he intended to keep on promoting boxing in New York and make "drastic moves" if he had to, came as a surprise to many of the managers who thought he would stick with the guild. In the past he has stated "I must back the guild; the guild needs boxing."

"I voted in favor of not dissolving the guild in the past because I didn't think we would have any boxing in New York and maybe two clubs here if Helfand lets the 55 clubs operate, it's another story. If I'm offered a fight I'll take it."

"I live in New York and must find work here," said another.

Others echoed their sentiments.

Guild officials adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

The executive board (of the Boxing Guild of New York) will decide what to do," said Charlie Johnston. "They'll meet over the weekend, go over everything and see what's what. The board always handles things. If they need me, they can reach me in San Francisco by telephone."

HEADS PARENT GROUP

Johnston, an influential member of the local group and president of the parent International Boxing Guild which has 16 chapters, left for San Francisco this morning. His featherweight champion, Sandy Saddler, defends his title against Flash Elorde of Manilla on Jan. 18.

Norris followed up his statement that "we're co-operating with Helfand 100 per cent" by announcing he has signed middleweights Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, and Gil Turner of Philadelphia, for Jan. 20 at Syracuse, N.Y., with Helfand's approval.

Fuller is managed by Marv Jenson of West Jordan. He is not a guild member. Turner is managed by George Katz, Philadelphia, a member of the Keystone State Managers Guild. Both said they didn't want to "hurt anyone but they were "for Norris all the way."

The IBC had been having difficulty lining up any matches in New York beyond the Helfand Jan. 16 deadline. Its next show in the state is Feb. 3 in Madison Square Garden.

"It looks very good for that date," said matchmaker Billy Brown. "Not like before. I've talked to a few fellows and they're anxious to fight."

Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg of the London Sporting Club were caught short by Gov. McKeldin's veto action. Now they are hoping Helfand will permit them to keep on promoting their network TV flights from their old stamping grounds, the St. Nicholas Arena here. The Maryland athletic commission had granted them permission to operate in Baltimore Jan. 23, but the governor persuaded his commission to revoke the permit Friday.

"If Helfand gives Norris permission to make matches under present conditions, why can't I?" said Sullivan. "Our club has a contract on file for Jan. 16 for which we are awaiting approval. We were drive to Baltimore to keep our TV commitments by the guild situation. I resent Helfand's insinuation that our partner Willie Gilzenberg, and myself did business with the associate. We had to operate through the Baltimore promoter because commissioner G. Mercer all (Spocer (of Maryland) told us so. Why didn't Helfand call us in during the press conference in which he called us associates of ex-convicts? I think we should have been heard."

Helfand said if Sullivan and Gilzenberg wanted to see him, the latter was open for a mutual comment further. He had plenty of praise for Gov. McKeldin, who stopped the show the picture Helfand had blasted the Maryland commission's slow of the promotion setup in Baltimore.

Magedomas Rally To Edge TPTs 5-4; Cornwall Colts Corral Kingston

Erwin Duncan Fires 4 Goals As Coxmen Blow 3-Goal Lead; Goodyears Drop Two in Row

Erwin Duncan, former Belleville player, ably aided and assisted by linemates brother Edwin and Arch Richardson, proved the Belleville's TPT's better last night when the Magedomas came from behind to snatch a 5-4 victory in the riverside city arena.

The net-denting twin fired home four goals with Richardson getting as many assists and brother Edwin three as the Magedomas closed with a rush that overcame an early three-goal lead set up by the Coxmen. Thomson scored the initial Brockville marker and the Duncans' line accounted for the rest.

The victory enabled the Magedomas to lengthen their third-place margin to three points over Belleville and Cornwall notched for fourth slot with 13 points. The Colts caught the TPT's with a convincing 5-3 victory over the Kingston Goodyears who went down for their second straight defeat. Brockville now trails Kingston by 11 points.

The Duncans - Richardson line almost beat the Coxmen single handed. Erwin, Edwin and their linemate accounted solely for 4 of the five goals with Edwin grabbing three assists and Richardson four. Thomson who scored the 5th Brockville marker and Kuntz who assisted, were the only other Magedomas point getters.

The TPTs appeared to pick up where they left off the other night against the Whitby Dunlops when they came up with a scintillating first period display that netted them two goals without a homeTown return. The Coxmen managed to be headed for their second victory in a row and third place in the group standing, when they fired home their third marker seconds after the first period got under way.

But they hadn't reckoned with the comeback powers of the Magedomas and the potent goal - hungry attack. The Duncan combine The Maggies fired home three goals in a seven minutes to snatch almost certain defeat out of the fire and drew on even terms with the TPTs.

The Magedomas inspired by their successful period were again drove to the offensive. Led by the Duncans they grabbed a two-goal lead and victory midway through the period with the hard-driving TPTs unable to dome their fourth goal with less than two minutes to go.

The game was one of the cleanest played in the riverside city with the referees having an easy evening handing out seven penalties, all minors, in the five going in the TPTs-McManus of Brockville drew both of his team's sentences while Murray of the TPT's good for three.

The TPTs drew first blood after seven minutes of play in the first period with Gus Leonard spearheading the Belleville-Peterborough team-mates Toodle Greenlaw and Chum Fryia to hit the scoresheet for a neat passing play.

Eight minutes later Fryia put the TPTs two up when he fired home Bert Hill's pass on a two-man combine.

Jake Wade set Peter Jones and Bert Hill away on a goal-scoring foray in the opening seconds of the second frame with the TPTs scored-on goal proving the key as they drove home a three-goal lead.

Then it happened. The Magedomas struck — and struck hard. Thomson, playing his initial game with Kuntz's pass after eight minutes to reduce the margin to two goals and four minutes later Erwin Duncan started the quartet's tallies on a three-way drive with brother Edwin and Richardson. Four minutes later the trio repeated and the score was tied.

They picked up the scoring threat where they left it, in the third period and the doughty trio ripped through after four minutes to put the Maggies in the lead for the first time. And at the midway mark Erwin Duncan earned the key to the city ball when he took Richardson's pass to bash home the clincher for his fourth high-flashing effort of the evening.

The Teeps battled back desperately in an effort to cut the margin and Pat Gilmour finally put them within striking distance when he took Gus Leonard's pass to score with but three keep minutes to go. But it was too late and the Maggies successfully staved off the final threats of the Teeps to earn the 5-4 victory.

The lineups:

Maroons Clip Indians' Streak With 5-3 Win

STRATFORD (CP) — Stratford Indians' four game winning streak in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League was abruptly halted here Thursday night when last-place Chatham Maroons defeated them 5-3 in a game featuring the Chatham's third straight victory after an 11-game losing record.

Chick Chalmers of Chatham and Tommy Walker of Stratford Indians traded goals in the first period. Bobby Mader and Mickey Roth put Chatham ahead 3-1 in the second before Ted Power reduced Chatham's deficit to 32.

Earl Ferguson counted the only goal of the third period on a breakaway to knot the count. Danny Blair broke the tie in overtime period on a screened drive from forty points, and Mader added his second after Don Head had been yanked from goal.

POLITICAL SCREENING

BONN, Germany (AP)—Foreign sportsmen wanting to play in West Germany in the future will have a careful political screening before being issued travel permits, an interior ministry spokesman said Friday.

The move was clearly directed at sports teams from behind the Iron Curtain, as nationals of most Western countries do not need visas for temporary visits to West Germany.

TO RACE IN U.S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Venezuela's race horse champion, Prendas, is to be flown to Hialeah race course from Caracas Jan. 12, and will enter the $25,000 Royal Palm Handicap to be run Jan. 28.

Prendase's owner, Jose Federico Siccardi, said his famed thoroughbred will run in the $30,000 McLennan and $100,000 Widener Handicaps at Hialeah in February. The McLennan runs Feb. 4 and the Widener Feb. 18.

Prendase was undefeated in 1955 in half a dozen Caracas races.

TICATS SIGN IMPORT

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union announced Friday the signing of Wingo Lowery, a Peterborough centre and star of last week's North-South game at Montgomery Ala.

Avery's signing nullifies rumors that Hamilton is attempting to obtain Bob Pellagrini, Maryland's all-American centre, the former's played for Clemson College of the Southern Conference.

Mangum Sets Dizzy Pace in Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The familiar figure of Lord Mangrum dominated the scene today as a field of 155 golfers set sail on the second round of the $50,000 Los Angeles Open.

The 42-year-old Mangrum, who captured the United States Open in 1946 and the Los Angeles Open in 1949-51-53, sent a chill into the younger delegation with a workmanlike five-under par 66 to lead the first round.

He did it with five birdies, which means he was never over regulations figures in playing the par 35-35-70 municipal golf course.

The squire of Apple Valley, Calif., was no cinch, of course. He held a bare one-stroke lead over three far lesser hitting carded a 36 on the first nine and 34 on the second. Last month in Miami, Bellanger won the $50,000 Miami Open and $2,500 in prize money.

But today Mangrum was the man to overhaul. Faced with the overbowling task were such stars as Cary Middlecoff, Jerry Scoshak, Dutch Harrison, Frank Stranahan and the 1955 L. A. champion, Doug Litler.

Harrison and Stranahan were in the basket three strokes off the pace. Middlecoff and Souchak were four shots back and Litler, along with Tommy Bolt and others were five strokes off the pace.

Further astray were Jack Fleck, the United States Open champion, with a five-over 75 which was matched by Art Wall, Jr.

Fleck's Feat Upset of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Fleck's triumph over Ben Hogan in the playoff for the United States open golf championship was voted the "upset of the year" in the Associated Press year-end poll.

Fleck, 29-year-old operator of a pair of golf courses at Davenport, Ia., who had never finished higher than fifth in a major golf tourney, came from behind to tie Hogan with a 69 on the 72nd and last hole of regular play in the Open.

Hogan had already received congratulations for winning. The next day Fleck defeated Hogan by three strokes in the 18-hole playoff for the championship.

Dodgers Named Team of Year Triumph Earns 'Oddity' Award

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers' feat of beating the Yankees in the 1955 world series after losing the first two games was dubbed as the sports oddity of the year by the annual sports writers and broadcasters who picked the Dodgers as the team of the years for the same performance.

The experts participating in The Associated Press year-end poll voted team honors to the Dodgers by a margin of 270 first-place votes to 25 for Oklahoma's football team. In the scattered balloting for the oddest incident of a year filled with goofy goings-on, Brooklyn's world series victory was cited on top by the thinnest possible margin.

Only 10 of a possible 189 votes went to the Dodgers for their comeback triumphant. There were nine for the conceded point after touchdown in the Pittsburgh Virginia football game, when the goalpost had been torn down before West Virginia scored, and eight each for Frank Riepl's 108-yard touchdown run for Pennsylvania against Notre Dame and for the Denver-Wyoming football game in all the points were scored in the last seven seconds.

Such diversity of opinion is understandable concerning a year in which two top-flight hillers refused to be staged a wrestling match down the home stretch of a race; in which two men walked onto the field during a football game and a fan was ordered out of the field during a world series game to get a player's autograph; in which 10,000 basketball fans had to see a freshman perform against the varsity and the freshman was "drafted" by a pro club before he played a college game; and in which football officials had their downs in one sequence.

Many of the incidents listed gave up and didn't try to pick the biggest oddity.

Wes Santee and Fred Dwyer were the contestants in the home-stretch blocking drama that was a marker mile and Will the Silli' Chamberlain was the Kansas freshman basketball ace who attracted so much attention.

A few other notable oddities were the two holes-in-one made by amateurs Dick Chapman in the insurance open at Hartford, Conn., the two place kicks by Lou (the Toe) Groza that gave the Cleveland Giants blocked in one game; the one spectator who paid at the gate to see the snowbound Washington-State-San Jose State football game and the touchdown by Ted (the Sniff-Jimmy Carter lightweight title fight when judge came up with three sets of point totals and then insisted his score wasn't the one announced as official.

Close Gap in Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals and Chicoutimi Saguenens are definitely the two best built up by the Shawinigan Falls Cataracts in the Quebec Hockey League.

The second - place Royals and third - place Saguenens each picked up victories Friday — the Royals defeating Trois-Rivieres 4-1 and Chicoutimi turning back Quebec 6-4. The streaking Montreal to within eight points of the front-running Cataracts and Chicoutimi pulled to within a dozen points of the lead.

Will Discuss Senior A Rating At Meeting

Lorne Cook, O.H.A. vice president, has called a special meeting of Senior "B" club representatives to be held in the County Hotel here Tuesday night.

The meeting has been called at the request of Manager Arch Blair of the Whitby Dunlops club who will ask for group entry into Senior "A" ranks next season.

Blair stated in a letter to Cook, and to the Kingston, Cornwall and Brockville clubs, uniting Belleville, that if the group does not apply for Senior "A" rating, Whitby will apply as a club.

"If the O.H.A. turns down the Whitby application, the Dunlops will disband," wrote Blair.

Brockville and Cornwall, Blair states, have signified their willingness to go "Senior "A," Kingston has turned a cold shoulder on the suggestion.

President Frank Grandame of the Belleville TPTs said this morning, "Belleville won't consider the idea."

Marlboros Tie Junior Habs

QUEBEC (CP)—Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Marlboros played to a 2-2 tie here Friday, a home game of Canadiens, in the Laurier Cup series between Quebec and Ontario junior hockey teams.

Boyer's goal near the middle of the third period pulled Marlboros even after they had surrendered a one-goal lead set up by Casey in the second period.

Rod Pelachat and Forbes Kennedy scored for Canadiens each in the first period, Kennedy's goal coming while Marlboros were shorthanded. The latter Canadiens still safely on top in the series standing, Marlboros are fourth in the seven-team competition.

WON'T BE REPLACED

OTTAWA (CP)—Injured Andy Tommy will not be replaced on the Canadian Olympic Ski team, the Canadian Amateur Ski Association announced Friday night. It was decided that time was too short to send a replacement.

Tommy, 22, of Ottawa, was knocked out of competition Jan. 3 when he suffered a double leg fracture during practice runs in the Austrian Alps. The winter Olympics start Jan. 25 at Cortina, Italy.

Fantastic Deals Charges Denied By Argonauts

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union Friday protested statements made in Vancouver that Argo team director Harry Sonshine has engaged in "fantastic" dealings with United States college players in Los Angeles.

General manager Bill Farley said Argos aren't offering U.S. players any more money to go to Canada than are other Canadian professional clubs.

In Vancouver Friday Don Mackenzie president of B.C. Lions of the Canadian Intercollegiate Football Union, said Sonshine has approached California players with overtids of $1,000 to $2,000.

APPROACHED ALL

"It's fantastic," Mackenzie was quoted as saying. "Every boy on the football team, the West team and the Michigan State team had been contacted by Sonshine.

He tells them 'Don't sign with anyone else. I'll give you $1,000 or $2,000 more than anyone else.'"

Sonshine was out of town and not available for comment on Mackenzie's statement.

But Earley said he, not Sonshine, has been scouted college players in Los Angeles, "And I only talked to one player.

"We're not offering any more money than last year and certainly no more than other Canadian clubs. I know we've steered away from the fantastic deals when we learned they'd been offered more by other Canadian clubs than we're prepared to pay."

Canadian Rinks Move Into Spiel Semi-Finals

DETROIT (AP)—Two Canadian rinks moved into the semi-finals of the 70th annual International bonspiel at the Curling Club of Detroit.

The London, Ont., curling club under skip Jack Nash, led the way with its round of four with a 15-5 victory over the Milwaukee Curling Club, under John Michael.

The Montreal St. George Curling Club, skipped by Fred Rubbra, defeated Detroit Fraser's Chicago Curling Club rink, 11-5.

These two Canadian winners will play today in one semi - final match.

On the other half of the bracket, the Detroit Curling Club, with Douglas Fisk as skip, will meet the winner of the Canadian-U.S. match between the Milwaukee C. C., London, Ont., and Detroit C.C., Nelson Brown skip.

Results included:

Detroit Canada 12; G. Gerald Windsor, S. S. Graham, Toronto; Dr. Harris, North Bay 7.

L. Billings, Hamilton 7; G. Brock Kitchener 6.

Solmar Notes

Damascus-Barreled Shotguns

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables.)

A news letter from my good friend, Henry P. Davis publications director of a well-known arms company reminds me of that constant threat to upland gunning in general, the Damascus-barrelled shotgun. Henry sets up his plea for sanity on the part of the die-hards in no uncertain terms.

"Rattlesnakes and Damascus-barreled shotguns," says Henry, "are about on a par when it comes to endangering human lives." No doubt about it, truer words were never spoken.

For years, ever since smokeless powder replaced black powder in shotgun shells, gunners have been warned about the danger of using Damascus barrels. Writers of books, magazine articles, newspaper stories, and advertising copy have urged the owners of such guns to have the barrels replaced with safe barrels.

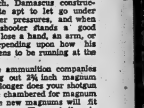
Yet, with all this admonition and publicity, the gun companies receive letters written by owners of Damascus guns, asking about the safety of these antiques if used with modern shells. Obviously, the writers of these letters know the answer, before the letters are written.

However, any gunner hates the idea of discarding an old friend and the letters start coming in for some plausible thinking, hoping for the official green light on the use of light loads.

SMART ADVERTISING

The word "Damascus" was the first applied to shotgun barrels by the old Belgian gunmakers. They knew that, when brightened was in flower, specially treated Damascus steel was reputed to be the last word in fighting equipment. Thus the word carried with it a tone of quality, something to live up to. It was a smart advertising of a dubious product.

Actually, Damascus barrels are a low-grade job at best—a penny-saving method of turning out an inexpensive product. They are composed of a combination of iron and steel twisted. Then the tubes of the barrels are made.



First, narrow strips of iron and steel were welded together to form a bar, approximately square. These bars were then twisted, much as you would wring out a towel. This done, the twisted strips were rolled into ribbons and then were wrapped or rolled about steel mandrels of the appropriate size to form the inside of a shotgun barrel. Then the edges of these strips were welded together after which the assembly was polished and fitted to form the finished gun barrel.

In the welding process, high temperatures had to be used and it has tended toward a certain crystallization. The low-carbon steel. Final inspection often revealed tiny "pin holes" in the metal and these were filled in with metal or alloy compound.

HIGH LOADS DANGEROUS

Damascus barrels stood up fairly well with black powder which produced breech pressures that rarely exceeded 8,000 pounds per square inch. Modern smokeless loads step up breech pressures to anywhere from 10,000 to 11,000 pounds per square inch. Damascus construction is quite apt to let go under these higher pressures, and when they do a shooter stands a good chance to lose a hand, an arm, or his life, depending upon how his luck happens to be running at the moment.

Now the ammunition companies are turning out 2¾ inch magnum loads. No longer does your shotgun need to be chambered for magnum shells. The new magnums will fit almost any gun. These shells, in twelve gauge, carry an ounce and a half of shot and a "maximum" load of smokeless powder. Nobody who uses the maximum companies seems to be clear on just what constitutes a "maximum" load, but it is surely must be heavier than the 3¼ dram equivalent of the former high-speed shells. Otherwise it would be specified as such.

It is not pleasant to contemplate what may happen to Damascus barrels when these new loads are used. Barrels which have stood up under 3¼ dram equivalent pressures for the past are more apt than not to explode with magnum loads.

So, if you own a Damascus-barreled gun, be smart and discard those old barrels. No need, in most cases to discard the entire gun. Replacement barrels are, in particularly expensive job, and, believe me, the cost is excellent life insurance.

Minor Hockey

Goals were few and far between at Memorial Arena this morning when three Pee Wee games were played, but the few of only eight goals were scored. The Canadiens blanked the Red Wings 1-0, Rangers dropped a 2-1 decision to the Black Hawks and the Leafs battled to a 5-5 tie with Bruins.

Jim Hoosang and Rodney Turner blinked the light for the Black Hawks with Bill Muirhead doing one assist. Jimmy Woodcock tallied the lone Ranger goal.

In the Canadiens narrow 1-0 victory, Rodney Caldwell scored on a fine solo effort.

Rob Blaker and Leslie Hall were the Bruin markers with unassisted goals. Jimmie Chase and Jim Crowe paced the Leaf goals with Peter Armstrong drawing one assist.

The Leaf-Bruin results will appear in Monday's edition of the Ontario Intelligencer.

BEATS BEDARD

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J., who's out after his second straight Dixie tennis tournament title, Friday whipped Bob Bedard of Shawinigan, Que., 7-5, 6-2 to enter the semi-finals.

Moylan will play Allen Morris of Atlanta who took care of Bob Cross of Australia with ease, 6-4, 6-1.

WOLF INVADES TOWN—NOW A PELT

A pelt is all that remains of a brush wolf that wandered to the outskirts of Midland, Ont. The animal, thought to be rabid, snapped at anyone who came close, and he was shot by P.C. Ed Armstrong as he sat on a front lawn. Mrs. Don Grant is wondering if the pelt would make a good coat collar. (Central Press Canadian).

MILITARY MEET

OTTAWA (CP)—Commandos of Canada's 12 home-based infantry battalions and six regimental depots will attend meetings at Camp Borden, Ont., next month to discuss common problems and infantry weapons.

Sent for Trial After Stormy 2-Day Hearing

WINDSOR (CP) — Robert Bell, 34, Friday was committed for trial on an attempted murder charge after a stormy two-day hearing in which two witnesses were ordered held for causing public mischief.

The magistrate's court preliminary trial Thursday was adjourned after Mrs. Lillian Sypher, named by police as a witness in the Dec. 19 stabbing of George Liddington, 28, denied a statement which officers said she made and was detained on a public mischief charge.

Called again to be witness Friday, Mrs. Sypher said the original statement, which quoted Bell saying he would kill the victim, was in fact correct.

When Liddington was called to testify he denied a statement which police said, he gave Dec. 19 naming Bell as his assailant, and he too was ordered held for causing public mischief. He told magistrate Angus W. MacMillan he did not recall the attack.

"I was pretty drunk. I don't remember much about it," he testified.

Interne Dr. Wolfgang Bose of Hotel Dieu Hospital gave evidence of injuries he found on Liddington's face and body when he was admitted on the night of the attack. He said 50 stitches were needed to close wounds in the small of the back and across the face.

The Kibitzer

From an expert bridge opponent you are not expecting any gifts, but you are looking for some kind of ruse that may upset you. So, you try to figure out what he may have in mind.

Against a palooka pair there is no way to figure. They are not sure of what they mean themselves. So, how can you make out what they mean. Your best hope is to let the cards speak for themselves.

There was the deal you see here:

NORTH

♣A Q

The experienced player in south was declarer at two different times no-trump. Playing against him at the time were a pair of dubs who had asked: Is it true that you lead trumps when in doubt?

From west came the opening lead of spade deuce. Now, any person knows that such a lead is from a suit of four cards. But the declarer decided not to bank on it until he had more evidence.

To make his contract the declarer must take a diamond finesse. Even if it loses, he is still safe if opponents do not cash a fourth spade. So, he must determine who has that fourth spade.

Not knowing what was correct, east played his spade on the first trick and south ducked. East returned spade queen and once more south ducked. East led spade seven and south's ace won. A heart to the dummy's jack was grabbed by east's ace and right back came the heart nine. This convinced south that west had the fourth spade. It would have convinced anybody.

Therefore, south reasoned, it was safe to finesse Diamonds in a way that west could not get in. So, a club entered south and a diamond was finessed with dummy ten that lost to east's queen.

Now east calmly laid down his fourth spade for a fifth trick which defeated the contract. He had simply forgotten to take it on the earlier occasion. No wonder south yelled bloody murder.

DENIES TITO QUITTING

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia Friday vigorously denied reports published abroad that President Tito will retire soon. Branko Drasković, chief of the information section of the foreign ministry, said: "All these reports are without foundations and in my opinion are ridiculous."

RITA SETTLES SUIT

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rita Hayworth and Columbia Pictures Friday settled a breach-of-contract suit out of court. The Los Angeles mirror-news reported that both sides agreed to drop the case, paying the way for Rita's return to work in the musical version of "Pal Joey."

MAY MEAN PROBLEMS

WINDSOR (CP)—Health Minister Martin Friday night told 1,000 local college students introduction of 16 new nations to the United Nations, in which he was instrumental, may mean new problems and provocations for the world. The health minister, who is Canada's chief UN delegate, warned against over-emphasizing the achievement for which Canada has received "a tremendous tribute."

AT THE BELLE — The fire is warming, and so are Clark Gable's hands, as they work over a girl with cold feet — Jane Russell, if you can believe it — in this scene from "The Tall Men", CinemaScope frontier drama in color, showing today and Monday at the Belle Theatre. Robert Ryan and Cameron Mitchell also star in this tremendous outdoor motion picture.

AT THE CAPITOL — Jayne Mansfield has important role in Warner Bros. "Illegal", opening Sunday for 10 days at the Capitol Theatre. Edward G. Robinson is starred. The "Glenn Miller Story". On the same program "Canadian Pacific", stars Randolph Scott and Jane Wyatt.

AT THE CAPITOL — James Stewart is "Island in the Sky" Sunday for 10 days at the Capitol Theatre. Starring Lloyd Nolan and Steward G. Robinson. On the same program "Canadian Pacific", stars Randolph Scott and Jane Wyatt.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Sunday, Jan. 8, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — If you have difficult situations to face, start with the will to be calm and truly philosophical about them. Begin day at church for spiritual uplift.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Commence the day with the desire to help others as well as yourself. Don't think only about what you would like to do, but about what will be most expedient for the general good.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A rich harvest does not come from sparsely planted seed; good and full returns come from good and generous effort, properly applied. A good disposition is as important as talent.

July 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Requisitions for today: attentiveness to important matters and to others' right to voice opinions; tolerance; respect for the soul's needs.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Inactivity and insensitivity are both wrong. There is a happy medium which you shouldn't forget. Necessary chores, relaxation and wholesome diversion favored.

August 23 to September 22 — (Virgo) — Anxiety about everyday matters can make you unfit for big, important tasks which you could handle more ably if calm, deliberate and logical.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Do not become involved in matters you should avoid. Don't overtax your fine energies. The true Libran is systematic, efficient October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — The same needs for you as for many others today: — Calmness, inner serenity, going about all matters rationally. Knowing there will always be obstacles, setbacks. Prayer and a sense of humor help.

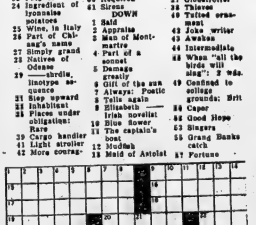
November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius)—There may be some unexpected results from past efforts. Wise judgment, careful analysis important. Try to relax inwardly for the sake of your health.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Your sturdy nature, your will to go about affairs faithfully should stand by you now when you may be faced with little annoyances or interruptions. But count your blessings rather than your irritations.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — You can do many things quietly while others don't even know you are busy. You should accomplish a great deal this year. Emphasize your gift for showing hospitality today.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — A day in which to cultivate your talents and abilities and to develop new ideas which could prove valuable in the future. Do not depend on the—promises of others, however.

You born today are a steady, practical, pleasing individual who can, and should surely try to achieve success and domestic happiness, too. Do not be overtrustful and do be circumspect about taking suggestions. Waste no effort following enterprises your better judgment advises against. Take advantage of opportunities, make the most of your assets, and do not fall into lethargic ways or defeatist moods. Always seek cheerful and intelligent associates.

FIVE PERSONS KILLED

Five persons died in these two cars after a collision near St. Pierre, 30 miles southeast of Winnipeg. Five others were injured. Mrs. Alice LaPointe, 25, of Transcona, Man., and her one-year-old son, Jacques, were killed in the car in the foreground. The other victims were in the second car—Paul Proulx, 19, George Pelouin, 20, and Raymond Croteau, 19, all of St. Pierre. (CP Photo).

TOMMYCOD FISHING

Anglers set up cabins on the ice-covered river at Ste. Anne de la Perade near Three-Rivieres, Que., to fish for tommycod through the ice. Heated cabins make the sport a comfortable one. (CP Photo).

PLAY OPENING

Tape Recording Made of Talk With Employee

STRATFORD (CP) — A meat-packing company employee said Friday police got him to help them obtain a tape recording of his conversation with a man who had offered him $100 a week to give company meat to a Stratford butcher.

Terrence J. Conroy, 23, testified at the preliminary hearing of Percy Riches, a former company employee, and Donald Elliott, a meat - store operator, charged jointly with stealing $216 worth of meat Dec. 22 from Whyte Packing Co., Ltd.

Police testified Conroy told them Riches boned to get meat from the plant each week by having Conroy pass improperly-processed papers. Conroy said Riches approached him, asked "what's your price?" and arranged to go to Conroy's home to discuss details. There his recording was taken.

The hearing continues.

SET STEEL RECORD

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—The steel industry and the six-country European coal and steel pool produced 52,52,000 tons of steel last year—an all-time record—a pool authority source said Friday. This was a 19-per-cent increase over 1954.

CHARGED

James Smith, 21-year-old unemployed Toronto Ganarith, has been charged with manslaughter in the death of his wife after what police called a "night-and-day wine party." Police said Smith led them to a room where his 90-pound wife, Gladys Norman, lay dead on their bed. An autopsy showed she died of a head injury. (CP Photo).

Bridge Contract For McFarland Is Held Up

TORONTO (CP) — The department of highways said Friday it has held up the awarding of a bridge contract on the McFarland Consruction Company of Picton.

Deputy Minister M. A. Elson said the McFarland tender was the lowest of four bids submitted for a planned railway bridge on the Way 401 near Port Hope. The bid was for $164,733.

Mr. Elson said the reason for the holdup was "to give consideration to the way the tender was submitted."

The McFarland firm headed by Harvey McFarland, mayor of Picton, has done much work for the department.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma drove me downtown in the car today on account of me needing shoes already and her wanting a new pair for herself to add to her collection, and on the way home a motor-sykle officer blew his whistle behind us, and ma said, Oh dear, I'm afraid that signal was red, I'm afraid he's blowing for me. Which he was, being as ester big traffic officer with a round nose and a square jaw, and ma said, Here's my drivers license, officer, I've got it all reddy for you.

Thanks, I appreciate your cooperation, the officer said.

Sounding sarcastic, and ma said, Not at all, officer, it's just that I can see you are a man whose sense of duty always comes first, with the human element taking 2nd place, so I'll simply have to bow to fate.

If you had bowed to that red signal you would still be on your way, the other officer said, and ma said, That's exactly what I mean, officer, a law has been broken and that's enough for you, so I'll simply have to resign myself while you spoil my perfect record of at least 10 years.

Well, anybody with a record like that deserves some kind of a medal for setting a good example, the officer said. Do you meen to say in 10 years this is the first time an officer has stopped you? he said, and ma said, Oh dear no, I've been stopped times galore, but up until today I've always got away without a citation, and I've been very proud of my record.

This is one I got, to tell my wife, the officer said. You win, lady, keep going, he said.

THE JOKER

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Mrs. Ralph Clark told police that someone entered her garage Friday, removed the new battery from her car and replaced it with an old dead one.

MARSH HILL

Harmony Club Holds 'Watch Night' Service

MARSH HILL — The members of The Marsh Hill Harmony Club and friends met Saturday evening in the Marsh Hill School for a New Year's Eve watch night service with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Rose as host and hostess.

Mr. Fred Campbell led in Community singing with Mrs. Campbell at the piano.

Films were enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Albert Clare conducted recreations and refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

Mrs. Fred Campbell presided over the program which opened with Mr. Campbell singing, "O Love that will not let Me Go," followed by prayer by Mr. Berson Mills.

Mrs. Leslie Finkle read the hymn, "God moves in a mysterious way".

Mrs. Harold Dellor read the Scripture lesson, Psalm 1, and Philippians 3 — 13 14.

Melville Campbell's reading, "New Year's Eve," was followed by a solo, by Mrs. Berson Mills, "God Understands" reading — "The Message of the New Year" by Ralph Dellor; Mrs. Campbell read, "Thoughts by the Way on The New Year."

The Rev. F. E. Darke gave a timely New Year's message: What the future holds for us in 1956 is hidden. We should profit from our mistakes made in 1956, and try not to make the same in 1956. If we look back over the year 1955, sometime God has changed our path.

We should be better folk, but are we better to-day than a year ago?

Are your disposition and temper better?

Are you a better Christian?

Is your knowledge of God more?"

Mr. Darke closed with the poem, "Ring out Wild Bells" and prayer.

CRAZED MAN

Mrs. Keith Rebhan, who lives in Niddrie, said Timocenko "hasn't been right in his head for the last five weeks." She said he frequently threatened he would "shoot up" the people in the hamlet.

Cpl. Robert McGarva of the Ontario Provincial Police said Timocenko fired about 100 rounds of ammunition from eight and Friday morning at west wild. The shooting stopped Friday afternoon.

Two officers were sent from Kenora, Ont., by train Thursday night and arrived about midnight. They waited until reinforcements arrived. Two more policemen came in the morning by train and two others travelled by car to Annedale and then walked the remaining six miles.

During the fusillade boxcars were moved up on the CNR tracks to shield police and passing trains. Passenger trains, including the Winnipeg-to-Montreal transcontinental, were stopped to roll through without danger.

COULDN'T TAKE CHANCE

Inspector F. G. Corsie, head of the Kenora division of the OPP, ruled out firing by his men. He said, at the height of the siege: "We can't take a chance on answering the fire because he has his wife with him."

Timocenko arrived in Canada about five years ago and moved to the Niddrie area last year when he was hired by the CNR. Cpl. McGarva said Timocenko's first shot was fired at Sydor—the only person he fired at directly—and Sydor fled to the bush when the unexplained quarrel erupted in violence.

The laborer then left his cabin with a rifle on his arm. One of the section men grabbed a shovel and hit him over the head while the others took his rifle. But they gave it back to him when Timocenko said he had more guns in his cabin.

10 KILLED IN CRASH

NEW DELHI (AP)—Ten persons were killed and 12 injured today when a passenger train and a freight collided near Katihar in Bihar state.

Want Silos Down

SUDBURY (CP)—This city has a problem and there's a $25 reward for anyone who can lick it. Someone with a destructive frame of mind is needed.

Mayor Leo Landreville offered the money Friday to anyone devising a way acceptable to the city for tearing down six hetty concrete silos, all that remain of an old Ontario and Manitoba flour mill here.

The 70-foot towers have 36-inch walls reinforced with steel rods—and occupy a position surrounded by other buildings. The silos are still owned by an estate but have been offered to the city.

MAKES CAPITAL OF NO-TAX IDEA

Pierre Poujade, 35, former bookseller, amateur politician and anti-tax exponent, finds his wife on hand to wipe his forehead in Paris after he made a spectacular and unexpected entrance into French politics. Poujadists, who had been expected to get not more than four seats, rallied at least a million voters, winning 51 Assembly seats and a possible three others through followers. The Communists showed an upsurge of 145 seats, and the extreme right wingers. Another coalition government headed by Premier Edgar Faure and former Premier Pierre Mendes-France appeared in the making in view of the results. (Cabral Press Canadian).

She is believed to have died only some three hours before her body was discovered at 10 a.m. Saturday, frozen tears crusted her face.

Eisenhower Wants to Trade With Red Lands

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower indicated in his farm message today that he would favor action that would find it advantageous to swap some farm commodities to Communist nations for strategic materials.

He asked that Congress repeal a provision of present farm law which restricts export of government stocks to friendly nations only.

"Opportunities clearly to our interest may develop in the future to sell to countries excluded by this legislation," he said.

Also, in his discussion of surplus disposal, Eisenhower said he expanded opportunities will be sought to barter agricultural products which deteriorate and are costly to store, for increased quantities of non-perishable strategic materials." He added that additional legislation may be needed in this field.

There's one thing to be said for ignorance — it sure causes a lot of interesting arguments.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The warm air which covers the Maritimes and much of Quebec this morning westward this morning and is expected to invade eastern Ontario by this afternoon. Snow has spread far ahead of this push of warm air and freezing rain or drizzle accompanies this snow in many localities. This hazardous weather will continue until the invasion of the warm air when the precipitation will change to occasional light drizzle, and temperatures will jump some 30 degrees. As a result Tuesday will be mainly cloudy but much warmer.

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Mexico's leading Pacific coast resort, its swank hotels packed with North American visitors, today counted 106 injured and heavy damage in the wake of six Sunday earthquakes.

Fearful of further tremors, hundreds spent the night on the wide curving beaches, on the streets and in cars. The holiday centre was jammed with 35,000 residents and thousands of tourists.

The earth quakes began at 1:12 a.m. CST Sunday and continued until mid-afternoon with varying intensity.

Night police officer Juan Alfaro Moreno said there were 106 injured in all.

Heaviest damage was to the Colonia Progreso slum area. The most spectacular single case of damage was the collapse of a four-storey apartment building under construction near the beach-front Hotel Papagayo.

The shocks, first major Mexican quakes in two years, were felt over a wide area of southern Mexico, including the capital 195 miles north of Acapulco, skyscrapers swayed during the first tremor. Toluca, Cuidapantla, Iguala, Taxco and many other towns reported feeling the disturbances.

Acapulco, a popular resort for Mexicans, with Mexican port 2,200 miles south of Acapulco, also was hit by two major quakes Sunday afternoon. No serious injuries or deaths were reported.

Acapulco's first shock awakened virtually the entire city, and people poured into the streets and onto the beaches.

When two quakes followed within five minutes, the population panicked. It was during this period that the majority were injured by flying glass, falling beams, tumbling walls and collapsing roofs. Several fires started.

The city calmed down by dawn. The fourth quake came at 9:30 a. m. It was not as severe as the others, but enough to add it had a double action—a rocking, sliding movement, coupled with a sharp up-and-down vibration.

Again the city became panicky. Most tourists departed but hotel men said comparatively few actually left their rooms. The Mexican Airlines reported many cancellations from incoming travellers.

THREW ROCKS AT WINDOWS

HAMILTON (CP) — Police said a woman arrested a 35-year-old woman as she strolled along downtown streets tossing rocks through plate glass windows. Eleen Galowski was charged with wilful damage. She said she told them she smashed six windows because "I never dragged beg because she had a grudge against each firm.

CONGRESS DISSOLVES

NEW YORK (AP) — The Civil Rights Congress, which helped furnish bail to Communist leaders convicted under the Smith act, has voted the U.S. government, has voted to dissolve. The congress, labeled by U.S. attorney-general's list of subversive organizations, has been under persecution by reactionary forces in government" led to its decision.

Many Nova Scotians Still Homeless

By DAL WARRINGTON

HALIFAX (CP) — Hundreds of flooded-out Nova Scotians were homeless today. Thousands more in this province and Prince Edward Island huddled in cold homes without power or telephone. Ice cover had no water.

Property damage from the rain, sleet and melting snow of a January thaw was still not fully known. Communications lines prevented accurate calculation. But the loss was expected to run into millions of dollars.

Flooding rivers forced more than 600 persons from their homes in mainland Nova Scotia. A dozen major bridges were washed out or damaged. Highways and rail lines were cut in every direction.

Prince Edward Island, southeastern New Brunswick and northern Nova Scotia saw power and telephone service reduced by sleet to a tangle of broken poles and wires. Only neither of Moncton's radio stations, P.E.I., declared his town a disaster area. Both citizens had a single telephone, telephone nor television power, Amateur radio provided the only outside contact.

At Summerside RCAP station 1,- 000 persons — airmen and their families — prepared to evacuate beatless quarters if the temperature dropped much below freezing. The station's central heating plant was put out of commission by the power failure.

Group Captain W. H. Swetman, station commander, conferred with town officials to arrange quarters in private homes if evacuation became necessary.

Forecasters here said temperatures at times were almost 20 degrees above the normal. January's maximum of 25 Saint John, N.B., reported an early high today of 46, Halifax, 45, Campbellton, 44, and Fredericton, 40, and Yarmouth, N.S., 44.

The general wave of snow, rain and rising temperatures began sweeping the Maritimes Thursday and although rain and fog were reported earlier in some areas.

All over Nova Scotia except Cape Breton Island surplus relief supplies were rushed by helicopter at Lisbomb Falls, 30 miles north of Halifax, after being marooned in a water-surrounded house for 15 days.

The normally placid LaHave river threw a score of families from their homes at New Germany and Pinehurst on the South Shore and Pinehurst on Cape Sable Island fled in night-clothing. Water rose to four feet in the latter. Only one person died. Two factories were flooded.

EXPECT CABINET NEWS

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters) Prime Minister Robert Menzies is expected to announce a new cabinet Tuesday night.

Lady Eden Wants Cowherd's Wife To Keep Her Washing out of Sight

LONDON (AP)—The Sunday Pictorial says Lady Eden has objected to a neighbor hanging out her washing when the prime minister is in residence at Chequers, his country home.

The paper quotes the neighbor, Mrs. Ada Dodds, as saying:

"Who does Lady Eden think she is? Does she think I shouldn't do my laundry, I don't."

She said she'll hang out her washing come Tuesday no matter what happens.

The Sunday Pictorial says Mrs. Butt, wife of a cowherd, is "staunch supporter of the Labor party."

The paper said the clothes line controversy arose when farmer G. A. Randag, a tenant on the Chequers estate for the last 17 years, told Mrs. Butt he had received a letter from Eden's secretary.

Randag, for whom Mrs. Butt's husband Herbert works, said the letter complained about washing hanging on Tuesdays when the Eden's Prime Minister and Lady Eden were at Chequers.

Chequers has been the official country residence of prime ministers since 1917.

The newspaper quotes farmer Randag as saying:

"It applies only when Lady Eden and Sir Anthony are in residence. They are usually there on Tuesday mornings, so perhaps Mrs. Butt would hang it (the washing) out then."

London Police Chief Appeals For Information Leading To Arrest of Girl's Abductor

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police chief Earl Knight said today police "somehow overlooked something", and appealed to London's entire citizenry for information which might lead to the devisle who lured Susan Cadieux away from happy play in a clearyard and left her to die alongside cold railway tracks.

"We need information", the police chief said, "and every scrap of information available."

Chief Knight asked the London Free Press to publish a sketch of the strange man who was seen talking to five-year-old Susan before she vanished from St. Mary's churchyard at York and Lyle streets about 2 p. m. Friday.

The sketch was drawn from descriptions of the man given by Susan's brothers, Pat, 10, and Mike, 9.

"Susan's brothers seemed convinced the sketch is a good likeness of the man," the chief said. "We would appreciate an immediate telephone call from anyone who thinks they recognize him."

The special appeal for information was issued as a Mass of the Angels was celebrated in St. Mary's church for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cadieux.

No Requiem was sung for Susan today and no prayers were offered for the dead.

Rev. Wilfred T. O'Rourke said teachings of the Roman Catholic Church hold that Susan was incapable of sin.

Sunday night a special service was held at St. Mary's at which congregation prayed for "repentation of the terrible crime against God."

The church bulletin Sunday read: "May Susan intercede with God as one of His little saints for the wretched perpetrator of this horrible deed."

Plainclothes detectives mingled with the mourners at the church and later at St. Peter's cemetery on the chance Susan's abductor might attend.

The all-out search for a sex pervert began when Dr. F. W. Lunoy, pathologist at St. Joseph's Hospital, reported Susan had died from exposure after being criminally attacked.

Police said the girl had been dropped near the tracks in pre-dawn darkness and died of exposure. The child's cheeks were crusted with frozen tears.

Pathologists at Victoria Hospital today are cross checking the findings of Dr. Lunoy, who reported cause of death as cold and exposure.

Police said it is the first time in London criminal records that independent examination of a body were made.

But, they said, although the attacker was responsible for Susan's death, he may never be charged with murder. Lunoy did not actually kill Susan. He contributed to her death by molesting her and abandoning her. As a result, the most serious charge which could be laid against him would be manslaughter.

A $1,000 reward fund, provided by local firms was offered for information leading to the abductor's arrest and conviction. Police added to the $100 donation from Mayor Dennis.

One suspect was kept in custody during the weekend and arraigned on remand in magistrate's court on a charge of registering falsely at a downtown hotel. He was remanded to Thursday when crown attorney Claude Savage advised magistrate Jack S. Menzies that the investigation was continuing.

Despite Expanding Economy No Tax Reductions Likely

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's economy is expanding, national earnings are rising and yet the government says there is no room today that it is unable to make major tax reductions for the next fiscal year.

That likely will draw opposition criticism, with Progressive Conservatives and other opposition parties renewing charges that the administration is reckless, extravagant and ignoring the taxpayers interest.

Authorities see two reasons why the government may be unable to make large reductions in the 1956-57 fiscal year: Rising demands on the federal treasury and the threat of inflation.

They concede, however, that major reductions are announced in the 1957-58 budget. It now appears the next budget probably will be called for the summer of 1957.

The economy made a spectacular rise in 1955 with gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—estimated at $27,000,000,000 to $28,000,000,000 in 1956.

Federal revenues increase as the economy rises, though officials say there is a lag between the economic rise and the increase in federal revenues.

Economic expansion also exerts pressure in the demand for goods. This sometimes causes inflation. Several federal steps have been taken to curb instalment buying.

Injured Family Ready to Leave

WILLISTON, N.D. (AP) — An RCAF corporal, his wife and children who have been here since an auto accident Dec. 26, were expected to leave today in an RCAF plane.

Cpl. Dr. Lord, his wife, a 19-year-old son and his baby daughter have been in hospital since the accident, and the other four children have been boarding at a farm home.

The Lord family was travelling from Rockcliffe, Ont., to Alberta when their car and one driven by Joe Fadness, Great Falls, Mont., collided on the icy pavement of U.S. Route 2.

Seven Escape Cobourg School, Soon Recaptured

COBOURG (CP) — Seven teenaged boys, five described as "dangerous escapees," were rounded up between here and Toronto early today after eight hours' freedom from the Ontario Training school. Police said the "veterans" stole two cars before they were recaptured.

James Marsland, who became superintendent Jan. 5, said the mass escape was not unusual.

"I anticipated it. It was no surprise," he said. "There may even be more escapes but I hope not," he said. Marsland said there have been 3 escapes in 3 months.

Tuesday escape followed reported threats of a "mass uprising" by the 138 juvenile boys in the school. Mr. Marsland said the threat of the former superintendent, William Little, to "burn down" the school.

A Cobourg petition protested Mr. Little's transfer and called for his reinstatement. Queen's Park into the school's administration. Premier Minister Frost said at the time that he had ordered the reinstating of Walter Smith, a guard fired for transfer of a boy.

Freezing Rain Ties Up Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Freezing rain on a slightly-packed snow base challenged Toronto traffic Tuesday and won the first round.

A morning rush of commuters was buried in a sand ground almost to a standstill 15 minutes after police and cars were piled bumper to bumper on roads throughout the city.

The city despatched 458 men and 153 vehicles to remove snow and sand and to salt the streets but traffic jammed at all main approaches to the city. Police reported a "monumental" entanglement to the north.

Only four accidents were reported but police said there were scores of minor collisions.

PRESIDENT BACK IN WASHINGTON FOR FULL DUTY

Mind 'Not Fixed' on Whether to Run Again

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower settled down today to normal duties at the White House after declaring that he has made no final decision on whether to retire a year from now.

Back from a 13-day stay in Key West, Fla., Eisenhower told a press conference Sunday in discussing whether he may run for a second term:

"My mind at this moment is not fixed. If it were, I would say so right here and now. But my mind is not fixed to such an extent that it can't be changed."

TENTATIVE DECISION?

That remark that his mind still is open changed somewhat to indicate pretty clearly that Eisenhower has reached a tentative decision whether to try for another four years in the White House in the light of his Sept. 24 heart attack.

He was careful not to say so specifically, but most Washington reporters at the press conference in Key West got the impression Eisenhower had decided tentatively against running again, but reserved the right to change his feeling 11 to 3 that he will not.

But the flip side of the picture—the thing that gives Republican backers of Eisenhower something to cheer about—was his implication that he is giving consideration to bidding for another term.

That at least put to rest any idea that he had decided irrevocably against seeking re-election.

SUN AND EXERCISE

It was Eisenhower's first press conference since last Aug. 4—about seven weeks before his heart attack in Denver.

The president came to Key West Dec. 28 on the advice of his doctors, who said he ought to get more sun and outdoor exercise before tackling the full load of his office again—a burden which Eisenhower said Sunday is the least of wearing he ever has experienced.

Slightly tanned and wearing a grey suit, Eisenhower at this report:

"First of all, the doctors tells me what he calls my vital capacity is very much improved. I do not know the meaning of the term, so there's no use asking me about it.

"I feel, myself, much better—stronger—and much more able to get about."

Eisenhower flew back to Washington from Key West Sunday afternoon. In that he declared: "I am going back to the full duty of the presidency."

Glands, Kidneys or Hearts Can Be Replaced in Humans Say Doctors

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE ■

BAR HARBOR, Me. (AP) — A step toward giving humans new glands, kidneys or hearts to replace their own when they wear out was announced today.

Success in transplanting nature's roadblock against transplanting living tissues from one person to another.

Discovery of a chemical broke down the barrier to transplanting living cells between mice. This is a natural chemical nicknamed "the rejection substance.

The research was done by Dr. Clarence C. Jackson, Bar Harbor laboratory here, and announced by the American Cancer Society, supporting the work. Dr. George D. Snell directed the research.

The discovery may be important in cancer control.

The great significance is this: Your body sets up antibodies to destroy any "foreign" material entering it. For instance, it creates antibodies against germs, for example. And it also creates antibodies against living tissues borrowed from someone else.

Snell and his associates discovered that living cells from one mouse could be transplanted successfully into another mouse, if that mouse was first given injections of ES.

Both normal, healthy cells and tumor cells were transplanted this way. But without the ES shot first, the transplanted cells were invariably destroyed by antibodies.

The ES was extracted from cells of the mouse to be tissue transplanted. The Jackson Laboratory scientists find that the rejection substance is in the cells in the spleen and other normal tissues, but not in tumors. It is manufactured under control of certain genes, or controllers of heredity.

Research here and elsewhere indicates ES may play an important role in a university's mechanism of rejection or lack of it.

Right now, skin or an entire kidney can be transplanted successfully only between identical twins, who have identical heredity and blood.

Bones and arteries are often transplanted now. Artificial body parts only serve as a scaffolding, and the person grows his own new tissue to help bridge the gap.

The big task is to learn how to make living tissue remain alive and functioning. Then it could become parts could become possible to preserve healthy, long life, Snell said. Besides the research, the Jackson Laboratory scientists are trying to learn whether cancer cells may produce ES, and thus be able to survive a new host.

Strains of mice have been treated with ES taken from tumors to which they normally are resistant. In each case, the ES made the mice tolerant, and the tissue transplanted tumor grew until it killed them."

Six Of Victims Die In One Bed In Iowa Blaze

31 Killed Accidentally In Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twelve children and two adults lost their lives in fires in eastern Canada during the weekend.

The 14 were among 31 persons who died accidentally in Canada during the 60 hours from 6 p. m. local time Friday to 6 a. m. today.

Fire claimed seven lives in New Brunswick and seven in Quebec. The youngest child to die was eight months old.

At Ste. Anne de Madawaska, N. B., all six children of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Pelletier died in one fire. Their aunts ignited the dry Christmas tree in their home.

Ten miles away, near the community of Green River, three-year-old Gisele Soucy died in a house fire started by a gasoline explosion.

In L'Islet, Que., on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river, two brothers and their sister were burned to death Sunday as flames lashed through their two-storey wooden home.

NINE ONTARIO DEATHS

Brian Hunter, 8, and his sister, Arlene, 4, died in a fire early in a fire at Valois, Que., which also claimed the lives of their father and grandparents.

A Canadian Press survey shows nine deaths in areas of Ontario and Quebec, seven in New Brunswick, two in British Columbia, and one each in Nova Scotia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Twelve persons died in traffic accidents. One man choked to death in Ontario, another was killed in an Edmonton garage explosion and one died from domestic violence in British Columbia. In Saskatoon a six-year-old girl died after swallowing part of a toy gun.

At Charny, Que., nine-year-old Jean Lacroix died Saturday, hours after he had been pronounced dead by a doctor and placed in a mortuary beside the body of his older sister. Both children were eaten on tobogganed behind a car when a train sliced through the tow rope.

The Pelletier children were Lucien, 5, Rheal, 4, Jacqueline, 3, Gerard and Geraldine, two-year-old twins, and Regina, eight months.

The L'Islet victims were Jeanne Bernard, 5, her sister, Therese, 4, and brother, Jean, 2. Their 15-year-old brother escaped the flames in the kitchen with his mother while they were sleeping on the upper floor, was saved.

Foster Mother Bought Boy as Baby for $75

TORONTO (CP)—Donnie Mills, 17, Sunday was charged with assaulting and threatening his foster mother, who told police she bought the boy as a baby for $75.

Mrs. Frances Hutt, 40, told police she bought the boy in a rooming house in Hull, Que., when he was three hours old.

Police said a misunderstanding between the youth and Mrs. Hutt started in December when the youth told him that he had been purchased.

Police said Mills dragged Mrs. Hutt to an adjoining room Sunday and slapped her. He threw the hot lid of a table knife across the room when she refused to give him $1.50 to buy a bottle of wine.

Mills was to appear in magistrate's court today.

Mrs. Frances Hutt said Monday them she was living in Nepapa, Ont., when she decided to get a baby. Two babies could be obtained in Ottawa. Her name was then Mills by a former marriage.

She said "she got a telephone number and went to see the baby and she was a doctor and who took her in Hull.

In the front room of a rooming house she was shown some babies. She said she paid $75 for one of $78 and raised him as her own son, Dennis Mills.

She had sworn to provincial authorities that he was her own baby but in order to get a passport, police said.

Detective Sergeant Dave Priddle said Mrs. Hutt told him she would have no trouble in obtaining the boy back in Hull. She said she remembered the name of the rooming-house keeper and doctor and was prepared to disclose their names to police.

FOOD POISONING

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Two persons died and 48 are in critical condition following a wedding feast on Formosa's west coast, the Central Daily News said today. The News said they succumbed after they poisoned by the meat of an ox—the traditional present from the groom to the bride.

Police Blotter

Another quiet weekend was reported by city and provincial police with only routine matters coming to their attention.

Provincial police had only three minor incidents to report—two of books, none of them with damage resulting $100.

City police enjoyed the same relative tranquility with no motor accidents reported.

Mrs. Boomhower, 14 Bay Street, complained that a neighbor's dog had bitten her small child, whose leg was treated at the hospital. Two boys 12 years old were in heavy rubber boots abandoned near the bay shore. Provincial police said the boots probably were part of loot taken from a Belleville general store some weeks ago.

SIX OF VICTIMS

A Canadian Press survey showed nine deaths in Ontario, seven in Quebec, two each in Alberta, seven in British Columbia, and one each in Nova Scotia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Seven persons died in traffic accidents. One man drowned to death in Ontario, another was killed in an Edmonton garage explosion and one died from domestic gas fumes in British Columbia. In Saskatoon a six-year-old girl died after swallowing part of a toy.

The Pelletier children had been left with a baby sitter while Mr. and Mrs. Pelletier went on a shopping trip.

Armance Martin, 12, told police the tree caught fire when sparks flew from a defective electric plug. She ran to another apartment to get help but the children were cut off by the time help arrived.

Mrs. Pelletier, 23, overcome, was taken to hospital. She is expecting another child in April.

Here are the Ontario deaths:

Glen Kaufman, 8, of Owen Sound, killed under the wheels of a truck as it swung into a driveway.

Harold Anderson, 40, struck by a car Friday night at Keswick, on Lake Simcoe.

Albert Kuiana, 63, choked to death on unrefined kerosene at Sudbury.

Murray Welch, 30, and his wife Eileen, 29, killed when their car crashed into a Hydro pole near Chatham.

Hiram Alexander, 87, killed in a car crash Sunday near Muncey Indian reserve near London.

Mrs. Theresa LeBlanc, 38, her son, Brother, 5, and daughter, Denise, 3, killed when their car crashed into a cement bridge at Chatham Sunday.

12 CARS DERAILED

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP)

Twenty-two cars of a 100-car Chicago and North Western freight train were derailed Sunday near Butler. Charles J. Heyer, division superintendent, said the derailment was caused by failure of a bridge supporting a set of wheels on one car.

Canadian Theatre Marks Advance With Production of 'Tamburlaine'

by ROBERT TANNER

Each year, politicians and businessmen alike study the relative figures of Canadian imports and exports and point with pride and satisfaction to the steadily balance of trade in Canada's favor. Until quite recently Canada's exports in the cultural field were verging on the non-existent, while her imports from the U.S. were a steady stream.

Now the tide is beginning to turn. Following the successful tours in the U.S. of the Royal Winnipeg and National Ballet companies, of the Canadian Players and of singer Lois Marshall, comes the news that the Stratford Shakespearean Festival Company is taking to New York a production of "Tamburlaine the Great" by Christopher Marlowe, a play of which, except for one production in London five years ago, there is no record of a professional performance since the 16th century.

This ambitious project a product of the fertile brain of Dr. Tyrone Guthrie, has been having a preliminary try-out in Toronto prior to opening on Broadway on Jan. 19th. By any standard of measurement, it has established a stupendous undertakking. With a cast of nearly 100, one sombrely overpowering set, a wide variety of costumings and a staggering array of costumes, the production underlines the immense strides which Canadian theatre has taken during the last few years since the first Stratford Festival.

GRAND SPECTACLE

As a play, despite certain well-publicized theories, 'Tamburlaine' is not a particularly good drama of Shakespeare, lacking the superb contrasts of light and shade, of history, humor, tragedy and comic relief. But as a spectacle, a grim insight into the Dark Ages, this production reaches very great heights.

It is, first and foremost, Dr. Guthrie's show; handling swirling crowds and battling armies on a proscenium stage with as much mastery as on Stratford's unique platform, his production stirs the blood and provides the perfect framework for the artistry of Britain's Anthony Quayle in the leading role. Far as our Canadian actors have come during recent years, Mr. Quayle's easy mastery of this tremendous part shows that many of them still have quite a way to go to reach the real heights of acting.

In the chief role so all-important, the supporting cast does not have too much scope to demonstrate its capabilities, but certain performances manage to rise above the disadvantage.

GOOD PERFORMANCES

As Tamburlaine's three lieutenants, William Hutt, William Shatner and Robert Christie handle their assignments with distinction. Barbara Chilcott as Zenocrate, who becomes Tamburlaine's wife, contributes a fine quality and decorates the stage with her grace and beauty. In shorter roles, Douglas Rain as the Turkish Governor Bajazeth and Coral Browner as Bajazeth's wife, give performances of great power, while Douglas Campbell's impressive transformation between his roles of the Soldan of Egypt and Callapine, Bajazeth's son.

Other members of the large cast give entirely adequate performances to complete a production which, though hardly to be called entertaining, is of interesting grippping interest. This is certainly worth a visit to the Royal Alexandra, and its New York presentation should be an event of major importance, not only in North America, but in dramatic circles the world over.

To judge by Saturday's performance, there are still a few seats available for most of the remaining week, and Belleville theatre-goers might take a trip to Toronto to see this play a very rewarding experience, as well as being a support and an encouragement to Canada's dramatic ambassadors.

306 Construction Permits In 1955 Total $2,094,901

With residential building accounting for more than one-half the total, construction in Belleville during 1955 topped the two-million dollar mark.

City Building Inspector Adam Stalker today reported construction in Belleville last year totalled $2,094,901, with 306 permits of all classes having been issued. In 1954 the total was $1,811,000.

Residential construction fell off only slightly last year with new residential building accounting $1,119,840 as compared with $1,206,200 in 1954. Valuing of residential additions, alterations and repairs was up slightly, however, at $89,685 as compared with $77,995 in 1954.

Figures indicated that more better class homes had been constructed last year with the average estimated value of new residential construction being $10,-100.

Commercial construction during the past year including garages, buildings, alterations and additions, amounted to $430,250, as compared with $343,000 in 1954.

Industrial construction last year totalled $104,000 and institutional $340,026.

MANY NEW BUILDINGS

Topping the new commercial construction during the year was the new Canadian Tire Corporation store and warehouse on North Coleman, Bayshore Construction to the Bell Telephone Company on Church Street, and 16 new model units for Canadian Properties Ltd.

Major industrial construction items included the new Foley Foundry Sico Ltd Foundry, a new refrigeration unit for Dominion Canadian Company Ltd., and a new storage building for Glen Ivy Creamery.

New institutional construction included a new greenhouse at the Parasite Laboratory; a new synagogue for the Sons of Jacob congregation, and a new separate school at St. Michael's Academy.

Also the Belleville Public School Board constructed an addition at six separate schools, the Sir Winston Churchill School.

Local 'Prowler' Forgot His Keys

A MacDonald Gardens resident, who left his house keys at home caused a bit of anxiety to a neighbor over the weekend.

Wakened in the early hours of the morning, the neighbor became alarmed when he spotted some strange goings on outside the nearby house. He called police, stating there were prowlers about.

Investigation by officers revealed the "prowler" was the owner who had locked himself out. Police assisted the owner in gaining entry.

BCI Marksmen Get High Score In Dept. Shoot

Marksmen of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School gave a highly creditable performance in the Ontario Department of Education fall rifle shoot-ing competition.

The BCI sharpshooters finished in 15th position of a field of 90 schools entered from all parts of Ontario. Their average score was 92.

Westdale Collegiate of Hamilton captured first place with a high average of 96.

Scholastic scores were: Brockville (4th BCI; Cornwall (18); Prescott, (27) 90.6; Napanee (28) 90.4; Kingston (29) 90.2.

Members of the BCI team included Cecil John Hunter, Bob Owen, Allen Dann, Don Wallbridge, Gerald Wallbridge, John McMahon, John Hunter and Archie Mcneil.

The BCI record for the shoot was better than that of year ago when the team scored a 92.1 average.

Schools conduct the shooting competition on their own ranges, the results being forwarded to the department. Right now the BCI rifle team we probably be preparing for contests to take place in the spring.

Glaze of Ice Coats Nor'-East Section of U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—A glaze of ice coated the northeastern United States early today, forcing traffic to a near standstill in many highways. Pedestrians and autos in cities spun and skidded helplessly on the ice sheet.

Milder temperatures later today were expected to end the problem of freezing rain for most sections, especially along the coast.

Two deaths, including one in New Jersey and one in Connecticut, were blamed on the treacherous hazards.

Workers in New York City were advised to "get a running start" to their jobs, though sanding crews had been working since Saturday night, the continued freezing rain made it impossible for them to provide a firm footing on the city's streets.

The icy rain hit eastern New England Sunday and spread to the western part of the area by night-fall. Scores of highway accidents were reported and numerous injuries from falls on slippery sidewalks, however, several hours after the freeze, the weather bureau began and the weather bureau said temperatures generally in the 40s for today.

Eisenhower Would Give Surpluses To Farmers Who Produce No More

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today to vote a "soil bank" plan to help use up the ever-growing surpluses of farm products as part of a nine-point program to ease the plight of farmers in the United States.

In a special message to Congress, Eisenhower called for urgent attention to "the parlous state ing our farm families." He said:

"Although agriculture is now in our lonely hours of thinking, thankfully of him are always near. Days of sadness will come o'er us, But with memory we are blessed, That they little know the sorrow Of the friend unblessed, Who have lost a friend remembered by wife Helen and family.

Founder's Day Observed by Lions Club

Lions International announced the founding of Belleville and Trenton's founders' program, being observed simultaneously, they find their prices and income depressed amid the abundance of prosperity. For five years, their economy has declined. Instead of corrected these economic reversals they have become a threat to the well-being of all of their people."

MONEY IN POCKETS

Eisenhower's outline suggested additions to existing controversial program which agricultural officials said would cost more than $1,000,000,000 into farmers' pockets from government revenues.

Farm income declined slightly more than $1,000,000,000 last year.

The recommendations would be aimed, Eisenhower said, at using present-depressing crop surpluses to reduce output. Farmers who helped cut production would be offered government subsidies as compensation.

In addition to the soil bank plan Eisenhower proposed:

1. New steps to conserve stock from the present $7,000,000,000 surplus holdings into foreign and domestic trade.

EASE SOME CONTROLS

2. Easing of production controls on some major crops.

3. That Congress consider placing a dollar limit on the amount of price support aid that could be given to a single farm.

4. A speed-up of the rural development program for low-income farm areas, largely by the use of new markets and new crops for agriculture.

ADEQUATE CREDIT

7. Assurance that the federal government will always supply adequate credit to meet farmers' needs.

8. That the federal government make refunds to farmers of gasoline taxes collected on motor fuel used for non-highway purposes. It was estimated this would save farmers $400,000,000 a year.

Under the soil bank, Eisenhower suggested what he called a three-pronged attack.

The first phase would be designed to meet "immediate" needed to reduce the crops in greatest surplus by an acreage reserve program. Under this program farmers would be encouraged to plant less than their regular acreage through the offer of government surplus stocks as an incentive payment.

EXTRA PAYMENTS

The second part of the soil bank plan would provide for diversion of additional acreage from crops to conservation purposes. Payments would be made to farmers who left idle additional land.

The third segment is the surplus disposal program.

Expanded opportunities to barter surpluses will be sought, Eisenhower said. Laws should be amended to permit sales of surpluses in countries now excluded, mainly from Curtain countries—in return for strategic materials.

Advertising Is Secret of Success

TORONTO (CP)—A man who in 10 years parlayed a $44 stake into business that grossed $6,000,000 last year, says the secret is advertising.

Charlie Lewis, Toronto appliance dealer, told a seminar of the Canadian Retail Federation Sunday: "Doing business without advertising is like winking at a pretty girl in the dark. You know what you are doing but nobody else does."

He added: "It is essential to remember that you must be able to back up every word in your advertising."

A two-page advertisement in Toronto daily coaxed thousands of customers to his store on one of the winters worst days, he said.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices edged forward in lively first-hour stock exchange dealings today. The tape ran up to five minutes late in recording transactions. Volume at 11 a. m. was 1,700,000 shares.

Papers, utilities, liquors, foods and steels displayed firmer tendencies while most traded refining oils were weaker. Price changes were almost entirely limited to fractions, but Canadian Locomotive climbed 33.75 to 26. Canada Malting added a point. CPR was up.

Senior base metals recorded a majority of fractional gains, but Steep Rock was off ¼. Best of the lower-priced issues were Central Patricia, up 20 at 81.53.

Selected uranium were in demand. Can-Met led with a 25-cent gain at $3.25 as a government sales contract was believed in the offing.

There was little movement in the golds. Hollinger firmed ⅛.

Western oils traded in a narrow range, but mustered sufficient strength to touch a two-year index peak. Royalite added ¼. Merrit lost the same amount.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — A comparatively light run consisting mostly of low-grade slaughter cattle sold actively at the Ontario stockyards today with good and choice steers gaining fully 50 cents a hundredweight and in spots 75 cents. Heifers were unevenly strong to 50 cents a hundredweight higher. Dry-fed yearlings were actively strong. Cows and bulls steady.

Receipts: cattle 2,695; calves 254; hogs 197; sheep and lambs 328; carryover from Friday 500, mostly stockers.

Prices: choice steers 18-19.50, sales to 20; goods 18-19; medtums 16-17; commons 13-14; good heifers 15-17, mediums 14-16; commons 12-14; choice fed yearlings 21-22; goods 20-21; mediums 15-19; good cows 11.50-12; canners and cutters 9; good heavy bologna bulls 13.50; common and medium light bulls 9.

Calves active at 25-30 for good and choice vealers with sales to 30.75; mediums 20-27; commons 12-19; grass calves sold for slaughter 9-12.

Hog prices not established.

Lambs strong at 21 for 90-100 pound good handyweight ewes and wethers; common and medium lambs 14-17; good light sheep 10 with common and heavy sheep 3.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings sufficient for a steady demand.

LONDON POLICE

All 22 detectives on the force were working round the clock on the case. Leaves and days off were cancelled and the police had reformed division. As each officer reported for duty he was shown the special photo and sent out on the beat.

Susan's body was found at 10:10 a. m. Saturday sprawled beside a CPR spurline running into the Roy James lumber yard west of William street. Allan Ludlow of Central avenue, discovered the child lying on her back with her right arm across the tracks. Her mittens were about four feet away.

The man sought was known to have approached Susan in St. Mary's churchyard while she played on a patch of ice. Playmates heard her say, "This man is going to give me something" and then walk vanished. They were Susan's last known words.

Her brothers had returned home from their play to report that Susan disappeared while talking to a tall man, about 30 or 35, dressed in coat, galoshes and black fur hat.

While searchers trudged the streets, Susan's mother and Rev. W. T. O'Rourke, pastor of St. Mary's, broadcast radio appeals for her safe return.

Mrs. Caldwell, who had told Father O'Rourke she would like to hear the bells of St. Mary's when Susan was found, broke down at the news of her death. Mr. Caldwell had collapsed during the all-night search.

Police said it was possible the child was taken to a room, became hysterical after an attack and was turned out into the street fully dressed. Tracks in the lumberyard indicated she had wandered about before falling in the snow.

It appeared probable Susan had not been there long. Searchers and workers had not seen her although they passed the spot earlier.

Dr. F. W. Luney, staff pathologist at St. Joseph's hospital, London, who performed the autopsy, did not estimate the time of death. Coroner Dr. F. J. Sweeney said after an initial examination he believed she had died no more than three hours before she was found, at 10 a.m.

Retired Editor, Racing Authority Dies in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Edwin (Eddie) Allan, 73, former sports editor of the old Mail and Empire and veteran newspaperman, died at his home today.

He was known throughout the province as authority on standard-bred and thoroughbred racing.

Mr. Allan had served in various capacities at Ontario tracks for many years. Since the formation of the Ontario Racing Commission he had been in charge of the identification department.

He had been out of newspaper work since The Mail and Empire sold out to The Globe in 1936, becoming The Globe and Mail.

Survivors include his widow, four sons, Clifford and Ross of Toronto, Kenneth of Timmins and Hubert of London, Ont.; two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Lambert of New York and Mrs. James (Hazel) MacLean of Toronto.

It Was Love At Second Sight For Grace Kelly

CHICAGO (AP) — Grace Kelly says her romance with Prince Rainier III was love at second sight.

Smiling happily, the honey-blonde actress told some 70 reporters and photographers Sunday how she met and was courted by the handsome monarch of tiny Monaco. They intend to marry after Easter.

"I've been in love before—but never in love like this," she said.

Miss Kelly said she met the prince at his palace in Monte Carlo last May, but she did not feel romantic about him.

It was a different story Christmas Day at the home of her parents in Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Austin of Margate, N. J., Miss Kelly's aunt and uncle, brought the prince calling at the Kelly home.

QUICK PROPOSAL

"Then it apparently was love at first sight, or rather second sight," Miss Kelly smiled.

"Rainier proposed sometime during Christmas even after asking my father's permission."

"After we're married, my emphasis is going to be on our marriage," she said when asked about her future movie-making plans.

She said an incident at the Monte Carlo ball in New York Friday night might hurt but did not cause a quarrel. A dark-haired woman rushed up to the prince at the party and kissed him on the cheek.

In New York Sunday, Senorita Graciela Lees Castillo of Ecuador identified herself as the woman who did the kissing. She said the kiss was meant as a token of good wishes and that she had known the prince several years.

Plot Reported To Explode Bomb In British House

LONDON (Reuters)—British security authorities today dropped a flood of silence over measures they are taking to counter a reported plot to explode a bomb in the House of Commons.

Scotland Yard merely said "we have received certain information about an alleged conspiracy to place a bomb in the House on Jan. 25, but we cannot discuss what action we are taking."

January 25—the day after the House is due to assemble—is celebrated by Scots as the birthday of their national poet, Robert Burns.

The main Scottish Nationalist movement, which campaigns for freedom from rule by Westminster, disclaims any link with such a plot.

A Sunday newspaper report said that a brief case containing a time bomb under a bench in the visitors' gallery of the House. It would be set to explode in the early hours when the chamber would be empty.

Fire Threatens Business Section Of Colborne Before Controlled

TRENTON (Special) — A fire that started at 5:00 p.m. yesterday in Colborne, 8 miles west of here, threatened the main business section of that village of 1100 people before Colborne volunteer firemen, backed by volunteers from Brighton with their pumper brought the flames under control four hours later. The Trenton fire department stood by to race to Brighton in case an emergency developed in that neighboring place, 9 miles to the west.

Morley Cook, a food merchant on the side street off the main thoroughfare, suffered heavy loss. The fire gutted his place of business and smoke caused heavy damage to the stock in Dan Phillip's shoe store next door. Mr. Cook and his daughter, Doris, who live in the apartment over the store were left homeless and stayed with friends last night. Mr. and Mrs. Fred MacDonald, and two children, residents of the apartment in the Phillips' building, were smoked out but were able to return to their quarters when the danger had passed.

FOUND MASS OF FLAMES

Volunteers from Colborne arrived at the Cook place to find a mass of flames spreading out. "At that time it looked like the whole thing would go," Chief Constable William Self related afterwards, describing the serious situation. Bud Irish, chief of the Colborne volunteers, a creamery truck driver, off duty, decided to call on help from Brighton. The Brighton pumper, loaded down with volunteers from that village, lost no time covering the nine mile route along No. 2 Highway.

Meanwhile Trenton firemen were alerted to protect Brighton property should the need arise.

An overheated stove in the Cook apartment has been blamed for the loss. Although not estimated it is expected to run into thousands of dollars.

Mr. Cook and his daughter were able to hurry downstairs to safety before smoke and flames cut off their escape.

Village officials hold high praise for the volunteers who battled what appeared to be insurmountable odds and confined the bulk of the damage to the premises occupied by the Cooks.

Temperatures hovered around zero, making the firemen's job more unpleasant.

Says Mild Spell Will Remain Through Tuesday

TRENTON (Special) — The duty forecaster at Station Trenton RCAF indicates that the unexpected mild spell is here to stay through Tuesday. Warm air flowing in off the Atlantic is responsible for the rise in temperature from a low of 12 above zero last night to 38 above at 10.15 a.m. today. The thermometer will continue its upward climb, the forecaster predicts, until the mercury reaches over the 40 mark today.

Outlook for tomorrow is mild with sunny intervals. A few light drizzles of rain may fall in the area this afternoon.

William Puddephat, Jr., of Colborne, is being held in Cobourg jail on false pretense charges. He was picked up Friday by the O.P.P. at Brighton.

Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment veteran H. H. "Tiny" Hyatt has been sick in the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Veteran of three wars, former R.S.M. E. Almey is undergoing treatment in the local hospital.

A First War veteran Fred Logue, ex-commissionaire at the main gate at RCAF Station Trenton, was released from hospital on the weekend following treatment for pneumonia.

Three Resign

GUELPH (CP)—Three members of the four-man city transportation commission have resigned without giving reasons, it was reported Sunday.

Chairman Joseph D. Matthews was the first to turn in his resignation. Commissioners Hurt Hanna and Joe Curzon followed suit.

Only former-alderman Gordon C. Kemp, appointed to the commission last week, remains.

Girl Takes Off With Boy Friend But No Groom

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Pretty, wealthy Juliette Wehle and the pilot she left waiting at the church, have parted company—for a year at least.

Juliette, 20-year-old niece of Louis Wehle, state conservation commissioner, and Air Force Lieut. John Owens met with their families in a seven-hour conference here Sunday.

Owens told newspaper men:

"I'm going to Japan to think things over for a year. She's pretty mixed up. I'm positive she didn't realize what she was doing. She made a terrible mistake."

The "terrible mistake" was Juliette's pre-dawn flight with an old boy friend, eight hours before she was to have married Owens.

WENT TO PARTY

Early Saturday morning Juliette turned up at a private party with Stephen Hahn, 26-year-old son of another socially-prominent family. Miss Wehle was clad in a negligee and a housecoat.

Shortly after showing up at the party, Miss Wehle borrowed some clothes, Hahn borrowed a station wagon and the pair took off for Syracuse. From there they flew to New York. Later in the afternoon Juliette called her family and said they were returning.

The turn of events stunned just about everyone, including a local paper which had carried with the story of the girl's flight with Hahn on the first page and another story describing her wedding in the society section.

Church Damaged By Teen-Agers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Police said Sunday they are seeking a gang of teenage hoodlums believed responsible for desecration of a church.

Rev. J. A. Walker, minister of Sandwich United church said five stained glass windows at his church were found smashed Saturday. He said the damage apparently had been caused by rocks hurled into the building. One hole is 12 feet long, he said.

Mr. Walker said the damage climaxed several weeks of teenage trouble during which persons attending church services had been terrorized by gangs of teenagers.

WINDSOR TESTS NEW HYDRO RATE STRUCTURE

On Saturday, December 31, 1955, The Ontario Intelligencer said in an editorial that Hydro should endeavor to gain the co-operation of its consumers in the curtailment of waste of electricity and that to gain this co-operation Hydro must "revise, or rather reverse, its thinking with regard to rates." What was required, The Ontario Intelligencer argued, was not a rate structure which would encourage the waste of power by requiring the consumer to pay less the more he used, but a set of rates which, while not discouraging consumption and an increased use of electrical equipment, would still discourage waste."

We have just learned that on January 1, 1956, such a rate structure went into effect in Windsor, Ont.

Windsor is now using what it calls the "four-block" system in determining the charges to domestic consumers of electricity. The system gets its name from the fact that there are four rates. The first rate, for the first 50 kilowatt hours used each month, is high, 2½ cents per kilowatt hour. The second rate, as is customary, is lower. The consumer pays 1.4 cents per kilowatt hour for the next 200 kilowatt hours. The third rate, for the next 500 kilowatt hours is a mere .8 cents per kilowatt hour. But after a Windsor resident has used 750 kilowatt hours in any month, he starts paying for his additional consumption at a higher rate, 1.2 cents per kilowatt hour. This fourth rate is a complete reversal of past policy and the key to the system.

The results of the new Windsor rates will be watched with intense interest by Hydro officials and by managers of public utilities commissions throughout the province. These rates have been devised to permit Windsor families to enjoy cheap electricity for reasonable uses, and yet to discourage the waste of electricity. If they achieve this purpose, other cities will almost certainly copy Windsor's "block" rate system.

By eliminating waste of electricity, Hydro would be able to reduce its expenditure on the provision of additional generating facilities and consumers of electricity would thereby be assured that power for useful purposes would be available at as cheap a rate as is feasible.

SUNSATIONAL

Down in Mexico City, Mr. Regino Arambulo Cebellos was worrying about the sun.

Where, he wondered, did Old Sol empty his ashtray. After all, he figured, he'd been smoking hot for many million years. Has he been strewing his ashes throughout space, the way a husband with a cigar and a glow on treats his wife's prized rugs?

Certainly not, "UNESCO Features" assures Mr. Cebellos. The heat of the sun is not the result of combustion nor of any chemical reaction. It is the result of the continuous fusion of the nuclei of four hydrogen atoms to form one atom of helium. In this process a small part of the mass of the hydrogen nuclei is converted into energy. In the interior of the sun, 564 million tons of hydrogen are converted every second into 560 million tons of helium and the difference — 4 million tons — is converted into energy. It is this process which maintains the interior of the sun at a temperature of several million degrees and its surface at about 6,000 degrees."

So now you know. And don't say the United Nations never did anything for you.

If anybody was wondering how long this sort of thing can go on, UNESCO adds that in the course of two or three thousand million years of its existence the sun has probably lost much less than one per cent of its mass. It will therefore continue to generate heat for many more thousands of millions of years.

Spring will come again.

HOW OTHERS CHECK INFLATION

Inflation, or the threat of inflation, is one of the most persistent and most persistent features of full employment. This, undoubtedly, lies behind the Bank of Canada's present 'tight money' policy and the obvious desire of the Federal Government to curb over spending.

Unfortunately, as experience in other countries has shown, monetary policy is by no means a sure or effective anti-inflationary weapon. A fairer and more effective way of curbing the tendency to over extend credit is to control imports.

If, as official Ottawa states, consumer spending constitutes a threat to the stability of Canada's credit structure, some restraint on imported manufactured goods, and particularly consumer goods, through a stiffer tariff structure, would constitute a far more effective restraint on buying, and a much fairer restraint, than credit curbs.

There seems little likelihood that Canada would have to adopt such drastic measures as those imposed by Australia, where imports have been subjected to a rigid quota system. A rational trade policy, based on a reasonable tariff structure, would appear, however, to hold far greater promise of economic stability for Canada than the two-edged sword of monetary policy.

DREAMING

It's cold up there and the ice is thick,
And the wind through the trees is swishing;
But my soul still loiters around the creek,
Awaiting the time for fishing.

It's a long, long wait to my restless soul
To the time when the bass are biting,
But it haunts my favorite fishing hole
While I'm in the office writing.

And it comes at night from the mountain stream
And the lakes that are sheeted glass,
And while I slumber it conjures dreams
For me of the gamey bass.

For a fisherman's soul never stays at work,
Though the fisherman's forced to grind,
But haunts the spot where the big ones lurk
And troubles his peace of mind.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 9, 1936

Mrs. Fred Wickett, Rosetown, Sask., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Wickett, Pinnacle.

Miss Margaret Lee, Bridge St., has a graduate of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, has passed the required examinations to be classed as a Registered Nurse.

Seventeen members of Company 1 Belleville Brownies, of which Mrs. W. N. Ponton is the leader, enjoyed a sleigh ride party yesterday afternoon St. school. Charlotte Stork and Jean Ponton were the officers in charge of the party.

Mr. Daniel C. Hyde and his son, Mr. Charles L. Hyde went to Toronto today.

Clothing is still needed badly at the local relief office. Used garments are made new by cutting and worn, as long as they can be patched, are most acceptable as well as old blankets. Garments. There must be some clothing around which people think they will use some time but which they would get busy and let some persons who really need them have them.

In the opening game at Picton in group one in the O. H. A. intermediate series, the Picton team won the score being 7 to 5. Special mention may be made of Phillips in the Belleville goal, while Symons and Whitty also played fine hockey. Burns, Hudgins, Cooper, Bedborough and Heffernan put up a strong game for Picton. Volley after volley of shots were fired at the Belleville net, but Phillips was on guard and had it not been for the cleverness of his work the visitors would have been greater for the winning team. The following composed the teams: — Belleville — Phillips, Symons, Whitty, Hough, Earl, Morrison and Mitchell. Picton — Wells, Bedborough, Heffernan, Ralph Burns, Cooper, Bert Burns and Hudgins. The referee was Lou Marsh of Toronto.

Horses killed, driver escapes. Shortly before dusk yesterday a team of horses attached to the Tweed stage, which is owned by A. Castiline in this city, was struck by the engine of a passenger train at the Grand Trunk Railway double track crossing on Grier Street. The driver of the stage was waiting for a west bound freight train to pass and his horses were standing on and track while the freight train was passing on the other track. An express train came along on the track upon which the horses were standing and the driver was unable to see the fast approaching train. The horses were in the centre of the track when the engine struck them; they were instantly killed and carried some distance. Although the front part of the stage was carried away, the driver miraculously escaped injury. No passengers were in the coach.

Mr. Milton Campbell of this city has left for Strathcona, Alberta, near Edmonton, where he has accepted a position.

Mid-Winter Romance

(New York Times)

It is apparent that the only reason June is associated with romance is because it rhymes with "moon." Is December thought if as a month for hand-holding and deep thought? It is and that is a mistake. In lots if places, in December, young people go as far as ride in tractor-drawn hay wagons, better than no hay rides at all) and a hay ride under the snow encourages romantic attachments. And to the holiday season belong parties and dances (and no school the next day) that makes it possible for a boy to meet girl, and vice versa. Therefore, December should not be overshadowed as often is—as a month when romance blossoms and flourishes. The merry month of May and June's moon are all very well, but December is a month to remember, too.

All this is leading into the subject of romance in December, 1955. And it should be said, by way of preface, that a man who has no slant on matters of the heart—at first-hand watched a young lady grow into womanhood—knows far too little about the fair sex. Nevertheless, Of course, even had he grown up knowing all there is to know, he still wouldn't understand about women; but he would comprehend just a little better how much easier the art of romance is in making, to be a girl than a boy. Girls choose their fates, their tangled webs do weave. Thus a graying gentleman with a young daughter in the house and women is astonishing and a little unnerving to behold the young men to which men are brought—figuratively, these days—to their knees.

Behold the young lady in the house. She has brought a young man home at last—whom she likes. She has met other young men, but in connection with them she has remained on the family carried on between projects in grooming and translations of Latin prose, they have all been described as "creeps" or "gleeps." But this young man is not a "creep," and to prove it the young lady brings him home to dinner. When he has gone, taking the young lady of the house with him to the movies in his car (a very average car, but to her it is every bit as important as the fact of a car), one must concede that indeed the young man is neither "creep" nor "gleep," if one interprets those words loosely used terms aright. He is nice looking, intelligent, sensible, and if the young lady had to fall in love sooner or later, she could have done much worse.

All this is, to be sure, when the young man is about she cannot eat. She spends much time explaining that she has nothing to wear and after an hour or so trampling up and down in her room, sleep proves it by appearing on the stairs looking very pretty indeed—pretties than ever, in fact. As she goes by one grows fond of this young man, who is presently respectful and laughs a tone's joke.

The young lady of house visits the beauty parlor much of the time. Parents and passes inspection (as one knew she would), and for some how one remains detached from the scene, little attention to their implications. One has one's heart-to-heart talks between senior and junior members of the house on controversial subject of "going steady."

And then one Saturday the young man arrives to escort the young lady to the Zoo. She has gone the senior lady of the house says, sympathetically, I think this is the day," and one is left alone to decide whether she is referring to the probable arrival of the young man or to something else. Doubt is dispelled much later when the young lady flouts, pink-cheeked, into the living room and cries, "Look!" And as she jumps excitedly up and down quite out of character—one beholds a young man's class ring (four sizes too large) on her finger. Romance is for no longer detached. One remembers, long ago, a fraternity pin given away with one's heart—and one feels happy for the young lady and a little sad for the young man. He is so young, and he got his ring—one learns—at great expense, only last week.

Retirement On the Farm

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

The Farm Forums have just endorsed a farmer's refinement on his own views. Nowadays, it is not about the only thing an elderly farmer can do. Few can afford to give up entirely and move to a village or town.

So instead the farmer and his wife gradually enter into a special kind of retirement, one which has many advantages over the conventional rates for them. On the whole though, the advantages are more important than the drawbacks.

The most obvious benefit is that semi-retired farmer who hangs on to the homestead can almost always keep more lighter and less taxing branches of farming, particularly those which do not require long hours of work. He is no longer draw in hay or manage a big herd of dairy cattle, but he may still raise a few head.

Some prefer to expand their poultry-keeping activities, and at the same time give up cattle husbandry, which involves heavier work at a busy time of the year. Or have special jobs, like plowing and cutting wood, done by others.

All sides of retirement are duly set as reached, there ought to be a certain income available, which is a comfort. Better perhaps, this retirement on the farm keeps up interest and activity often for a very long time. This factor is a wonderful contribution to health in most cases. If the idea of a farming retirement isn't carried to extremes, it is the best thing that old people can do.

Tax Cheating Encouraged

(Windsor Star)

There is something amusing about two famous actors or actresses competing both in respect of their physical figures and their income tax problems. There is nothing funny in the story from Rome about how tax impositions are affecting

The normal procedure evidently is for the taxpayer to put in his own estimate of his or her income and then the authorities post their estimate of what the taxpayer owes, the taxpayer indicates an income substantially less than the real figure. Thus children of Rome's sardine Tolonia, one of Rome's leading actresses, declared an income of only $41,600 when the police estimated it at $1,264,000.

In the dickering which occurs after the final figure is arrived at it is easy to see where corruption and bribery can insert themselves. And likewise easy to see where the exchequer may get all the taxes due. The situation in Italy corresponds to that in France, where it is considered not only smart but proper to cheat on taxes. This is evidence of contempt for political, economic and social instability.

Mind and Matter

America's First Men

(National Geographic Magazine)

Science is beaming a spotlight on the dim first families of America. Its searchers for remote hunters whose desperate lives are glimpsed in bones and primitive artifacts.

Over 30,000 years ago they came across Siberia to Alaska and groped southward through glacial relief, subsisting partly on now extinct animals of mammoth and bison proportions.

Their way of life and migrations as pieced together by scientists using a 26-page article by Thomas R. Henry, in the current issue of the National Geographic Magazine The account is illustrated with eight striking color paintings by Andre Durenceau.

The first newcomers used their weapons with considerable skill. With crude sticks and spears they killed "some of the fiercest and most powerful animals the world has ever known."

Some mammoths set upon by the spear-carrying hunters stood 13 feet at the shoulders. Long tusks curled 18 feet. A full-grown bull bison may have weighed 2,250 pounds. The horns of one species, top to tip, were six feet apart. The such beasts were assailed by the earliest migrants is attested by weapon points and skeletal remains of bones.

It is unlikely that the hunters used arrows. The bow came much later.

Mastodons and mammoths, perhaps, were attacked while bogged in sloughs. "As for the bison, the hunters doubtless dressed themselves in wolf skins and lay in wait on the slopes of watercourses," the author says. Lurking wolves were taken for granted by the bison; perhaps the hunter-disguised wolf howls to enhance the deception.

The hunt, in the absence of agriculture, was the nomad's livelihood. Game animals gave them weapons, food clothing and shelter.

Their camping sites were beds of lignite, tubular bone beads and probably pendants fashioned laboriously from red hematite. While appreciating beauty by their standards, the Age men left no record that show carelessness, short-cuts, and work unfinished.

"Perhaps we shall never know when the first Asian huntsmen walked into the new hunting grounds of North America," Mr. Henry says. "But we have learned a little about these first Americans. . . . And, slowly, scientists here and there may continue to clear away some of the mist."

How Taft Got Lower Berth

(Milwaukee Road Magazine)

Some years after he had been president, William Howard Taft had to make a sudden trip to Chicago.

Only an upper was left. Taft, who weighed almost 300 pounds, noticed that the lower of a section was assigned to a small, insignificant looking man.

"Last time I occupied an upper," he announced cheerfully, "it collapsed. I certainly hope this one will hold me up."

Then he went off to the club car. When he returned the little man was securely buttoned into the upper berth.

"RAISES ROOF" AT LAUNCHING FOR NEW THEATRE

At a press reception in Toronto, Col. M. C. G. Meighen, national chairman of the Stratford permanent theatre fund, literally "raised the roof" to show Betty Grimley two tiers of seats surrounding a tiny 40-foot stage, authentic from the days Shakespeare. Model of new Stratford theatre was unveiled in conjunction with launching of national campaign to raise $384,000 to build permanent structure at Stratford, Ont. The new theatre, which will replace the tent now housing the Shakespearean production, is scheduled for completion in time for the 1957 season. To be erected on the same site, the steel frame structure will preserve the tent atmosphere. Basic design of the auditorium and stage will remain the same as will the seating capacity — with the addition of a balcony closely overlooking the stage.

Pope Approves Drugless Method Of Reducing Pains of Childbirth

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope has approved a drugless method of reducing the pains of childbirth.

The head of the Roman Catholic Church said in an address Sunday the method, commonly known as "childbirth without fear," violates neither Holy Scripture nor morals.

He described it as a "psycho-prophylactic" method in which the mother's natural forces alone are called into action.

The Pontiff told a congress of more than 1,000 gynecologists that he had received information on the subject and had been asked to pass judgment on it from the religious and moral viewpoint.

The...method approved by the Pope calls for intensive instruction of the expectant mother in the processes of childbirth. Repeated appeals are made to her emotions not to permit feelings of fear, and during labor specially trained personnel assist and remind her of what she has learned.

FREUDIAN FAVOR

The Pontiff said the method already is used extensively in Russia and China and is finding favor in Western countries.

Russian, Dr. Ivan Pavlov was credited by Pope Xavier claimed of childbirth was not always painful. He asserted it became painful in the course of time because of "conditioned reflexes."

Outlining the aim and task of painless obstetrics, the Pope said:

"By applying scientifically acquired knowledge, it must first dissociate the associations already existing between the normal sensations or contractions of the uterus, and the pain reactions of the cerebral cortex. In this way, negative conditioned reflexes are suppressed. At the same time, new positive reflexes must be created to replace the negative reflexes."

He added that "from 85 to 90 per cent of births taking place in this manner are said to have been painless."

"Considered in itself," he said, the method "contains nothing that can be criticized from the moral point of view."

FAMILY FLEES FIRE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Five forced a young couple and their 19-months-old daughter to flee in 15-degree weather in their night clothes Saturday. The blaze caused an estimated $2,000 damage to the home of Cameron Wilson, five miles west of here.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK

TORONTO (CP)—Morley Sutherland Bedford, 65, an undertaker for 37 years and a past president of the Ontario Funeral Services Association, died Sunday of a heart attack. Born in Watertown, near Hamilton, he opened his first funeral business in Woodstock in 1919 and in 1930 moved to Toronto where he built a chapel. Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Horace Porter of Oshawa.

Premier Confirms Planned Controls Over Newsprint

QUEBEC (CP) — Barring last-minute capitulation by Quebec newsprint producers, Premier Duplessis will tell the reconvening legislature Tuesday that he will implement virtually complete control of the industry.

The producers have ignored his demand that they rescind recent price increases insofar as provincial consumers are concerned. They have shown no signs of heeding his warning that a government-appointed board, controlling production, distribution and sales, is the alternative.

Fifty - five mills, one of the world's biggest groups in pulp and paper production, would be subject to:

1. Timber-cutting supervision on leased crown lands, with any excessive cutting closely watched.

2. Guaranteed supplies to provincial consumers during the present newsprint shortage, with all producers bound to contribute.

3. Price control.

4. Halting of exports of raw pulpwood, now consigned chiefly to Ontario and New Brunswick, plus some to the United States.

PRICES WENT UP

The dispute between Maurice Duplessis and the newsprint producers began last October when, for the first time since 1952, prices rose, finally setting at a maximum $4 a ton higher.

Mr. Duplessis asked that the price for provincial users—he has said he doesn't care about outside prices—remain at the 1952 level of $122 in the central provinces.

Cheaper prices were open to Quebec users who arranged their own delivery.

Mr. Duplessis took his first forcing step Dec. 13 by outlining his control plan and introducing a bill covering it. He set a deadline of Jan. 10 for the newsprint producers, after which control legislation would proceed.

It is believed here that the legislation outlined is without precedent anywhere.

Indians Charge Exploitation by Some Fur Buyers

By AUSTIN JELBERT
Canadian Press Correspondent

KAPUSKASING (CP)—A group of Cree Indians in northern Ontario said Sunday they are being exploited by some fur buyers as badly as their ancestors were 300 years ago when white men first started the fur trade.

The charges were confirmed by sources close to fur-trapping activities throughout the area.

The Indians said they are receiving 30 to 50 per cent less than they should for their furs in some cases. Prime beaver pelts worth $20 on northern markets are being purchased for as little as $15, they said.

The Indians are trapping in the Moosonee and Moose Factory districts, near the mouth of the Moose river at the southern tip of James Bay.

Sources watching the situation say buyers are taking advantage of the Indians' superstitions, ignorance and hardships to bilk them.

The buyers can buy cheaply, knowing the Indians cannot hold out for a better price.

Some offer the Indians more than normal prices for extra-large pelts but pay less-than-normal prices for small or medium skins which make up most of their catch.

Ignorance and superstition prevent the Indians forming associations which could protect them against unfair practices.

World's Giant In Publishing Business Dies

TORONTO (CP) — George H. Doran, who rose from a 25-cent bookstore clerk to become one of the world's publishing giants, is to be buried here today.

He died Saturday, aged 86, in the downtown Toronto hotel where he had lived for the last five years.

He gave his name to the Doubleday, Doran and Company, Inc., publishing house, which became one of the largest in the world.

Most of the literary greats of the 20th century were among his friends, and he put into print the writings of presidents and prime ministers as well as some of the most widely-recognized novelists.

Authors he published included William Gladstone and Lord Balfour, former prime ministers of England; United States' presidents Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson; and novelists W. Somerset Maugham, H. G. Wells, Aldous Huxley and Arnold Bennett.

U.S. CITIZEN

Born in Toronto, he spent much of his life in New York and London. Early in the 20th century he became an American citizen, but he returned to Toronto to spend his last years.

In 1890, he went to Chicago with the Fleming H. Revell Company publishing firm.

The firm, however, lost almost everything in a 1907 financial panic and Mr. Doran moved to Canada. He organized his own publishing house, 25 per cent of which was owned by Hodder and Stoughton, a leading London firm.

The house made a fortune, and in 1925 Mr. Doran bought out the shares owned by Hodder and Stoughton. Three years later he arranged a merger with Doubleday, Page and Company. The new firm was formed Jan. 1, 1928, with Mr. Doran as vice-president.

In 1930, however, he retired from the firm because of ill health and a personal dissensions caused by the "human equation." He went to England a few months later as representative for the Hearst publications.

In 1934 he retired to his ranch near Tucson, Ariz., and returned to Toronto in 1950.

Troops Patrol Jordanian Sector Of Jerusalem

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Troops of Jordan's Arab Legion held Amman and the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem in a tight grip today as disorders against the Baghdad alliance continued during the weekend.

Officials said one person was killed and three were injured in Jerusalem Sunday.

One report said an American technical aid installation on the Amman-Jericho road was set afire.

A number of Western consular officials and UN truce observers moved their families temporarily from Jordan-held Jerusalem to the Israeli sector of the city.

The United States made a vigorous protest to Jordan's charge d'affaires in Washington concerning Saturday's riots. State Secretary Dulles summoned the official Tayyir A. Touqan, to his home in an unusual Sunday meeting. The state department said Dulles "expressed his deep concern" at the "mob violence" which burned an American library and headquarters in Amman and ripped down an American flag during an attack on the U. S. consulate in Jerusalem.

Reports from Jerusalem said rifle fire was heard in the Jordan sector of the Holy City Sunday morning and afternoon, but the firing was mostly primarily a warning to crowds to disperse. Curfews in both cities were lifted briefly and then restored.

The government-controlled radio described the disturbances as "small-scale incidents" and blamed them on "foreign elements and a handful of malcontents." The broadcast said the rioters did not cause "much trouble" and accused "some Arab radio stations" of broadcasting "fabrications."

Violent demonstrations against pro-western attempts to bring Jordan into the Baghdad pact broke out last month. The anti-communist pact links Britain, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan. The government of Premier Hazza el Majali, who favored the pact, was forced to resign Dec. 29 after four days of bloody rioting and riots.

The disorders were renewed Saturday when Premier Ibrahim Hashim's caretaker cabinet resigned. Hashem's government has been criticized in both elections in four months as a plebiscite on Jordan's participation in the alliance. The government resigned after the Supreme Court ruled King Hussein's dissolution of the previous Parliament was unconstitutional.

Samir el Rifai, present premier and foreign minister in the outgoing caretaker government was expected to be named to form a new cabinet.

MORE NEWLY-WEDS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The Chamber of Commerce reported Saturday 1,888 honeymoon certificates were issued last year to visiting newly-weds. This was 1,329 higher than in 1954.

BESERK IMMIGRANT HOLDS OFF POLICE FOR 24 HOURS BEFORE ARREST

After holding six policemen at bay for 24 hours in this barricaded cabin at Niddrie, Ont., Mike Timocenko, 34-year-old Russian immigrant, Timocenko threatened him with a rifle. He is also to be held as hostage as he tried to escape from a police cordon. They were found unarmed walking along railway tracks, after police had rushed the cabin at nightfall only to find it empty. The railway laborer went berserk following a dispute with his brother-in-law, Anthony Syder, of Oakburn, Man., seen in inset, who took to the bush when Timocenko threatened him with a rifle. He is also reported to have threatened to shoot up all people in the tiny hamlet in northwestern section of Sioux Lookout.

Atomic Reactor Is Being Tested In U.S. Plane

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Experiments with an atomic reactor in a huge B-36 as part of a program to develop atomic-powered aircraft were announced Sunday by the U. S. air force and Convair Aircraft.

"Among other things the reactor is used to investigate problems of shielding against radiation to study effects of radiation on aircraft, materials and systems to develop airborne nuclear instruments," the joint announcement said.

It added that all public safety precautions had been taken and "the pu1: can be assured that there is no danger of a nuclear explosion resulting from an accident to the aircraft."

LIMITED OPERATION

The announcement added:

"The reactor is never operated during takeoffs and landings. It is operated only when the aircraft is flying over a predesignated area where maximum public safety is attainable."

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Saturday that police agencies in this area had been told how to handle crowds if the bomber should crash.

The Dallas News quoted what it termed a reliable source as saying the B-36 flights in this area began about Dec. 1 and the civil aeronautics administration asked the "flying public" in a bulletin to avoid the plane which carries a brightly colored coat of paint.

The crew doesn't turn on the atomic reactor until the bomber has reached the test area near Hobbs, N. M.

"When it starts back to Texas, the atomic reactor is turned off."

PARATROOP ESCORT

The bomber is escorted by a C-97 carrying paratroopers. The C-97 waves off any other approaching aircraft and would drop the paratroopers as a seal off the area in case the B-36 crashes.

32-Year-Old Guardsman Constant After-Dark Companion of Princess

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Nobody has dared whisper romance, but Princess Margaret's constant afterdark companion these days is Lord Plunket—a handsome young bachelor.

He's a 32-year-old Guardsman who possesses an artistocratic title that goes back 129 years. He's been Margaret's steady escort since the showdown last October in the romance of the princess and Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

"It may be an association born of her rebound from the Townsend affair," said one Londoner who knows the princess and Plunket, "but they are going out a lot together.

"Don't forget, though—she's still got a lot of affection for the group captain, who'll probably finish up his tour of duty in Belgium this month."

PALACE EQUERY

Lord Plunket's full name is Patrick Terence William Span Plunket. He has the same sort of job Townsend had when constant association around Buckingham Palace and Balmoral Castle led to the Margaret-Townsend romance.

Plunket is an equery at Buckingham Palace and a deputy master of the Queen's household, which means he is always available to squire the Queen's sister about London night spots.

A distinguished officer in the Second World War, Plunket is a graduate of Eton and Cambridge.

EIFFEL TOWER BECOMES GIANT TORCH

French firemen, who raced to the 984-foot top of the Eiffel Tower in Paris, inspect the damaging effects of a blaze that started in a television coaxial installation. Whipped by a strong wind, flames swept from the peak of the historic landmark. Hampered by lack of water pressure, the firemen battled for more than an hour. The government-operated TV network carried on shortly after. (Central Press Canadian).

Weddings

MARNER — McCOY

Before an altar flanked by tall evergreens and baskets of white and mauve chrysanthemums, a lovely Christmas-time wedding was solemnized in Trinity United Church, Madoc, on Wednesday, December 28th, by the Reverend J. F. Lane, pastor of the church, assisted Mr. W. G. Lewis, when Dorothy Minerva Jane McCoy, of Madoc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McCoy, became the bride of Robert Frederick Marner, of Corbyville, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Marner. White satin bows, centred by holly sprays, decorated the guest pews.

Mrs. R. Arnold, church organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Marlene Moorcroft, who sang "The Wedding Prayer", before the ceremony, and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Allan McCoy, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of rosebud brocaded satin and organza tulle. Fashioned with a bolero type jacket in satin with lily-point sleeves trimmed with nylon tulle covering the shirred bodice of tulle, gathered with seed pearls. Brocaded satin molded the figure to the waistline, falling into a full skirt of the same, enhanced by a full flowing panel of nylon tulle gathered with seed pearls. Her finger tip veil of nylon tulle was caught to a matching brocaded satin headpiece, encrusted with opalescent sequins, and she carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Marilyn Mantel, of Marmora, as matron of honor, and the Misses Carol Fox, of Belleville, and Thelma Marner, of Corbyville, sister and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids, wore gowns of similar design in ballerina length; the matron of honor in pink nylon net with silver, snowflake design, featuring a fitted nylon trimmed strapless bodice having a bolero jacket with stand-up collar and three-quarter length sleeves. The gracefully full skirt was accented by triple flounces of nylon tulle. She wore a matching headdress, with mitts and silver shoes, and carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds and white chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids were in blue with matching Empress satin pumps, and wearing silver shoes. They carried nosegays of yellow rosebuds and white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert Horwood, of Point Anne, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Don McCoy, of Toronto, brother of the bride, and Mr. Bruce Burt, of Belleville R.R. 3, were ushers.

At the reception which was held at the Hyrsonic hall, Madoc, Ontario, the bride's mother received, wearing cocoa brown ticatina crepe with lace inserts, brown and moss green accessories and corsage of yellow carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in navy faille crepe with winter-white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling around Lake Ontario via Toronto, Niagara Falls, Rochester and Watertown, N.Y., the bride chose a cinnamon-colored knitted suit with moss green accessories, and corsage of yellow mums. Mr. and Mrs. Marner will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Toronto, Orillia, Mt. View, Trenton, Picton and Belleville.

CARRUTHERS — ARMSTRONG

Baskets of white mums, ferns formed a very pretty background for the Christmas wedding in Emmanuel United Church on Wednesday, December 28th, at 2.30, when the Rev. A. M. Laverty, of Kingston, united in marriage Doris Marlene Armstrong, of Stirling, Ontario, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong, to James William Carruthers, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carruthers, of Corbyville.

Mrs. Gerald Clancy, of Wellman, accompanied by the pianist, Miss Ruth Hodgins, of Stirling, sang before the ceremony "Because" and during the signing of the register "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over satin, fashioned with fitted bodice and bolero embroidered with sequins and seed pearls and having long sheath-like sleeves pointed at the wrists. The full length skirt was fashioned with tiers of lace, and net over satin. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion, edged with nylon lace, was held by a Juliet headdress ...encrusted with seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. J. J. Ackers, of Stirling, cousin of the bride, as matron of honor and the Misses Eleanor Wright of Halloway, and Marilyn Wright, of Stirling, as bridesmaids were gowned alike in floor length gowns of cherry red taffeta with pleated headdresses to match, trimmed with seed pearls. They carried matching muffs covered with white 'mums, tied with taffeta ribbon.

Little Miss Betty Lou Fleming, four-year-old niece of the bridegroom, acted as flowergirl. She was adorable in her floor-length frock of cherry red taffeta with matching Sweetheart headdress, and carrying a nosegay of white 'mums and roses.

Master Reginald Fleming, nephew of the bridegroom, did the honors as ring-bearer, wearing grey flannels and navy blazer, with white boutonniere.

The bridegroom was attended by Harvey Homan of Corbyville, while Messrs. J. J. Ackers, of Stirling, and Howard Elliott, of Plainfield, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Jubilee church hall, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with white and pink streamers, with white wedding bells and red roses.

The bride's mother, wearing dusky rose taffeta dress with hat to match, black accessories and corsage of white and pink feathered carnations tied with silver ribbon, received the many guests. The bridegroom's mother assisted, attired in muted blue wool with winter white accessories, and a corsage of pink feathered carnations tied with silver ribbon.

For the wedding trip to Western Ontario the bride chose a turquoise blue suit with matching hat, bronze accessories and corsage of yellow and bronze 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Carruthers will reside in Corbyville, Ontario.

Guests were present from Lindsay, Kingston, Port Hope, Cobourg, Madoc, Odessa, Belleville and Stirling.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored by three showers—two at Stirling, with Mrs. Bruce Armstrong and Mrs. J. J. Ackers as co-hostesses, and one with Miss Marilyn Wright as hostess.

The other at Carmel with Mrs. Harry Brown and Mrs. Gerald Clancy as hostesses.

Pr. Ed.-Belleville Club Donates Cheque, Gift

The recent meeting of the Prince Edward-Belleville Club was held at the Y.M.C.A. with the president, Mrs. L. Wannamaker, presiding. Several items of business were discussed.

Mrs. Williams and her co-convener, Mrs. Sherry, were in charge of the program.

Capt. Maskell and Mrs. Marks, of the Salvation Army, were assisted by Mrs. Sherry in selling Mrs. Marks led in carols, while the Captain's address was thought inspiring. At the close a cheque for $25.00 was given by the club, as well as many useful gifts.

Mrs. Wannamaker thanked all. A social time was spent with Mrs. Williams' group serving.

The January meeting will be at the Y.M.C.A., with Mrs. R. Fox's group in charge.

Silhouette for Spring Will Be Slimmer, Straighter

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW WYORK (AP)—Some 200 fashion editors assembled in New York today for a preview of spring styles which will show up in shops in time for Easter shopping.

As general trends were outlined to the editors at today's opening session, it became apparent that the silhouette for spring is slimmer and straighter than ever; that fabrics are lighter in weight and more varied in texture, and that the multipurpose costume is the all-time favorite.

Spring suits become afternoon or cocktail dresses merely by the removal of a jacket. Slim sheath town dresses became festive enough for after dark by the addition of an obi sash or an apron overskirt, plus discreet changes of jewelry.

A new note in the suit lineup is the "peel bolero"—you peel it off and have a solgnee dress or dressy bolero blouse and high-riding skirt beneath. These double bolero suits illustrate the newest lines of the season. Skirts are strictly straight and narrow, and come to just below the midriff smoothly and (it is earnestly hoped) revealing no set pleats.

Often these highminded skirts are attached to a bodice. A matching brief bolero curves over the bustline, and when it is removed reveals a second bolero blouse, often in white linen or a contrasting print, making a dressy costume of the suit.

Sometimes the costume consists of a sheath dress and bolero, the dress likely to have short sleeves and low decolletage, to give it party manners when worn without the bolero jacket.

Although the daytime line is uncompromisingly slim, designers have found ways to add softness and movement to the silhouette through use of floating panels, low-placed back flares and drapery that accentuates the figure but does not interfere with the sheath line.

GIA, B of LE, Installs Officers

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers hall, which had been beautifully decorated for the Christmas season, was further enhanced by a lovely basket of flowers which added to the setting for the recent installation ceremony of the G.I.A. 337, and the B. of L.E. 189.

Taking part in the impressive ceremony were the installing Marshal, Mrs. W. L. Fairbairn, installing chaplain, Mrs. E. Batchelor, and the installing musicians Mrs. G. Robertson and Mr. Cyril Ford.

The president, Mrs. A. Buck, called the meeting to order, read the "dispensation" and welcomed the Sisters, Brothers and their wives to this special occasion, and asked the Guide to escort the Grand Organizer Inspector of the G.I.A., Mrs. E. Findley, of Ottawa, and chief of the G.I.A. and L.E. 189, A. Clarke to the rostrum.

Reports of the year's work were read and approved.

Mrs. Buck presented her officers with gifts, which were the installing chaplain, Mrs. E. Batchelor, and the installing musicians Mrs. G. Robertson and Mr. Cyril Ford.

Mrs. B. Fisher, the new president, presented her officers with lovely corsage of carnations, and the installing chaplain, Mrs. Batchelor gave the installation prayer.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The following officers were installed: president, Mrs. B. Fisher; vice-president, Mrs. J. Avery; secretary, Mrs. G. Hillier; treasurer, Mrs. P. Welch; relief secretary, Mrs. W. Spring; chaplain, Mrs. L. Gay; guide, Mrs. Brenton; sentinel, Mrs. S. Maxwell.

Mrs. Fisher, the president, presented Mrs. A. Buck, the retiring president, with her past president's pin, after which Mrs. Fisher installed the appointed officers as follows: musicians, Mrs. G. Robertson; flag bearer, Mrs. H. Goodman; marshals, Mrs. R. Muirhead and Mrs. A. McCormick; pillars, Mrs. J. VanAllen, Mrs. R. Jones; Mrs. D. Fisher and Mrs. Bell.

After all officers were declared installed, Mrs. Grey presented Mrs. Buck, the retiring president, with a lovely gift from her officers for which Mrs. Buck gracefully expressed her appreciation, and also for the fine co-operation through the year, and wished the new president and her staff of officers and members the same good will and success for 1956.

Several of the Brothers also spoke briefly, The Grand Organizer Inspector, E. Findley, who was celebrating her natal day was honored by a lovely basket of flowers "Happy Birthday to You," for which Mrs. Findley thanked them for their kindness.

Following this, the president closed the G. I. A. meeting, and turned it over to Brothers of Division B. of L. E. 189 for their installation service.

B. of L. E. OFFICERS

Chief Engineer called the meeting to order and appointed P.P. Brother R. Sargent as installing officer, and Brother G. Fisher as guide. The following officers were duly installed for the three ensuing years: 1956-7-8: Chief, Bro. A. Clarke; 1st engineer, Bro. A. Buck; 2nd engineer, Bro. Doherty; 3rd engineer, Bro. N. Bonter; secretary, W. Fairbairn; chaplain, Bro. N. Jones; guide, Bro. Brenton; local officer, Bro. N. Meidrum; chairman, Bro. R. Goodman; Legislative Representative, Bro. K. Bunnett; trustee, Bro. G. Bishop.

Chief A. Clarke thanked the G. I. A. for the kind invitation to join with them in the installation ceremony. W. Fairbairn, R. Jones and N. Meidrum spoke briefly.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social get-together and cards, followed by refreshments and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

TAILORED FOR PARTIES

By VERA WINSTON

The shirtwaist dress carried out in rich material is a surefire success. It makes smart but informal and youthful dinner wear.

Here it's shown in silk-satin in ice-blue or white. Tracings of metallic thread embroidery are spaced in irregular bands. This detail provides just enough glitter to give the frock a party air despite its tailored lines. The skirt is flared and gathered onto the waist.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CHURCH NAME IN MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In a few months I am to be married in the church to which I have always belonged, and to which my fiance has belonged for several years. We have both been very active workers in our church, and as a matter of fact we met there having been introduced to each other by a couple who are to be our matron of honor and best man. At our marriage ceremony there will be only our attendants, the members of the two families, close relatives and intimate friends. There is to be no reception. However, we want to send out a large number of engraved wedding announcements, and on these we both want to include the name of our church, which is so important to us. But I have been told by several relatives and friends that this is never done; and as a matter of fact, I myself have never received a wedding announcement of which the name of the church is given. Please advise me. — Georgian I.

I'm so glad to be able to tell you that on your marriage announcements, it is entirely correct to include the name of the church in which the ceremony was performed, and today this is being done more and more. Indeed it is a fine and dignified addition to announce the church in which the ceremony was perormed. And in the case of you and your bridegroom, mentioning the church would, as you explain, be particularly significant and personal.

The name of the church comes after the date. Like this:

On Tuesday, the first of May Nineteen hundred and fifty-six Grace Church Haven, New York

CHRISTENING COSTUME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My dearest friend, at whose wedding I was matron of honor, is to have a baby soon, and has asked me to be the godmother. I love to sew, and particularly enjoy making things, and would like to make the baby's dress. So I am wondering if it would be correct for me to ask my friend if I could make the baby's Christening dress, and perhaps also the coat and bonnet. I have an extremely independent person, and I would not want to have her feel that I am over-stepping. — Alma

A godmother very often makes this generous gift, and I am pleased it is entirely proper. I'm positive the mother-to-be is delighted with your idea, and particularly when you explain to her that you want to make the costume yourself, with every stitch you put in it "a loving stitch." And I hope you are planning to make the Christening costume all-white, dress, coat, and enduring silk bonnet.

SEATING TWO COUPLES IN THEATRE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When two married couples go to the theatre or to a concert together, what is the proper seating arrangement? — Reader

The usual and correct procedure is this: first Husband Smith goes in the row; next, Wife Brown; then Husband Brown. If one of the men is host, it is he who goes in the row last, taking the seat nearest the aisle.

Have you talked this problem over at all with your minister or priest? If you have, then he, who knows both you and your husband, can often look at a problem from both sides and be very helpful.

Perhaps I have given you some things to think about, and if you will try them out, it may do more to help improve matters between you and your husband than you now think possible. So don't give up in despair and consider leaving your husband until you see what you may be able to do if you really put your "heart into it. You tell me you love him now as much as you did the day you married him. Tell him that, too, and prove it to him by your attitude and your actions instead of letting your attitude and your actions show him that you don't trust him. It may change his own attitude, and it may also change your health for the better. Anyhow, you have nothing in the world to lose by trying, so you may decide to take any really drastic step.

condition, that's making an invalid of you.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A CHANGE OF ATTITUDE ON YOUR PART MIGHT HELP A LOT

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I have been married 15 years and have four children.

Up until nine years ago, my husband and I thought that things to be had an affair with another woman, and since then everything has gone wrong between us.

We quarrel all the time. If I ask him to mind the children, or make chores, he gets very angry and says it's my place to do those things. Then he will go out to get a drink to have to be away from his family. He stays home just two nights a week.

It seems that he has lost the love he once had for me, although I still love him as much as the day I married him. I have tried to forget the affair he had, but after anything like that, I don't feel I can ever trust him again. If he ever does show me any affection, I just think he has this other woman in mind.

If it wasn't for my children, I would leave him and try and make my own way. But I can't do any work on account of my health. We have been sick for some time, and I'm very nervous, and the doctor doesn't want me to be on my feet all day.

Do you think my husband is tired of being a husband to me and a father to my children? On account of my illness, I cannot be a real wife to him. I'm desperate to know what to do, as I don't think I can stay with this man who has become a stranger to me instead of a husband. — Mrs. G.D.

Dear Mrs. G.D:

Unless you have very good reason to believe that your husband is interested in some other woman now, I think it is very serious mistake to let the memory of something that happened years ago stand between you forever. One thing you should realize is that the very quickest way to drive a man to another woman is to constantly remind him that he has been unfaithful to you. On the other hand, if you let him feel that you just don't believe he will ever be unfaithful to you again, he is far more likely to want to show you that he can be trusted.

So the first thing I urge you to do is to try and change your own attitude in this respect, for I can assure you that your situation will have no chance of improving unless you do change it.

Another thing I think is important for you to do, if you haven't done so already, is to have a talk with your doctor and see if he can give you some advice in regard to your relationship with your husband. You haven't told me, of course, the nature of your illness, and perhaps it's your state of mind, rather than your actual physical

School Concert

MEADOWDALE SCHOOL

An enjoyable Christmas concert was staged at Meadowdale School S.S. No. 10 recently before a large audience. The chairman of this event, sponsored by the pupils and directed by their music instructress, Mrs. R. MacDonald, and their teacher, Miss Jean Frost, was Mr. H. Richards, secretary of the School Board.

The school was decorated with Christmas colors and a Christmas tree, with many sparkling balls.

The gathering was called to order by an opening chorus, "All Together, Welcome," by Barbara Mallory, and the chairman's address.

Maris Chard recited, "When Pa Trimmed the Tree"; Grades three and four sang, "Toyland"; Grades one, two, three, four, sang "Toyland" with Lynn Harrington as the Toyman. The Juniors sang "Jack in the Box", with Joey Zebedee acting as the Jack in the box. Wendy Reeid de Jongs as Santa Claus the Juniors sang an action song, "Up on the Housetop", and Bernice Grills recited a poem entitled, "Can't Fool Santa Claus."

The Seniors sang a delightful chorus, "Joy to the World". A comedy, "Paul Wrecks the Car," was acted by the following: Barbara Mallory, Bruce Long, Frances Chard, Carol and Bill Zebedee, Bernice Grills sang "Christmas" for a Junior Pantomime.

An hilarious skit "3:22" was staged by Frances Chard and Gordon Savage. A recitation "Christmas", was given by Kari Loney

NATIVITY PAGEANT

A Nativity Pageant, the highlight of the concert, produced by Mrs. Jean Frost, interpreted the the whole school Biblical story of Christ's birth.

The concert ended in a pantomime of Mary Poppins, small girls rocking their babies while Brenda Platt recited, "The Spirit of Christmas Is Love" followed by the chorus, "Merry Christmas to You". "Jingle Bells" was sung jolly old Saint Nicholas arrived and gave everyone bags of candies and nuts, and unloaded the tree.

Fashion Flashes

A mild day brings out a fine array of colorful tweed coats, usually cut on slim lines for easy lines of motion. One such design makes use of deep side slits to ease the very slim line. A small round collar with jewel-like buttons closes the coat close to the neckline.

The theme for late Winter, under-fur-coat wear or for travel wear under a raincoat, really is the slim, softly tailored, silk suit. Silk tweed, with slim over-plaid, is used for one such suit. It has a set-away collar, and bias trimming on the long, fitted jacket and slim skirt.

Nicely set for resort wear now, down wear later, is a simple shift dress of fine cotton in hazy floral print of violet and green. With it a slim but easy coat of matching olive green lightweight tweed with self-banding suggesting a high waistline and easy sleeves.

Not so many velvet dresses around, but those we do see are very handsome. A beauty of an afternoon dress is of black velvet, the long, fitted sleeves with flyaway cuffs of white satin, which is also used for a draped funnel collar. The skirt is flared, the tailored belt neatly buckled in mother-of-pearl.

Certain to be an item on many a gift list is the housecoat, for never were fireside fancies finer. Pale pink and silver brocade for a long-skirted housecoat with wide ranch milk collar and long sleeves.

Add to the list of fur fancies such items as a carryall, a huge affair, of raccoon. It has a wide leather top and flap and handle. New, too, is a tiny raccoon cap to be worn at the chignon.

A Bewitching Beauty

By ALICE ALDEN

For femininity, for allure, for beguiling beauty, nothing exceeds line beauty. For this reason, every designer goes to great effort to include at least one exquisite lace creation in each collection, no matter the time of year; the current fabric fad or fancy. Chanel, long famous for her skill with lace, has fashioned pink and white into an evening dress of enduring charm. The strapless gown has a scarf of matching lace.

A world of ideas and trends appeared in a recent fashion show devoted to synthetics and blends. Orlon and silk satin looked beautiful in a Persian-inspired wrap print and used for a full-skirted cocktail dress with a short jacket, a perfect late-day costume for late Spring.

Maybe it's late in the day to be talking about fur fashions. But just the same we are still thinking and talking about a nutria coat that transforms into a jacket and a stole, the magic performed by a zipper that circles the easy-wrap collar, the hipline and nicely hidden by a lap-over treatment that also acts as a decorative detail.

Potato Cake Recipes-Treasured and Authentic

By Mary Moore

Highlights of the Christmas season such as the worship service conducted by my 19-year-old novice Minister – nephew Brian, after our Christmas dinner; a telephone call more than halfway across the continent to Marianne and Herbie on Christmas Eve; the modest gifts from my young Sunday School pupils; the samples of Christmas baking coming through the mails from friendly readers—all of these things made the Christmas season precious to me.

But it is a type of relief, that I am sure you are feeling too, to get back to ordinary routines.

The letters I am quoting today have nothing more glamorous as their topic than potatoes, but are in response to my S. O. S. for Potato Cakes, some time ago, for another reader. They seem to be exceptionally good recipes and I hope the reader who was asking for them sees this. Thank you all.

Potato-Cake-Recipe contributors:

POTATO CAKES (Courtesy Mrs. E. K. Banff, Alberta)

"I was not given a measure for the potatoes" — a bowlful of cold potatoes, cut in pieces, not mashed; 1 cup sour milk enough to moisten when wet, 1 teaspoon soda 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, flour to make a biscuit dough; place on floured board and run a rolling pin over it just with hands, leaving quite thick. Cut with knife in any large shape. Bake in hot oven 30 to 40 min. Serve at once while piping hot with lots of butter. "Makes a luncheon dish".

POTATO CAKES from Mashed Potatoes (Courtesy "O-H", Fox-born, Alberta)

This is an authentic Irish recipe brought by my brother-in-law's mother from Ireland. Mix 1 cupful of mashed potatoes with 2 tablespoons flour, 1 scant teaspoon salt, and as much sour cream as preferred. Potatoes vary in moisture content — sometimes more, sometimes less flour is needed. Mix well. Form into a ball as for pastry, roll with rolling pin with enough flour on table to keep from sticking. Work in quickly — have enough cut into 3 or 4-inch squares or rings and brown on a greased hot frying pan. The cakes will brown before sizzling. Turn when they look griddle cakes and will be delicately and evenly. Brown on both sides then before serving, add butter to each square and serve hot.

POTATO CAKES (Courtesy Gertrude W. Brandon, Manitoba)

". . . came from my Aunt but originally my Grandmother's recipe. My uncle says if they aren't cut diamond shaped they are not potato cakes.

Two and one-half cups mashed potatoes. Mix in 1/4 cup shortening. Add about 1 1/2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, milk or water to hold together. Roll out on lard board. Cut diamond shape. Hot oven.

There now — that ought to keep the Potato Cake addicts busy and happy for a while. Thank you Gertrude for trying in, look up Mrs. P. A. Woods. No address from her yet.

Mother's Helper

CHILDREN old enough to be brought along when you and your friends get together for an afternoon will be delighted with an informal party of their own. When you arrange a snack tray for your adult guests, fix one like it for the children and have it in a separate room, if you can, with juice to drink.

CAPTAIN MEETS HIS CREW

Capt. Jan R. Cwiklinski, left, retired former master of the Polish liner "Batory", is on hand in New York to welcome a group of seamen who jumped ships in various western European countries to escape oppression in their homelands. They will join 18 other exiles in the U.S. to form a complete crew for the "Wolna Polska" (Free Polandy, to be skippered by Cwiklinski. The ship is a Liberty ship now being overhauled for a first sailing on Jan. 15 from an unnamed port.

Ten or More Baby Moons Will Be Launched by U.S. in '56

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Man is beginning his grandest adventure—his leap into space.

For space is your new costlier. From space could come perhaps the most fantastic discoveries and rewards of any human explorations.

First there will be baby man-made moons, whirling high around the earth. Something human hands made . . . seeing and feeling the mysteries of the cold black ocean of space where no human has ever been . . . and calling back, by radio, its report. Discoveries.

You will see these moons, bright pinpoints flashing through the skies.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

How and when will the earth satellites come, what will they be like, what will they learn? Is there a time-table for them, or for trips by the first human astronauts into space?

Here are some answers, from Dr. Homer Newell Jr., Dr. Joseph Kaplan and Milton Odishaw, members of the technical panel for the earth satellite program:

The United States will build and launch 10 or more of the baby moons. It is not expected that all will be successful.

The size, weight and shape of the satellites are still being decided. Probably they will weigh from 25 to 50 pounds. They likely will be mostly spherical, about basketball size.

Inside will be packed the delicate eyes, ears and hands of electronic equipment and devices to test and sense and measure the challenging events of space.

TWO-ROCKET THRUST

A combination of three separate rockets will carry each satellite into its merry-go-round path.

A 46-foot-long Viking-type rocket, pointed up at a slight angle, will give the baby moon its first thrust, carrying it 10 miles or higher. When spent, this rocket will fall away, parachuting to earth. A 20-foot Aerobee-type rocket will take over, shooting the satellite still higher, at an even sharper angle, to heights of 200 miles or more.

As this second rocket is automatically detached, a third rocket, carrying the baby moon in its nose, will fire off. It will kick the satellite sidewise into an orbit around the earth.

This last rocket must fling the satellite away at a speed of about five miles a second, or 18,000 m. p. h. For speed is the secret of why the satellite will stay up.

With just the right speed, the baby moon can counteract the pull of gravity to stay in an orbit or pathway around the earth—just as the real moon does. It will circle just like a rubber ball attached to a string, swung around your head. The string keeps the ball from flying away. Gravity will keep the baby moon from wandering out into space.

CAN VARY ORBITS

Through careful calculations, each satellite can be set to circle at different heights and different orbits, for different kinds of scientific explorations and sensings of space. Some probably will be set swinging at a 200 mile height, others perhaps higher.

At 200 miles, in a circular orbit, the little moon would make a complete journey around our globe every 90 minutes. It would stay up for two weeks, perhaps a month, before the drag from the incredibly thin upper atmosphere brought it wheeling down in flaming death into our lower, denser air. It would finally burn up like a brilliant shooting star, leaving, probably, a handful of dust that will fall harmlessly to earth.

You will probably be able to see one or more of the little moons with your naked eye—if you have advance notice of where and when to look. They will be most visible low against a dark sky in the evening or shortly after sunrise. Seeming like a faint star, the satellite would pass from sight in a few minutes.

The satellites will rise to challenge space during the International Geophysical Year from mid-1957 to January, 1958. A guess is the first firings will come in the latter half of 1957.

The earth satellite program is just one phase of the IGY, in which scientists from 40 nations will cooperate in multinfluence studies to learn more about the world we live in.

SOMETHING AMUSES THE WINDSORS

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are amused as they watch, from their compartment of the boat train on which they left Paris to take ship to New York, the antics of the "King of Nations." The latter, Homer A. Tomlinson, American "Bishop of the Church of God," has been standing Paris on its ear by touring the city in multi-colored robes and a gold cloth crown. Police stopped him from delivering an oration over the tomb of Napoleon and Tomlinson decided to take the same boat train as the Windsors. (Central Press Canadian).

Huge Penguin Rookery Seen Off the Antarctic Continent

By RAUL FETT

WITH THE U.S. ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION (AP)—It is all but impossible to tell the ladies from the gentlemen among the little natives of the cold, white and lonely land at the bottom of the world.

This is one of the bits of intelligence gathered from a visit with a small party from the icebreaker Glacier to a huge penguin rookery near the base of Mount Bird on Ross Island, off the Antarctic continent.

The party from the lead ship of the U.S. Antarctic expedition is believed to be the first to visit the rookery since a British expedition in 1911.

This giant maternity ward is estimated to have some 50,000 adelie penguins. Adelies are the small model, averaging about 18 inches in height. The larger emperor penguin, which stands about 40 inches, is more difficult to find.

LIKE MECHANICAL TOYS

On the way across the bay ice to the mountain, we passed several of the walking dinner jackets out looking for food. With the white breasts, black backs and waddling walk, they look more like mechanical toys than birds. They move as if they had been wound up.

The penguin is sociable only up to a point. While a penguin may be a curious lass, and while it may waddle to within a few feet of a human and show off, it does not like to be touched by strangers.

Try to touch it and it will squawk like a wounded chicken and bat you with a flipper or nip you with a sharp beak.

The way to a penguin's heart is paved with pebbles. Malcolm Davis, curator of birds at the National Zoological Park in Washington and another member of the party visiting Mount Bird, gives this picture of a penguin courtship:

One penguin circles another, trumpeting and holding its flippers outstretched. The circling penguin then offers the other some pebbles. If they are accepted, then the penguins are legally married. But we still don't know whether it's the male or female that supplied the dowry. Even the experts can't decide.

SLIDE ON STOMACHS

When walking, penguins hold their flippers out for balance. They also travel on their stomachs propelling themselves by digging their toes into the ice and pushing. They look as if they are sleigh riding without sleighs.

The rookery on Mount Bird stretches across a red-black ridge of volcanic ash, with penguins standing only a foot or two apart. As we picked our way among them, the birds became protective, bowing and stepping at our feet.

In an incubation period of about 60 days, the parent penguins alternate sitting on the eggs. The penguin chick matures in three or four months. He then goes to sea for two years, following the shrimp north. Penguins frequently travel beyond the Antarctic circle, which means a trip of more than 600 miles. After two years they return to mate and hatch their eggs in the rookery in which they were born.

Inco Metals at work in Canada

Copper is one of 14 different elements obtained from Inco ores. Inco produces over 250,000,000 pounds of copper a year. More than half of this copper goes to Canadian manufacturers. Rainspouts and hundreds of other copper products are made in Canada from Inco copper. Copper rainspouts like this one usually last longer than the buildings they are installed on.

Here's how rainspouts made from INCO COPPER help provide jobs for thousands of Canadians

Jobs are created by making the things people want. Here's how Inco copper helps provide jobs for thousands of Canadians:

1 At Inco, Canadian workmen mine the ore. Then they concentrate and smelt the ore, finally producing refined copper as cakes, cathodes and wire bar. About 18,000 men and women are employed by Inco in Canada.

2 Canadian manufacturers buy refined copper from Inco and roll it into sheets and rod. Several thousand people are employed by these companies.

3 Then from the copper sheets, workmen in Canadian sheet metal companies fashion copper rainspouts like this one.

4 Canadian contractors, employing Canadian workmen, install these rainspouts on Canadian homes.

From the ore to the ultimate consumer's product, hundreds of items like this rainspout are made from Inco copper that never leaves Canada.

WEST HUNTINGDON

Evergreen Cheese Manufacturing Company Reports Successful Year

WEST HUNTINGDON — The Evergreen Cheese Manufacturing Company held its annual meeting at the plant on Friday. As has been the custom for a number of years the patrons assembled for the meeting in the forenoon and at the noon hour enjoyed the fellowship and a good dinner provided for by some of the men.

There was 95 per cent of the patrons and adherents present for the meeting, which was presided over by Mr. Clarence Fitchett.

Mr. Phillip Carr, who has given 16 years of excellent leadership as president, was returned for another year with an additional salary of $50, making his total salary $500.

Mr. Volney Richardson has also been the company's auditor for over 25 years.

The directors selected this year are: Clarence Fitchett, Raymond Chambers, Oliver Stapley, Vernie Heath and Norman Hagerman.

MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR

In presenting the financial statement it was revealed that the year 1955 was most successful. There was a total of 2,097,439 pounds of milk received and from this was manufactured 265,438 pounds of cheese that netted the patrons and stock holders $77,113.32.

In addition to this the Dominion premium was $3,153.47. Sales from whey cream amounted to $4,143.88. Those who delivered their milk to the plant received $70 per standard, while those whose milk was drawn received $64.77 per standard. This was somewhat more than in 1954.

The stockholders and patrons are to be congratulated in keeping their plant up-to-date with the latest modern equipment. They are most optimistic concerning the future of the cheese industry.

Unlike some of their neighboring communities instead of drifting to other avenues for milk outlet, they have stood by the cheese business and it is paying off in good dividends. In addition to the up-to-date plant they maintain a good residence for their most worthy cheesemaker, Mr. Ernest Reid, who has been engaged for 1956.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was starting to look at the paper after dinner, and ma said, I saw you, William.

How did I look? pop said, and ma said, I mean I saw you casting longing looks at your humidor.

There's no moral law against feasting my eyes, is there? pop said, and ma said, This is only the 2nd day of the new year, but flying glances show which way the wind blows, and I'ef sure in one more day you'll be bathed in cigar smoke from head to foot in spite of your resolution. Personaly I didn't make a single resolution, because I knew only too well that I'm human enough to brake any resolution that's worth keeping, the said.

Yee gods, that's one for the books, pop said, and ma said, Just the same, I've written down the 3 possible resolutions that I might make if I was silly enough to have myself into a momentary fool's paradise. Here they are on this slip of paper, I'll read them to you, she said.

Which she did being, One, resolved, to work out a housekeeping budget and keep within the set dollar and cent. Two, resolved, to strictly observe my reducing diet even when I dine at the most expensive resterants at somebody else's expense, or when I'm a guest at the most elaborate homes. Three, resolved, to spend at least half the time reading good books that I ordinarily waist looking at every Tom Dicken Harry TV show, good or bad. Well, there they are, William, and I must say I feel a righteous glow just reading them over and realizing that I wasn't weak enough to allow them to trap me, ma said.

The result being pop quick reetched in his humidor and took a cigar and smoked it all the ways down.

Puss'n Boots—made from fresh whole fish—gives your cat sparkling health and beauty!

These fresh-caught fish are cooked from Canadian coastal waters into sanitary canneries, where the whole fish is processed into Puss'n Boots Cat Food.

CATS GROW AND THRIVE ON NATURE'S LIFE BALANCE IN WHOLE FISH!

THE secret of a cat's health and disposition is in its feeding. According to biologists, the best single food you can give your cat is whole fish. Not just any part or scrap of fish. There's an important scientific reason for that word "whole". It's really an exciting story for any cat owner who wants a healthy, contented and good-looking pet.

Only Whole Fish has Life Balance

In a living fish there's a balance of those mysterious elements which nature uses to sustain a healthy, thriving organism. When whole fish is prepared for cat food, those elements are retained intact, just as they were in the living fish. The fillets supply rich proteins. The liver and glands yield precious vitamins. The bone structure provides calcium and phosphorus. From various parts of the fish come iron, vitamins, calcium, manganese and all those vital food elements which nature uses to sustain full vitality. That's why cat food made from parts or scraps of fish is not enough. While almost any part supplies something valuable, your cat needs all those nutrients, in nature's own life balance. Only the whole fish supplies them all.

Puss'n Boots is made from Whole Fish

Our business is cat food. Puss'n Boots is not made from parts of fish or scraps. We process whole fish, with nature's balance of nutritive elements intact as they were in the living fish. Valuable cereals are added for flavor and all round nutrition. You couldn't duplicate the food value in Puss'n Boots whole fish even if you went to endless trouble buying and cooking complicated meals for your cat. But all you have to do is open a can of pressure-cooked, ready-to-serve Puss'n Boots.

YOU CAN GIVE yourself a pleasant surprise by feeding Puss'n Boots regularly to your cat. In three weeks or less you'll see a more frisky pet, with a livelier step, a sleeker look, a more contented purr . . . more of all those lovable qualities you want in your pet. Try it!

Compare your cat's food with Puss'n Boots. Only Puss'n Boots is so well balanced . . . nourishes so completely!

Do You Feed HAMBURGER? Hamburger has a high amount of body-building protein and blood-enriching iron.	But HAMBURGER lacks energy-giving carbohydrates, is deficient in vitamins A and D.	PUSS'N BOOTS not only furnishes body-building protein and blood-enriching iron, but has an abundant amount of carbohydrates for energy and vitamin A for keen eyesight.
Do You Feed KIDNEY? Beef Kidney has a good supply of growth-giving protein, fat for energy, niacin for healthy skin.	But BEEF KIDNEY lacks manganese, one of the nutritive factors responsible for normal reproduction and healthy kittens.	PUSS'N BOOTS not only supplies niacin for smooth, healthy skin and fats for firmness but also the important mineral, manganese, so necessary to the mother cat and her kittens.
Do You Feed SALMON? Salmon (canned) has body-building protein, bone-building calcium and vitamin D.	But SALMON (canned) lacks vitamin A, so necessary for good eyesight and salmon contains very little carbohydrates.	PUSS'N BOOTS not only is a rich natural source of vitamin D and calcium, but contains vitamin A as well as valuable carbohydrates.
Do You Feed MILK? Milk has growth-giving protein, vitamins for strong bones and teeth, riboflavin and thiamin.	But MILK lacks iron, the mineral that's so important for good rich red blood. CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"TO A OR NOT TO A"

Wren Blair, fiery manager of the Whitby Dunlops, who has announced consistently for the most of the season that he will apply for senior "A" status next year, has gone a step farther.

The ebullient boss of the pace-setting Dunlops now wants the Eastern Ontario senior "B" group to apply for senior "A" rating, and has demanded and got a special meeting for that purpose.

Blair in a letter to Ontario Hockey Association vice-president Lorne Cook, convener of the eastern senior "B" group, requested the meeting which has been scheduled for the Queen's Hotel here tomorrow night.

Blair sent copies of his letter to Cook, to the manager of the Kingston Goodyears, the sports editor of the Brockville Times Recorder, and the manager of the Cornwall Colts. He ignored Belleville's TPT's management and the sports editors of the other clubs of the circuit.

In stories sent to the metropolitan press and The Canadian Press a short time ago, Blair reported his intentions of applying to the OHA for senior rating, saying Whitby fans were fed up with senior "B" hockey as it is played in the eastern B group. He also stated the average Whitby attendance was 1,100 and the average age of his club was 22.

Brockville and Cornwall will support Blair's bid for group entry in senior "A" rating. Kingston wants no part of it. The Belleville TPT's, through their president, have stated that they won't consider it.

Blair, however, is not burning any bridges behind him. Does his move mean wanting elevation in senior "A" provide an outlet for activity next year in case the OHA rejects his application for entry in the western group, despite his threat to fold?

He says: "If it (the group) elects to stay senior "B" that is their democratic right but we will go ahead with our plans to apply to the OHA to join the present senior "A" set-up."

"If Whitby were to be refused entry by the present senior "A" league we shall disband our club.

"The people up this way are not interested in senior "B" hockey. We fully believe we can't sell second-rate hockey to the people in this section, and therefore if we can't give them senior "A" hockey we shall have to cease operations."

Cornwall's Ray Miron said: "I am all in favor of senior "A". Our league is of senior calibre and our costs approach it." (This from the man who said his weekly payroll would not exceed $430. Stratford has to have 2,000 paid customers per night to break even.)

Miron said both Cornwall and Whitby were in favor of going senior "A" last season, but Kingston, Belleville and Brockville were against it.

Blair charges that senior "B" hockey has caused a drop in attendance at Kingston this season. (Paid attendance Friday night against Cornwall was 2481.)

Miron adds: "The move to senior "B" has hurt us at the gate for our crowds have fallen off. Actually we are undercutting ourselves and it is too bad we have to go along with a senior 'B' rating."

These remarks from two men who at a pre-season meeting last fall talked loud and long about high operational costs and the terrific expense involved through player imports. Miron was the one who advocated the cutting down of imports and using more local players.

He charges Kingston has been the biggest drawback to the move to senior "A". "They are apparently afraid of salary expenses. However, the league can make its own salary limits even with senior 'A'. It is up to the teams themselves how much money they spend," he says.

If Mr. Miron thinks he or any other club can get senior "A" players of the calibre of those in the western group for the stipend offered this way he is due for a terrific disappointment.

Assuming the Whitby club will not change its player personnel, as has stated, how can the change to senior "A" rating draw larger crowds in the other centres? Cornwall states it has fallen at the box office through senior "B" hockey. Does the name change mean that this present Whitby club, under a senior "A" moniker would pack the Cornwall or any other rink?

We are not going to predict what will happen at the meeting tomorrow night, but if Whitby, Brockville and Cornwall, vote for senior "A" rating, and Kingston and Belleville defeat that item? It will probably mean the disbandonment of the five-team group with the three "yeas" having the field to themselves.

The Whitby Dunlops rate as the best team in the senior "B" group in this circuit and probably in Ontario. As we have mentioned before the financial wizardry of Mr. Blair is something to be marvelled at. Perhaps he has imparted his system to Brockville and Cornwall. In any event the Dunlops-as at the moment are not getting any pay for their efforts, merely waiting for the split at the end of the season.

It is time all concerned realized that the drop in box office receipts at hockey arenas is not confined to this senior "B" group, but all over the province and country. Many clubs have folded—and it is not because of the calibre of hockey shown them. The sponsors know the answers.

Teen-Age Skier Thrills Crowd

SOUTH COLTON, N.Y. (CP)—A 13-year-old Quebec youngster shared the limelight with United States Olympic ski-jumpers Sunday in the fourth annual St. Lawrence University invitation ski meet.

Young Albert Welanarre, scarcely five feet tall, jumped 35b and 37b feet on the 35-metre hill. He didn't finish among the first 15 but captured the fancy of the spectators.

Art Devlin of the U.S. Olympic team won the event with record jumps of 184 and 182 feet.

Have Sizable 13-Point Lead Wings Close in on Rangers; Sloan Questing Second Bonus

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tod Sloan is starting to pick up his National Hockey League dividends.

Sloan, the Sinker to his Toronto Maple Leaf clubmates, scored twice Saturday to lead Toronto to a 6-2 victory over the seemingly-decrepit Boston Bruins. The performance moved him closer to his second bonus payoff by the Leafs.

Here's how it works: Leafs guaranteed Tod a bonus when he scored 30 goals. The price was not disclosed. And with every additional five goals, he gets a bonus.

When the 32-year-old Toronto centre signed his 1955-56 contract last fall he said a productive season could mean this would be the richest year of my hockey career." It probably will be.

22 SO FAR

Sloan's output to date is 22 goals in 40 games. In the last five seasons with Leafs Sloan's best record was 31 goals in 1950-51. He could beat that in this campaign.

In the other Saturday game, the league-leading Montreal Canadiens edged the fifth-place Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 at Montreal.

On Sunday the Habs paced by Gordie Howe's two goals, defeated Cleveland 4-3 and Detroit and Hawks overpowered the second - place Rangers 5-3 at New York.

The Montreal-Habs and New York loss increased Canadiens league lead to 13 points over Rangers. The Montrealers have 57 points on 25 wins and seven ties in 40 starts. Wings are third with 41 points, three behind Rangers. Leafs are fourth with 35, Chicago next with 34 and the Bruins last with 25.

At Toronto, Leafs surged into a 4-0 lead in the first period before 12,685 fans and tyroed over Boston in the second. Sloan got his 21st goal of the season at 4:09 of the first period. It gave Leafs a 1-0 lead. He made it 3-1 at the 25-second mark of the third session with his 22nd marker.

THEN THEY RELAXED

Canadiens set up a 3-0 lead over Hawks in the first two periods and then eased up. That's when Hawks took advantage, scoring their only goal of the night.

A crowd of 13,949 was on hand to see Bert Olmstead, Dickie Moore and Ken Mosdell rack up the Canadiens goals. Center Eddie Sandford tallied for Hawks.

At Detroit Howe scored the 18th and 19th goals of the term in the Red Wing victory. Both were on 30-foot shots that Boston goaltender Terry Sawchuk—a former Detroiter—couldn't handle.

Wings almost blew a 3-0 lead but managed to hold on. Marty Pavelich and Alex Delvecchio also scored for Wings. Murray Costello, Don McKenney and Lorne Ferguson accounted for the Boston goals.

There were 14,267 customers in New York's Madison Square Garden to see Hawks snap a four-game losing streak.

Johnny Wilson tallied twice for Hawks. Nick Mickoski, Red Sullivan and Hank Ciesla took care of the other goals. Andy Hebenton scored twice in Rangers' losing effort. Ron Murphy got the other.

No games are scheduled until Wednesday, when Canadiens are at New York.

CANADIANS LOSE

ALLAHABAD, India (Reuters)—Don Fontana of Toronto and Roger Becker of Britain Sunday lost 8-7, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1 to Iftakhar Ahmed of Pakistan and Ramanathan Krishnan of India in the men's doubles finals of the central Indian lawn tennis championships.

Abrupt Turnabout

Commission Scores Clean KO Boxing Guild Breathes Last

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Its back broken, its morale shattered, the once-defiant New York Boxing Managers Guild was ready today to surrender unconditionally to the New York state athletic commission.

The guild's board of governors scheduled a meeting for 3 p.m. EST and one informant told The Associated Press the organization will be voted out of existence.

Just four days ago the guild voted 40-0 to defy Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, who ordered the guild to dissolve by Jan. 16 because, he alleged, some of the clubs were connected with criminals.

But the swift-moving developments that followed the guild's vote led to an abrupt turnabout. They included:

CRACKED HELFAND

1. The International Boxing Club headed by Jim Norris, the biggest boxing promoter in the U.S., aligning itself behind Helfand.

2. Refusal of the Maryland state commission to sanction bouts by the London Sporting Club, which has been operating at St. Nicholas Arena here.

3. Resignation from the guild of Al Weill, manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

Said one guild member:

"Most of us were badly advised when we were told to refuse to testify at the recent hearings Helfand conducted. Everyone knows that the International Boxing Guild (the parent body to the New York) is run things. But if we needed it for the fine things it did in negotiating television and other contracts."

Bobby Gleason, manager of heavyweight Nino Valdez, said he will try to revive the old "ring board of trade," which would act as a managers' association.

He said he will ask Helfand to approve it and added that any member would have to hold a New York state manager's license to be a member. That would prevent any pitchards of the banned guild from joining.

HE DON'T KNOW"

Meanwhile, Charley Johnston, the International's president, who is in San Francisco with his featherweight champion, Sandy Saddler, had little to say.

"I don't know what's going on back there," he snapped. "I'm not going to have anything to say nor will I say what they do."

Tex Sullivan, who promotes the St. Nick's fights with Willie (the Beard) Gilzenberg, said he is going to try to square himself with Helfand today for trying to move to Baltimore. He said:

"When the guild refused to furnish me fighters after Jan. 16, Helfand's deadline, I had to plan to move out of New York. When I was given the green light for Baltimore, I was told I'd have to cooperate with Benny Trotta (whom Helfand blasted as having a criminal record).

"My sole dealing with Trotta was his introduction of me to Nate Bernstein, the man who owned the Baltimore Coliseum where the bouts would take place. As it stands now, I have lost my $1,500 deposit on the coliseum, and would lose $4,000 for the last two weeks of January if I fail to run at St. Nick's.

"I will be the only loser, because if I'm barred the TV people can run through some other promoter."

Montreal Rink Wins Trophy At Detroit

DETROIT (CP)—Fred Rubbra, veteran stonesman of the Montreal Thistle Curling Club, skipped his rink to the Michigan Trophy, premier award in the four-day 70th annual international bonspiel that wound up late Sunday at the Detroit Curling Club.

In 1953, he was ousted in the semi-finals. His win this year was his first in 10 competitions.

Rubbra and mates Ken Gebbie, Wilf Marchant and Ed Potter won the final event from Phil Nolle's Milwaukee foursome by a count of 15-9.

Nolle gained the final round when he rapped Doug Fisk's Detroit quartet 13-6 while Rubbra made the finals Saturday with a 9-7 win over London's Jack Nash.

Jimmy Broomfield skipped his Galt rink, composed of Watty Reid, Alex Smith and Jim Scott, to the Detroit Cup, second major event of the spell when he laced Lou Billings' rink for inSamilton Victoria Curling Club 13-5.

Down 5-0 after four ends, the Galt rink surged ahead with three on the fifth and sixth ends to take the lead and stay in front the rest of the way in the 13-end match.

Gord Brock of Kitchener skipped his rink—converting Art Zimaile, Nels Beinsteen and Bob Thompson —to the Nate Cornwall Trophy by downing Luke Collins' Wawanosa Wis., rink 13-6 in the third cup event.

Minor Hockey

The Brulns, Red Wings and Rangers came out on top in the Bantam hockey games played at Memorial Arena Saturday morning. The Red Wings shaded the Canadiens 4-3, the Rangers nosed the Black Hawks 3-2 while the Bruins blanked the Maple Leafs 5-0.

Knight starred in goal for the Bruins in gaining the shutout while Peggy Keller netted two of the goals. McKenzie picked up a goal and assist with David Benn and Boyle also scoring. Hallam achieved a brace of assists with one each for Clapp and Boulter.

The Rangers' marksmen were B. Pringle, Durrant and J. Irvin, with unassisted goals. G. Chase and Sinclair scored for the Hawks with Peoples and Scott claiming assists.

P. Adams paced the Wings to victory with two goals while Mc Cuire had a goal and one helper. Ross got his second with Zakem and Hardwick drawing assists. Hull, Mavety and Dahl fired the Canadien goals with Hunter and Hunter were credited with assists.

Yankee, Canuck Player Fight Much Tougher

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Officials of Toronto Argonauts and Winnipeg Blue Bombers said here Saturday competition between U. S. and Canadian pro football teams for American college players has become much tougher.

Harry Sonkhine, Argos managing director, Wally Blue Bombers general manager, and Winnipeg coach Al Sherman, made the statement in interviews while attending the annual senior bowl game in which seven U.S. college players turned pro.

They agreed that in the past Canadian clubs usually got a player they wanted him fairly easily.

"It's a lot different now," said Sonkhine. "The competition dollarwise is much tougher. They (National Football League clubs) are not stopping to figure out the cost. They just pass what we are offering."

Sonkhine added, however, that he had signed "a few players who are pretty well up in the initial National League draft list." He declined to name the players.

Sherman said "we haven't signed a boy here." He said he did not expect any others who played in the senior bowl who had been signed as yet would join Canada clubs. He said his club is "close to signing three boys." Sherman likewise declined to name the players.

Byrne, Robinson Heros of 1955 Comebacks

COMEBACK OF THE YEAR

NEW YORK (AP)—A pitcher and a hitter—Tommy Byrne and Sugar Ray Robinson, are the stars of the two most dramatic comeback stories of U.S. sports in 1955.

Byrne, who once said it took him 15 years to learn to pitch, returned from the minor league obscurity to which his wildness had consigned him, and became one of the leading figures in the New York Yankees' drive to the American League pennant. He won 16 and lost five.

Robinson, who had retired from boxing about two years before when his great career seemed to have reached an end, came back to the ring and regained the middleweight title from Bobo Olson with a second-round knockout.

BYRNE WAS FIRST

Byrne's return was picked as the "sports comeback of the year" by the sports writers and broadcasters participating in The Associated Press year-end poll with Robinson's a strong second.

The came the Michigan State's football team and coach Duke Daugherty, Brooklyn Dodger ex's, baseball's world champions, and Dodger catcher Roy Campanella.

Michigan State's football comeback story was simple—from a 6-3 record in 1954, Daugherty's first season as head coach, to 9-1 and the Rose Bowl in 1955. The Spartans made a double comeback—first to win the Big Ten football championship and then to win the world series after losing the first two games to the Yankees.

Campanella, plagued by injuries in 1954 and hurt again last June, recovered to become the most valuable player and comeback king of the National League in 1955.

Bulldogs Win, Mercurys Lose Pair

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen broke out of a scoring slump during the weekend to snap a four-game losing streak and revive activity in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

The league-leaders overpowered Stratford Indians 9-2 at Kitchener Saturday to retain their 13-point lead over Toronto Marlboros. Bulldogs, tied for second with 32 points each.

Bulldogs moved into the deadlock with Stratford Sunday by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 5-3 at Windsor. Mercurys lost 7-6 to Chatham Maroons Saturday after 10 minutes of overtime at Chatham.

A Kitchener crowd of 4,179 fans watched Dutchmen and Indians fired 2-1 in each of the first two periods, then open up with five goals apiece in the last frame.

Jack McKenzie and George Scholes each scored two goals for the winners. Buddy Blair, Gerry Brooker, Don Rope and Ken Laufman counted the other Kitchener-Waterloo goals. Tommy Wallace and Art Hurst scored for Indians.

The win gives Dutchmen 46 points 12 ahead of Windsor and Stratford. Mercurys have 27 points, two more than Chatham.

Bruce Dale of Windsor and Red Berry of Owen Sound waged a goalscorers' battle before 1,785 fans at Windsor, Dale made 38 stops and Henry 35.

George Gee and Bob Abbott paced the Windsor scoring with two goals early in the middle frame. Ted Powers and Jim Connelly were the other Chatham marksmen. Red Leslie, Ralph Hoskins, Jim Lumley, Jerry Reid, with a pair, and Burtington scored for Owen Sound.

The next game is scheduled for Tuesday when Kitchener - Waterloo visits Windsor.

Russ 'Mum' Over Olympics Prospects Winter Fortes Are Hockey, Skating

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Russia makes its first appearance in winter Olympics at Cortina a few weeks hence and sports bosses around here are keeping pretty mum about prospects.

They are known to be strong in two departments: Hockey and speed skating.

M.M. Pesiyak, vice-president of both the Soviet sports committee and its Olympics committee, says the Russian squad for the games will number between 125 and 130 persons with 90 to 95 of them actual contestants. They will enter all skiing events, speed skating and hockey. They will not enter bobsledding "because that sport has never been cultivated in the Soviet Union."

NO FIGURE SKATERS

Also, they probably won't field any figure skaters. Pesiyak says Soviet figure skating is not believed to be on a competitive par.

Pesiyak says the Soviet Union is not making special arrangements for hotel selection of team members.

"This year we have been unlucky with winter so we asked all athletes to train where they live," he said. "We shall judge results in January"—both at the Moscow and Leningrad tracks and later in competition in Germany, Switzerland and Austria. Soviets have accepted a speed skating meet invitation at Davos, Switzerland, Jan. 28-29. They also have a better look at who the best contestants are.

There is no question about who is going to play hockey for them: the fast, wary Soviet Union's national team will take on the job and they will be aiming for the title spot. They have had some international competition, in December rounding Czechoslovakian ringsy Racers. The British were hampered by extreme cold which the Russians seemed to thrive on. Cold? It's unseasonably cold in Cortina it will work to the Soviet advantage.

Pesiyak is very cagey about making any forecasts on how Russia will do. Any points on that this is the Soviet Union's first appearance in winter Olympics—after having made a massive bow at Helsinki in 1952 in the Olympics—and isn't taking any chances.

Hops 16 Barrels Breaks Record

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—Leo Letsel of Grand Field, N.Y., hurdled 16 barrels, a world record, with a jump of 56 feet, 6 inches Saturday to retain his title in the sixth annual international barrel jumping championship.

The 25-year-old ice skater failed to equal his own record of 28 feet, seven inches set last year. He cleared 15 barrels in that jump.

Paul Rossville, 19, a Quebec City student, was second, clearing 15 barrels in a jump of 53 feet.

Yvon Jolin, 29, of Montreal, lost his Canadian championship to Rossville with a four-place finish.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jean Beliveau of Montreal held his lead in the National Hockey League's scoring race during the weekend, but Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings and Ted Kennedy moved up as the big Canadiens' centre settled down to assist.

Beliveau has 46 points, comprised of 23 goals and 23 assists, both the first-place lead over teammate Maurice Richard. The Rocket has two assists in Montreal's single contest. He has 22 goals.

Howe scored two goals to move into a tie for third place with Andy Bathgate of New York, who raced one assist. Howe has 19 goals now, and he and Bathgate have 41 points each.

Montreal's Bert Olmstead scored his eighth goal for 39 points and Glenn Hall got two goals and an assist to vault in behind with 35 points. Sloan also has 22 goals so far this season.

A point back is the Rangers' Andy Bathgate, who added an assist for a total of 34 points.

Tim Horton of Montreal, who leads in goalkeeping averages, allowed only one goal to stay on top of the list. Detroit's Terry Sawchuk, second to Glenn Hall of Detroit with seven. Jacques Plante of New York and winger Ted Lindsay of Detroit stayed neck and neck in the most penalties department with 104 minutes each.

Russians Ready For Canadians Says Coach

VIENNA (AP)—Russia's Olympic hockey team arrived here Saturday and its coach said his players have undergone special training to prepare for the hard-hitting Canadians.

Coach Chernishev said the Russian team will try some "tactical novelties" in the world championships in Italy next month. He did not elaborate except to indicate that the training was intended to cope with the Canadian bodychecking game.

Despite the special preparations, the Russian coach was not overly optimistic about his team's chances of regaining the title from Canada, represented this year by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

"The Canadians had a strong team (Penticton Vs) at the world championships last year," he said in an interview. "Now we hear they will send an even stronger team to the Olympic Games this year."

Northern Electric Hockey League

The league semi-finals opened over the weekend with the Barons edging the Hornets 5-4 and the Indians downing the Flyers 7-5 in the first games of the two-of-three series.

Martin paced the Barons with two goals and one assist while Kirkconnell and Wardhaugh had one and one. Woods also had three with assists for Barclay and Kobeuka. Ron Belnap, James, Bedard and Gary Little tallied for the Hornets with helpers for D. Smark, James and Belnap.

Johnny Semack had a field day for the Indians, scoring five goals and two assists in his one - man show. Locke and Soule also hit the hemp with York assisting on three and S. Little one. Gregory had two Flyer goals as did Barrett with Pukanstic getting the odd one. Hatfield, Hutchinson and Gregory drew one assist each.

Ted Hurst and Dave Jones handled the official duties.

Coach Jim Tatum Leaves Maryland For N. Carolina

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Jim Tatum has quit the job that earned him a reputation as one of football's masley tacticians to become head coach at the University of North Carolina.

He announced his resignation Sunday as football coach and athletic director at the University of Maryland to take a job that will pay less, but lighten the load of his responsibilities.

North Carolina is his alma mater.

Contract terms were not announced.

Tatum said: "I'm not going down there as athletic director and coach, only as coach. You ought to get some idea from that, that Carolina can't afford to pay me as much as Maryland was." He received $18,500 yearly at Maryland and held the job for nine years.

AT THE BELLE — Clark Gable has the drop on Robert Ryan, in this dramatic highlight in "The Tall Men", the new CinemaScope production, showing tonight for the last times at the Belle. But don't take this as final. The advantage may only be momentary as Jane Russell and Cameron Mitchell are also starred in this tremendous motion picture, in color Delaxe.

Teepees Win Pair for Top Spot Tie Cubs Vacate Cellar With Irish Defeat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines TeePees have another player threatening for the scoring championship of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League. TeePee players have won it for the last two seasons.

Ab McDonald ran his point-total to 34 during the weekend to take a three-point lead over second-place Gus Bodnar of Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks. McDonald, 20-year-old native of Sydney, fired two goals Saturday as TeePees defeated Guelph Biltmores 5-3 at St. Catharines.

In the second game of the weekly Sunday doubleheader at Toronto, McDonald scored his 33rd goal as TeePees climbed into a first-place tie with Canucks by beating Toronto Marlboros 4-2. Hamilton Cubs vacated the league cellar with a 5-1 win over Toronto St. Michael's Majors in the first game.

McDonald, at his present pace, 54 points in 28 games—could follow in the footsteps of Hank Ciesla, who won the scoring crown last season with 57 goals and 49 assists for 106 points in 49 games. Brian Cullen, playing with Teepees in 1953-54, fired 48 goals and 93 assists for 161 points in 59 games to lead the league.

Both goals by McDonald at St. Catharines were scored while Guelph was playing shorthanded.

Pat Kelly, Mitch Plata and Bob Butler scored the other St. Catharines goals. Brian Webber had a pair for Biltmores with the other going to Bill Sweezey.

McDonald's goal against Marlboros was somewhat of a gift. With the score 3-2 for TeePees and less than a minute remaining in the game, Marlboro coach Turk Broda pulled rookie goaltender Les Brad-ford from the net. The TeePee left winger picked up the loose puck at his blueline and raced down the ice to score into an empty net.

Art Stratton, Butler and Len Ronson scored TeePees' first three goals early in the second period after Cullen and Bodnar had given Marlboros a 1-0 first-period lead. Bob Nevins scored the second Toronto goal.

Roy Edwards in the St. Catharines goal and Broderick played a brilliant game. Edwards stopped 30 shots while Broderick handled 20 drives.

The loss was Marlboros' first in eight games. It left them in fourth place with 27 points, three behind St. Michael's. Kitchener-Waterloo and TeePees have 31 points each for a three-point edge over third-place Majors. Biltmores are in a fifth-place deadlock with Hamilton, each having 22 points. Barrie Flyers are last with 21.

Hamilton Cubs, backed by the outstanding outstanding of Dennis Riggin, built up a 5-0 lead over Majors in the first two periods before robbed Riggin of a sutout with three minutes left in the game.

A crowd of 5,630 saw the Jerry Sullivan-Brian Smith-Bill Binnie line account for three of Cubs' five goals. Each scored a goal with Sullivan picking up three assists and Binnie and Smith two each. Guy James and Cummy Burton scored the other Hamilton goals.

Cubs play host to Guelph in tonight's lone engagement.

Jake Gaudaur Re-elected as Tiger-Cat Boss

HAMILTON (CP) — Jake Gaudaur was elected to his third term as president of the Hamilton Tiger-Cat football club at the annual meeting of the board of directors Saturday.

Gaudaur, appointed general-manager of the Big Four Union team last month, also is a franchise-holder of the TCats. J. S. McMahon was re-elected vice-president, a position he has held for two years.

Three new directors are Joseph Atwell, Ross Fischer and Roy Robertson.

Resignation of Ralph Cooper as director was accepted by the board. Cooper, president of the Big Four in 1955, said last month he intended to resign because of business pressure. He will remain a Hamilton franchise holder.

Officials said that instead of an anticipated loss of between $7,000 and $10,000 for 1955 operations, the club may break even when all accounts are tabled.

Parker, Arthur Fight Tonight's Battle of Giants

TORONTO (CP) — The British Empire heavyweight boxing champion — Canadian version—will be crowned tonight in a bout bringing together two fighting contenders.

James J. Parker of Barrie, who stands six feet, 3½ inches, goes for the first time against six-foot-two Johnny Arthur, South African champ from Johannesburg.

The Canadian Boxing Federation and Ontario athletic commission have ruled that the Empire crown will be at stake. The British boxing board of control refuses to recognize it as a title bout.

Both fighters claims the idle Don Cockell of London, England, still is the champion. Cockell hasn't had a fight since he was knocked out by world champion Rocky Marciano early last year. Shortly afterward there were reports Cockell would retire from the ring.

Parker is expected to weigh in at 212. Arthur will weigh about 220. The fight is scheduled for 12 rounds.

Parker has won 26 and lost five professional bouts. Included in his victories are 22 knockouts. He has been knocked out twice.

Arthur has fought in 33 professional matches, winning 26, 23 by knockouts. He has suffered five losses, including one knockout. Arthur lost a 15-round decision to Cockell two years ago for the Empire title.

Matchmaker Deacon Allen says each fighter will receive 25 per cent of the gross gate.

HEAD FOR HOME

OXFORD, England (Reuters)—Twenty-nine senior officers from six North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries headed for home Friday night after attending the first senior officers' conference on international affairs. Canada acted as the host nation.

Speedskater Nips Two Records

SASKATOON (CP) — Johnny Sands, 22-year-old Saskatoon member of Canada's Olympic speed-skating team, has eclipsed two Canadian records and equalled another as part of an extensive training program that has brought him to peak condition for the 1956 winter Olympic Games at Cortina, Italy, later this month.

Sands winds up his workouts on home ice today and is to leave by plane Tuesday night for Montreal. He will make a number of public appearances in eastern Canada before leaving Friday for Milan, Italy.

During his workouts, Sands equalled his 220-yard record of 18.3 seconds, knocked two-fifths of a second off his 400-yard mark of 36.3 and clipped two seconds off Frank Stecky's Canadian half-mile record of 1:19.4.

TV Cameras Will Remain Taboo In Court Cases

MONTREAL (CP) — Television cameras are likely to remain taboo in criminal courts here, it was indicated in a cross-section poll of judges during the weekend.

The judges were asked to comment on a recent televising of a murder trial in Texas.

"The role of the television camera is basically entertainment," said Judge Gerald Almond, "A courtroom is not a playhouse. I feel the televising of the miseries and hardships of many accused, and even witnesses, who are under oath would in fact be against the public interest."

Judge Almond is the only Montreal criminal court judge who has had occasion to order television cameras from his court. During a so-called "black market baby racket" case in 1954, the judge ordered CBC television cameras from arraignment court before the hearing opened.

NO USEFUL PURPOSE

Judge Almond said newspaper and radio reporters are constantly present in court "safeguarding the principle of the public hearings. In certain cases they may be asked by the jury to withhold the name of a witness, or a certain aspect of the case, because its publicity would serve no useful purpose and might actually be harmful."

The Judge also noted that newspapers are not permitted to take pictures in court.

Judge Willie Proulx said "a picture pinpoints identity more than anything else. We must not forget there are many narrow-minded people in the world and that even if the accused is acquitted he might suffer."

Judge Henri Masson Lovanger said, "Even if an accused is found guilty, it must be remembered the criminal court is not necessarily the court of final judgment. He might be cleared on appeal."

Deep River Takes Honors

SMITHS FALLS (CP) — Rinks from Deep River skipped by Dr. W. D. Neelly and Dr. W. Sabley will represent group ten in the Ontario Silver Tankard competition of the Ontario Curling Association.

The Deep River entry defeated Smiths Falls 26-18 in the final of a six-club group playoff here Saturday. Dr. Skelly won 15-10 against D. C. Smith while Dr. Ashmore turned back J. E. McDougall 11-8. Deep River advances to the next round of the double rink event in Toronto Jan. 26.

HEADS SOCCER LEAGUE

HAMILTON (CP)—R. J. MacDonald of Hamilton was elected president of the Southern Ontario Soccer League Sunday.

Vice-president is Alphis Schmidt of Hamilton. James Blake of Kitchener was elected secretary. Directors are Kurt Trant and Hans Zerlach, both of Hamilton.

Industrial Hockey

The Ontario Intelligencer combined a hard checking defence and some excellent goaltending by Don Jackson over the weekend to hand Point Anne their initial defeat of the season, by a 5-3 score. In the other game in the two-team, two-end clubs, Meads whipped Corbett 7-4.

The Intell fought back after trailing 2-1 in the early minutes of the game to down the Pointers. Cameron McKenna fired two goals and defenseman Art Wellodon added a while Gord Green, Ray Brannigan and Pat Maracle tallied for the losers.

With the score 3-3 and under 15 minutes to play, Les St. Denis tallied the winner and minutes later Gord St. Louis salted away the decision with the insurance tally.

Meads picked up their first win of the year with two-goal efforts by Rob Burrows and Harvey Stoltzfus paving the way. Leroy McBrien, Bill Muirhead and Derek Herd also scored for the winners. Names of the Corbin scorers were not available.

A league meeting has been called for Memorial Arena tonight at 7.00 p.m. with all managers and coaches urged to attend.

Head Linesman May Never Officiate Again

HAMILTON (CP)—Sammy Richardson of Hamilton, head linesman in the Big Four Football Union, may never officiate in another game because of spinal injuries he suffered when accidentally bowled over by a player last Nov. 19.

Richardson entered hospital Friday for observation. He and Montreal end, Hal Patterson collided during the Big Four final playoff game between Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts.

Richardson, Big Four referee-in-chief, said Sunday night he doesn't know how serious Richardson's injuries are but "there's a possibility Sammy may never officiate again."

Richardson, 37, has been able to work only three days at his job with a local manufacturing company since the accident.

Richardson has been head linesman for six years. He was a halfback with the old Hamilton Tigers in the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union and played with the Big Four Tigers in 1938 and 1939.

Dutchies to Be Honored by Special Stamp

KITCHENER (CP) — Even the mayflies in Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen's home rink are recognizing Canada's Olympic hockey team.

A special stamp - cancellation mark will be used on all mail leaving Kitchener for one month.

A slogan reading "home of Canada's Olympic hockey team 1956" goes into use Jan. 23, the day a commemorative five-cent hockey stamp is issued.

Specially - illustrated envelopes also are being prepared in Kitchener for use with the stamp and slogan. They are printed in the Dutchmen's colors of green and white and carry a picture of Kitchener-auditorium.

The Kibitzer

What to do with a freak hand is always a problem. Being a poor guesser my choice is to follow rule. If no sound rule applies, it is my practice to pass and await developments.

In the mail comes the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠A ♥K 8 7 6
♦J
♣A J 5 3
WEST	EAST
♠3	♠10 8 7 6
♥6 5 4 3 2	♥9
♦K Q 10 6	♦9 8 7 4
♣A Q J	♣10 9 8 5 2
SOUTH
♠J 9 5 4 2
♥A K Q 10 9 8 7

They tell me the bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
3 ♥	Pass	4 N-T	Pass
7 ♥	Pass	7 N-T	Pass
7 ♦	Double	All Pass

As dealer with the south hand I would probably have passed and come back strong if the bidding was passed by everybody else. In that case, the bidding would probably go like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	Double	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 N-T	Pass	5 N-T	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	6 ♥	All Pass

With an experienced partner, our bid beyond game is our signal for asking partner to go six in that suit if he has two aces; to let it remain at five hearts if he has four aces and two kings.

A four no-trump asker of aces need have but two aces and a king. The five heartier admits slam stuff without having two aces.

Having heard what south wanted, if north bids six no-trump he is assumed to have good reasons. So, his decisions should be respected.

They tell me that west did not lead his club ace or diamond king. He got a little piggish and thought he could set the declarer more by playing a waiting game. His opening lead was the single-ton spade. If so, much makes the grand slam. Could you?

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Johnny Longden was suspended Saturday for five days by the board of stewards for interference in a race at Santa Anita park Friday. Longden was set down for crossing over without sufficient clearance while riding Montco in the third race. The suspension will run from Jan. 10 to 14.

SETS TRACK RECORD

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Deedy, post-graduate student at Georgetown, shattered the world indoor three-quarter-mile record Saturday night by running the distance in 3:01.2, in the Metropolitan A.A.U. track championships.

Deedy, who ran on Georgetown relay teams several years back, was an added starter, taking the place of Wes Santee, who pulled out because of a sore right calf. Santee, who had announced he would try for the record, warmed up for an hour, but then decided not to chance aggravating the bad leg which he injured a week ago.

Deedy eclipsed the late John Borican's record of 3:02.6, set in 1950.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, Jan. 10, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You are now sitting in a favorable position for both business and professional ventures. If you study facts and keep improving. The margin between success and failure is fine at times, so look sharply.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This could be a busy and productive day for all well managed affairs. Scotch schemes which look questionable and bear in mind that others are aiming for the same gains and goals that you are.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini) — The will to make the grade is essential, and the Gemini native generally has it — but is often too hasty. Study and analyze situations more thoroughly.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer) — Illusions may throw you off balance if you are not alert and awake to situations. There are many opportunities, but careful thinking and hard work are needed to win success.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — "Old fashioned" ideas can often be brought up to date with surprising results. Be specific, consistent and, above all, never underestimate nor overestimate your capacities.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Some retrenching — at least reviewing — is in order now. Less haste might bring better results. Pause, reflect, then proceed calmly.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Stimulating rays for mental work, developing new ideas, trying new fields, etc. Your innate good judgment and, after due consideration, go forward confidently.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Grant no quarter where questionable matters or persons are concerned. Aspects are against being "taken in"—especially in monay and deals.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — You may have to forget yourself in order to do more for those who depend on you, but you enjoy this. The change in pace will ultimately give you greater impetus to make further gains.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — The morning hours may give you some concern, especially in business matters. Avoid a take-it-for-granted attitude. Put your best efforts and resources to work, and, above all, don't give up!

January 22 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Optimism should increase, which, in turn, will draw others to you. If you must make changes in plans, do so only after careful consideration.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — An upward trend in matters close to you will manifest itself now. Emphasize initiative, thoroughness and cheerfulness to work for the top results you can obtain.

You born today are of the Sign Capricorn; are steady — going, companionable, a good worker, but not so fond of home chores as of truly hard work "on the outside." This does not necessarily mean out-doors, but activity that brings you in contact with people, business, civic, and economic affairs. Capricorn has given us many fine statesmen, welfare workers and government employees. You may balk at things you don't approve of, but will listen to courteous reasoning. You won't be driven, however. You do not always show your family the deep affection you have for them but you will forgive and defend them loyally. Birthdate of—Ethan Allen, famous Ame. Revolutionary soldier.

TERMINATE CONTRACT

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Immigration official O.D.A. Oberg took off today for the United States and Canada in the hope of bringing "a steady stream" of North American technicians to Australia. Oberg, assistant secretary to the federal immigration advisory council, said he will seek young men to help relieve a shortage of skilled workers in Australian industry. He will spend six months touring the U. S. and Canada.

MAKE REPAIRS ALOFT

GUAM (AP)—A crippled B-36 bomber landed safely today after circling this United States Pacific island base for almost 10 hours with a damaged wing and landing gear. The trailing edge of the left wing of the giant bomber somehow pulled loose when the plane took off at midnight on a routine flight. B-29 rescue planes convoyed the crippled bomber until daylight when the B-36 crew were able to make emergency repairs aloft.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was in Pudd'n house swapping postage stamps with him, and he said, G, heck, I just remembered I'm suppose to go and have my hair cut. My father has been warning me for a week, and this morning he warned me special, he said.

Oh boy, that makes me just remind me about my hair every day, and Pudd said. Gosh shang it, I wonder why they think it's so darn important for us to get out hair cut so often.

Sure, why should they care? I said. They only see us twice a day, once at breakfast and once at night, I said, and Pudd said, Sometimes my father dont even see me at breakfast.

Mine either, so that only makes once a day a lot of the time, I said. Heck, they ought to be able to see us that much without suffering, I said, and Pudd said, I wish some doctor would prove it's unhelthy to have our hair cut so often.

I bet it is, too, I said. Just when your skalp is nice and warm you suddnly have a lot of drafts in. I bet that's why we catch a lot of the colds we catch, I said, and Pudd said, I'm going to tell that my father the next time he starts to begin a speech on the subject.

Sounding like a good idea for an argument against having your hair cut, and I said, Anyways, if we go to the barber shop now it'll make us late for lunch a lot of times and that's worse than coming in with our hair still unset.

Sure, nuthing's worse than that, we better remember to have our hair cut tomorrow or else, Pudd said.

Which we probably will, on account of being G to remind each other.

BETTER FOR ULCERS

LONDON (Reuters) — Stomach ulcers will heal faster on a normal diet than on the traditional fare of bread and milk, medical researchers reported here today. Tests involving 100 patients showed in three near-normal diets ac cured a greater proportion of ulcers than the bland, high-carbohydrized diet, the medical journal Lancet reported.

CASABLANCA BEAUTY IS "MISS FRANCE"

Mlle. Gisela Charbit, of Casablanca, centre, acknowledges the crowd's cheers after being elected "Miss France, 1956". At extreme left is Margue Fabre of Marseilles, who was the original choice, but who had to withdraw following loud public protest. She finished fourth in the "re-run". The queen's maids-of-honor are Monique Lefevre of Lorraine, second from left, and Danielle Aubry of Troyes, at extreme right. Since Mlle. Charbit resides in North Africa she is not eligible to take part in the "Miss Europe" contest. France will, therefore, be represented by Mlle. Lefevre.

Kirkland Lake Wife Has Gone To Moscow

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — A young Kirkland Lake wife separated from her husband since 1948 has gone to Moscow to live with him because he couldn't come to Canada.

The mother of Mrs. Branko Vukelic said Saturday she has received a cable from her daughter, the former Mary Segina, that she has been reunited with her husband.

Mrs. Segina said Mary met her husband in 1946 when he was military attache at the Yugoslav embassy in Washington. He had been in Kirkland Lake to make a speech. They were married the same year in Washington and moved to Ottawa, where Mr. Vukelic became assistant ambassador.

In 1948 he was recalled and because he had criticized his government during his stay in Canada he was imprisoned for five years.

News of his imprisonment reached Mrs. Vukelic soon after the second child, Mira, now seven was born. Their first child, Slobodan, now nine.

When Mr. Vukelic was released from prison he went to Albania, moving on last spring to Moscow where he got a job as a metallurgist.

Mrs. Vukelic tried to get her husband to Canada, but since she is not a Canadian citizen she was not allowed into the country. So she applied for admission to Russia.

Last week she and her two children left by plane and the family now is reunited in Moscow.

LITERARY SEARCH LEADS TO ANCIENT TOMB

After 10 years of campaigning and research, Calvin Hoffman, distinguished American drama critic, is to be given his big chance to debunk William Shakespeare. When a stonemason removes two stone panels from the front of the ornate Walsingham family tomb in Chislehurst, Kent, Eng., within the next few weeks, Hoffman expects to see a leaden coffin and beside it an iron box, a chest mentioned in Walsingham's will. Inside the chest, he hopes to find original manuscripts of such plays as Hamlet and Henry Fifth written by Christopher Marlowe, but put out under the name of Shakespeare, an actor who was paid to father them. Hoffman maintains that it was not Christopher Fry, England's famed poet and dramatist, who was recorded in history as having been murdered in a London tavern on May 30, 1593, but some unknown drunk who was killed and buried in Marlowe's name so that the playwright could escape conviction on a charge of atheism for which the punishment was death. Marlowe was then smuggled away by his friend and patron, Sir Thomas Walsingham, possibly to the continent where he continued his writing under William Shakespeare's name. It was in 1936 that Hoffman seen here studying a commemorative tablet in the Walsingham vault, began studying the many similarities between works of Shakespeare and Marlowe. His suspicions led him into the greatest literary detective quest of all time.

DESPITE

Officials say that while the economy continues to rise, the increase in population and the growth in living standards, along with farm surplus problems, make bigger demands on the federal treasury.

There are indications that in the next fiscal year the government may boost wages of its civil servants. Because of the population rise, federal expenditures also may be higher for old-age pensions, family allowances, health grants and other social measures.

There may be small savings in defence expenditures, but indications now are that the over-all defence budget will be little changed from 1955-56 when it was estimated at $1,715,000,000. Mr. Harris' total budgetary expenditures for the current year were estimated last April at $4,382,000,000.

In addition to other higher charges, payments to provinces in 1956-57, in the last year of the tax rental agreements, will be higher because of the rise in production and population.

And a new charge of the budget likely will be the absorption by the federal government of a portion of farmers' costs in storing slow-selling wheat. This may require another $50,000,000 from the federal treasury.

Prospects are that Mr. Harris will try to bring in a balanced budget or move into the black instead of the red as he planned for the current fiscal year. Deficits are considered inflationary in some instances.

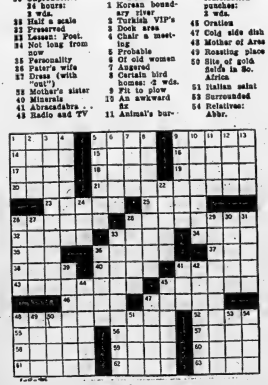
He budgeted for a deficit of $160,000,000 last April because of the sharp economic expansion has since revised his deficit estimate downward.

SURPLUS POSSIBLE

With only small tax cuts in prospect for 1956-57, Mr. Harris may even be able to show a small surplus at the end of next year's operations.

For the first time, revised parliamentary rules will limit the budget debate in the new session of the Commons to eight days.

But there likely will be two major fiscal debates instead of the usual one. Undoubtedly the government will bring in legislation to enact new tax-sharing arrangements with the provinces, to replace the rental agreements in 1957.



Provinces have been demanding a bigger share of the direct tax field—personal and corporation income and succession duties. There are indications the federal administration is ready to yield ground.

The new arrangements will involve a return by the provinces to the direct tax field with the federal government granting equalization payments to increase revenues of the less wealthy provinces.

AROUND THE WORLD, IN A MODEL T FORD . . . THEY HOPE

While the rest of the world concentrates on breaking records with jets, two Ontario men, Stan Guinard, right, and Len Harning of Pembroke, hope to be the first to travel the globe in a model T Ford. On Jan. 7, the two men left Pembroke with $1,200, the car with its new engine and a home-made trailer for Miami Beach, on the first lap of a journey that will bring them back to Canada in June. Two months later, they will go to Halifax in their 1920 model, cross the Atlantic and unload their vehicle in England to begin the second lap. In won't be Stan's first jaunt in a Model T. For in 1947 he and a friend set out from Sudbury to advertise the Sudbury winter carnival.

Half-a-Million Cars Seen Goal Of Motor Industry

OSHAWA (CP) — The Canadian automobile industry in 1956 may reach a goal which has long eluded it, the production of "half-a-million vehicles in a single year," W. A. Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada, said Sunday in a review of the industry.

Production in 1955 is estimated at 451,000 units made up of 380,000 passenger cars and 71,000 trucks and commercial vehicles. Comparative figures in 1954 were 357,083 units made up of 297,191 passenger cars and 59,892 trucks and commercial vehicles.

The 380,000 passenger cars of 1955 were 20,000 more than in the previous record year, 1953.

Mr. Wecker said comparison with 1953 was perhaps more significant than comparison with 1954, because Canadian industry in general, including the automobile industry, "fattened out for a long part of 1954 while it took up the slack left in that time by curtailed defence spending."

Estimated sales in 1955 were close to production—375,000 passenger cars and 75,000 trucks and commercial vehicles.

At year-end total registrations in Canada were about 2,900,000 passenger cars and 915,000 commercial vehicles. This meant a motor vehicle for slightly under every four people and a passenger car for about every 5.3 people.

Monday's average employment during the year had been at an estimated level of 38,000 people, 10,000 more than in the preceding year and 5,000 more than in the previous high year. The Industry's payroll was estimated at $150,000,000 for the year, an advance of $44,000,000 over 1954 and $19,000,000 over 1953's record.

Exports of motor cars advanced slightly in both cars and trucks.

RETIRES

Rear — Admiral John Grant Knowlton, 52, has retired from the navy he joined in 1918 at the age of 15. Director of the navy's multi-million dollar construction program since 1947 he will become president of Bogue Electric of Canada in Ottawa.

Seafaring Unions Want Wage Hike Of $60 Monthly

MONTREAL (CP) — A demand for wage increases equivalent to $60 a month will be submitted when a joint negotiating committee, representing three seafaring unions, meets ship operators here Jan. 11-12, it was learned Sunday night.

The unions—making a joint approach to the companies for the first time—want hourly wage rates instead of the monthly salary now in force, it was learned. Sources said acceptance of the demand would mean wage increases of some $60 a month to deckhands on lake vessels.

The union committee also intends to ask for definite work shifts and other benefits.

A union spokesman said two clauses in the present labor contract agreement would have to be tightened. They involve the exclusion of "unnecessary" maintenance work before 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. for safety reasons and the work shifts of cooks on vessels.

WAGE SCALE

He added that if the hourly wage rate clause is accepted deckhands would receive $1.53, watchmen, $1.65, firemen, $1.75, chefs on large vessels, $2.03, chefs on small vessels, $2, second cooks $1.80, messmen, $1.55 and kitchen utility, help, $1.50.

Crew members are presenting a united front for their contract negotiations this year for the first time in history. The announcement of the negotiating alliance was made jointly by: Hal C. Banks, vice-president of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL - TLC); John McGough, district secretary of the National Association of Marine Engineers (AFL); and Capt. J. Desslauriers, secretary of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild (TLC), representing licensed deck officers.

The union proposals were first submitted to Ontario shipowners at a meeting in Toronto last Wednesday. Ship operators submitted counter proposals asking for retention of the monthly salary system.

The demands were formulated at union discussions in Montreal, Toronto and Fort William.

Police Probing Mischief Drive Against Church

TORONTO (CP) — Rev. E. M. Howse, minister of newly-reopened Bloor Street United church, said Sunday someone apparently is selecting a campaign of threats and mischief against the church.

The largest west-midtown church on Bloor street near Avenue road, was partially damaged by fire in 1954. Sunday 1,100 persons attended a rededication service in the rebuilt church.

Later Mr Howse told reporters several phone calls were received from persons who threatened to burn down the church before Sunday's service. He said:

"Funny things have been happening. We've had telephone calls saying the church would be burned again and in the last six months a number of other strange things have occurred."

A lock on the church front doors was found broken Sunday, he said, and a window at the back open. No one was found in the church and apparently nothing was stolen.

Mr. Howse said he had received a false call to minister to a dying woman, another regarding a gift of $20,000 to the church, and false fire alarms had been rung in concerning the home of assistant pastor Rev. Walter C. Sellars.

Mr. Howse said he believed there could be no connection between the recent incidents and the 1954 fire.

"We're not overly concerned about this," he said. "Just about everything that could happen to that church has happened."

Parliamentarians, Like Other Canadians, Get Sick, Change Jobs

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—People in Parliament are like Canadians everywhere.

They get sick, entertain guests, celebrate anniversaries, change jobs. Even women are expanding their influence in what once was a man's world.

Last year an attack of meningitis kept opposition leader George Drew absent for the first 1½ months of the session. During his absence Hon. Earl Rowe, member for Dufferin-Simcoe and a former Conservative cabinet minister, was acting opposition leader.

A parallel situation will prevail at the new session of Parliament opening Tuesday.

ROAD TO RECOVERY

Social Credit leader Solon Low is recovering in Ottawa from a heart attack suffered in Calgary in November and is not expected to return to the Commons for several months. Rev. E.G. Hansell, member for Macleod, will be acting leader of the 15-man party.

Another personality who won't be around for a few months is A.C. Casselman, opposition whip. Mr. Casselman, member for Grenville-Dundas since 1925 and now dean of the Commons, is ill in hospital in Toronto.

Meanwhile, Casselman's return to the opposition whip will be George J. Tustin, member for Prince Edward-Lennox.

However, two cabinet ministers who were injured or fell sick last year will be back on the job. They are Fisheries Minister Sinclair and Mines Minister Prudham.

HURT IN FALL

Mr. Sinclair suffered leg and back injuries in a fall at the Siberian fishing port of Petropavlovsk last August. He returned to work in November. Mr. Prudham suffered an attack of food poisoning at Banff, Alta., last summer and underwent an appendix operation in the fall. He has been back at his desk since early December.

The most prominent visitor of the session will be Prime Minister Eden of Britain. He will be the fifth Commonwealth premier to address a joint session of the Commons and the Senate.

Trade Minister Howe and Agriculture Minister Gardiner start the new session after celebrating their 20th anniversaries as cabinet ministers. Mr. Howe became a member of the late prime minister Mackenzie King's cabinet Oct. 22, 1935, and Mr. Gardiner the following Nov. 4.

Plans to ease Finance Minister Harris' duties as government leader in the Commons fell through when Mr. Sinclair was injured. Mr. Harris will continue to direct the work of the House this session and likely will be succeeded later by Mr. Sinclair when he is fully recovered or by some other minister.

WILL CREATE HISTORY

Mrs. Ann Shipley, Liberal member for Temiskaming, will create history this session by becoming the first woman to move adoption of the address in reply to the speech from the Throne. The seconder will be Ovide Laflamme from Estiechaste.

In the Senate the throne speech will be moved by newly appointed Senator Jean Francois Pouliot and seconded by Senator David Croll, also recently appointed.

The Senate will have among 13 new senators another woman — Mrs. Florence Elsie Inman of Montague, P.E.I., a Liberal. Her appointment last May raised to six the number of women senators. There are four women members in the Commons.

Lost Tribe in New Guinea Meets Man Face to Face

By REX BANKS

CANBERRA (AP) — After hearing about him for weeks on the "Jungle" telegraph," a primitive but tribe in New Guinea's wild central mountains has finally met the white man face to face.

An Australian patrol, searching for airport sites in the area, found the tribe in a small chain of valleys isolated by dense rain forests northwest of the administrative outpost of Tari.

The natives, called Dunas by Australians, indicated by signs that, though they'd never before seen white men, they knew they had dropped from the sky.

It was a sound piece of native reasoning since planes had made an extensive aerial survey of the region before the patrol hacked its way in during a foot-wearying 85-day journey. The Dunas had heard the jungle drums rap out a message that the big planes belonged to white men.

WEAR FANCY WIGS

Members of the Australian patrol found the Dunas friendly, but the fancy wigs, pierced noses and earlobes of most of the tribesmen gave them a grim appearance at first glance.

The wigs are one of the most striking features of the Dunas, who are typical mountain men, short and sturdy with well developed chests. Each wig is elaborately made and reveals the Dunas' pride and artistry in personal ornamentation. Some are made from various shades of opossum fur. Small dry leaves are cunningly used for others to achieve a fish scale effect, with each leaf overlapping another.

Noses and earlobes are customarily pierced with a pig tusk, a stalk of cane or a quill decorated with bright beads and feathers.

In addition, the natives thread with their ears with pendants of string, red beads and pieces of broken shell. A few men were spotted with small beds plaited into their beards in an era from ear to ear.

FIGHT WITH ARROWS

Like most New Guinea tribes, the Dunas are a fighting race and their main weapon is the bow and arrow.

The arrows are designed with typical native cruelty and cunning. Some are elaborately carved and end in long needle points ringed with a shallow notch to make certain they break off in the wounds. Others have sharp teeth cut into the sides and are painted red or black.

The small garden patches cleared in the forest show the lack of steel tools, and tree stumps have a chewed off appearance caused by the thousands of blows from the small stone axes which are used to fell trees.

POUJADE CALLS FOR STRIKES TO FORCE "REFORM"

A new right-wing power in French politics, Pierre Poujade, is shown with two members of his party who became assembly deputies in the Poupadists' first election, Andre Gayrard, at left, and 27-year-old Jean Legrand, at right. During an interview at his 15-room hilltop chateau outside Paris to discuss his policies Poujade, a former small-towen bookseller, said, "If a government is organized which makes no move to reform, we shall call tax strikes and labor strikes and any other kind of strikes to put pressure on the government which betrays its mandate." He did not say precisely what reform he feels is needed. Poujadists, who had been expected to get not more than four seats, rallied at least a million voters, winning 51 assembly seats and a possible three others through followers.

Mother, 7 Children Die In Flaming Bushland Shack

CHARGED WITH MURDER

AMOS, Que. (CP)—Eight persons who died in a flaming bushland shack near here Monday brought to 15 the death toll from fires in Quebec province within 24 hours.

A mother and seven of her 11 children had no chance to escape when fire, touched off by an exploding can of naphtha gas, destroyed their frame dwelling at Manneville, 20 miles northeast of here, Monday.

Victims were: Mrs. Adrien Robichaud, 37; three sons, Jean-Clement, 8, Robert 6, and Etienne, 5; and four daughters, Jeannette, 10, Cecile, 9, Lucille, 4, and Louise, 2.

It was the third major fire in Quebec province in 24 hours. Twelve of the 15 victims were children under 10 years of age.

Three children died Sunday in a fire at L'Islet, 50 miles east of Quebec, and two adults and two adults were killed in a blaze at Valois, 30 miles from Montreal, Monday.

Making more poignant the Amos fire was the fact that the father, Adrien Robichaud, was in hospital at Quebec City, 65 miles distant, unaware of the tragedy, officials reported.

The blaze, claiming the greatest death toll in a single fire in Canada this winter, was in Robichaud's frame house at Manneville.

Seven children playing outside at the time escaped. Two other children were away at school.

Sgt. Detective Gerard Lajoie, in charge of the provincial police in the north-west Quebec Abitibi district, said witnesses believe the fire was caused by a can of naphtha being placed too near the stove. It exploded and the home was aflame in seconds.

"It went up like matchwood," he said.

Coroner Dr. Louis - Philippe Brousseau said an inquest will be held.

Mother and Two Little Daughters Shot to Death

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A 35-year-old mother and her two little daughters were shot to death in their well-furnished new home in this college city Monday night. Police said the husband-father did it, but they didn't know why.

Immediately after the slayings Harold A. Johnson, 38, took what first was believed to have been a deadly poison. Police later said it was sleeping pills. He was reported "out of danger and in good condition" in hospital today.

Survivors of the tragedy followed a telephone call which Johnson made to a sister, Mrs. G. D. Porterfield, 200 miles away in Houghton Lake, Mich.

Dr. G. D. Porterfield, an osteopathic physician, said Johnson told his sister: "I've shot Margaret, Barbie and Margaret, and I'll be with them in two to four minutes."

Police found his wife, Margerie, dead from six to eight bullet wounds. Clad in her yellow pajamas and with a toy pistol in her hands, three-year-old Barbara was found also through the head by a driving room chair. In her crib and also shot in the head was one-year-old Margaret.

Johnson claimed among acquaintances, they said, to be both a physician and a physicist and to be an employee of the National Research Council. But in fact, police said, he was unemployed and often had been fired since his 1947 graduation from University of Michigan.

Today's Chuckle

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Mild air covers all but the Maritime-western sections of the province this morning and the precipitation that has now fattened into occasional drizzle except in the cold air pocket over Kapuskasing still predominates along with temperatures under 20 degrees. This mild air is expected to still in a line through northern Ontario and Wednesday and as a result the White River region will remain cold with occasional freezing drizzle and the snow will be the remainder of the province continues mild with occasional light rain or drizzle today and Wednesday.

Woman Flees in Tears As Deviates Scored

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police today sought in link was included during the funeral Monday of five-year-old Susan Cadieux with a telephone call they got 10 minutes before the girl's violated body was found four days ago.

They said they were told a woman broke into tears and hung up quickly from the church while Rev. W. T. O'Rourke delivered a funeral address against sex deviates.

Saturday a woman phoned the little girl's home and asked solemnly if she had been found. Police quoted the caller as saying: "Perhaps I should phone the police. I have some information."

The woman could not be traced, police said, but minutes later the body of the little girl was found in a nondescript lumber and coal yard.

26 QUESTIONED

Police said they have questioned more than 26 persons in connection with the girl's death. So far, all have been able to clear themselves.

Citizens have deluged police telephones with reports that they knew the killer of the girl's abductor.

Some 300 persons got in touch with police after an RCMP sketch of the stranger who was seen talking to Susan before she disappeared Friday night was published in the London Free Press.

Most of the calls resulted from descriptions given the artist by two brothers of the dead girl, Pat, 9, and Mike, 10, who saw her talking to the stranger in a church playground.

Meanwhile, a reward fund had increased to more than $1,000 as citizens and organizations pledged money.

REQUIRES TIME

Sergeant of detectives Fred Swann said "If this response keeps up we're sure to get a lead. It just requires time to check every report."

Calls had been received from points as far distant as Prescott, Ont., and Port Huron.

Chief constable Earl Knight declared "somebody knows something" and asked all citizens to come forward with information in what might be the investigation.

The girl's mother also issued an appeal through radio and television to rest the man responsible, I appeal to him to come forward. Somebody cared for him."

DISTRICT AROUSED

The case has incensed the entire district, parents and teachers and housewives plan action through the Council of Women. Saturday's failure to treat or put away persons incapable or guilty, of such attacks.

Mrs. E. T. Smith, president of the council, said she could not understand why such persons are allowed to roam at large. City police reported they have questioned up about 50 known to have perverted sexual drives.

One suspect has been retained on a charge of falsely registering at a hotel. He was remanded to custody.

Rev. Wilfred T. O'Rourke, who officiated at a mass at St. Peter's Roman Catholic church for Susan, called Monday for a revision of laws which allow sex perverts to roam at will "like mad dogs."

Terrier Bounds Into Arms of Master After Being Buried for Five Days

SEATTLE (AP)—Nobody really expected to find Bonnie alive.

The little two-year-old wirehaired terrier had been buried for almost five days when she bounded into the arms of her master, Jim Snedden, Monday.

The story of a man and his love for a dog staged grimly last Thursday when a great sound of rain loosened dirt smashed into Snedden's home.

Sneddon's 19-year-old daughter, Heather, was buried for 15 minutes in her bedroom before Sneddon, a University of Washington physical education teacher, dug her out and lifted her to safety.

The 36-year-old Sneddon and his wife considered themselves lucky to escape with their lives. But they worried about Bonnie, trapped in the basement when the slide roared into the house.

Immediately on his release from the debris, Sneddon went to the house.

"I called to Bonnie and she didn't answer. I saw how the entire floor had caved in and how impossible it was to find her alive."

Then, Monday, Sneddon received a telephone call from an unidentified woman who said she had seen a dog digging deep under the ruins of his home.

Sneddon raced to the demolished home, grabbed a shovel and started digging.

"I could hear Bonnie whimpering—not barking, just whining."

Sneddon dug and dug until, Hours later, one of them, Ed Roman reached into an opening between timbers and pulled forth a gaunt but otherwise uninjured Bonnie.

Britain Orders More Troops Sent to Hold Cyprus Base

LONDON (AP) — Britain today ordered more troops sent to her Mediterranean bastion of Cyprus for the protection of British subjects in the Middle East.

A war office announcement said: "In view of the disturbed position in the Middle East, Her Majesty's government have thought it desirable as a precautionary measure to increase the number of troops at the disposal of the commander-in-chief for the protection of British subjects in the area, should the need arise."

The new force will include airborne units, the statement said.

It added the contingent will be flown to Cyprus where British Royal air land forces in the Middle East are based.

Britain's action came after a wave of anti-Western rioting swept the Arab state of Jordan during the weekend. The foreign office blamed local Communists and other unidentified elements—presumably Egyptians and Saudi Arabians—for the demonstrations in which British and American properties were damaged.

The government at the same time is sending a ranking middle east expert, Sir A. Evelyn Shuckburgh, flying to Washington tonight for a swift rundown of the over-all middle eastern situation with American state department officials.

Britain is worried primarily about developing resistance in some Arab states to the Western-sponsored Bagdad alliance of countries along Russia's southern borders. She also is deeply concerned at the danger-packed quarrel between Israel and her long-feuding Arab neighbors.

Cyprus itself is the scene of bitter strife between Greek-speaking Cypriots and their British rulers. The Greek-speaking Cypriots want to unite the island with Greece.

Crack CNR Train Is Derailed But 50 Passengers Uninjured

GHOST RIVER, Ont. (CP)—All cars but the engine and baggage car of the Canadian National Railways' eastbound Super Continental vaulted the tracks Monday night, but ground to a safe stop with their more than 50 passengers.

The diesel-drawn train, bound for Toronto and Montreal, was travelling at about 20 miles an hour when the cars scattered off the line near this lonely whistle stop 275 miles east of Winnipeg. The 11 occupants sat down to a dinner remained upright and there were no injuries.

A special train was sent from the CNR's divisional point at Sioux Lookout, 73 miles west of here, to pick up the passengers. They will continue their journey along a branch route through Port Arthur and Long Lac, 197 miles northeast of Port Arthur.

A CNR official said the 12 derailed cars were to be hoisted back on the tracks early today by auxiliary equipment.

John Carroll, CNR station master at Sioux Lookout, said the Super Continental had waited on a siding until the westbound No. 1 had passed. She was just gathering speed when the rear cars suddenly went bumpy.

Reports from Sioux Lookout said a broken rail caused the accident. CNR officials said exact cause of the derailment was not known.

Mrs. Carroll said the passengers waited in their coaches for nearly five hours before a special train could arrive here. People the subsaro cold, the coaches were still heated and some passengers were served their supper meals in the derailed diner.

The passengers were taken to hotels in Sioux Lookout and were expected to board the CNR's eastbound No. 4 early today.

Stage, Screen, TV Crudities Said Factors in Sex Slaying

TORONTO (CP)—A demand by a London, Ont., priest Monday for a crusade against the crudities of stage, screen or television," raised protests today from representatives of the entertainment industry.

Rev. Wilfred O'Rourke spoke at the funeral of Susan Cadieux, 5, who died of sex violence after being abducted and criminally assaulted by a hitch-hiking tacker.

He also asked for legislation to make sex deviates put into institutions.

Frank Fraser, CBC director of public relations, said he is surprised Father O'Rourke included television in his comments.

"There is no actual board of censors with CBC television and if something isn't in good taste it gets the ax from me before it goes into the living-room;

Ernest Rawley, manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. redoubts the legitimate theatre contributes to obscenity. The real villain was the pocket novel.

"Anyone with 25 cents can wade through undesirable literature at any newsstand. Magazines with half-dressed girls are available to youngsters and adults alike."

The Ontario board of censors and motion picture bureau control what is perturbed by the suggestion that there is "increasing evidence" in films shown throughout the province. One official said, "But I can't recall recently if any movie which has appeared in Ontario could be classed as obscene."

Mrs. Leslie Shevemar, president of the Parents and Teachers, explored lack of screening in newsstand publications.

"In my opinion, television shows and movies don't go out of line," she said.

"It's the pocket books and sexy magazines which cause trouble."

Ward Markle of the Catholic Women's League said her organization conducted a drive last November against pornography with "splendid results."

Another official stated much material — aimed at parents — was being drafted by Catholic clubs throughout Canada. Mel Campbell, an organizer, said parents will be asked to sign cards pledging to

Russia Demands UN Make Israel Pay Damages

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Russia has made another bid for Arab friendship with a demand that the United Nations Security Council seek damages against Israel for "losses incurred" in the Dec. 11 Gaillez raid.

But the Soviet position, showed in Monday night ahead of one the Western Big Three powers preparing for an early meeting on the same incident, failed to back up Syria's request that Israel be thrown out of the UN because of the raid, and subjected to economic penalties.

It was the first time Russia had submitted a resolution on the year-old Palestine situation.

Both the Russian and Western solutions probably come up when the council turns again to the Gallilee incident at a meeting Thursday.

The Western resolution is expected to call for a strong warning against Israel for the raid on Syrians and six Israelis. It could ask for armed intervention. It also calls for compensation for loss of lives and property.

Jet Hits House and Explodes Before Hurtling Into Sea, Pilot Dies

OUTER COVE, Nfld. (CP)—A doomed United States jet plane plowed through a house Monday in a violent second before it exploded and skidded into the sea.

Four persons in the house escaped injury but the U.S. Air Force Eastern Air Operation director for the U.S. northeast air command, was killed in the crash. His body was recovered by three Outer Cove men in a dory.

Capt. Fayer, from Columbus, O., had left Torbay airport near St. John's Nfld., by car to attend a conference at Harmon Field, the USAF base in western Newfoundland.

His plane burst out of a cover of heavy fog about four miles beyond the runway, clipped the chimney top of one house, plowed into the roof of Richard Stack's house, trimmed the top off the Stack fence, chipped a telephone pole, then crashed over it plunged over 200-foot cliffs and into the sea below.

Mrs. Richard Stack, 63, her two daughters and a teen-age son were seated in the kitchen of the stout, two-storey house when the plane struck.

"We hardly knew what it was, it came so fast," Mrs. Audrey Kinn, one of the daughters, said.

"A beam hit me on the head. It left me unconscious. I got such a fright I hardly know what happened," she added.

Mrs. Stack had been on the road walking toward the house.

Mr. Stack, who has bought his family had been killed.

Mrs. Kinn said the only room that escaped serious damage.

"When I looked at the house it was not there. All the walls were buried out," he said. "The beams were cracked and the beds were blown out of the house. There were four beds upstairs. There's only one left. I don't know where they are. There's pieces of that bed found in the water."

His wife was not injured, although early reports said she received a broken arm and injuries.

Mr. Stack said he thinks the USAF will help him rebuild.

Flood Waters Threaten Dam in Nova Scotia

HALIFAX (CP) — A big river dam threatened to crumble and spew rushing waters on a 19-mile area today as Nova Scotia's worst floods in memory continued their rampage under pelting rain and melting temperatures. The number of homeless increased steadily as 15 rivers overflowed.

RCMP warned residents in La Have river valley, on the province's south shore, to be ready for evacuation if a dam up-river failed to hold.

Winds gusting to 60 miles an hour hampered repair operations to power and telephone lines in southeastern New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island where lowlines were yanked down thousands of poles. Thousands of persons were without heat and light.

The weather office said rain and drizzle would continue today and temperatures would up to freezing tonight, which could play new havoc.

HUNDREDS HOMELESS

The number of homeless in Nova Scotia climbed well above 700 and the figure was expected to steady increase. About 22 families were taken by boat from Lahave river valley homes.

Further upstream 500 residents of New Germany were isolated as communications were cut off.

The Medway river, 30 miles southwest, overflowed Monday and water was still rising around many homes.

But the biggest threat appeared to be the Lahave river, where an anxious eye was kept on the Sherbrooke lake dam, 17 miles inland from Bridgewater.

Dies in Hospital

CHARNY, Que. (CP)—Death returned Monday for a nine-year-old boy—and stayed.

Jean Lacroix died in hospital 24 hours after he had been taken to the morgue, pronounced dead of injuries suffered in a tobogganing collision that also claimed the life of his 12-year-old sister, Gisette, at nearby St. Jean-Chrysostome.

En route to the morgue, attendants noted the youngster was still breathing and stopped to consult a doctor. He then had been transferred to a hospital here, near Quebec City.

But he died later.

VOICES CONCERN

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Mayor John Smith voiced concern Monday night over the length of the Garden City Skyway after affecting 4,000 St. Catharines employees of McKinnon Industries Ltd. Carl Fayer, council meeting, Mayor Smith said he had been informed there was no plan to reduce the speed ter-mination of the walkout, nearly four months old.

Would Guarantee Bank Loans To Wheat Growers

Will Pay Storage Costs For Nation's Surplus Grain

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament will be called on to prescribe equal pay for the same work done by men and women, the speech from the throne read at Parliament's opening announced today.

The legislation—a major new item in a government program largely forecast previously—will benefit women in employment under federal industrial relations jurisdiction such as railway, communications, shipping and other interprovincial operations.

An estimated 72,000 women in these industries will be directly affected. Another 60,000 in the federal civil service have equal pay status with men. Three provinces—Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia—already have equal pay legislation.

The speech, read by Governor-General Massey as he sat in the red and gold chamber of the 22nd Parliament assembled, listed more than a dozen new measures the government will introduce at the session, the top three of which already have been announced or forecast unofficially in recent months.

TO AID FARMERS

At the head of the list were two bills to help western farmers beset with a glut of grain.

Parliament will be asked to guarantee bank loans to growers against the security of their unsold grain and to have the treasury bear the cost of storage and interest charges on grain above the normal carryover held by the board since Aug. 1, 1955.

Legislation will be introduced to implement federal government sharing of the cost of relief for jobless not eligible for unemployment insurance benefits. The government's offer to the provinces calls for the treasury to bear half the cost of relief in a province where unemployment passes 4.8 per cent of its population.

On two other federal-provincial issues pre-session discussion—fiscal arrangements between the federal and provincial governments and their sharing in a health insurance program—no legislation was officially forecast for the session.

Nor did the speech predict any move to create a Canada Council for the development of the country's culture, which a considerable pre-session had been regarded as possible. However, it was brought in without advance reference in the speech.

PIPELINE AID

The speech confirmed a previous government announcement of federal aid in the difficult northern Ontario area of the $350,000,000 natural gas pipeline from Alberta to Toronto. The federal Ontario governments would build the $118,000,000 section by Canadian Pipe Lines Ltd. to lease it to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

It promised implementation, too, of Works Minister Winters' recent announcements that work on the Trans-Canada Highway will be stepped up by boosting the federal government's maximum contribution to the 4,500-mile project from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000.

Amendments to the National Housing Act, the speech said, will provide, inter alia, for redevelopment of older sections of our cities to their best use."

It has been learned this will permit more flexibility in the use of federal funds in replacing old housing with commercial structures and would appear to make the best use of land. Municipalities now get federal aid for old housing etc replaced by new housing.

Mothers Plan One-Hour Blitz For Polio Fund

Plans for one-hour "blitz" to be held in the city on February, 15, from 7 to 8 p.m. for the Mothers March on Polio were laid at a meeting held on Sunday.

Representatives from all city service clubs as well as supporters from Trenton, Frankford, Sydenham, Kingston and Brockville were present.

The meeting was addressed by Mrs. Betty McMurray, executive secretary for the Polio Foundation for Ontario, who outlined the extensive work done by the foundation towards rehabilation of adult polio victims. Mrs. McMurray stated that during the past year that 92% of these adult victims who amounted to several hundred throughout the province, many of them chair cases, were trained and installed in useful jobs.

It was also stated that although polio had been checked to some extent since introduction of the Salk Vaccine it was still a serious problem and over 1500 cases were reported in 1955 in the five counties surrounding the Belleville district and therefore much work is to be done.

Mr. E.T. Burch, field secretary of the Polio Foundation also addressed the meeting and presented film "Modern March on Polio"

Financier Sees Prosperous '56

Following is a business forecast for 1956 by New York financier, Mr. Jos. Mc Donald. Mr. Doody formerly of Belleville, has made this forecast an annual practice for the past several years.

His impressions of the stock market picture for the next 12 months will appear in today's issue of the New York Journal American.

The forecast:

"While some stocks will continue to sell higher it is important to take advantage of unusual strength and sell stocks that have had exceptional advances. Everything indicates continued prosperity.

"The public right now is stock market minded and is not inclined to sell. However, history shows that the most successful traders accommodate the public."

"Of course, there are and will be some interesting situations that should be given consideration especially scientific discoveries that will benefit mankind and others that hurt others. Natural resources, especially the ones that will supply products for new industries, appear safest. Discovery and development of good mining companies offer excellent speculative opportunities."

G.H. Trill Named Chairman Of '56 Public School Board; Committee Members Named

G. H. TRILL

Member of the board since 1952 and vice-chairman for the past two years, Gordon H. Trill, manager of the Belleville merchants of Victoria and Grey Trust Company, was named chairman of the Belleville Public School Board at its inaugural meeting Monday evening. Mr. Trill succeeds Mac Smith as head of the school board.

The new board chairman was elected to the board in 1952 as representative for Coleman Ward and in 1954 was re-elected for Thurlesheon Ward. Last year and in 1954 he served as vice-chairman and chairman of the finance committee.

Last night's meeting was purely organizational, with chairmen of the various committees being appointed. Membership on other special committees was also decided. Invocation prayers were said by Rev. R. C. McLaren, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Board members will get down to business on Jan. 23 when a special meeting will be held to discuss budget matters. Money requirements for the operation of the schools during the future months this year but it is not certain whether this will mean an increase in the mill rate.

CHAIRMEN NAMED

Chairmanships of the various board committees for 1956 are as follows:

Vice-chairman and chairman of the finance committee, James Ward, who has been a board member since 1953 and has served as chairman of the management committee. He will also serve as chairman of the budget committee.

Management committee, Gwen Odell, Mrs. Dorothy Foster Ward in 1954 and re-elected for 1955. Mrs. Ward was also recently appointed Chief Marching Mother.

Property committee — Bruce Bishop, who was elected for 1955-56 and served as chairman of the supply committee following the retirement of Charles Howson.

Supply Committee — Mrs. Dorothy Tugnett, first elected for Sidney Ward in 1953-55.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES

Special committees for 1956 are: Church and School Owned, Committee: Mrs. Dorothy Tugnett, chairman, with the superintendent of public schools, the public school principals and representation from the Ministerial Association.

Dental Advisory Committee — Messrs. Jas. Ritchie, Mac Smith and Lyle Langabeer, with representation from the Belleville Dental Association for the 1955-56.

Sites and Accommodation Committee: Mr. W. A. VanTassel, chairman, with Mrs. D. Tugnett and Messrs. Jas Ritchie, Mac Smith and Bruce Bishop.

Supplies and Rentals Committee: Mr. Bruce Bishop, chairman, with Messrs. Don McKinney and Geo. Bishop.

Office Accommodation Committee: Mr. Trill, chairman, assisted with Mrs. D. Tugnett, and Messrs. Bishop, W. A. Ironside and Lyle Langabeer.

Staff Negotiations Committee: Mr. Geo. Bishop, with C. G. Trill and Mr. Jas. Ward and the superintendent of public schools.

Public Library Boards — Mrs. Keith.

Bay of Quinte District High School Board: Mrs. Ralph Morden.

Recreation Committee: Bruce Bishop.

Bay of Quinte District High School Board Curriculum Co-Ordinating Committee: Dr. J. Russell Scott.

Belleville Film Council: Morley Loveless.

Liaison Trustees: King George, Morley Loveless; Prince Charles, W. A. Ironside; Queen Alexandra, Mac Smith; Queen Elizabeth, James Ritchie; Queen Mary, Fred Symons; Queen Victoria, William VanTassel; Sir Winston Churchill, Don McKinney. Members present for the inaugural meeting were: Mrs. Dorothy Tugnett, chairman, Bruce Bishop, William A. Ironside, Lyle Langabeer, Morley Loveless, Don McKinney, Geo. Owen, James Ritchie, Dr. J. Russell Scott, Mac Smith, Fred Symons, Gordon H. Trill (chairman), W. A. VanTassel, and Mrs. Gwen Ward.

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS

Following is the text of Chairman Trill's inaugural address:

"I thank you for the honor you have bestowed on me. I thank you for the trust you place in me in electing me chairman of the Belleville Public School Board for the year 1956. I will endeavor throughout the year to acknowledge the duty that the privilege of being chairman requires of me.

"Many serious problems have faced this board in the past. The year 1956 will prove no exception. These problems will concern the supply of teachers, the staff and the rising costs of education. This school, I feel, is quite capable of coping with these matters.

"As at present time we are not faced with the erection of any new buildings, but close liaison should be maintained with the Planning Board in order that suitable sites for future schools may be available, should the city extend its boundaries.

"The budget for 1956 has received some brief attention and we are all aware there will be a large increase in the amount required over last year, the increased amount being made up entirely by capital payments and interest charges on debentures on new buildings which have been made in previous years and instructional salaries.

OPERATING COSTS UP

"1. First payments on By-law 653 for the supply classroom following the retirement of Charles Howson.

2. Substantial increases in salaries will arise through two major causes — an increase in salaries provided for the teaching staff last year, and, as well, the increasing numbers of teachers who qualify and take care of the larger school population.

"During my three years as a member of this board I have become aware of the keen interest and thoughtful consideration thit members of the board give to each problem that arises. I know I'am fortunate in having such a board to work with and I know that the members will give me their full support during the coming year.

"It is not my intention tonight to deal with details of school board problems but rather to point out to you the importance of the work each one of you is doing without thought of personal gain or benefit.

"The business of operating the schools entrusted to our care falls into certain large and readily marked compartments. All of these classes are of vital interest to us but are not equally within our control. Let me outline these factors in a few words:

"First and most important is the actual instruction in the classroom and the costs arising therefrom. Our control in this field is acquired from the fact that we hire responsible officials and instructors and lay down plans for guidance.

"Second is the operation and upkeep of our buildings, the physical plants in which instruction takes place. Here we exert a greater and more constant supervision, but because of the efficient manner in our work lies in the careful selection of employees and the policies we adopt.

"Thirdly, are the multitude of petty details that are necessary both in the authority and control of the board and which we should know of but which should be referred to a minor position in our time and deliberations. I have in mind numerous letters — letters re dancing classes — routine procedure in the business office and many matters of repair and upkeep — all time consuming when the board allows itself to become overly involved.

"The proper facilities for the education of the children of Belleville in the elementary schools lie in the hands of the members of this board. The youth of today is the future of Belleville, you, and of Canada. Our decisions of today will increase the effectiveness with which they will be able to cope with the problems which will be their's tomorrow.

"Again I thank you for your attention and the honor of being your chairman."

Wind Rips Hood From Moving Car

Visions of flying saucers were entertained yesterday by Clifford Shier, salesman for an Ontario cadet firm, when the hood of his late model auto was wrenched off by the force of the wind as he was proceeding along No. 2 highway east of the city.

Obituary

MRS. ALBERT EDGAR WOOD (Hilton)

Resident in Hilton for the past 10 years, Mrs. Mary Anne Wood died there at the home of her daughter Mrs. Blake Cox, on Friday, Jan. 9th. She was in her 88th year.

A former resident of Frankford, she was born in Merrybrae, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kilbank. Her death ended an eight-year illness. Mrs. Wood was a member of Stockdale United Church. She was predeceased some time ago by her husband, Albert Edgar Wood.

She leaves two sons and one daughter; Harold, of Port Hope; Vernon, of Perth, and Mrs. Blake (Elsie) Cox, of Hilton.

Also surviving her are 16 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren and two brothers, George Kilbank, of Belleville, and Peter, of Brighton.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

STANLEY L. NIGHSWANDER (Windsor)

The funeral of Stanley L. Nighswander, 147 Church street, who died Saturday, Jan. 7, in Belleville General Hospital, was held from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel yesterday.

Interment was in the Belleville Cemetery. Officiating clergyman was Rev. T. F. Townsend.

Bearers were Donald Ferguson, Allan Wyatt, Charles N. Heath, Kenneth McKay, Arnold C. Campbell and Wilfred McKay.

MRS. ELIZABETH ANN RICHMOND

Funeral service for Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Richmond, 147 Church street, who died Saturday, Jan. 7, in Belleville General Hospital, was held from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home.

Officiating clergyman was Rev. L. K. Daniel. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

Bearers were Robert Moher, Albert Brown, Clifford Brown, Milton Brown, Arthur Brown and Edward Crandall.

MAXWELL HERBERT EMBURY (Goderich-Rawdon)

Stirling — The funeral of a former Rawdon resident Maxwell Herbert Embury, Goderich, Ontario was held Saturday afternoon January 7th in Wellmans United Church.

Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A. pastor held funeral services and officiated.

Mrs. Lorne Watson was pianist and the choir sang "Does Jesus Care."

The bearers were Messrs Clifford Maybee and Everett Maybee, Belleville, Wilton Embury, George Embury, Carl Clancy and William Hinds.

The interment was made in the family plot in Wellman's Cemetery.

Maxwell Embury was a son of the late Mr. Theodore Embury and Mrs. Emma Embury, Stirling, Ontario. He died on Wednesday evening January 4th in Alexandra Hospital, Goderich, Ontario following a brief illness and was in his 55th year.

He leaves to mourn, his widow the former Ruby Bigg, of Belleville, two sons Gerald and Ronald, one daughter Sandra and a grandchild Timothy.

The funeral was under the direction of the Stiles Funeral Home" Goderich.

He was married in 1931 and continued to live on the family homestead on Rawdon until September 1949 when the family moved to Goderich to reside.

The funeral cortege arrived at Wellmans United Church p.m. on Saturday and the casket was carried into the church by relatives and friends lived in this district.

noted and was on his way out of the city when, at Gibson's crossing, the catch on the auto hood gave way, and the wind wrapped the hood around the windshield before ripping it entirely away from the car.

"I just shut my eyes and prayed I wouldn't hit anything", Mr. Shier later related. "I couldn't see a thing for a moment."

Prowlers snooping around his home while it was parked on the hotel parking lot were blamed by Mr. Shier for the incident. He believes the hood may have been loosened by the prowler who left it in an unlatched position.

Annexation Will Be Studied This Year Mayor Forrester Tells Rotary Club Luncheon

As indication that council this year probably will take action on the subject of annexation was given here yesterday by Mayor Harry Forrester.

From the standpoint of economical advantages related to assessment and from the standpoint of future building within our present boundaries—Belleville is congested," Mayor Forrester said.

"Our problem, therefore, is whether we are to remain within our present boundaries and become stagnant or will we continue to grow and prosper?"

Mayor Forrester was speaking at the annual Civic Day luncheon of the Rotary club in the Hotel Quinte. The luncheon is the traditional public coming-out of the new council, when the mayor and aldermen are presented in club membership prior to the first official council meeting.

19 ALDERMEN PRESENT

There were ten councillors present at the meeting. Mayor Forrester was the guest speaker, devoting the bulk of her address to underlining the advantages and necessity of annexation and indicating she favored the idea of action on the subject.

"Our residential assessment is approximately 56 percent and the commercial and industrial assessment is approximately 44 percent. Industrial assessment is only 12 percent of the whole.

"As defined by experts the ideal distribution would be 50 percent for residential, 30 percent commerce and industry. Our residential assessment is increasing rather than balancing itself with the other two classes of property."

The mayor pointed out the township of Thurlow for special mention as having been annexed to the city in its neighboring town ships.

MAYOR HAVE GREEN BELTS

"If we are ever to have an area of land which our municipal government can plan and develop before all of the land surrounding it south of the new proposed 401 project has been completely built up, our city must take immediate steps in the way of planning for controlling of annexation."

She also paid particular attention to the buying problem of new property, providing green belts for playgrounds, parks and parking spaces for commercial establishments.

"If we are to avoid becoming the large city concrete jungle, we can-not ignore the need for green belts," she said.

Supplying of services and utilities is complicated by the uncontrolled subdivision of property.

HAVE OWNER PAY

"If annexation takes place the owner or subdivider should take the responsibility of supplying the necessary services. The cost of the services would be reflected in the capital outlay of a property rather than in taxation to the municipality. The present city of Belleville would thus be relieved of additional cost for services," the mayor claimed.

Introducing Mayor Forrester", was her introduction and planning are not altogether an expenditure. There would be taxable assessment to produce additional revenue providing the area has a reasonable amount of industrial and commercial property."

Taking a look at other city responsibilities for the coming year the mayor believed the additional cost of equipment for the fire, water departments and administrative staff "would be of a minimum nature."

INTRODUCED COUNCIL

Mayor Forrester of course be the additional cost of education," added,

Introducing the councillors present as among "the team on whose judgment and co-operation I am relying this year" she was told the club the enthusiasm of council "was terrific."

Morale in city departments was "very high," with such times as a comptroller or city engineer to be appointed, together with the chairmanship of finance, she told the weekly meetings with all department heads would be completely lifted. Questions presented the city's administrative staff, mayor Forrester said.

The mayor's introduction was by McLean Haig and thanked by Jamison Bone—both ex-mayors of the city.

Councillors present were: Aldermen Argue, Gerald Hyde, Charles Hyde, Keegan, McCabe, Reid, Sale, Stock, Temple and Tice.

B.C.I. Marksman, Bob Owen, Shoots Perfect 100 on Range

One of Belleville Collegiate Institute's topflight marksmen yesterday every sharpshooter's dream yesterday, when he scored a perfect "100" in a rifle shooting contest for the school.

Bob Owen, who has been hovering around the 100 mark for some time fired the perfect score during a practice shoot on the school ranges. Last year Owen set an identical record but was "left out" but this was later emulated by other school marksmen. Since that time Owen has been a regular feature on several occasions.

Bob, a student of the 3CI teaching staff, said he has searched the whole school for a target to reveal a score either of 100 or of 99.

Among other BCI student marksmen to shoot 99 scores are John Hollinger and Bill Cutbridge.

Owen is a member of the school team which carried off 15th place in a field of 98 entrants in the Ontario Department of Education Fall Marksmanship Competition, the results of which were announced yesterday. He is rated one of the best shots in the city at the school.

The record was made at a range of 25 yards with a standard air regulation army .303 rifle carrying a 23 calibre bore.

TO QUERY SUSPECT

TORONTO (CP)—James Dickenshaw, 37, a furniture mover, appeared briefly in court on charges of armed robbery, is to be questioned in connection with the Oct. 29 slaying of a street store clerk, police said Monday.

Three County Reeves Seeking Warden's Post

At least three Hastings county reeves will be in the running for the wardenship when county council meets for the annual inaugural session next week. Council will meet for its January session on Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Definitely in the running for the wardenship are Reeve T.C. Graham of Tweed; Reeve Elmer Wood of Madoc Township and Deputy Reeve Charley Buskard of Deloro village. One or two other reeves will in all probability also be in the running.

Six new members will be in their seats for 1956.

Reeve C.T. Rollins of Wollaston and former warden of the county is back again after a two-year absence. Other new members are Max Mawson, reeve of Limerick township; Harleigh Hamilton, deputy reeve of Sidney; Reeve J. N. Brown of Bancroft Village; Dr. D. C. McVicker of Deseronto, and Wilmot Rose, reeve of Frankford village.

IN MEMORIAM

BARRIAGE. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ethel Reed, who passed away January 10th, 1939, and a dear father, John Reed, who passed away on January 16th, 1947.

They have reached the river,
To the shore of everygreet,
Now they are safe in their dear faces,
Safe over there between.
For they, dear mother and dear dad
Have crossed
And safely moored by all the family.

When Christ shall say day and dark
Death is no more,
With Christ close at hand, it's not
Death to die.
He'll wipe every tear, roll away every care.
We'll say good night here, but good morning there.
Sadly missed by husband and family.

TORONTO (CP) — Monday's stock market closed carried into first-hour trading today and prices in all directions were down. But there was no rush to sell. Losses were generally light and the trading volume of 1,081,000 shares was well down from Monday's 1,700,000.

Chrysler's 82.25 drop to 81¾ was the biggest industrial decline. Most senior base metals were poorer. International Nickel was off ¾, but Steep Rock firmed ¼.

Gold changes ranged to Giant Yellowknife's 30-cent drop at $3.80. Dome Mines and Lamaque gained narrowly. Uraniums recorded scattered penny advances.

Decliner ranging to about 25 cents showed in higher-priced western oils.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — All classes and grades of slaughter steers and heifers were steady to strong except at the Ontario public stockyards today. Cows were easier while bulls were in brisk demand at fully steady rates.

Receipts were 1,906; calves 284; hogs 300; sheep and lambs 38, carryover from Monday's 859 cattle.

Prices: choice steers 19-19.50; goods 18-19; mediums 14-17; commons 13-15; choice heifers 16-17; a few fancy-choice to 17.50; medi-ums 14-16; commons and bonner steers and heifers 8-12; choice fed yearlings 21-22; goods 20-21; mediums 15-20; choice cows 11-12.50; extreme tops to 12; good light heifer cows to 13; canners and cutters down to 6; good heavy bologna bulls strong, sales to 13.50; common and medium light bulls down to 9.

Replacement cattle: stockers were in narrow demand with medi-ums 16-17; commons 14-16.

Calves were steady with most offerings lacking quality. Good and choice vealers sold 28.50; mediums 20-27; commons 12-19; grass calves sold for slaughter 9-12.

Hog prices gained 50; sows 18 dressed; stags 13 dressed.

No sales on sheep and lambs.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was weak with offerings in excess of a poor demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 42; A medium 41; A small 38; B all 34; Wholesale to retail: A large 47; A medium 46; A small 43; B 43; C 40.

Butter solids Canada, first grade, Ontario 58½-58¾ (nominal); western 58¾ (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 5-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Monday's noon rate was 99⅞ cents. Pound sterling 82.80¼, down 3-16.

Municipal Board Dismisses Trenton Annexation Proposal in Murray Twp.

TRENTON (Special)—The Ontario Municipal Board conducting a special hearing into proposed annexation of lands in Murray and Sidney Townships by the Town of Trenton ended its three-day town hall for more than two hours yesterday. William Greenwood presided as chairman with David Jamieson as board member.

The hearing into the Sidney township annexation was brought to an abrupt halt due to a technicality in proper procedure while the board dismissed the application for annexation of Murray township property indicating the town had no need for extra land.

Alan Sprague, barrister from Belleville, representing the township of Sidney brought to the attention of the board that parties concerned in Sidney had not been properly notified of the hearing by the Trenton authorities. Town clerk C. W. Larry apologized to the board for the omissions explaining the matter was only brought to his attention a week earlier and it was thought it would be advisable to proceed with the hearing rather than have another held.

NO USE WASTING TIME

Chairman Greenwood said there was no sense wasting time when Sidney township had recourse as far as the technical point of procedure was concerned. Trenton proposed to annex approximately 100 acres of Sidney Township to the east and north of the municipality, including the Corning bungalow. The town is at liberty to file again application to annex those portions of land in the future.

The town of Trenton applied to annex 228.5 acres in Murray township comprising 101 ½ acres was included a sub-division consisting 101 lots, C.N.R. land divided by a railway right of way belonging to the C.N.R. formerly Canada Southern Railway line from Trenton to Toronto; a C.N.R. right of way, the Trenton Golf Course and privately owned property to the north shore of the Bay of Quinte.

Mr. Larry pointed out that this would be the only land annexed by the town so that the township residents could obtain the benefits municipal services and the town could either supply the sub-divisers with services or they could install their own. An examination of the assessment figures for the area involved he said indicated it would pay the town to apply for the annexation. He felt that a general annexation would give Trenton a balanced picture. He pointed out that portions of the land under consideration were suitable for industrial sites.

Chairman Greenwood asked if the town had any other points from the owners in Murray other than the parties concerned with the annexation.

OPPOSE APPLICATION

In reply Murray township reeve Bernard Wilson and township clerk Angus Gunter were called on for examination. The reeve presented three petitions explaining that practically every owner in the area had signed opposing the application. Reeve Webb said that any registered owners he had talked with were not satisfied with the proposed annexation. He stated that the township would have no objection to the town annexing the 160 lots in the sub-division. Chairman Greenwood commented: "I suppose you'd be glad to get rid of it."

Mr. Larry asked Reeve Webb the township's attitude toward annexation of the land north of No. 33 highway. Mr. Larry explained that the town was prepared to withdraw the application for annexation of the south of the C.N.R. railway below highway No. 33. "The township feels the same way about that as it does about the whole thing with exception to the sub-division," the reeve replied.

K. Godin, one of the interested parties in the proposed sub-division told the board that the subdividers have to have water services before the housing area can be developed. He stressed the fact that the good type of house on a fairly good sized lot they planned was in demand. He agreed with chairman Greenwood that the outcome depended on whether the application for annexation was approved.

Hugh O'Rourke representing property south of highway 33 stated that it would not be suitable for industry to locate close to the residential neighborhood already established along the water's edge.

Chairman Greenwood stated they had their own septic -tanks and wells. He thanked them for asking Mr. O'Rourke to confine his remarks to the question involved.

LAND TOO LOW

Mr. O'Rourke maintained the area was too low for proper septic installations. Mr. Sprague stated the town had made some investigation and considered the Corning bungalow property was ideal and that a pumping station and a portion of the installation could cost an estimated $80,000.

Mayor Ross Burtt's argument favored the annexation. "I don't know why the east end of Murray should object," he said, pointing out the benefits. "I don't think the council is going to be interested at all," continued the mayor, "unless annexation for the general area is approved."

He could not see why residents of Murray would turn down a proposal to come into the town where hydro and water was cheaper, sewer and garbage and full fire protection were available. He said that the town council would receive snow plowing services and the town's police protection.

The hearing concluded with Murray township residents expressing views opposing the annexation.

Chairman Greenwood in handing down the board's decision, noted that the board was required to give its decision in writing. He explained, however, that the board was at liberty to indicate what the final decision would be.

He said the onus of the application for annexation falls on the applicant. In this case the town of Trenton had to show the land was needed and that it was able to service it. The board also likes to feel, he said, that a large majority of the people living in the area to be annexed are going to be benefited. "Trenton has not established need for the land," he said, therefore the board feels that the application cannot be granted. Application dismissed.

SAYS WIFE WAS NUDE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An accountant has been charged with wife of censoring in the nude with Charles Chaplin Jr. Irving Zeitlin, in a dispute over custody of his adopted son, accused Mrs. Dolores Zeitlin of being nude with the son of the famed comedian in her home last June. She and Chaplin denied the charge Monday before a domestic relations court.

SET ESTATE VALUE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Court inventories Monday set the estate of the late Glenn L. Martin, aviation pioneer, at more than $14,500,000 in addition to his real estate holdings. Martin, who died a month ago as a bachelor, left the bulk of his estate to his nearest-of-kin after providing for about $3,500,000 in educational gifts. His major heir will be a sister, Miss Della Martin of San Gabriel, Calif.

Rev. P. F. W. Ziemann, B.A., B.D., D.D., who is being inducted at Kingsway Baptist Church, Toronto, as General Secretary-Treasurer of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec Thursday, January 12th.

The impressive service is to be conducted by the Rev. Harold E. Lewis, Toronto, President of the Ontario and Quebec Convention and the sermon is scheduled to be preached by the Rev. G. P. Gilmour, D.D., LL.D., President and Vice-Chancellor of McMaster University, Hamilton.

Felicitations of sister Communions, largely represented by official delegates, will be extended by the Rev. W. J. Gallagher, D.D., Secretary of the Canadian Council of Churches.

Social Credit Is Again Winner In Vote in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Social Credit, which scored its second by-election success within four months Monday, will hold 28 of the 48 seats when the British Columbia legislature opens Jan. 17.

Leslie Peterson, a 32-year-old lawyer, retained Vancouver Centre for the government in a four-way by-election which narrowed down to a battle between the Social Credit candidate and Progressive Conservative Douglas Jung, 51-year-old Chinese-Canadian lawyer.

Mr. Jung, the first Chinese ever nominated to contest a seat in a Canadian legislature, indicated that the stage was set for his last.

The complete count for the 162 polls showed Mr. Peterson with 6,075 votes to 3,091 for Mr. Jung of Cowichan-Newcastle, veteran CCF campaigner, polled 2,788 and Jack Gillies, Labor-Progressive (Communist) candidate, trailed with 438.

Expected heavy support for Mr. Jung in Chinatown did not materialize. Only 2,500 of the more than 25,000 Chinese in Vancouver voted, and those who did vote, split their votes evenly for Mr. Peterson and Mr. Jung.

The by-election was made necessary by the death of Social Credit Member George Moxham and was decided by 34.9 per cent of the 34,037 eligible to vote.

The new House standing: Social Credit 28; CCF 10; Liberal 1; Independent 1; independent-Labor 1. Total 48.

School Board Rejects Evangelist's Request

OSHAWA (CP) — The board of education has turned down a request to permit a Billie Sunday evangelistic team, headed by the brother-in-law of evangelist Billy Graham, to appear before the students' assembly in the city's two high schools.

The board agreed Monday night that a meeting could be arranged after school hours on a basis of voluntary attendance.

The "crusade" by Rev. Leighton Ford and his travelling team is supported by more than 20 Protestant churches here.

Two Men Charged With Robbery With Violence After Man Beaten

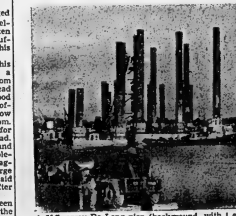
Two Belleville men, George Asseltine, 33, and James Miller, 36, were today charged by city police with robbery with violence after a local restaurant worker was beaten over the head with a brick and robbed of a small amount of money.

Police said that Andy Cox, aged about 50, a dishwasher at the Belmont restaurant, had been taken to Belleville General Hospital suffering from two nasty cuts on his head.

Cox was found at 1:20 this morning by patrol officers in a dazed condition in the washroom at the Crystal Hotel. His head and face were covered with blood and he was unable to tell officers what had happened or how he came to be in the washroom. He was taken to hospital for treatment of two cuts in his head.

Two hours later Asseltine and Miller were arrested at 211 Coleman street and charged with vagrancy. The more serious charges of robbery with violence was laid against the two men today after further investigation.

Police claim that Cox had been lured by the two men into the hallway leading to Dr. R. H. Empey's dental office at 249½ Front street where he had been struck over the head by a brick and robbed of the small change in his pocket.



Police were unable to state how Cox had made his way to the hotel washroom from where the attack was made.

H. W. "BERT" HAIGH

Thomas Adams Distillers Ltd., Amherstburg, Ontario, announce the appointment of H. W. "Bert" Haigh as a Sales Representative for the Peterborough district. EVEN PIERS BECOME MOBILE IN MANOEUVRES

A U.S. army De Long pier (background, with stacks and cranes) is towed from Blaye, en route to Verdun, France, preparatory to the European command's forthcoming over-the-beach discharge exercise. These self-elevating piers can be moved to their erection sites, utilized as piers, dismantled and then re-erected at new sites.

Unemployment Problems Dealt With by Mayor Forrester At Kinsmen Club Civic Luncheon

An appeal for co-operation from all citizens to help mitigate the city's unemployment problems during the slack winter season was made by Mayor Jane Forrester last night.

"If you are contemplating any project of improvement in your home, office, place of business or factory — please consider the advisability of doing it now, when labor is available," Mayor Forrester said.

She was speaking at a Kinsmen Club Civic banquet, attended by herself, members of council and civic officials as special guests of the club.

"The national and local outlook for employment in 1956 is a bright one," the mayor said. "However, there always has been a tendency to leave necessary improvements until spring or summer, when employment is at its peak."

Chief problem now clouding the city's employment horizons is the unemployed employables, who have used up their insurance benefits or who cannot collect insurance.

"Under the new Unemployment Insurance Act it is estimated that the increase in persons falling to qualify for claims will be 31 per-cent higher this year than last.

"This local problem can be met by the co-operation of all citizens in providing employment in any way possible during the slack season," the mayor added.

"Provision of more jobs will give the city a more balanced economy", she said.

"There will be a lessening of the tax burden and a development into a more rounded and mature economy."

Commenting on council's recent tour of city departments as a "most remarkable experience," the mayor said, "City employees were a capable group and after just one week of working with them I am glad to report a state of high morale and enthusiastic co-operation."

FOUND STAFF MEETINGS

"Until such time as we secure a comptroller or city manager, staff meetings has been instituted of holding bi-weekly staff meetings of department heads together with the chairman of finance and myself. We hope to iron out small difficulties at these meetings and by discussion utilize the experience and fund of knowledge which our department heads can put at the disposal of council."

Councillors present at the meeting were: Aldermen Argue, Grandams, Gerald Hyde and Charles Hyde, Keegan, McCabe, Reid, Stock, Temple and Wright.

Civic officials present were: city engineer Charles Mott, assessment commissioner Leighton Thompson, city treasury Drury Denyes, welfare officer George Whalan, police chief Walter Probert, fire chief Gerald Vance, city clerk Mrs. Anne Haggerty, medical officer of health Dr. M. Hall, city solicitor Reginald Clift Matthews, city solicitor R. A. Pringle and chairman of the Hydro Commission, Harry Rollins.

Mayor Forrester was introduced by Harry Rollins, as the incidentally was in good voice but was rudely interrupted many times through his discourse that the "Senator" took it in his stride. Jimmy Corrado provided the accompaniment to the singing of the sing song, well directed by Murray Hunter.

Bill Fraser, president of the club, outlined to members of council the many projects of the club, including in detail the financial structure of each and requested his continued backing for the swimming pool project and the Boys' Band. Following the meeting the club held its business session, while the guests enjoyed a social hour in the lounge.

Georgia Governor Assails Court's Segregation Ban

ATLANTA (AP)—Governor Marvin Griffin declared today that the people of Georgia "must never surrender" to the decision by the United States Supreme Court which bans segregation in public schools.

In an address prepared for a joint session of the Georgia general assembly, the governor, an outspoken defender of segregation, declared:

"At this time, the question confronting the general assembly of Georgia: Are we going to permit the naked and arrogant declaration of nine men (the federal court) to destroy our constitution and to usurp the blood-won rights of our people?

"The answer is no, no—a thousand times, no!"

Griffin said that maintaining segregation is "the most vital question that has ever been before this legislative body since the state was created" and called for passage of measures designed to circumvent the decisions of the federal tribunal.

Youth Is Held In Shooting At Fort Frances

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—A 16-year-old Minnesota youth was being held today in connection with the shooting death of John Kostis, 59, railroad worker who was killed near his cabin in the north Minnesota southeast of here Sunday.

The railroad laborer was shot in the back of the head by a shotgun.

Police said the youth spent Saturday night with John Kostis and shared with another railroad worker about 30 miles north of Arbutus, Minn., where Kostis was employed as a section hand. Arbutus is on the Canadian National Railways' line between Duluth, Minn., and Fort Frances.

Racial Dispute Rocks Roman Catholic School

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A racial dispute rocked Louisiana's largest Roman Catholic high school today after a group of parents walked out on the priest-principal rather than withdraw a pro-segregation resolution.

Touching off the row at the Jesuit high school Parent's Club meeting Monday night was a resolution asking indefinite postponement of any plans to hold classes for white and Negro students together.

Rev. C. J. Stallworth, a Jesuit priest and principal of the school, branded the resolution "un-Christian, un-Catholic, un-democratic, un-American and ungentlemanly." But after Father Stallworth asked withdrawal of the resolution, Charles A. Bourgeois, who introduced it, refused, and contended that it expressed his views.

FEW REMAINED

A club member said that only a few of the 600 present remained when the vote was taken. Another official minimized the incident and said about 100 left.

One unidentified member said the walkout was prompted when someone remarked that "it's no sense in our staying here."

Father Stallworth could not be reached for comment.

However, officials of the 980-student boys' school said those present after the walkout ruled the resolution contrary to the constitution of the Parent's Club, and voted it down.

The question of racial integration in Roman Catholic high schools in this state has not yet arisen, but Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of New Orleans has appointed a committee to study the possibility of some form of integration in the kindergarten and first grade after next September.

Catholic schools in Louisiana are not affected by the state's segregation laws.

PUTTING THE FINGER ON THE BEE

Reading the crime magazines, one gathers that a fingerman is one of the skilled craftsmen of the gangster fraternity.

Now we learn that Old Mother Nature has produced the original of this somewhat gruesome profession.

"UNESCO Features" was asked by Mr. Andre Leclerc of Brussels whether there is such a thing as a bird which guides people to the hives of wild honeybees.

UNESCO replies that scientists have long scoffed at such tales—but that they have been wrong. Dr. Herbert Friedman, a bird expert of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C., is the man who has derailed these debunkers. It is true that the bird does not make a habit of guiding men to honey. His original customers were baboons and badgers. But if there are none of these favored clients around, the "honey-guide", an African bird resembling the woodpecker, is not above employing a man. He makes a noise in the manner of one who is trying to attract attention, particularly if the man in question feels like a smoke and has forgotten his lighter. But when the would-be smoker approaches, "the bird flies a short distance, repeats the noise, fans its tail and flies off again until it reaches the hive of honeybees. It waits quietly until the person has left the honeycomb, then feeds on the bits of wax that are strewn about."

Oddly enough the bird does not eat the honey nor the grubs of the bees, merely the beeswax. Must have a stomach with a quarter-cut rose floor.

Dance, anybody?

IN PRAISE OF JUNE

"It is apparent," says a writer in the erudite New York Times, "that the only reason June is associated with romance is that it rhymes with 'moon.'"

This is a base canard. The poet knew better than that. "What is so rare as a day in June?" he asks. What matter was a nature lover, talking about perfect days instead of dream-like nights, of warm ears laid softly over the earth rather than of lips now soft, now searching? Love nature or love romance, June is the month for it, not December.

The New York Times writer, as might be expected, makes out quite a case for December, talking of hay rides and parties and young men's fancies home to meet parents and fraternity rings slipped on fingers.

All this is the stuff of engagement and marriage and of love—but not of being in love. June would spurn this stiff formality, this setting of gaiety, this aura of propriety.

June is the month of the long walk down lonely lanes, of the sweet smell of new-mown hay, of the chance meeting, the linked arms, the noon-hour day-dream, the fever and the heart-ache.

The man who says that December can match June has a short memory. Or else a daughter of marriageable age for whom, at 25 or old, he plans a December romance, no fever, no heart-ache, no sweet hay, no roses.

VICTIM OF THE LAW

Most Canadians will agree with the view expressed recently by Income Tax Appeal Board chairman, Fabio Monet, when he said that there is something wrong with the law when it forbids the Board to allow a man to deduct for income tax purposes money paid out for oxygen necessary to ease the suffering and prolong the life of a sick wife suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis.

The appellant, Anatole Brunet, on the advice of a physician, arranged to have oxygen supplied to his home. Others had to be transferred to it when they were in hospital. The Income Tax Act, however, states that the cost of oxygen treatment is deductible only when administered by a physician, dentist or nurse on a hospital.

So M. Brunet must, under the law, pay income tax on the money he has spent to provide oxygen for his ailing wife in order to relieve her suffering. It is tragic that high taxes, necessary to sustain public government, should place a man in a position where he can get no tax exemption for money paid out to provide a dying wife with oxygen to relieve her agony. M. Brunet, it might be said is the victim rather than the beneficiary of the welfare state.

TIME TO CRY 'AUNTIE'

That does it!

The West has lost the battle for Asia.

As if the atom bomb wasn't enough, here comes an orchestra of aunts, playing Haydn.

Instead of listening to juke boxes playing popular songs, the youngsters at Misono in Japan are being fed a diet of Mozart and Schubert by an all-girl orchestra whose members' ages average 40, five of these years having been devoted to the study of music.

If that doesn't fill the Japanese youth with a lust for revenge, the Japs are indeed a polite people.

And it is all to the west's benefit, since the orchestra in question is the direct result of the alliberation" of Japanese women by the Allied occupation force.

Only hope is for Count Basie, Frankie Laine, Eddie Fisher, the Andrew Sisters, McGuire Sisters, Louie Armstrong, Duke Ellington et al. to take a fast boat to Japan.

THE TEST

Have I helped when I could?
Have I cheered when I should?
Have I given my best
To the tasks that were mine?
Have I wandered astray
With a snatch of a song?
If I have, then tonight
I've no cause to repine.

Have I kept my heart clean
From the base and the mean?
Have I kept my head up
In the heat of the fray?

Have I made a new friend?
Then tonight, at the end
Contented I am
With the work of the day.

I'm no richer, you say,
Than I was yesterday,
For nothing I've done
That will add to my pride.
I've won no new fame
That will cling to my name.
But if I've been true
I can sleep satisfied.

Asia Expects Much of U.S.

(Milwaukee Journal)

Why isn't the United States popular in free Asia? Why, in view of the aid we have given, have developed Asiatic nations at pressing cost to ourselves, isn't there more gratitude?

These questions have puzzled many Americans.

A son of Asia tried to answer them recently. He is Sir Zafrulla Khan of Pakistan. Sir Zafrulla, now a judge of the international court of justice, is former foreign minister of Pakistan and former head of his country's delegation to the United Nations.

The basic trouble, Sir Zafrulla told a Cincinnati audience, is the turn of history. He has brought the anticolonial United States into world leadership in alliance with colonial or ex-colonial powers of Europe.

The Pakistani reviewed early American history and quoted from the Declaration of Independence as the Constitution about the rights of all men to liberty and equality, then concluded:

"The east expects the United States to lead in the crusade for the freedom of men and the dignity of life. When it perceives a falling off on the part of the United States in any of these aspects, the west feels it finds the United States groping for a compromise between these ideals and the policies which it wishes to adopt, the east experiences a sense of disappointment and frustration. It is irritated, it mutsjudges, it misunderstands and sometimes it even calls names.

"From Europe we do not expect much. It is thankful for small mercies where Europe is concerned. In fact, were Europe also sufficiently to become understanding and generous and rise down from its pedestal of superiority, it would become human, the east's first reaction would be to suspect treachery or bewilderment. . . . But from the United States the east not only expects all these things, but its attitude is thus one of genuine disappointment when it finds them lacking.

"For understanding between east and west, three needs must be met by Zafrulla said. The first is by the dignity and worth of the human person must be translated, on both sides, into the living principle of conduct and behavior. Second, there must be understanding on both sides, through sympathy and genuine appreciation, of that which is important to the other's national patterns.

"Third, the 'imperative' need, and this applies strictly to the United States, is that:

"The people of the United States, as representing the most advanced section of the west, should live up to their highest ideals in themselves and their ideals, and that the governments of the United States should shape its policies and the conduct of those policies in conformity to those ideals."

Such American action, Sir Zafrulla assured his audience, would pay generous dividends.

Human Beings Balk Machines

(Christian Science Monitor)

In a certain city in a certain subway station there appeared one day a neat metal box about the size and shape of a two-drawer file case. On its top were the words and lettered by each slot simple instructions: "Insert two dimes here"; "Insert fifty cents here," and below, "Then push pneumatic." Below one was a head-high entrance turnstile. On either side were one-way exits for departing riders. No booth and no change-maker. Only mechanisms.

Before a white-haired woman. Nothing unusual about her. One could see immediately from her air of unconcern that she knew her way subway station. She passed by, purse, stepped to the box, pushed the dimes, and entered the turnstile. It would not turn.

I put one dime in this slot and one dime in that slot. The expicined plaintively to the next would-be passenger. "What do I do?"

He tried the turnstile. He pushed the plunger and tried again. So did the next man. A queue began to form, grew rapidly.

Suddenly out of nowhere appeared one of the subway's special employees. He looked at the lady's plaint with a "Follow instructions, ma'am, follow instructions," he called back into an obscure little opening, tripped a spring, got back the offending dime, put it where it should have been, and the queue began the turnstile.

The moral of this story is: If there's a human equation on one side of a machine there has got to be a human equation on the other. Or: "Automation" hasn't got us yet!

Wren's Dream Coming True

Montreal Gazette

Sir Christopher Wren replanned London after the Great Fire of 1666, the prodigious architect also designed hundreds of buildings to grace the new city, including fifty lovely churches. The greatest of these is St. Paul's Cathedral, on Ludgate Hill.

As his most important work, Wren had definite ideas about how the area surrounding the cathedral should be kept clear, so that visitors could be appreciated from ground level. This was not followed until German bombs had levelled the buildings around it. Since then, a new appreciation of the beauty of St. Paul's has been born. It is the general opinion that Wren had of it from the first.

Inside, he wanted the main entrance doors at the western end, so entering from the west could see right through the building. Instead, a great screen was erected dividing the church in half, which meant that slim and tall windows should light the building. Instead, stained-glass was used and these windows, set in the exterior had to be artificially lighted.

The bombs blew out the ornate windows and the screen, replaced with plain glass. The effect was magical. Now the screen is to be removed, too. St. Paul's is being restored, not to what it was before 1939, but to the simple majesty Wren dreamed of, centuries ago.

U.S. Stumbled Into Red Trap

(Washington Post and Times Herald)

More and more it is obvious that the Outer Mongolia squabble in the United Nations was a put-up job to parcel Soviet trap. We blundered into that trap — or, rather, permitted ourselves to be led into it by Chiang Kai-shek. There is every reason to think that Russia and the Communist regime in Outer Japan was excluded along with Outer Mongolia, well laid in advance. The aim was to get the exchange of votes is to leave Japan, alone of all major applicants, out in the cold and prey to Communist blandishments.

It was Russia, to be sure, that agreed to the Japanese membership, but in such a way as to dump much of the blame, in Japanese minds, on the United States. Russia had given ostentatious lip service to Japanese membership by agreeing to it in the course of the conclusion of a Russo-Japanese peace treaty. The final Soviet veto was conveniently timed by Ambassador Lodge's charges of Soviet provisions regarding Peiping. From the Japanese fact that it was the veto of Outer Mongolia by an American delegate, not Russia, that made contingent upon the seating of Communist China, whereas previously the two had been openly linked. Furthermore, the great revulsion of most UN members over the Outer Mongolia veto made it very difficult if not impossible to obtain a separate seat for Formosa.

All this means that United States is more than ever over a barrel. It will be impossible in the circumstances if the Japanese feel that they must warm up to Moscow and Peiping in order to avoid anti-Communist their orientation. Already the Socialists are crying for the scalp of the pro-American Foreign Minister, Mamoru Shigemitsu, for failure to get Japan UN membership. For Russia has clearly bested the United States in a matter of diplomacy, and there is a real crisis for American prestige in Japan. Yet Russia did not push us into the trap. We stumbled in under our own power.

Parking Experiment

(Toronto Star)

Toledo is embarked on an experiment of interest to all medium-sized cities. It has placed a virtual ban on parking in a 13-square downtown shopping area. In addition it has banned all-day parking during rush hours, on all main thoroughfares leading into the shopping area. These drastic provisions were imposed at the height of the Christmas shopping season, for a 30-day trial period.

Common Ailments Go Undiagnosed

I was sure lockjaw, tetany, but only the condition masked by the more striking symptoms, although it shows that made the call necessary.

Standard medical textbooks have always conveyed the idea that tetany is a rare disease or perhaps a defect of infants, due, as some great doctor surmised, to functional deficiency of the mysterious parathyroid glands . . . whose function is still pretty much a mystery although it probably has to do with calcium and phosphorus metabolism in the body.

And so the medical authors of the horse-and-buggy era left it just as they found it, and the medical authors of today have hashed it over and over, each copying what his predecessor said because of course not verbatim. Thus doctors came to believe tetany is a disease of infancy and childhood.

I thought so too, when was an honest doctor.

But in my long experience coming suddenly, at intervals of days or weeks, mostly in the night, are manifestations of tetany in adults. Why I call it Adult Tetany, and, on written request accompanied with stamped addressed envelope, I'll send you the pamphlet about it.

Tetany is not to be confused with tetanus (lockjaw). Tetany is painful, oh very much, but otherwise people didn't run to the doctor with muscle ailments in the good old days when an honest doctor charged 30 cents for an office consultation. So for a pamphlet, $10 for delivering a baby. So the old timers seldom had time to write books.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THAT HIDDEN FIRE

In a book by John Buchan (Lord Tweedsmuir) entitled "The Path of the King," he quotes an old Scandinavian that went on among two men, one of whom was determined to seek an unknown land. "Alone?" inquired his listener. "I have heard that was his crime," "There is a man of my own city—Cristoloro Colombo, they call him. He is a hard man and a bitter, but a master seaman, and there is a fire in him that will not be put out!"

I wonder how much we owe to benefactors in this world because of that same inner fire that "will not be put out"—inventors, scientists, discoverers, pioneers? There has to be something unique to people who will not be put down or driven from their path of faith and determination. Just think of that hidden fire that is brightly burning in the hearts of thousands right now who will be the benefactors of tomorrow!

The common word is that of enthusiasm—the God within us—and there can be nothing worthwhile achieved without it. This enthusiasm is not to be found in books in us but in others—for it spreads. Another interpretation is that it is catching, like the "flu" and we have great reforms and advances in consequence.

This hidden fire must spread to every human heart in every country before the world if there is to be peace and good will forever among the nations of this earth. How brightly burned the fire in the hearts of our fathers! Hardships were borne and faith never wavered. Within the mind and heart of the free this fire never burns out.

Seldom men never get discouraged. There is always something better being nourished within them—an aspiration, a hope and a purpose. It has been said that when a people lose their vision they lose all—and perish. May our vision for peace be fired anew in this bright New year!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A poultry dealer tells me that when he buys fifty choice capons, he always keeps one for his own. A pretty scrawny old hen which he gives away discreetly to some poor shop to point up the quality of the good birds.

This is a fairly general principle in merchanding. To have a connoisseur with confidence on some queer form of the inferiority complex, and always choose the poorer article.

Among those who take home the bank inspector, is the poultry dealer himself.

"There is more real chicken flavor," he declared, "to this hen, than there is in any of the two or three year old, hen, than in any of these glossy fat capons, by George! She's lived, she's got character. She's have the old-fashioned flavor that those stuffed, fast grown, commercial birds don't have. Fact is the same with beef: I would rather have a piece of fine beef cut than all the baby beef on the market. Same with lamb. Lambs that have had the privilege of the back country has a flavor these feed lambs from the professional sheep factories miss entirely."

This opens up possibilities in a much wider field than poultry. How about all that second-best merchandise? When we go to buy a pair of shoes, might it not be a good idea to ask the shop man what he wears? The same with shirts, socks, suits . . .

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A SPRING IS OPENED

The story has come down from wars of other days that in battle a shell once buried itself in the side of a hill. The soldiers defending that hill were almost famished for water. The shell burst, and to dosing as, opened a spring. Both during the battle and forever after men drank of that cool spring and were refreshed.

It happens often that the efforts of men to destroy or impede God's kingdom are overruled and the malice is used to produce some good end. Also it happens in our everyday life that things which take place and which appear to be great misfortunes sometimes turn out to be blessings. We have an experience which deprives us of something, and in our effort to make up for this deprivation we tap resources which we never knew we had. Sorrow has shattered many a life but opened up in that life springs from which flowed rejoy freshing and healing water.

We need always keep in mind that the universe is presided over by an all-powerful God. He appears many times to be thwarted, and sometimes to be defeated, but of course this is only in appearance. The hand of God is often shifted to allow men to go the full extent of their folly. Then the hand of God is laid on the situation, and what men have called the impossible then takes place.

Don't forget the shell, a missile of death, which under the direction of an overruling Providence proved to be something of mercy and love. It opened up a spring.

Papers Agree 'Eden Crisis' Exaggerated

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—British newspapers now agree that the 'Eden crisis" was exaggerated, distorted and premature.

After one of the strangest political weekends in modern times—involving an official denial that Prime Minister Eden planned to retire—the impression grew that too much had been made of a trifling episode. Here are some comments:

Manchester Guardian, independent Liberal: "The Eden-must-go story is an unusually clear example of how a rumor may grow if you make yourself dizzy dancing round a mulberry bush."

News Chronicle, Liberal: "The fashionable view that the prime minister has been written off as a failure by his own party . . . is premature to say the least."

Daily Telegraph, Conservative: "During the weekend there has been a strange distortion of the attempt to bring into the open the varied criticisms of the government which have been current behind the scenes for months and wholly factual analysis of these criticisms has been interpreted as a personal attack upon the prime minister. . . ."

CLUMSY MOVE

Two opposition papers, The Daily Herald and The Daily Mirror, twit the Conservative government for its nervousness. The Herald says editorially that it is "fantastic" that Eden should raise a denial after only nine months in office, and Cassandra, the Mirror's hardhitting columnist, says it was the clumsiest political moves for a very long time."

The weekend furore, whatever its origins, had repercussions. A financial crisis was attributed by widespread falls on the London stock exchange to fears about the government's prestige caused by rumors of Sir Anthony's resignation.

The background is this: Last week, first The Daily Mirror, and then The Daily Sketch and Daily Telegraph—all three Conservative paper—printed criticisms of government policy. The Times, independent, rumbled indirectly about the need for "courage," without any personal reference. Left-wing papers joined in the chorus.

What appeared to lend significance to the criticism was the appearance of The Telegraph on the list of the detractors. Thus The Guardian today says the "direct cause" of the weekend flurry was the decision of its government paper which The Telegraph published last Thursday.

GERMAN RUMOR

Amid this criticism, came a speculative report in a German newspaper, hinting that discontent with reports that Eden allegedly was to be toppled, saying he might retire in the summer. Some London newspapers gave this the substance of a rumor" that Eden would resign. Then came the denial from Downing street.

Today The Telegraph says it made no attack on the prime minister whatever. It merely concerned to show that there was a "general sense of frustration" in the Conservative party.

"We are concerned with policy and not with talent-spotting."

One question remains to be answered, in the view of independent observers. This is to what extent press criticism and the prime minister reflects uneasiness within the Conservative party in Parliament and in the constituencies.

One point of view was expressed by Donald C. Leather, Toronto-born Conservative MP. Leather, asked by The Canadian Press for his opinion, said categorically that as far as he knows there is no discontent whatever, either among his own MP acquaintances or in his constituency of Somerset North in the west country.

'I think it's a storm in a teacup," he said.

BOY MAY LOSE EYE

KINGSTON (CP)—Don Varela, 14, of Brockville, Sunday was struck in the eye by a cartridge case exploded in a bonfire. He was operated on at Kingston General Hospital and doctors said it is probable he will lose his right eye. Police said the boy was watching a bonfire in a field when another boy threw a bullet into the flames. The shell exploded and Varela was hit by a fragment.

Fort Erie to Windsor Toll Road Feasible, Necessary — Lawyer

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario lawyer said Monday construction of a $150,000,000 toll road from Fort Erie to Windsor by a non-profit company for the province is feasible and necessary.

Joseph Jeffery of London told the Ontario legislature's select committee on toll roads the proposed 200-mile road would benefit the province economically and help ease the traffic problem in southwestern Ontario.

The plan was questioned closely by the committee and it appeared only found little favor. At least two members went on record as favoring a public organization similar to the Hydro commission to build the road if it is approved by the government.

Mr. Jeffery suggested the road be built by a non-profit company with a directorate of men from all political parties and representatives appointed by the province. It would be given to the province after it paid for itself.

FOUR THINGS NEEDED

The province would have to do four things to make the road economically feasible:

1. Expropriate the required land because the company could not obtain it economically on a competitive market;

2. Give a deficiency guarantee to keep the interest rate below four per cent;

3. Approve a company which would provide the least possible amount of its income diverted to the treasury;

4. Use the resources of the highways department to conduct a preliminary survey of the route, saving the company the expense.

Arthur Reaume (L — Essex North) said he opposed the plan but was wrong in principle. The road should be built by a government commission.

John Yaremko (PC — Toronto Bellwood) questioned the need of the province guaranteeing revenue from the road. Mr. Jeffery told him it was needed to finance the project at low interest rates.

Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, said if government commissions cannot do a good job of servicing the public, Hydro and liquor sales should be put back in free-enterprise hands.

Suggested toll on the road was 1.2 cents a mile for passenger cars and 4.8 cents a mile for trucks. The proposed road would start seven miles southeast of Windsor and pass six miles south of London. Two routes are suggested from London to Port Erie, one to pass three miles southwest of Hamilton, and the other following the north shore of Lake Erie.

Return Viewing Of "Peter Pan" Better Than Last

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The return of Mary Martin in "Peter Pan" Monday night demonstrated that you can't have too much of a good thing on television.

Viewing the two-hour musical version of James M. Barrie's delightful fantasy on "Producer's Showcase" was a refreshing experience. It seemed at least a century ago—not just last March—since we saw Miss Martin swinging through the air with the greatest of ease and heard her singing so splendidly. And surely it was a century since we saw Cyril Ritchard swaggering about as Captain Hook.

Memory may be faulty, but it seemed to one viewer that the production, staging, and choreography by Jerome Robbins outshone the last time.

Oh, those wonderful pirates and Indians and children!

GENTILE DEFIANCE

Perhaps the charm of the theme of "Peter Pan" today is its gentle defiance of a modern theme that we all must hurry and grow up. Maturity has become synonymous with virtue and intelligence.

"Peter Pan" pleasantly denies this. It tells us that the finest thing in the world is the willingness to believe in the incredible.

The success of "Peter Pan" in a repeat performance on NBC-TV should remind the networks that the best of television is too good to be shown only once. There have been many other outstanding television performances in the last year that are most worthy of being seen again.

RESCUED AFTER JUMP

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) Two hours after marine Sgt. Robert Riggs bailed out of a flaming Skyraider plane Monday he was rescued four miles off shore by a fishing vessel. The rescue was made in soupy fog shortly before dark. The two remaining crew members landed the plane safely after the tail section of the craft burst into flames under radio man Riggs' feet at an altitude of 7,000 feet.

Victoria Cross Holders Will Visit London

LONDON (Reuters)—More than 400 of the Commonwealth's heroes are being invited to London next June.

All surviving holders of the Victoria Cross are being invited to celebrate the centenary of the institution of the medal by Queen Victoria in 1856.

They will come from all over the world to wait on their sovereign, the first reigning queen since Victoria. They will attend a Buckingham Palace garden party, and stand insellest tribute at a church commemoration service to war dead.

LONDON PARADE

They will parade in London's Hyde Park where the first Victoria Cross was presented.

A total of 1,347 VCs have been awarded. They went to: Great Britain, 900; India, 182; 111; Australia, 87; Canada, 79; South Africa, 24; New Zealand, 21; Newfoundland, 1; Fiji, 1; King's African Rifles, 1.

The American unknown soldier of the First World War also was awarded the Victoria Cross.

The decoration is worn on the left breast before all other decorations and consists of a 1½-inch Maltese cross in bronze. Its crown is surmounted by a lion with the inscription "For Valor" underneath.

KINGS SALUTE..

Even kings and general officers are bound to salute it whenever it holder passes by, for he is the lowliest private.

Early crosses were struck, on Queen Victoria's orders, from guns captured at Sevastapol in the Crimean war of 1854-56. When the source of metal ended in 1942, production switched to Royal Mint, London.

There were 509 surviving VC holders in 1948. Non-British citizens have won the cross, including a Dane, He was Major Leif Larsen, who fought with a British commando in the 1914-18 war.

A New Zealander, Capt. C.H. Upham, won the decoration twice — in Crete in 1941 and again in the western desert a year later.

Mike Timocenko Faces 2 Charges, Remanded Week

KENORA (CP) — Two charges were formally laid Monday against Mike Timocenko, 30-year-old railway laborer who last week held off police for more than 24 hours in a barricaded log cabin, using his pregnant wife as hostage.

The Russian immigrant was charged in police court here with resisting arrest by shooting a loaded rifle at police and with shooting with intent to wound at his brother-in-law, 19-year-old Anthony Sydor of Oakburn, Man.

Timocenko was remanded to the courtroom by the crown attorney when it was learned he would appear in court without legal counsel. The magistrate following the crown's suggestion and remanded Timocenko without plea to next Friday.

ON NOMINAL CHARGE

Timocenko had been held during the weekend on a formal charge of possessing an offensive weapon. He was arrested Friday night by provincial police when cops down the main line of the CNR from the railway settlement of Nidditie and pulled Timocenko and his wife from a snowbank where they were hiding.

The laborer earlier fled under cover of darkness with his 24-year-old wife, Annie, from their log cabin at Nidditie where he had lived wildly for three days.

Timocenko went berserk Thursday afternoon following an argument with his brother-in-law, the roadmaster and section foreman of his track gang.

C.C.F. Allegations of Inhumanity Denied by Conservative Member

GALT (CP)—R. M. Myers, Progressive Conservative legislature member for Waterloo South, Monday issued a statement contradicting CCF allegations of inhumanity at the Ontario Girls' Training school here.

The charges were made last week by CCF leader Donald Mac-Donald of Ontario.

Mr. Myers said he visited the school Monday morning, interviewing Ruth Bentley, its director, and a number of its prisoners.

He said Miss Bentley denied Mr. MacDonald's most serious charge—that a 12-year-old girl had been held in virtual solitary confinement for 22 days.

Mr. Myers said Mr. MacDonald, if he have been fair, should have visited the school and inspected the detention quarters for himself.

ESCAPE TRIES FEW

If there had been any cruelty, he said, it would have been reflected in the number of escape attempts, which he said had been few in the last eight months.

The director told him because of the 15-year-old child's abnormal conduct it was necessary to isolate her from other groups during the night, but during the day she participated in the usual assignments and programs her condition permitted, Mr. MacDonald said the girl had attempted to commit suicide, but, Mr. Myers said, an examination by a physician produced no evidence to that effect.

Of powerful physique, the girl, Janet Indian, first ran afoul the school when 10 years old. On occasions she had assaulted staff members, including Miss Bentley and the previous director of the institution.

OFFICIALS TO MEET

Al Downie, Renfrewshie, Col. G. Headley Basher, deputy minister of reform institutions, said superintendents of Adult reform institutions will meet there next week to discuss department affairs.

Col. Basher and Mr. MacDonald said the meeting has nothing to do with the charges of mistreatment at Galt and Copourg training schools.

Mr. MacDonald said in Toronto he was aware two weeks ago that the meeting had been called. His accusations have been made during the last 10 days.

His first statement said boys at Cobourg had been mistreated by guards, one of whom he said was convicted though political interference of Reforms Minister Foote. Mr. MacDonald said Superintendent William Little was transferred to Brampton because he objected. Seven teenage boys ran away from the Cobourg school during the weekend and were returned after eight hours' freedom, James Marsland, newly-appointed superintendent said the change in staff may result in more escapes.

Alderman Plans By-Law Revision

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto alderman said Monday it's time the city tossed out about 10 of its 19,358 by-laws, including one which prohibits bumping into anyone on the street.

Ald. John Kucherepa said By-law 4305 could be eliminated too. It says all bathing suits worn on public beaches must extend from neck to knees and provides a $50 fine for violation.

Mr. Kucherepa proposed to city council that a five-man committee be set up to study the 10 obsolete rules.

The last review and consolidation of by-laws took place in 1904. Another 15,265 have been added since then.

REDS SEND MISSION

LONDON (AP) — Communist China has sent a high-level trade mission to Saudi Arabia to discuss "industrializing" that heartland of Middle Eastern oil resources, Peiping radio reported Monday night. The broadcast said the delegation, led by the deputy minister of foreign trade, Chiang Ming, has already arrived in Jidda at the invitation of King Saud.

Slum-Clearance Legislation To be Broadened

OTTAWA (CP)—A broadening of present slum-clearance legislation will be introduced in the new session of Parliament to help municipalities demolish run-down housing in older parts of cities to make way for new stores, offices and other commercial structures.

The proposal, learned Monday, will mean an amendment to the National Housing Act which now provides for federal aid with slum clearance only if new housing is to be erected in the cleared areas.

Housing authorities say emphasis now should shift from expanding the volume of new housing to cleaning out obsolete dwellings that have become a fire menace or a health menace to their occupants. They foresee critical slum problems in the next 20 years unless redevelopment plans are launched.

CAN BE EXPENSIVE

But older parts of municipalities usually have high land values which makes slum clearance expensive.

Under the NHA, the federal government now puts up one-half the difference between the cost of expropriating and clearing the site and the sale of the land for housing. Similar financial arrangement likely will apply in the case of land cleared for commercial development.

However, municipalities getting federal aid will have to guarantee that housing will be available in other parts of the city for occupants of cleared-out dwellings.

U.S. Personnel Will Man Radar Line in North

OTTAWA (CP) — Though the government says no decision has been reached, it is becoming increasingly apparent here that American personnel will man the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line in Canada's Arctic.

Officials say bluntly that this country simply hasn't got enough technicians to take on the job, though as few as possible Canadians will be required. They add that the defence department will have a hard enough time finding the personnel to man the mid-Canada radar chain when it is completed.

Canada is building and paying for the $170,000,000 mid-Canada line, United States is paying the same with the $250,000,000 DEW line.

There was some opposition here to the U.S. building the DEW line but, at the same time, it was recognized that Canada didn't have the manpower resources available to take on both jobs. And both were classified as urgent.

Three New Occupants in Front Benches

OTTAWA (CP) — The sugary front-row benches on the government side in the Commons have three new occupants.

They are Liberals Hugh A. MacKenzie, Lambton-East, W. M. Buchanan, Cape Breton North and Victoria, and Herve J. Michaud, East, N.B. Last session they were in the second row.

The three move into the front row to the right of Speaker Rene Beaudoin as a result of the appointment to the Senate last July of Jean-Francois Pouliot, and Hon. C. G. (Chubby) Power. The third seat was vacant last session.

Weddings

LaGUFF — LUPENETTE

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, December 31st, at 2.00 a.m. for a lovely Christmastime wedding, when the Reverend Peter Murphy united in marriage, Arlene Louise Lupenette, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Lupenette, to Howard William LaGuff, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baldwin. White chrysanthemums and yellow roses adorned the church table, and bouquets of multi-colored 'mums the chancel.

Sister Mary Wilhelmina provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Joseph Lupenette, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white slipper satin cut and Chantille lace fashioned with strapless, fitted bodice with matching lace jacket having shoulder-length sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrist and petal - trimmed Peter Pan collar. Her finger-tip veil was held by a matching heart-dress encircled with pearl pearls. The floor-length skirt fell in graceful folds, and she carried a bouquet of red, Bettertime roses with white satin streamers knotted with red rosettes.

The maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Wood, was attired in blue taffeta with net overskirt matching jacket, and headdress, and carried a nosegay of Rapture roses and white pom 'mums with pink Maline tufts.

Miss Dawne Langman, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid was gowned in yellow net and lace over taffeta, with matching jacket and headdress. She carried a nosegay of tawny, gold roses, yellow and bronze pom 'mums, and white Maline tufts.

Miss Pat Mathews, as junior bridesmaid, wore pink taffeta over net with puffed sleeves, and lace-puffed skirt. She wore a matching headdress and carried a nosegay of white, starlight roses, pink and white pom 'mums, and blue Maline tufts.

Mr. William LaGuff, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Mr. Ronald Lupenette, brother of the bride, and Mr. Al Royal, were ushers.

Following the wedding ceremony, the reception and wedding breakfast was held at the New Queen's Hotel, where the bride's mother, attired in a brown dinner dress with gold - colored accessories and corsage of yellow roses, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore an orchid-colored tailored dress, with black accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

For travelling the bride chose a charcoal knitted suit with white angora accessories, and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. LaGuff will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Peterborough and Toronto.

McFARLAND — HARTWICK

PICTON (Special) — Picton United Church was the scene of a lovely wedding at two o'clock Saturday afternoon, January 7, when Beverley Joan Hartwick, became the bride of Harvey James McFarland, Jr. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hartwick, Glenora Road, and the bridegroom is the son of Mayor H. J. and Mrs. McFarland, Picton. The Rev. F. G. Whiteley officiated at the ceremony before the altar banked with draclinas, ferns, and white standards filled with white 'mums and roses. White satin bows marked the guest pews.

Traditional wedding music was played by A. A. Searle. The soloist, Mrs. Ronald Collier sang, "The Lord's Prayer" prior to the ceremony, and "I Love Thee" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a lovely picture in an all-white wedding ensemble of starlight satin, the full-length gown featured an empire bodice, low-cut, decolleted in front with softly draped folds. The long sheath sleeves came to lily points over the hands. The bouffant skirt cascaded in unpressed pleats into a long cathedral train. Her fingertip veil was gathered to a matching cap encrusted with pearls. She carried a cascade of white Starlight roses and stephanotis.

Miss Marlene Hartwick was her sister's maid of honor; Miss Betty Rottier, of Wellington, and Miss Marilyn Taylor, of Toronto, were bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns in waltz-length velvet, the poinsettia red color complementing the brides all-white ensemble. The brodices featured bateau necklines offset with wide flange collars over the shoulders, accentuated with a back streamer bow front. The skirts, on princess lines, had gentle flaring gores. They wore red satin slippers and matching feather hats, and long white gloves. Their Colonial bouquets were of white bee-bee poms.

Mr. Donald Ostrander, Picton, was groomsman.

The reception followed at the Royal Hotel. The bride's mother chose a Rae Hildebrand gown of mushroom silk brocade with matching gloves, satin stole, bronze bag and shoes and a corsage of tawny gold roses. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in a street-length dress of acquamarine silk with matching hat, brown accessories, a mink cape and corsage of Havana roses.

The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake surrounded by Briarcliffe roses and fern. Bouquets of white poms, pink carnations and pink Paris branches were also used in decoration. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. William B. Purtelle with response by bridegroom. Mr. Whitley gave a prayer of thanksgiving and a buffet luncheon was served. A novel feature was a huge punch bowl made of ice with roses frozen in the sides and illuminated at the bottom.

For travelling, the bride donned a street-length featherweight wool crepe dress-coat with matching shoe knot and satin collar. Hat, shoes, gloves and bag were in matching shades and her corsage was a golden Sceptre rose. She wore a mink jacket, a gift of the bride groom, over her travelling outfit. Mr. and Mrs. McFarland left by motor for Fort Lauderdale, Florida, where they will spend a month. On their return they will reside in Picton, where the bridegroom is vice-president of the McFarland Construction Co. Ltd.

State Reception Before Opening Grand Affair

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Tall portraits looked down and a crystal chandelier glittered in the ballroom of Government House Monday night as more than 400 guests attended a state reception on the eve of the opening of the third session of Canada's 22nd Parliament.

It was the first state reception given by Governor-General Massey since the visit of Queen Mother Elizabeth in 1954, and was preceded by a state dinner for 100 chief statesmen and dignitaries.

Statesmen and diplomats, clergy and chiefs of military staffs relaxed beneath the tall portraits of King George V and Queen Mary.

A huge, glowing chandelier centred from the high ceiling of Rideau Hall's ballroom vied with sparkling champagne.

It was an evening of relaxation and enjoyment for cabinet ministers and members of Parliament, embarking today on a stiff parliamentary session.

Mr. Massey moved easily through the ballroom, stopping frequently to chat with guests.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, his progress through the reception room punctuated with greetings, was accompanied by Mrs. St. Laurent. She wore a silver and blue lame dress, styled with a draped bodice, a long stole of matching material lined with ice blue georgette and diamonds for jewelry.

Opposition leader Drew and Mrs. Drew, wearing a floor-length gown of black lace styled with a bouffant skirt, found no parliamentary boundaries in the mingling ballroom.

It was difficult to discern a predominant color in evening gowns. Soft white laces blended with black nets, and red taffetas swirled around navy blue pole de sole and mingled with pastels in multi-materials.

St. Michael's Regis Club Presents Skit

St. Michael's Regis Club met recently in the Knights of Columbus Hall, with president Mary McDougall in the chair.

The spiritual committee, under the chairmanship of Jerry O'Sullivan, conducted a discussion on "The Redemption".

The cultural committee presented a short skit on "How Not to Conduct a Table Discussion". Chairman Barbara Mascaro asked for comments on this presentation and suggestions for improving this type of discussion.

Plans were made for a skating party to be held within the next two weeks.

An up-to-date report was made on the standing of the bowling teams and members were reminded that weekly bowling commenced again on Tuesday, January 10.

A radio program: "Truth or You Know What", was presented, with the following cast: Barbara Mascaro, Gwen Legault, Mary McDougall, Bernard Mascaro, Doug Foley, Bob Johnson and Bob Burke.

Guest contestants were: Bernetta O'Brien, Frances Winfield, Joan Shannon, Ted McDonnell, Wayne Johnson and Jerry O'Sullivan.

Refreshments were served by Margaret Whelan and her committee.

NO MORE ACTING FOR GRACE KELLY

Prince Rainier III of Monaco and his fiance, screen actress Grace Kelly, were the guests of honor at an "Imperial Ball" in their honor in New York following announcement of their wedding plans. They will live in Monaco, which will revert to France if the royal family does not produce an heir. Miss Kelly, daughter of a Philadelphia millionaire, said she would probably give up acting altogether.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ALL YOU CAN DO NOW IS TO ADMIT YOU MADE A MISTAKE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 18 years old, and four months ago I met a boy named Jim. I liked him very much and he liked me. He asked me for a date, and we have been going steady ever since. He has dated no other girl and I have dated no other boy.

Last week he went on a business trip and won't be back for four months. Before going he told me that I was the one girl for him and said we'd become engaged when he comes back. I don't love him, although I like him very much, just as my parents do.

A few weeks ago he took me to a church supper where I met a lot of other boys and girls, among them one boy I especially liked right away. I know he likes me, too, because he's been over to my house a couple of times to see me.

The other night he asked me for a movie date. My parents would not let me go, and said I could not go on any dates with anyone because Jim thinks I am waiting for him.

Don't you think they are unfair? And don't you think an 18-year-old girl should have some fun?

Should I write Jim and tell him about this other boy, or should I wait until he comes back?

Please help me find the answer. I love my parents and want to do the right thing.

Dear A.K.:

If, as you say, you don't love the young man named Jim, why didn't you tell him so when he spoke, before going away, of your becoming engaged when he came back? That was the time you should have cleared things up, and if you had, there would have been no opportunity for your present problem to arise. Instead, however you apparently allowed him to go away believing that you felt toward him the same way he feels toward you, and even allowed your parents to get the same impression that you gave him, as I gather you did, then I'm afraid it is your own fault, rather than your parent's unfairness, that is causing your trouble now.

As I see it, your only chance of setting the matter straight is to do now, what you should have done at the right moment, and make it quite clear to everybody what your real feelings are. And the only way of doing this, of course, is to admit that you made a mistake in giving Jim a wrong impression about your feelings for him. You should come right out and say this to your parents. You should also write Jim a letter and say the same thing. If you like, you can say that the reason you know you don't love Jim is because you found yourself getting interested in another young man and want to be free to go out with him. Probably Jim and your parents will urge you to wait for him, but if you are quite sure now that you are not at all prepared to become engaged to him then you should stand your ground and not allow yourself to be persuaded to do what you know is a mistake.

As for your question about an 18-year-old girl's right "to have some fun," you had better be more careful in the future not to allow your desire to "have fun" lead you into something more serious than you intend.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

DON'T HOARD YOUR GIFTS OF FRAGRANCE

Perfume, kept in an atomizer, will encourage daily use of the fragrant accessory.

If you're like most women you probably received a great many gifts of fragrance for Christmas—perfume, toilet water, cologne, and bath luxuries. And, too, if you're like a lot of women, by now you've probably "put them away" for use in some nebulous future. If so, get them out hiding right now and let them do you some good. After all, they're not of much use if they're just lying in the back of a bureau drawer.

Fragrance gives you an inner sense of security in your own femininity. It gives you a feeling of being utterly lovely. So start using it early in the morning and use it all day—in one way or another. Use your bath softeners and your lovely perfumes soaps in your morning tub and see if they don't start your day off beautifully.

After your bath, splash yourself lavishly with toilet water or cologne. Not only will the fragrance make you feel delightfully feminine, but the liquid on your skin is a wonderfully refreshing eye-opener. With a puff, pat fragrant cologne powder or talc from head to toe (and between toes, too). Your skin will feel soft and silky, your lingerie (including girdle) will slip on more easily. You will have a definite sense of being well groomed of being surrounded with charm and loveliness.

And what do you do with that Christmas perfume? Use it right now. Don't hoard it. Use it as an accent to the foundation of fragrance formed by your bath accessories. On the skin apply it to the pulse spots—along throat, on the inside of the wrists, in the crook of your arm—where the heat of the skin will keep the scent alive. Tuck a saturated cotton pellet in your bra. Spray it about yourself so that a fine mist clings to the fabric of your clothes. Use it any way you please (enough but not too much) and it will not only bring pleasure to you, but make others aware of a subtle aura which surrounds you. But, for goodness' sake, don't save it for special occasions only. It will evaporate and spoil, and you will have wasted it. Use it to make every occasion a special occasion.

Fragrance accessories are meant to be used. Hiding them away is a waste of a great deal of beauty.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CONCERNING WEDDING RINGS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) Is a double-ring ceremony please tell me in what order are the rings given? (2) And do I wear my engagement ring during the ceremony? If so, where? —June Bride-to-be

(1) Before the ring part of the ceremony, the best man hands the bride's ring to the bridegroom, and then your attendant hands the bridegroom's ring to you. (Occasionally the best man takes charge of both rings.)

(2) During the ceremony the bride usually wears her engagement ring on her right hand. She must not during the ceremony wear her engagement ring on "the" finger of her left hand . . . for the wedding ring must be put first on this finger, in the ring-part of the ceremony and "forever after."

GROOM BUYS WEDDING FLOWERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I have just recently become engaged. Is it correct for a mere acquaintance of my family to give me a bridal shower?

2. Do I send wedding invitations to the groom's family? What I mean is, is this a necessity or a courtesy?

3. I have sisters, but would also like to have my future sister-in-law as an attendant. Would this be proper?

4. Is it correct that I choose my own flowers and those of my attendants and that it is the groom's responsibility to pay for these flowers? — F.G.

1. It is not considered good taste or good form for a member of the bride's or groom's family to give a bridal shower. A shower given under such close-relative auspices is a too-too-obvious 'bid' for gifts.

2. It is definitely not a "necessity" to send a wedding invitation to the parents of the groom . . . for of course the bride and her mother would have fully informed them about all the plans for the wedding. However, it is a charming and thoughtful courtesy for the bride, when the invitations have arrived from the engraver, to enclose at once several each of the invitations in a large envelope and send them to the groom's mother and father, with a note saying something like this: "Peter and I want his dear mother and father, the guests of honor at our wedding, to see the very first invitations . . ." And we are sending you several 'to have and to hold,' if you wish, as mementoes of The Great Day. Our hearts are thrilled at the anticipation of seeing you on the tenth. Love to you there, from all here."

3. Not only is it proper for you to invite a sister of your groom to be an attendant, but this is customary. And it is a fine tradition, as it emphasizes the relationship between the two families.

4. Yes . . . this is the usual procedure. The bride consults with the florist, chooses the flowers she wishes for her bridal bouquet and going-away corsage (this may be the center of her bridal bouquet), the flowers for her attendants, and the corsages for her mother and the groom's mother. These flowers are charged to the groom.

Foods Adaptable to Freezing

By Mary Moore

Somewhere or another in my files I suppose I have the exact data telling me the number of Canadian homes that are equipped with freezers.

There are not as many freezers as there are televisions sets I guess, even though the prices are comparable, but there are plenty of them, because your pleas for freezer information tell me so.

I have two recipes for you that are adaptable to freezing — beauties both of them, and what's more, particularly suitable to the January atmosphere: a refrigerator fruit cake — unbaked — and chicken or turkey a la king. You do not have to freeze either one, although the fruit cake would have to be chilled for 24 to 48 hours before the flavors would be blended and the ingredients set enough to slice neatly.

REFRIGERATOR LEMON FRUIT CAKE (adaptable to freezing)

Two cups plain cookie or graham cracker crumbs, 1 lb. marshmallows, 2 cups each table cream, frozen strawberries or raspberries, drained, crushed pineapple, pitted chopped dates, chopped walnuts, 1 can frozen lemonade concentrate. Generously butter a 5 x 8-inch loaf pan and sprinkle all of the inside surfaces with cookie crumbs, reserving a quarter of them for top of loaf. Heat marshmallows with the cream in double boiler until they are half melted. Remove from heat and beat until smooth. Cool. Add fruits, nuts and frozen lemonade (undiluted), stirring gently. Pour into crumb-lined pan, top with remaining crumbs and chill and freeze. When this is frozen it may be tipped from loaf pan and wrapped in freezer cellophane or foil. It may be stored for ten weeks. Cut off small slices for dessert, with heavy knife.

FREEZER CHICKEN OR TURKEY A LA KING

In top of double boiler blend together 1 can condensed cream of chicken or cream of celery or cream of mushroom soup with ½ cup milk, 1 cup diced cooked chicken or turkey, ½ cup diced pimiento. To serve at once heat over boiling water, then ladle over toast, hot buttered rice, hot biscuits or waffles. To freeze merely combine ingredients and spoon into 1 large or 4 individual freezer containers. Freeze at once. Or you may line a loaf pan or casserole with aluminum foil, and spoon mixture into it. After it is frozen put foil-wrapped package from pan and remove pan to conserve space, but be sure food is well protected with wrappings. To prepare to serve heat through in top of double boiler, stirring carefully occasionally. These amounts serve 4 but of course could be doubled or tripled for large families. I would advise using the a la King mixture within a month.

GARDENVILLE

Carrying Place United WA Elects Officers

GARDENVILLE — Mrs. Jack Baxter was hostess for the January meeting of the Carrying Place W.A., which met on Wednesday evening.

Taking part in the devotional period, of which the theme was "Christ—the Hope of the World," were Mrs. Stan Hart, Mrs. Jack Vader and Mrs. E. V. Cook.

Mrs. C. Weller acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Bill Kemp, and gave out the new devotional booklets, as dues were paid. She also read the minutes and took the roll call.

Mrs. Jack Baxter gave her report, showing the group's finances to be in a healthy state with all bills paid, and assistance given to several families which, by the letters of thanks received and read, were deeply appreciated.

Plans were discussed for a "Variety Concert," with Mrs. Fulford and Mrs. Hendricks being named the committee in charge of talent.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The Reverend E. V. Cook presided at the election of officers with the following slate being chosen:

President, Mrs. Arnold Steenburg; vice-presidents, Mrs. Stan Hart; secretary, Mrs. Jack Vader; treasurer, Mrs. Jack Baxter; parsonage committee, Mrs. Jos Rollins, Mrs. Wm. Hendricks and Mrs. Jack Vader; press secretary, Mrs. Jack Baxter; flower and card secretary, Mrs. Hendricks.

Mrs. J. A. Dymond invited the group to her home for the February meeting on the first Wednesday of the month.

The lunch committee, Mrs. H. Baxter and Mrs. J. Rollins served tasty refreshments.

Mrs. Jack Baxter expressed the thanks of the Association members to all the last year's officers for their service and Mr. Cook emphasized the responsibilities of each member to God, the church, the association and themselves that progress may be made in the year ahead in the work of the kingdom.

The theme hymn, "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen in Me," and prayer closed the meeting.

Congregational Meeting

WHITE'S CHURCH

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The yearly congregational meeting was held at White's Church on Monday evening with the minister, Rev. Robert Percival as chairman. There was a good representation of all societies, the Sunday school, officers and members of the congregation.

The meeting was opened by Mr. Percival with Scripture and prayer. The minutes of the 1954 congregational meeting were read by secretary Mr. Lorne Hunt, and approved. Mr. Percival reported four baptismals, two burials and two new members, with an active membership of 39.

The treasurer, Mrs. Albert Hockaday, reported a good year with expenditures of $1,021.95. The Missionary and Maintence allocation, however, had not been reached by White's Church.

Mrs. Lorne Hunt, treasurer of Bayside Woman's Missionary Society, reported $225 sent to the Presbyterial treasurer. In the year's work of WMS, Mission Band, and Baby's Band the allocation was exceeded.

The Mission Band leader, Mrs. Leonard Young, reported receipts of $37.26 and $27.70 sent to Presbyterial treasurer. Expenditures included the study book, "The Boy with the Busy Walk," and the "World Friends" magazines.

Mrs. W. Jeffrey, treasurer of the White's Women's Association, reported a good year with receipts of $458.53 and exenditures of $443. There is still a substantial bank balance.

The treasurer of the Sunday School reported receipts of $103.02, expenses of $90.66 and a balance of $33.86 with some cash on hand.

Most of the officers continued in office for 1956. Mr. Albert Jones and Mr. Fred Bowers were added as steward and trustee, respectively, and Mr. Lorne Hunt as an elder. The treasurer is Mrs. Jack Clydesdale.

Mr. C. Rush moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Percival.

Mr. Percival thanked one and all for many kindnesses to him since his arrival in the community, after which the meeting was closed with prayer.

The ladies served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Govt. Shipping Surplus Butter To East Germany

OTTAWA (CP)—Another 2,000,000 pounds of government-owned surplus butter is being shipped overseas this week destined for East Germany, it was learned Monday.

This will bring the total sold at below cost for disposal to Communist satellites during 1955 to just under 10,000,000 pounds, officials estimated.

The current shipment is a continuation of a previous deal under which a Dutch importer purchased surplus Canadian butter for 37 cents a pound for shipment to Communist East Germany.

HOPE FOR MORE

The federal government is hopeful of selling a further 2,000,000 pounds through the same channels, but so far negotiations have not been successful.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner has stated that Canada has no real butter surplus with the exception of some 10,000,000 or 12,000,000 pounds, including portions already exported.

The Manitoba agriculture department's dairy branch has estimated the "real" surplus at 50,000,000 pounds. The dairy trade says the government will have a surplus of 60,000,000 pounds at the start of the new butter season next May.

The butter was accumulated by the government through price support under which it maintains the wholesale producer price at 58 cents a pound. The government also pays storage and handling charges, adding about three cents a pound or more to its cost.

It estimated its stocks at about 85,000,000 pounds at the end of last November, and is offering these holdings to the Canadian market at 53 cents a pound wholesale.

MINER KILLED IN COAL FALL

BLAIRMORE, Alberta, (CP)—Arthur J. Emile, 55, a coal mine employee and one of the few survivors of the disaster which killed 89 Wednesday from injuries received after he was buried under coal in a refuse bin he was filling. The town of Frank was buried April 29, 1903, when a 70,000,000-ton slab of limestone ripped away from Turtle mountain in the Crowsnest Pass area and tumbled down. It was estimated at least 66 persons were killed.

The Canadian for nine hours and the Dominion for 10 hours.

Fifty Escape Without Injury In Ottawa Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — A two-alarm fire, which threatened to spread to other nearby dwellings in Ottawa's central Sandy Hill district, was brought under control by firemen after a three-hour battle on Monday.

Firemen said all of the occupants, mostly occupants of the six-door, three-storey row on King Edward avenue escaped from the brick building uninjured.

A Dec. 9 apartment building fire in the Sandy Hill district took the lives of Mrs. Herbert Steele and her four-year-old son, Barry.

The Soviet embassy in the same district was destroyed by a New Year's Day fire.

Six firemen, hurt battling the blaze, were treated at Ottawa General Hospital where three were admitted. Only one, overcome by smoke, was reported in serious condition.

Five fighters with equipment from six stations confined fire damage to the roof and top storey, but the other floors suffered smoke and water damage. Cause had not yet been determined. No estimate of damage was available.

Twenty-one persons have died in Ottawa area fires since mid-November.

Rumors, Denials Eden Will Retire Cause Surprise

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Responsible political observers are surprised at the repeated rumors and denials involving Prime Minister Eden. They are beginning to feel things have got out of hand.

The clamor of newspaper speculation may have obscured the real position. As nearly as can be learned from reliable informants, Sir Anthony is fit and well and there never has been any basis for reports that he might retire.

In fact, the weekend "drama of Downing street" appears to have arisen from a highly speculative report in a German newspaper. This report mentioned recent criticism of Eden, spoke of reports his health was none too good and in a roundabout way suggested he might resign in the summer.

RUMORS PYRAMIDED

Similar "rumors" were published in the first Sunday edition of The People, a mass-circulation newspaper. When Downing street learned that these unsourced reports were being made available to newspapers outside Britain, this official denial was made:

"The report is false and without any foundation whatever."

Monday, newspapers use words like "ridiculous" and "extraordinary" in discussing the weekend episode. Political writers say it is unusual for such a denial to be issued considering Eden has been in office only nine months. The Manchester Guardian, an independent Liberal paper, Comments:

"There may be some Tories who wish to be rid of Sir Anthony, but it is nonsense to suppose that a new prime minister—Sir Winston Churchill's assumed successor—could be overthrown without bringing discredit upon the whole Conservative party and threatening the general itself."

LIKE SCARE STORIES

In an accompanying editorial The Guardian says:

"Can it really be that the Conservatives are plotting to overthrow the prime minister? In spite of (or perhaps because of) the persistent recalling of Tory newspapers, the whole thing has read like another of the scare stories which the political commentators fall back on during a parliamentary recess."

Significantly, the retirement rumors are scarcely mentioned by

Cannifton

CANNIFTON — Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ptomley and Debbie were Tuesday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Bedell.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Meyers and friend of Trenton, were New Year's Eve supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Bedell.

Word was received of the death of Mrs. Albert Hart of the U.S.A. (nee Mary Jeemmon), a niece of Mrs. M. Schlenker, Mrs. W. Blakeman and Mrs. B. Bedell.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Shepherd and girls and Mr. and Mrs. F. Ellis and children were New Year's day guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Milner.

Mr. George Shorey and Ricky had New Year's dinner at the hospital with her husband, George Shorey. He is reeportd coming along nicely now.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sharp and son, Kenny, of Oakville, were New Year's guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Sharpe.

Mr. and Mrs. Art DeMille, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whitney, of Trenton, Mrs. Ray Skinner and Mr. and Mrs. George Sharpe were New Year's eve guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Wesse.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wesse, of Waupoos, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wannamaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wannamaker were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesse at Waupoos on Monday.

Mrs. Ray Skinner, of Corbyville, was a caller at the home of G. Sharpe. He has been stationed in Germany for two years and is now posted near Winnipeg.

The Cannifton - Corbyville Euchre Club held its first suchre of the New Year with seven tables playing. Prizes were won by: Ladies, Ruth Parm, Annie DeMille and Mrs. Wisdom. Men: Lois Wannamaker, Mrs. Danford and Jennie Whiting. Lone hands, Ruth Parm and the draw, Garnet Latchford.

The Daily Telegraph, a Conservative newspaper which last week unexpectedly joined in the criticism of Sir Anthony. Instead, it devotes a front-page story to a defensive survey of the government moves planned in the next few months.

Observers agree that the rumors, and the denial, will have a damaging effect on government prestige, at least in the short run. But those who feel the episode has been exaggerated say the tempest-in-a-teapot quality will be detected in the long run.

All that has happened, they say, is that there has been some criticism of the government, due to a variety of circumstances, creating a climate favorable to the wilder sort of rumors about the prime minister's future intentions.

WHITBY'S DISTRICT W.M.S. Installs 1956 Officers

WHITBY'S DISTRICT — Bayside W.M.S. elects 1956 officers. Mrs. Clifton Rush entertained at home on Wednesday afternoon for the January meeting of the WMS with 30 members and visitors present. Mrs. Rush presided over the devotional service, the theme being "The Call to the Mission of the Church Through One's Vocation."

Mr. A. C. McCallum led in prayer. Mrs. Rush gave a reading on Bible study and read the Scripture, Luke 16: 17-31, and concluded with a missionary reading.

The treasurer's report was given, showing a good year with $703.25 being sent to the Presbyterial treasurer. The year's work, including Baby Band and Mission Band, givings exceeded the allocation.

Mrs. Lorne Hunt reported three new members. A box of "White Gifts" was shipped to Miss Mabel Willows of Newcastle mission at Drumheller Valley, in Alberta. These were presented by the Sunbeam Mission Band and Bayside W.M.S. members.

The Sunbeam Mission Band reported receipts of $37.24 from members' fees, Easter and Autumn thankofferings, mite boxes and collections. Expenditures included Mission Band pins, study book, World Friends and postal charges with $27.70 being sent to the Presbyterial treasurer.

Mrs. Rush moved a vote of thanks for their co-operation through the year after which Mrs. Walter Jones moved a vote of thanks for her leadership through the past year. Five members paid dues. Mrs. Everett Windover invited the ladies to her home for February meeting.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The Rev. A. C. McCallum conducted the installation of officers for 1956 as follows:

Honorary president, Mrs. Robert Percival; president, Mrs. Jas. Palmer; first vice-president, Mrs. Harry Butler; second vice-president, Mrs. Clifton Rush; treasurer, Mrs. Lorne Hunt; recording secretary, Mrs. Walter Jones; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Sayler; Christian stewardship, Mrs. Clifton Rush; supply secretary, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery; Mission Band leader, Mrs. Leonard Young; Baby Band leaders, Mrs. William Yeoman and Mrs. George Silbanni; pianist, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery; press reporter, Mrs. Leonard Young; Missionary Monthly secretary, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

The Baby Band leaders reported ten members. The meeting closed with prayer by Mr. McCallum.

Copyright Fees Are Boosted For Private TV

OTTAWA (CP)—The copyright appeal board has authorized higher performing rights fees for copyright works used on privately-owned television stations.

An extra edition of the Canada Gazette Monday listed the fees that may be charged by Canada's two performing rights societies in 1956.

Performing rights for works in the repertory of the Composers, Authors and Publishers Association of Canada were not listed for television. The extra said only that and television broadcasters have resulted in "an understanding" for 1956.

BMI Canada Limited received the board's approval to collect $21,000 from the 29 stations, with fees ranging between $150 and $1,839 a year.

KINGSTON TONIGHT

Two arch feudists of the senior "B" hockey group look horns in what should be a typical Kingston-Belleville Icelane battle in Memorial Arena tonight when the Goodyears of Roddenville and the Men of Cox clash in their fifth meeting of the season.

The Goodies hold a 3-1 edge in victories over our side having swept the three-game sheet after dropping the first encounter by a 7-4 score. The Kingston victories have been close hard-fought tussles with the Goodies coming out on top by 3-2, 4-3 and 6-4 scores.

There is no doubt that the Casterton crew will be gunning for victory and especially at the expense of the TPT's. They have dropped their last two starts, one to Whitby and the other to Cornwall and since it is reported the Goodies are going all out to catch to top-spot Whitby Dunlops, there should be plenty of furious action on tonight's battle. Besides a Brockville threat is beginning to loom.

It has been reported that the Goodies have enticed George MacGregor out of retirement, and if the speedy frontliner is in shape and seen action tonight, he should add a lot of scoring pip to the Kingston shock troops.

Due to a schedule error the Brockville-Cornwall game played Sunday and won by Brockville 7-5 in Cornwall was not included in the league standing. As of now Brockville is in third place with eight wins, ten defeats and two ties for 18 points, just nine behind the second-place Goodyears, and five points in front of Belleville and Cornwall, tied for fourth slot. Whitby is well in the van with 37. Kingston trails the Dunlops with 27 points.

"TO 'BE' OR NOT . . .

Tonight, if you have been reading Whitby's Wren Blair's newspaper column, and are one of the favored few to receive his letter anent the subject, should decide the fate of the Whitby Dunlops next season. In short if they don't "A" they won't play according to Blair and the Kerrawy said it disband his club if the senior "B" group does not go along with his plans — and the western group cold-shoulders his application.

Blair requested OHA vice president Lorne Cook to call the meeting simply as an endeavor to get the eastern senior "D" loop to play senior "A" in a body next season. He has made all kinds of dire predictions if such is not the case for he wants the loyal fans of Whitby to get the best hockey this side of the N.H.L.

In his Saturday column, Blair came out flatfooted with the statement that Cornwall and Brockville will back his suggestions to have the group go "A". He notes that Kingston will oppose it while "Belleville who opposes everything the league brings up" is also against the move.

This department does not know whom to believe in this "battle of the columns." If what Blair says is true, he would get a 3-3 majority in the voting. If what other columnists say is equally true, the outcome should be vastly different.

The only two solid supporters of the move are Whitby and Cornwall if you can believe the newspapers. Here is what the Brockville sports editor wrote Saturday:

"Whitby's stand on the senior "A" situation is well known. . Manager Blair saw to this last month when he flooded papers all over the province, circulating information on his mighty Dunlops, their progress as a senior "B" club this year and ambitions to jump to "A" hockey next season. But as far as we can see, Blair may be standing alone when the time comes to a head. There is a possibility Cornwall will support him in his efforts to get the Eastern League to make the leap, but scant hope for any encouragement from Belleville and Kingston, who have turned thumbs down on this proposal consistently in the past. As far as Brockville is concerned, they refuse to commit themselves due to the unstable nature of the problem right now. Business manager Mitch Stanford said yesterday "if we can't finance senior "B" hockey here, how can we expect to promote a higher caliber?" The Magedomas may or may not back up Blair when the voting starts; they will have to discuss things further before taking any definite stand. Next Tuesday's meeting should be interesting, though, and we'll have a better idea then of the league's future."

And there are the comments of Michael J. Rodden on the subject.

"Sir, Blair's statement that the Brockville Magedomas look with favor on the proposal made that the eastern group should advance into highest bracket is most amazing in view of the fact that the Magedomas have lost more games than they have won or tied and have been distanced by both Whitby and the Kingston Goodyears.

"The adoption of alleged senior 'A' rating would not change the value of the rose and would be an imposition on the paying public. It should also be pointed out that senior 'A' players are entitled to higher salaries than are the stipends paid to senior 'B' performers and, thereof, the wonder grows how any of the clubs could shoulder such an added financial burden.

"This city alone among the five represented in the eastern group has an arena large enough to justify admittance to the senior 'A' series but even Goodyears' leap into such exalted company might be a risky venture. With salaries increased and with added travelling costs the local club would have to attract capacity crowds throughout a season to make ends meet."

Coasts Through 12-Rounder Against Tall South African; 'Pudgy' Cockell May Be Next

TORONTO (CP)—In this corner, the British Empire heavyweight boxing champion . . . James J. Parker of Barrie, Ont.

And in this corner, the British Empire heavyweight boxing champion—Don Cockell of London, England.

Odd! It sure is.

But that's the division's status today. Two boxers claim the crowd.

Parker won the Canadian version of the championship Monday night with a unanimous 12-round decision over Johnny Arthur of Johannesburg, South Africa. Cockell has had his title for some time. And the British boxing board of control insists it's still in his possession.

So, the next thing is to get these two fellows into the ring and decide on son champion. It may happen soon.

TALKED TO SOLOMONS

Parker's co-manager, Bill Daly, said Monday night he talked to British promoter Jack Solomons six days a week but he was told if Parker won he would phone me and see if we could arrange a fight between Parker and Cockell."

The Canadian Boxing Federation ruled that the Parker-Arthur bout was for the crown. The British board refused to recognize it as such, saying that when Cockell had retired were untrue. Cockell hasn't fought since he was knocked by world heavyweight king Rocky Marciano early last year.

The 213-pound Parker never was in trouble against Arthur, who weighed 215½. He piled up an early lead and the only way the South African could have won was by a knockout.

The towering Parker—he's six feet 2¼ inches—floored Arthur for a nine-count in the sixth round with a solid right and left to the face. The 3,200 fans in Maple Leaf Gardens figured on a knockout as Arthur went sprawling backward on the canvas. He managed to cover up, however, during the remaining rounds.

The decision ran Parker's victory total to 21. He has five losses. Arthur now has lost six decisions in 34 pro matches.

Arthur, who at six-foot-two is nearly two inches shorter than Parker, suffered a cut over his right eye and a badly swollen cheek. Parker was unmarked.

"He was one of the best I've ever fought," Arthur said in his dressing room. His manager, Bobby Evans, called for a rematch, saying Arthur didn't have enough road work for the fight.

In a four-round preliminary Steve Horvath, 152¾, Toronto, decisioned Jim Hurley, 125¾, Brantford.

Accuse Sonshine Of Disturbing NFL Economics

LOS ANGELES (CP)—Detroit Lions' manager Nick Kerbawy Monday accused Harry Sonshine, managing director of Toronto Argonauts, of undertaking "an out-and-out effort to disturb the economic structure of the incoming rookies and the veterans of the National Football League."

Kerbawy, here for next week's NFL convention, commented on remarks by Sonshine at Mobile, Ala., Saturday that competition between U.S. and Canadian pro football teams for American college players has become "much keener."

Sonshine was discussing the annual Senior Bowl game in which 50 top U.S. college players were scrutinized by professional scouts, said that in the past Canadian clubs usually got a player if Mobile had him badly enough.

"It's a bit different now," said Sonshine. "The competition dollar-wise is much keener. They (NFL clubs) are not shopping in trying to sign a player. They pass what we are offering."

DENIES OUTBIDDING

Kerbawy denied that U.S. clubs are outbidding Canadian clubs. While at Mobile, he signed Don Miheny, Southern Methodist University halfback, a third draft choice of the Lions.

Kerbawy said:

"Mclheniy . . . was offered contracts, by the Canadian clubs, Toronto particularly, for sums that ranged from $12,500 to $14,000. Mclheniy signed with Detroit, and I assure you he signed for an amount somewhat thousand dollars under the $12,500 figure.

"I sincerely hope that Sonshine has undertaken an out-and-out effort to disturb the economic structure of the incoming rookies and the veterans of the National Football League.

NOT IN WAR

"We are not in a price war with anyone. We do not have to war for the players."

Kerbawy also commented on Toronto's offer to Art Davis, Mississippi State halfback, quarterback for $11,000 plus a $1,000 bonus for signing.

"But Davis signed with Pittsburgh Steelers," Kerbawy said, "and as for Bobby McIlhenny, I can assure you it was for several thousand dollars under Toronto's offer."

The Detroit manager said Canadian teams had tried to interest Yale Larry, former Texas A and M star, who has been on leave from Detroit while serving in the U.S. Army. He said Larry, an exceptional quarterback and defensive halfback, told him in Mobile that he was not interested in Canadian football and was returning to Detroit.

Bilts Defeat Hamilton 5-3

HAMILTON (CP)—Guelph Biltmores moved into sole possession of fifth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings Monday night by defeating Hamilton Cubs 5-3 before 1,350 fans.

Overcoming a 3-2 Hamilton lead in the last 10 minutes of the game, Bilts tallied three times, one on an empty net, to earn the edge.

Billy Graham, Ed Shack, Bob Forbes, Al Cheney and Gerry Goyer were the Guelph marksmen, Bill Blonde, Cumnelle Burton and Brian Smith scored for Hamilton.

The game was interrupted by a free-for-all which broke out in the stands among the fans, attracting the attention of other spectators and of the players.

Guelph outshot Hamilton 30-24, by a 9-2 edge in the last period.

Battle for Fourth

Canadiens Look Like 'Shoo-in' Blues, Wings May Be Threats

MONTREAL (CP) — The way things are going now in the National Hockey League today's official statistics might be subjected to mathematics as a possible means of determining whether the leading Montreal Canadiens can be overhauled in the race.

Montreal is still rolling along comfortably, despite the shelving of three regulars through injuries, and has amassed 37 points in 40 games. The teams within reasonable striking distance are New York Rangers, with 44 points in 37 games, and Detroit Red Wings, 41 points in 39 games.

If Canadiens maintain their average of 1.425 points a game for their remaining 30 games they will finish with just about 100 points, one short of the record 101 made by Detroit in the 1950-51 season. If they play only .500 hockey—one point a game from here in—they will end the season with 87 points.

To catch Montreal, the Rangers will have to do better than their average of 1.19 points a game, even assuming Montreal fais off to the extent indicated. The Rangers then would have 83 points.

Detroit Red Wings, climbing steadily recently, have averaged 1.05 points a game so far.

Outside of Detroit's upsurge, the attention-getting scramble now is for fourth place. Toronto Maple Leafs, the only team with a perfect record last week, took over fourth spot from Chicago Black Hawks with two wins.

Helping the Leaf cause immensely, Ted Sloan was the outstanding scorer among the leaders during the week. His four goals and two assists for six points lifted him from eighth to sixth place. He has 25 points. His 22 goals match the goal production of Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal, one off the leadership mark of 23 held by Montreal's Jean Beliveau.

Beliveau still heads the individual scorers with 46 points, followed by Richard with 42, Gordie Howe of Detroit collected three goals and one assist and moved from fifth place to a third-place tie with Andy Bathgate of New York. Each has 41 points but Howe gets preferred rating because of his higher goal production, 19 to Bathgate's 11.

Bathgate had only two assists in Rangers' two games but ran his assist string to 30, one behind the league leader, Bert Olmstead of Montreal. Olmstead failed to add to his assist total but scored one goal and now has 29 points.

Jacques Plante of Montreal continues to lead the goalies, with a goals-against average of 1.70. Glenn Hall of Detroit is next with 2.15 and Lorne Worsley of New York third with 2.46.

UNBEATEN, WINS

NEW YORK (AP)—Carlos Ortiz, 19-year-old unbeaten Puerto Rican lightweight, won his 13th straight victory Monday night by a unanimous decision over Ray Portilla of Brooklyn at St. Nicholas Arena.

Ortiz weighed 135, Portilla 141 pounds.

Cracks Down on Promoters

Helfand Strikes Full Stride With Guild Safely Interred

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — With the Boxing Guild of New York in full retreat, Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, is concentrating his fire on the Monday night fights.

Helfand Monday ordered the commission counsel, William J. Thomas, to prepare charges against promoters Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg and their London Sporting Club, which runs the televised Monday fights at St. Nicholas Arena.

Last week Helfand said he intended to investigate to determine whether the St. Nick's promoters violated a commission law forbidding all matchmaking contracts with known criminals when they tried to put on a Baltimore, effective Jan. 23. The attempted move was nullified by Maryland Governor McKeldin who forced his commission to reverse itself.

St. Nick's will be in business at the same old stand for at least one more week, however. A middleweight match between Britain's John L. Sullivan and New York's Percy Johnson has been approved for Jan. 16. Other matches may be approved, pending a final decision on the investigation, provided the managers sign affidavits they have severed their guild membership.

DEADLINE DID IT

It was Helfand's Jan. 16 deadline for managers to quit the guild that sent the St. Nick's promoters to Baltimore. Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club broke the deadlock Friday when he sided with Helfand against the guild. With the guild not holding out, no matches could be arranged in New York.

The guild, groggy and broken in spirit, postponed a meeting scheduled for Monday night by its board of directors. Instead, a session of the full membership has been set for Wednesday. Although many managers—perhaps a majority of the 68 members—will quit the guild, the guild probably will continue to operate, a source close to the situation says.

It was apparent that the IBC was having no great difficulty lining up fights in New York state. A Jan. 30 match for Syracuse between middleweights Gil Turner and Gene Fullmer was announced last Friday.

The IBC Monday announced a Feb. 3 heavyweight scrap between Bob Baker and Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson. Other matches for Feb. 10 and Feb. 17 are expected soon.

Norris reassured all managers that the $4,000 minimum for each main event fighter on the Wednesday and Friday television shows will not be cut.

The St. Nick's promoters, on the other hand, faced a life-or-death battle for survival. Sullivan said he was told (in Baltimore, when arranging to move the show, "I'd have to co-promote with Bernie Trotta (whom Helfand blasted as having a criminal record).

Sullivan said his sole dealing with Trotta was Trotta's introduction to the owner of the Baltimore Coliseum, where the bouts were to take place.

OMHA Names District Groups

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association has released the groupings for all teams entered. In each case, group winners must be declared by February 11th. With the exception of the "A" series, all teams with a bye to the playdowns will be notified of their first round schedule around January 15th.

Teams will note that some teams have been re-classified from the "C" series to "B" series, and from "B" to "A-Minor", in line with the new population ratings adopted by the association. It is also pointed out that all teams in the "B" series, as well as in the "C" and "D", are now permitted to sign bantam players on Midget teams, or Midget players on Juvenile teams; this is not permissable in the "A-Minor" and "A" series.

In the juvenile "A", midget "A" and bantam "A", Belleville teams have drawn a bye with teams from Kingston, Oshawa and Peterborough. Trenton has been granted a bye in the juvenile "A". Minor playdowns along with Picton, Norwood, Campbellford and Hastings in one group with Madoc, Tweed, Cooper and Halloway in another. The juvenile "B" grouping has Madoc, Marmora, Halloway and Cooper.

Picton has drawn a bye in the playdowns in the midget "B" series while teams from Brighton, Campbellford, Havelock, Marmora and Norwood compose the midget "C" grouping.

Wellington has drawn a bye in the bantam "C" playdowns and will meet the winner of the Campbellford, Havelock, Marmora, Stirling and Hastings group. The bantam "D" series has teams from Hastings, Stirling, Campbellford, Marmora and Havelock.

Doug Patterson of Stirling is the convenor of all these groups.

Restrictions Set On Puck-Chasing Canuck Students

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association Council Monday imposed restrictions on Canadians playing hockey for American colleges.

The council ruled that, effective immediately, Canadian athletes transferring to American colleges will be required to complete one year in residence before they will be allowed to play on college hockey teams. At present Canadians figure prominently on many U.S. teams including the University of Michigan, St. Lawrence University and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive secretary, said that in the past Canadian players were given the same consideration as those from Mexico and Latin countries.

Byers told the annual NCAA conventions:

"It was decided by the council that this situation was inequitable. Canadian high schools differ from ours and many times students actually acquire sophomore ratings in our colleges when they enter and automatically become eligible for athletics.

"However, regardless of their academic rating, student athletes henceforth will be required to complete one year of residence before gaining eligibility."

The council also announced that signing of an option agreement with a professional hockey club by a player would destroy his amateur standing. Byers said such agreements were commonplace in Canadian hockey.

Dutchies Name Olympic Squad; Attersly Out

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen today named the members of their Ontario Hockey Association Senior A club and two outside players to represent them in the 1956 Olympic games which begin in Cortina, Italy, on Jan. 26.

Manager Ernie Goman said the 15 Dutchmen regulars include goaltender Denis Brodeur and Keith Woodall; defencemen Howie Lee, Ryzie Klinck and Jack McKenzie; forwards Ken Laugman, Gerry Theberge, George Schiller, Bill Colvin, Paul Knox, Jim Logan, Bob White, Charlie Brooker, Jim (Buddy) Horne and Don Roper.

Replacement for two reinstated amateur defencemen, Joe Schertzl and Stan (Bud) Kemp, will come from Stratford and Elmira. Art Hurst, a former Dutchman and a member of the Stratford Indians, is one. Floyd (Butch) Martin, another former Dutchman and a star with Elmiras Senior B team is the other.

Other members of the official party are coach Bobby Bauer, manager Ernie Goman, trainer Harry Wharrmaby and club president Pat Boehmer. Jerome Dunn, of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, is the only outside member of the official group.

Toppazzini Has Big Lead In Scoring Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Zellio Toppazzini of Providence Reds, one of the highest-paid players in the American Hockey League, is making a runaway of the circuit's individual scoring race.

The veteran forward, who receives an annual salary of approximately $6,000, added seven points to his total in last week's action. He has a 16-point lead over Willie Marshall of Pittsburgh and Kenny Wharram of Buffalo, the runners-up with 32 points.

Toppazzini has produced 28 goals and 40 assists for 68 points. Both his goals and assists output head the league. Marshall has 20 goals and 27 assists while Wharram shows 18 goals and 38 assists.

Fred Glover of Cleveland remained the loop's bad man with 112 penalty minutes. Lizzie Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh has allowed only 83 goals in 32 games for a 2.59 average to pace the goalies.

Laufman Holds 11-Point Lead In Senior Race

TORONTO (CP)—Ken Laufman of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen holds an 11-point lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league scoring race.

Football's Bell Won't Support League Increase

CHICAGO (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League says he will not support a proposal to increase the league to 14 clubs from 12.

Bell said a proposal has been filed with him to expand the league. He made his statement Monday while passing through Chicago on his way to Los Angeles for the league's annual meeting.

The commissioner also indicated that when the time comes for expansion, he would prefer four new clubs instead of two.
